HEADED BY WOLCOTT.

Crane of Dalton Gets Second Place on Massachusetts Ticket.

Balance of Nominations Same as Last Year.

Resolutions Committee Decided to Take No Action Concerning Biennials.

Boston, Oct. 1.—Temporary Chairman George H. Lyman called the Republican state convention to order today, and General William F. Draper was made permanent chairman. Governor Wolcott was nominated by acclamation, which action was followed by a ballot on the lieutenant governorship, which resulted in the nomination of W. M. Crane of Dalton. The balance of the state ticket is the same as last year, as follows:

For Secretary,—William M. Olin of Boston.

For Treasurer and Receiver General,—Edward P. Shaw of Newburyport.

For Auditor,—John W. Kimball of Fitchburg.

For Attorney General,—Hosea M Knowlton of New Bed'o d

ROGER WOLCOTT

Representative Krebs appeared before the state committee last night and presented a request for a plank in the platform calling for caucus reform. He said that the present caucus law was inefficient, and spoke of the arrests made in ward 9, Boston, for alleged irregularities in the caucus. In support of his statement he presented 64 affidavits of voters, who swore to the fact that they were deprived of the right to vote. The affidavits read that the signers had never voted the Democratic ticket or other opposition ticket, and notwithstanding this declaration, they were deprived of their rights because of the conspiracy of the ward heelers. Congressman Moody presided over the meeting of the resolutions committee.

The only state issue touched on in the resolutions is one recommending that a strict watch be kept upon corporations, and that in granting franchises to corporations their investments and property shall be subject to a fair value test, with a view to prevent stock watering.

The platform declares for McKinley, and reiterates the St. Louis platform. It was the desire of certain members of the committee to declare against biennial elections, but it was finally ignored entirely. The full text of the platform is as follows:

The Republicans of Massachusetts, assembled the second time within the year, have neither past professions to abjure nor new principles to announce. It is our good fortune that the beliefs we have always maintained will serve the people in this day of national peril.

As of old we favor:

A sound monetary system, a stable monetary unit, and the scrupulous observance in the letter and spirit of every public obligation.

The enactment of tariff laws which will provide revenue adequate for the payment of the national expenditures and the gradual reduction of the national debt, promote the policy of reciprocity, protect American industries and American workmen, and preserve our own markets to our own people.

The selection of officials in the state and national civil service by the test of merit, with every preference to the veteran soldiers of the republic which the provisions of the constitution and the efficiency of the public service will permit.

The right of every voter in the land to cast the ballot his conscience approves, free from coercion by violence or vexation, by any influence except that of free and open argument, and his and the public right to have that ballot counted as it is cast.

The rigid enforcement of existing laws in restriction of immigration, and their extension by adding to the excluded classes those who are unable to read and write their own or the English language, in the hope that thus the standard of American living and the quality of American citizenship may be preserved.

We disapprove all appropriations from the public money for sectarian purposes or sectarian institutions, and we urge that this principle be applied with exact impartiality, believing that thus the equality of all forms of religion before the law and the freedom of conscience, which the constitution secures, may be best conserved.

We commend the wise and honest conduct of affairs of the commonwealth which prevails under Republican power and responsibility.

While leaving to our representatives in the general court the greatest liberty of judgment and action, yet recalling our declaration made three years ago, we especially enjoin upon them to grant public franchises only after the most rigid scrutiny, and with every safeguard for the public interests. We believe that all corporations enjoying public franchises, and exercising public employments, under conditions which necessarily confer upon them a virtual monopoly, should be compelled by law to render service to the public for a reasonable return upon the actual investment, and not upon a fictitious capitalization.

The Republican party does not claim for itself the exclusive guardianship of our system of compulsory education, which receives the devotion of all. Of this system, the very essence is the unsectarian school, supported by the public purse, which invites to its instruction all the children of our people. Its benefits were never more manifest than today, and we pledge to it our constant and unwavering support.

We endorse the platform adopted by the national Republican convention at St. Louis.

But the duty of this hour demands something more than the restatement of the articles of our party creed. Mindful of the utterances of those who gathered at Chicago, under the name of Democracy, we are conscious that the success of our cause means more than the determination of party ascendency, and that we have the right to appeal to a broader constituency than the membership of the Republican party.

We denounce the voice of sectionalism, resurrected from the tomb where we supposed it lay buried forever. Massachusetts' patriotism can see beyond the confines of a section, and hold as precious as her own the just interests of all parts of the Union. We are steadfast in our principles, not because they will promote our own fortunes, to the injury of those who dwell elsewhere, but because we believe that in their success lies the welfare of all the people in the land.

As Republicans, and as Americans, we regret the spirit and tendency of the platform adopted at Chicago. We especially condemn its advocacy of the free coinage of silver, its covert threat against the supreme court, and its denial of the supremacy of the national laws.

Upon these questions, which touch the nation's honor and life, we will not be misunderstood.

We record again our unalterable opposition to the free and unlimited coinage of silver by this country alone, and our determination to maintain the existing gold standard of values, in the absence of any international agreement. We believe that the free and unlimited coinage of silver, at the ratio of 16 to 1 by this country alone, would result in a national disaster, from which no one would escape. If here and there, there is one whose selfish interest would seem to be promoted by the depreciation of our standard of values, let him be assured that the little which he might gain would be swallowed up in his share of the universal calamity. The radical change in the purchasing power of our dollar, which would be the inevitable result of the free coinage of silver, would be disastrous to the wage-earner and capitalist, creditor and debtor alike would entail incalculable loss upon the industries and commerce of our country, and arrest, for an indefinite time, the development of our resources.

Every man has the right to criticize the opinions of the courts of justice as he will, to refuse to accept the rule of decision as the final expression of the law, and to hope and to strive for its reversal. But we believe that the appeal of the Chicago convention to the supreme court, "as it may hereafter be constituted," contains, and scarcely conceals the purpose of controlling its judgments by adding to the number of its justices. As thus understood, we denounce this declaration as a threat to degrade to an instrument for the registration of party edicts the independent tribunal established by the fathers, not only for the administration of justice but as well for the preservation of our constitution, and the protection of the reserved rights and liberties of the American people.

The nation has no authority to protect any state against mere domestic violence, except upon the call of the state, but the President of the United States, in pursuance of his constitutional obligation to "take care that the laws be faithfully executed," has the right and duty to protect the property of the United States from injury or destruction, and maintain its laws against all resistance, from whatever quarter it may come, and this to do anywhere and everywhere where the American flag flies over American soil. The right denied by the Chicago platform was asserted by Lincoln, approved by Douglas, and sanctified by the blood shed in the Civil War. Through its exercise, the union of the states was preserved. We must maintain it, and transmit it unimpaired to the generations yet to come.

To the defense of these principles we summon all Republicans, and invite all others who believe them to be essential to the preservation of the nation's honor, the continuance the of general welfare, the integrity of our constitution and the supremacy of the nation, where, by right, it is supreme.

Never was better cause than ours, and never was cause committed to a purer, abler or more patriotic leader than William McKinley. To the cause and the leader we pledge a support which shall be loyal to the end.

Bryan In West Virginia.

Grafton, W. Va., Oct. 1.—The ride from Martinsburg, where Mr. Bryan made an address yesterday, to Cumberland was along the Potomac, with the Alleghenys towering overhead. Cumberland itself nestles in the valley, and the surrounding scenery is marked by rugged grandeur. A committee, headed by a band met Mr. Bryan at the station here, and drove him to the public square, a few blocks away, where a decorated stand had been erected. An excursion train from neighboring towns brought down a crowd, who, with the natives, gave the candidate a big audience. Mr. Bryan spoke at length upon the money question..

The Indiana Tangle.

Indianapolis, Oct. 1.—If the plan of fusion between the Populists and Democrats in this state, as proposed by the former, is carried out, which it as yet by no means certain, it will likely result in a full state ticket being placed in the field by the Gold Standard Democrats. S. O. Dickens, chairman of the gold standard state committee, says that many Gold Standard Democrats have expressed a strong desire for a full state ticket. Mr. Dickens has decided to call a meeting of the Gold Standard Democratic state committee, at which the advisability of such a move will be discussed.

LOSS IS ENORMOUS.

Lives and Property Fall Before Hurricane's Wrath In Southern States.

Savannah, Oct. 1.—The hurricane which swept over Savannah Tuesday cost nearly a dozen lives, and entailed a financial loss of nearly $1,000,000. Each report that is received is worse than at first. It was thought only one death would be the result of the hurricane, but the number has increased, until there are 11 persons reported dead.

Among prominent buildings damaged by the storm are City Exchange, Duffy Street Baptist church, St. Phillips African Methodist church, Central railway warehouse, St. Patrick's school, Henley hall, Georgia Huzzars armory, city market, electric railway power house, Valex Royal mills, Comer, Hull & Co.'s guano factory, Commercial Guano company's factory, Jones marine railway, Fawcett Bros.' wholesale grocery building, Henry Soloman & Sons' wholesale grocery, M. J. Doyle's retail grocery.

Hundreds of residences are injured, and the most beautiful trees in the city are down. The loss to shipping will amount to over $100,000. The most serious casualty was the capsizing in midstream of the Savannah river of the Norwegian bark Rosenius, grounding of the Morgan bark Cab, drifting of the Norwegian bark P. M. Metcalf, and the total loss of the tug Robert Turner. Steamer Governor Safford of Beach & Miller line, is aground in Copper river, and small craft has suffered much, many naphtha launches and small sailing vessels having gone out to sea.

The Tybee railroad is badly damaged, many bridges being out of plumb. Tybee, Montgomery and Isle of Hope, all prominent resorts near this city, were hurt by the blow.

A special from Jacksonville, Fla., says: It is a conservative estimate to say that 50 people have lost their lives from Tuesday's hurricane, and the number may run much higher. News from that portion of the state where the storm first struck is very slow in coming, for wires are down and railroads are impassable. Wrecking parties which went out yesterday morning have not returned, and it will be tomorrow before the full extent of the damage is known.

Fall Carpets.

Just a seasonable word or two, to-day.

When you're buying, think about quality as well as price.

Remember that the words "Axminster," "Wilton," "Brussels," etc., can be made to cover a multitude of sins.

Remember, too, that our stock is far larger than that of any other Boston house, and that as nobody can possibly buy to better advantage than we can, it is reasonable to suppose that our ability to name very low selling figures is also unsurpassed.

We are combining high quality with moderation in price, this Fall, more effectively than ever before.

Board of Trade Committee Report Inadvisable.

On the Proposed Plan for Widening Hancock Street.

However the Council Will Be Asked to Consider Widening.

The Board of Trade held an adjourned meeting Wednesday evening to consider the widening of Hancock street, and the outlook now is not as favorable for the "boulevarding."

At the outset, the Committee on Streets to whom the matter had been referred, reported that they did not think it advisable at the present time to lay out the street as proposed unless some party was willing to pay the interest on the cost, but also a large proportion of said cost.

Mr. Whitman said Messrs Milne and Cashman concurred with him in this report, but Messrs. Saville and Parker were unable to meet with the committee.

In explanation of the report he said it would be necessary to make the street 90 feet wide upon the plan proposed—24 feet for track reservation, 10 feet for each sidewalk and 23 feet for each of the two roadways. The cost including land would be upwards of $200,000. An approximate estimate would be :

Land damages,	$25,430
Filling out street,	35,000
Edgestone,	35,900
Paving,	41,000
Telford road,	42,000
Sidewalks,	11,200
Culverts,	7,000
Incidentals,	20,000

President Bryant of the City Council asked some questions relative to an 80 foot street, believing 20 feet enough for the roadways and 8 sufficient for sidewalks, but Mr. Whitman would not make it less than 85.

Mr. Whitman did not consider that nature had done much to make Hancock street an attractive drive. It was the thoroughfare between business centres and must continue a tramway. The board of survey of Boston had plans for a boulevard from Pope's Hill to the Neponset river half way between the two bridges. This had in view the future needs of Quincy and could be extended across the river and via Montclair, Bellview and Wollaston.

In reply to Mr. Moxon he said the paving would cost more but that some on street might be used again. Did not consider widening of great benefit to abutters and in some cases a damage. Valuation would not be greatly increased. Street should soon be rebuilt in part. City should not attempt to provide for elevated road of future. All vacant land in this treet was lotted up.

Mr. Moxon contended that even at a cost of $250,000 the expenditure would be warranted if the street railway guaranteed an annual rental sufficient to keep the street in repair.

Mr. Whitman said it made a difference if the street railway was willing to pay $10,000 annually.

President Graham considered that out of the question.

H. H. Faxon was opposed to crowding the railway, and reiterated that there was less teaming over street than years ago. He opposed further debt, and considered that people were getting extravagant. City must retrench.

Councilman Nickerson asked how much the street railway thought it might pay.

President Graham said $50,000 would be the highest.

Commissioner Knowlton thought the question, which was the cheapest for the city? To pave Hancock street at its present width would cost from $75,000 to $90,000. The net cost in the city in boulevard form ought not to exceed $100,000. Thought 85 feet would be wide enough—22 for each roadway, 22 for reservation and 9 feet for each sidewalk.

Andrew Milne thought it would be difficult to keep heavy teams off the Macadam.

Peter Fallon did not think the $80,000 expended on Hancock street was wholly lost. The foundation was there and some parts in good shape. It was not necessary to pave the whole street. Was opposed to boulevard form and obstruction in centre. Only Legislature could restrict teams to the Macadam, and doubted if Legislature would do this.

Mr. Bryant said the city must consider Hancock street. It was almost impossible to make the street railway keep its part of the road in good condition for travel. It was pratically a reservation now. Considered the street almost impassable for travel. An 80 foot street with 8 foot sidewalks enough. Would have wires put under ground at same time. Believed some street railway company would pay good sum for reservation, and he favored the boulevard form.

Mr. Moxon said the city must meet problem now that the petition for a double track was before the City Council. Cars every ten minutes on quicker time would be of advantage to the public as well as the street railway company. He favored the boulevard.

Mr. Fallon thought it idle for Quincy to attempt to keep pace with Boston and New York.

Mr. Faxon thought it would be difficult to get special law through Legislature to bleed street railways.

Mr. Bryant said there was no desire to bleed companies. That this was desired by street railway.

Councilman Parker quoted from the report of the Railroad Commissioners showing the board to be unfavorable to rentals, leases, etc.

Mr. Field said the street railway purposely kept its tracks so that the carriages could not safely drive upon them. Thought city could not afford boulevard.

Mr. Graham, as a citizen, believed the boulevard would be of benefit to the property in Quincy centre. The railroad must do something early in the spring, because its track would not stand longer. Was satisfied now that boulevard movement would fail. Thought expense was estimated large. That land might be acquired and filled in, but that it was not necessary to rebuild whole street now.

W. T. Shea believed estimate of $200,000 too large. He favored 85 foot boulevard.

Messrs. Swithin, Burke, Moxon, Whitman, McGrath and Milne further discussed the problem, and upon motion of Mr. Burke it was voted that it was sense of the Board of Trade that the City Council should consider the widening before granting a location for a double track, obtain accurate estimates of the cost, and the best proposition which the Quincy & Boston street railway was willing to make.

And They Will Drink.

Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning Officer Halloran overhauled a man on Hancock street near Squantum street. The fellow had a handkerchief tied over his head. When questioned by the officer he stated that he was a carpenter and lived at Newton Upper Falls. He further said he rode his bicycle into Boston to have some repairs made and while that was being done he had a few drinks. He got his wheel about 5 o'clock and started for home and the next thing that he remembered was of waking up in a field. He started for the street and as he climbed over the fence two fellows tackled him and knocked him down, and robbed him of what money he had which was three or four dollars. When Officer Holloran overhauled him he was on his way home.

As he appeared sober then and knew what he was doing he was allowed to proceed on his way.

Horse Recovered.

Inspectors Cleary and Wolf of Boston arrested Charles S. Stewart in Boston Wednesday for the larceny of a horse and carriage from John E. Jackson at Braintree. The alleged larceny took place last Monday night. The matter was reported to the Boston police and Wednesday morning the inspectors found Stewart at Harris' sale stable trying to dispose of the horse at auction, and placed him under arrest. Stewart claimed the carriage broke down but would not tell where nor where it now was. He claimed to belong in Omaha. The inspectors think, however, that he is an old crimininal, for he had on a States prison coat, and they are looking him up.

Two fingers on his left hand had been broken sometime and this they believe may lead to his identification. He was taken to Bussell's studio this morning and photographed.

Shawmut Spring Water.

How many people realize the importance of drinking only pure water in large quantities in order to keep in absolutely good health? When we consider that two-thirds of the human body is in the form of water, and that in order to supply the losses from exc etion and evaporation it is necessary to drink from one-half to one gallon of water daily; it is of the utmost importance that it should be of the very best quality, perfectly free from the slightest trace of organic matter.

The Shawmut Spring Water stands second to none as a pure drinking water. Hundreds of families are using it every day. It is an important factor in maintaining health, building up and restoring the organs of digestion to healthy action. Cures Rheumatic, Kidney and Bladder troubles, when drugs have proved useless.

Send your order for a 5-gallon sample package. If you don't like it, it costs you nothing. Drink it and you will be satisfied of its purity.

RENOMINATED.

Messrs. Thompson and Newcomb for the Legislature.

Not a Voice Raised in Opposition to Either.

The Work of the Convention Done in Short Order.

It took just fourteen minutes Wednesday evening for the Republican Representative convention to convene, organize, nominate two candidates for the General Court and dissolve.

It was 7 45 when Chairman C. L. Hammond called the convention to order and read the call.

Upon motion of Henry P. Kittredge, Russell A. Sears, Esq., was chosen temporary chairman and W. W. Osborne, clerk.

Upon motion of C. M. Bryant the chair appointed as a committee on credentials, C. M. Bryant, Edgar F. Hayden, and Peter W. Dakers. They reported the convention entitled to 42 delegates all of whom were present.

The temporary organization was then made permanent.

C. M. Bryant then addressed the convention and said he hoped no ballot would be taken as there was no opposition to the present incumbents, and he moved the renomination by acclamation of James Thompson and Thaddeus H. Newcomb.

Henry H. Faxon was in favor of these two gentlemen, but if there was anyone who did not want them he hoped a ballot would be taken.

There being no oposition expressed, the chair put the motion of Mr. Bryant, and Messrs. Thompson and Newcomb were unanimously nominated.

The City Committee were then empowered to fill any vacancy in case of death regisnatio nor inability to serve, and at 7.59 the convention dissolved.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Fogg have returned from a very delightful sojourn of five weeks in New Hampshire. They speak of the foliage on the mountains as very brilliant when they left. The doctor is now ready to attend to business once more, and would be pleased to meet all who may be in need of his services at his office in French's block.

All the morning, barges, tally-hos and private carriages have been passing through Quincy on their way to the Brockton fair. A special car went loaded with people from East Milton and the cars from Quincy have had all the passengers they could carry. The dubious weather has no effect on the people who wish to go to the Brockton fair, for every one knows what pleasant weather we always have during Brockton fair week.

Political Potpourri.

A number of voters of Ward Three have organized an Independent club which now has a membership of 150. They have secured headquarters over Goodhue's store on Phipps street. The club favors Bryan but is independent on the balance of the ticket.

The Board of Registrars of Voters held a busy session Wednesday evening and from the time of opening until the session closed they were given no leisure, the total number added and restored being 134.

Congressman Atwood is also out for Barrows for Congress. In an open letter he says:

"To the voters of the Tenth Congressional District:—

"Gentlemen and Friends—I thank you most heartily for the unselfish support which nearly 3000 republicans gave me last week in the republican caucuses of the district. To have received your support in the face of unmerited abuse and false charges so persistently made by many influencial newspapers, and by those who are but imperfectly acquainted with the facts, will always be to me a great recompense for the injustice to which I have been subjected.

"A majority of the delegates having been elected by my opponents, I withdrew my name, being unwilling to become an occasion of discord in the convention.

"Rev. S. J. Barrows has been nominated. Under these circumstances, in fulfilment of our duty as Republicans, we must now give to that gentleman our unqualified support at the polls. Let us not be moved to do otherwise by any derisive threats that may have been publicly made, that in case of my renomination there would be run for the third time an 'Independent' candidate, or, if necessary, a free silver democrat supported.

"In the present instance the great national issues, protection, financial stability, law and order, are at stake. These considerations are more important than personal feeling or individual desire.

"We have converted a former democratic stronghold into a republican constituency, and it is now our part by every effort possible to keep it so."

Broke both Wrists.

Wednesday about ten P. M, Conductor John Lynch of West Quincy met with a serious accident while running his car on Hancock street about a half mile south of South Braintree. It happened in this way. The trolley jumped the wire and Mr. Lynch gasped the rope as he did this the trolley struck a guy wire and was drawn down so far that the rope became slack in the conductor's hands. When released the trolley flew up with such force as to throw Mr. Lynch in the air and in falling to the ground both wrists were broken and he was otherwise badly bruised.

Dr. Brett who was at once called upon pronounced it a case for the hospital and at once accompanied the suffering man to Quincy where he was carefully cared for.

FALL WEATHER DANGERS.

Much Sickness Expected by the Authorities.

Puritana Recommended for the Public Health.

A long season of hot weather has used up the strength and pulled down the flesh of many people. Their stomachs have become week and flaccid.

This is noticed especially in the case of children whose digestions seem to be paralyzed by the first cold wave. But it is also true of grown people, who are surprised that the cool days of approaching fall make them feel worse, instead of better. They have increased appetites perhaps, but their enervated digestive organs are unable to properly assimilate their food.

The time is coming for cold nights and mornings and warm noons. The clothing that is needed for the proper protection of the vital organs in the early morning becomes burdensome in the middle of the day. It is the season of drafts and sudden changes, which find the system but poorly prepared to stand such strains.

Many deaths will result in this season, but the chief effect will be in the general loss of public health until the people in the community have been enabled to adjust themselves to the new climatic conditions.

All doctors agree that great care is needed both in food and clothing. Unnecessary exposure should be avoided, and especially should the stomach be given every possible assistance in its important functions. If the stomach is toned up and invigorated, if the liver and kidneys are kept in good working order, the whole machinery of life is given strength and renewed energy. The stomach is the power producer of the human body, and 92 per cent. of all sickness comes from its failure to do its proper work.

Physicians, chemists and practical druggists who have administered and investigated Puritana, the prize-formula of Dr. Dixi Crosby of Dartmouth College, have publicly and privately stated that it is the one safe and effective stomach remedy within reach of the people to-day. Tens of thousands of patients have tried Puritana with success. Testimony of all sorts, public and confidential, has been forthcoming from various sources, proving the value of Puritana beyond all question.

A BOSTON LAWYER.

What Mr. John P. Wyman Says of Puritana.

The duties of his law practice make Mr. John P. Wyman an exceedingly busy man, and yet, when asked by an acquaintance what he knew about Puritana, he took time briefly to recount his experience. Mr. Wyman writes:

"I have long been subject to severe headaches and to other symptoms which seemed to indicate a nervous affection of the stomach. Some weeks ago it occurred to me that there might be virtue in Puritana, which I was informed was the formula of Prof. Dixi Crosby of Darthmouth College. As it gave evidence of being a thoroughly good preparation, and as there was a chance that it might bring me the relief which I earnestly desired, I tried it to the extent of several bottles.

"I am not enough of a medical man technically to diagnose my own case, or absolutely to measure the benefit derived from the use of Puritana, but I know, as a fact, that after I had been using Puritana, I had a better appetite, a better night's sleep, and, practically, freedom from headaches, which had previously caused me much suffering.

"The result is that I feel sure the credit can fairly be given to Puritana, and, while I am not licensed to prescribe any medicine, I am willing, on the basis of my own experience, to express the opinion that Puritana is an important remedy for troubles of the stomach and nerves."

The Honorable J. F. Greer, one of the best known and most highly respected county Judges of the State of Florida, writes of his horrible sufferings from Inflammatory Rheumatism:

OFFICE OF J. F. GREER, COUNTY JUDGE, Green Cove Springs, Clay Co., Fla.

GENTLEMEN: Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. I was attended by the most eminent physician in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places, always consulting with the local physicians for directions, and finally came to Florida, ten years ago. About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks, and during that time was induced to try P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, knowing that each ingredient was good for impurities of the blood. After using two small bottles I was relieved. At four different times since I have had slight attacks and each time I have taken two small bottles of P. P. P., and have been relieved, and I consider P. P. P. the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully, J. F. GREER.

James M. Newton, of Aberdeen, Ohio, says he bought a bottle of P. P. P. at Hot Springs, Arkansas, and it did him more good than three months' treatment at Hot Springs.

Rheumatism, as well as sciatica and gout, is cured by a course of P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, is a friend indeed to weak women. It is a positive and speedy cure for general weakness and nervousness.

All skin diseases are cured by it; anything from pimples to the worst cases of eczemas succumbing to the wonderful healing powers of P. P. P.

Dyspepsia and indigestion in their worst form are cured by it. As a tonic to restore the appetite and to regain lost vigor, it is simply marvelous.

P. P. P. is the best spring medicine in the world. It removes that heavy, out-of-sorts feeling and restores you to a condition of perfect physical health.

For Indigestion, Sick and Nervous Headache, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Heart Failure, Fever, Chills, Debility and Kidney Diseases, take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, the most wonderful medicine in the world

COAT SHOPS TIED UP.

Boston Tailors Claim That Agreements Have Been Violated.

Wages Insufficient to Secure Comfortable Living.

"Might as Well Starve Fighting as Starve Working For Bosses."

Boston, Oct. 1.—Today witnessed the inauguration of a big strike in the city of Boston. This morning nearly every coat shop in the city is tied up, and the operators, tailors and pressers connected with them, have entered on a desperate struggle with the contractors for what they claim to be their legitimate rights.

Between 3500 and 4000 operatives are engaged in the contest, and, judging by the spirit of the meeting last night, at which the strike was settled upon, the fight on which they have entered will be no child's play

The unfortunate state of things thus developed is the result of an agitation of some months' standing, and is due to alleged grievances on the part of the operatives, who claim that the agreement entered into last year has been violated by the contractors.

According to this statement, the contractors apparently came to the conclusion that the organization was losing its strength and effectiveness through a falling off in membership, and that acting on this belief, they began to gradually impose the old conditions, until scarcely a vestige of the old agreement remained.

The contractors have been waited upon during the past week by committees, asking for a renewal of the old agreement, with some slight modifications, namely, that it be optional for the men to work by the piece or day work. The agreement further calls for, in addition to last year's original schedule, nine hours for a day's work.

It was reported at last night's meeting that four of the contractors had already consented to sign the agreement, and that 12 others were considering the matter. Many were the stories recited at this meeting, both by the male and female operatives, for a number of the latter are concerned in this strike.

It was claimed that the wages earned were insufficient to insure a comfortable living, and that the conditions imposed upon them during the past year, and more especially during the last six months, were of such a character that they could be no longer borne with submission.

"We might as well starve fighting," said one of the unfortunate men, "the father of four little ones, "as starve working for those bosses, who sometimes have neither conscience or humanity in their treatment."

"This," exclaimed another of the speakers, "will be a lesson for every one of you to bear in mind for the future. Carelessness toward your unions must inevitably bring about social wretchedness among us; and it may be that the experience of the past year will not have been fruitless after all."

If matters are not adjusted by Saturday night, a strong appeal for moral support will be made next Sunday to the Central Labor union, and through it to the affiliated organizations.

Had a Razor In Her Stocking.

Natick, R. I., Oct. 1.—Two Moorish women, named Botonous and Eclos, went into the woods yesterday to pick up fallen wood, after the storm, and while there they quarreled over the size of their loads. With no other provocation, apparently, the Botonous woman drew a razor from her stocking and rushing at her companion, slashed her across the throat so deeply that little hope is entertained of her recovery. The Eclos woman is a relative of Gabriel Carrelli, who was killed by a companion within a short distance of the scene of the present affair, and, as in the present case, Carrelli's throat was cut by a razor.

Old Officers Again In Office.

Belfast, Me., Oct. 1.—Much business was transacted at yesterday's convention of the W. C. T. U. of Maine. The old board of officers was elected, consisting of Mrs. L. M. N. Stevens as president; Mrs. Sarah L. Cram, corresponding secretary; Miss Clara M. Farwell, recording secretary; Miss Estelle M. Brainard, assistant recording secretary, and Mrs. Adelaide L. Johnson, treasurer. By this election Mrs. Stevens enters upon her 19th consecutive year as president.

Says Trains Are Running.

Boston, Oct. 1. — District Passenger Agent Colvin of the Canadian Pacific railway states: "I am in receipt of authority from the assistant general manager of our company at Montreal, to contradict the statement in the papers that traffic is at all interrupted, or that any danger to life or property exists, owing to the telegraphers' strike. These statements are absolutely untrue. Passenger and freight trains are running regularly."

Chesterman Sues For $10,000.

Providence, Oct. 1.—George Chesterman, who was arrested by Chief of Police Champlin of Narragansett Pier on the charge of grand larceny, on the complaint of Captain O'Brien of New York, and was afterward discharged, has now brought suit in the United States district court for $10,000, against Chief Champlin. Chesterman alleges assault and battery and false imprisonment in his suit against Champlin.

One Robber Still Free.

Farmington, Me., Oct. 1.—Deputy Sheriff Blake, who has been in pursuit of the New Sharon robbers, has returned with the horse and team stolen from Charles Gage, which was found in a pasture four miles this side of Augusta. Ross, the wounded burglar, is suffering from a high fever, and the chances of recovery are against him. There is no trace of the second robber.

Boston, Oct. 1. — The bark Samar, Captain Forbes, came into port yesterday from Singapore, 102 days out, and reports that George Ashton, aged 19 years, fell overboard while on the passage and was drowned.

Jumped to Her Death.

Boston, Oct. 1.—An unknown woman jumped from the third story of the Hampden House last night, and was instantly killed. She was apparently about 30 years of age, and had entered the house with a man by the name of Charles Burgess, the couple being registered as man and wife. Burgess had left some time before the woman jumped from the window.

Bangor Vessel Missing.

Boston, Oct. 1.—The Bangor, Me., barkentine T. J. Stewart, which left New York, for this port, Sept. 8, has not yet been heard from, and it is very probable she has been wrecked. The vessel was loaded with coal, and was out in the big hurricane which prevailed at the time. There is a chance that the crew were picked up by a European-bound vessel.

Boston Has Nearly 100,000 Voters.

Boston, Oct. 1.—Registration under the new law, which completely wiped out the old voting list, and compelled entirely new registration, closed last night, with 95,623 names on the voting list. There may be other additions when the outlying districts make a final report. This is the largest number ever on the voting list in this city.

Tragedy Near Springfield.

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 1.—A Polander at Indian Orchard, a suburb of this city, attempted to kill his wife by kicking and beating her, about midnight last night. He then shot himself with probably fatal results.

Does Spain Want Indemnity?

Washington, Oct. 1.—Minister De Lome has just sent to the state department a long resume of all the warnings he has given the state department from time to time during the last year or more, of the preparations of filibustering expeditions. As he had previously reported each case separately, the only interpretation the authorities can place on this action, in consolidating in one communication all the information previously furnished the department, is that Spain is paving the way for a big indemnity claim.

Tackled by a Stranger.

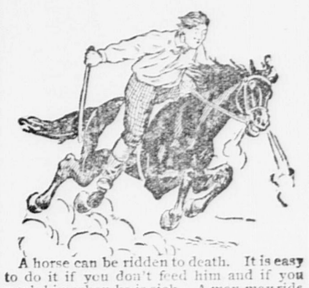
Iron Mountain, Mich., Oct. 1.—A mysterious attempt was made to murder Douglas Dawson, secretary of the McKinley and Hobart club. Members, in returning from a torchlight parade, found his unconscious form. He had been stabbed near the heart, but a spectacle case saved him. Dawson says he was stabbed and kicked by a stranger, who had been shadowing him for several days.

Ransom Wasn't Forthcoming.

Vienna, Oct. 1.—Advices from Belgrade say that the brother of the Austrian consul at Seres, Macedonia, who was carried off by a band of Bulgarian brigands some two weeks ago, with a wealthy Greek and others, has been murdered, with four of his companions, because the ransom of $50,000 demanded by the brigands, as the price of their liberty, was not forthcoming.

Operators Are Scarce.

St. John, N. B., Oct. 1.—The Canadian Pacific railway telegraphers' strike is now in full blast. Between this city and McAdam Junction, a stretch of 87 miles, there is but one operator on duty, namely, at Fredericton Junction.



A horse can be ridden to death. It is easy to do it if you don't feed him and if you work him when he is sick. A man may ride himself to death in the same way. Hard work is a good thing for a man whose daily nutrition repairs the daily waste. When he begins to run down hill he had better look out. When he begins to lose flesh, he will begin to lose vitality. He will have to spur himself more and more to keep himself going. Spurs are bad things to use on either horses or men. The man who is drawing out strength and vitality faster than he is putting it into his body needs Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This is the greatest blood maker and flesh builder in the world. It is a stimulating, purifying tonic. It fills the blood full of richness and helps all the digestive organs to do their work. It brings a good appetite, sound sleep, solid muscle. It does not—like cod liver oil—produce only flabby, useless fat. Corpulent people may take it without becoming more fleshy. The man who is not eating well, or working well, or sleeping well, or resting well frequently needs nothing else. He can get it at drug stores. He should not let the druggist persuade him to try something else which is better for the druggist's profit.

THE CAUSE OF SICKNESS.—When the doctor is called to see a man, woman or child, his first question is about the condition of the bowels. If they have not been freely open, he is sure to prescribe something to open them. He may do other things, but this one thing he will do surely. He knows better than any one else that nine-tenths of all human ailments come from the one cause—constipation. He may know, but he will not tell you, that Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best and most successful cure for constipation. He will not tell you so because his prescription brings him $2.00, and the "Pleasant Pellets" will cure you for twenty-five cents. Forty little "Pellets" in a little vial. One, a gentle laxative; two, a mild cathartic.

DEAD BABY IN TRUNK.

What a Boston Undertaker Found In Rose Murphy's House.

Police Sure That It Is a Case of Infanticide.

Supposed Mother Is Very Sick and Under Arrest at Hospital.

Boston, Oct. 2.—The police are working on what seems one of the worst cases of infanticide which has come to light in this city for some time. The child's mother, Rose Murphy, aged 40, living at 18 Bay street, is at the city hospital, practically under arrest. As soon as she is able to leave the hospital she will be taken into custody upon the charge of child murder.

The facts, as near as they can be ascertained, are: Miss Murphy gave birth to a child between 5 and 6 o'clock last Saturday morning. There was no doctor in attendance at the time, nor was one summoned until about 7 o'clock that evening, when Dr. Poulin was called in to attend the mother. The child was dead at that time, and it is stated that he was informed that the child was dead when born. On Tuesday Undertaker Jones of Lagrange street was informed that there was a dead child at 18 Bay street, and when his assistants went to the place the child's body was found in a trunk.

The body was removed to the undertaking rooms, and that evening City Physician McDonald was notified that the body was there, and that a certificate of death was required so that the body might be buried.

Up to this time no suspicion of foul play had been aroused in the minds of those who knew of the case. Dr. McDonald visited the undertaking rooms on Wednesday morning for the purpose of viewing the body. The condition of the body was such as to arouse his suspicions, and he at once notified Medical Examiner Draper to perform an autopsy upon the body.

Dr. Draper made his examination. He learned enough, it is said, to show that the child had died from strangulation after its birth, and so reported to the board of health. In the meantime Dr. McDonald, after leaving the undertaker's rooms, went directly to 18 Bay street and interviewed the mother. Although sick, the alleged mother of the child flatly denied to Dr. McDonald that she had had a child, and claimed to know nothing about the child whose body had been found in the house.

The police were then called into the case, and Miss Murphy was removed to the city hospital in the police ambulance. The trunk in which the body was found was also taken possession of, and a rigid investigation was begun. An inquest on the body will probably be held today.

The mother of the child is very sick, and will not be able to appear in court for some time.

Healing the Breach.

New Haven, Oct. 2.—The members of the ivy committee of Yale's class of '96 have made public what will undoubtedly prove a happy solution of the trouble engendered by the planting of the slip of ivy from the grave of Robert Lee on the Yale campus, and its subsequent theft during the summer. The members of the ivy committee have been in correspondence over the theft of the ivy since it became known, and have decided to plant another of the several slips from General Lee's grave, which were originally sent, and also, on a proposition of Wallace Bruce, '67, a slip from the grave of Theodore Winthrop, the poet and writer, who was one of the first Yale officers to meet death in the Union army. The planting of the ivies will be made a notable event, and the plan of having ex-Governor Chamberlain of South Carolina deliver the oration is being favorably considered.

Wedding Didn't Come Off.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 2.—David Wakeman, over 80 years old, and wealthy, was to have been married to Miss Anna Burdette, his housekeeper, and she had secured a license from the town clerk. James Staples, who had charge of the old man's affairs, heard of the license and hurried to the house to prevent the wedding. Wakeman was there unconscious and died soon after. The old man's wife died 20 years ago, and he took Anna Burdette from an orphan asylum to keep house for him. She has remained with him ever since, and two years ago gave birth to a child. Wakeman has supported both mother and child. Miss Burdette's action was advised by friends. The old man is said to have been worth $150,000.

The Boston Strike.

Boston, Oct. 2.—The strike of the coat makers for higher pay and shorter hours is still on, and has apparently gained strength. The committee which made the rounds of the shops were surprised to find nearly all going out, and now that the fact has become known that the coat workers have been obliged to work from 16 to 18 hours a day, much sympathy is being expressed for them. The committee has not been able to give out an official statement, but one is expected after all the pickets have reported. While the schedule of wages for women is the same, the women are not taking an active part in the strike.

Lost His Balloon.

Willimantic, Conn., Oct. 2.—The three days' fair of the Willimantic Fair association closed yesterday afternoon Professor Laroux and his wife, who were to make a balloon ascension and parachute descent, fell when about 40 feet in the air, by the rope connecting the parachute breaking. Mrs. Laroux was dragged on the ground a considerable distance, and was unconscious for two hours. She escaped without any broken bones. Professor Laroux attempted another ascension later, but his balloon caught fire, as it was being inflated, and was entirely consumed.

Ten Eyck Outrows Whitehead.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 2.—Edward H. Ten Eyck is virtual amateur champion sculler of the United States. Yesterday afternoon, on a perfect course on Lake Quinsigamond, he defeated Joseph Whitehead of Boston, who won the national championship in senior singles at Saratoga. Ten Eyck won the intermediate championship at the same regatta, and recently won the senior championship of New England. The match race yesterday was for a $100 trophy. Probably 5000 people saw the race, which was 1½ miles, with a turn. The time was 9:58 2-5, within 14 seconds of the world's record.

Bath Schooner Damaged.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., Oct. 2.—The schooner S. P. Blackburn of Bath, Me., Baltimore for Portland, Me., reports that on Sept. 29, about 40 miles S. S. E. from Fire island, with the vessel close hauled on the starboard tack in a light wind, she was run into by the schooner Fred Gower, bound south in ballast. The Blackburn had her cutwater and all headgear carried away, together with the spanker and mizzen rigging. The chain plates and rails were broken, and much minor damage done around decks. The damage to the Gower is unknown.

Dropped Dead at Wedding.

New Haven, Oct. 2.—William F. Skinner, a former member of the firm of Skinner & Sperry, music dealers, came from Guilford yesterday, where he resided, to attend the wedding of his son, William F., and Miss Bertha Anderson Booth, at the bride's home. Immediately after the marriage, and while the congratulations were being made to the newly wedded couple, the father of the groom dropped dead of heart failure. He was 80 years old. The projected wedding tour was interrupted to make arrangements for the funeral.

Fine Show at Brockton.

Brockton, Mass., Oct. 2.—Perfect weather marked the second day of the Brockton fair, and over 30,000 people were present on the grounds. Among the attractions, besides the horse and bicycle races, was the exhibition mile of the pacing horse, "Major Wonder," ridden by Mrs. F. H. Winch of Vermont. A horseless carriage also made a round of the track. Berlo's sextuplet made an exhibition mile in 1m. 57s., and Tom Butler rode a mile, with a flying start in 2m. 4 2-5s.

Neglected to Provide.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 2.—In the supreme court here yesterday, Emeline F. Blackstock was granted a divorce and given the custody of her two children. Her husband, George T. Blackstock, is one of the most influential men in Canada, being a queen's counsellor, and retained by the Canadian Pacific railroad. Neglect to provide was the ground for action.

Presented With a $1000 Pin.

Boston, Oct. 2. — Colonel Sidney M. Hedges was the hero of the dinner of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston in the American House last night. His comrades presented him with a beautiful diamond pin, which cost $1000, and surrounded him with all the evidences of sincere friendship.

Injured Keeper and Escaped.

Middletown, Conn., Oct. 2.—Patrick Kelleher of Hartford, an inmate of the insane hospital in this city, assaulted Keeper Brown in the barn yesterday, inflicting severe scalp wounds and disabling him with a stake from a farm wagon. Kelleher escaped. Kelleher was considered harmless.

May Start Up Again.

Newport, Vt., Oct. 2.—The Union bobbin works, employing 150 men and boys, has been forced into insolvency. All the help are out of work, but they expect that if the factory passes into other hands, it will start up again.

Asquith's Summing Up.

London, Oct. 2.—Henry Asquith, addressing his constituents at Leven, declared that when he left office in June, 1895, no medical reasons existed for releasing the Irish dynamiters. In this matter, he said, the Tory government appeared to enjoy advantages which were denied to the Liberals. If the Liberal government had liberated these men, and a new plot had been discovered so quickly, there would have been a universal roar of incredulity and indignation. Regarding Armenia Mr. Asquith said that if the massacres of Armenians had occurred in the dark ages there would have been a crusade as a result. He urged that coercion should be used, and that the sultan should be removed, but he admitted that force employed by England would not be safe without the co-operation of Russia.

A Salvation Navy.

New York, Oct. 2. — Commander Booth-Tucker has originated a new plan for Salvation Army work. He will start a floating army barracks, to cruise from port to port, doing rescue work by the way, rescuing sailors from the clutches of the harpies. The boat will be commanded and manned by seamen selected from the ranks of the army, will carry the army flag, and be painted in the army color, blue. Commander Tucker proposes to borrow or hire a man-of-war from the United States government. If a cruiser cannot be obtained, he will either raise funds to build one or hire a superannuated Atlantic liner.

Studying American Labor Movement.

New York, Oct. 2. — A delegation of Frenchmen is here to make a study of the labor movement in this country. The delegation was sent by the Musee Sociale, an institution founded by the Comte de Chambrieu to make a special study of social and economic questions. The delegation will be here a month, and will visit Boston, Philadelphia, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Chicago and Detroit.

Probably Headed For Cuba.

Charleston, Oct. 2.—Steamer Commodore, which made several filibustering expeditions from this port to Cuba, left here yesterday, announcing preparatory to her departure that she was bound for Jacksonville, Fla. It is said, however, by some that she is making for the Cuban coast. She had aboard a large supply of coal, and appeared to be otherwise heavily laden.

The Leadville Situation.

Leadville, Colo., Oct. 2.—The miners held a largely attended meeting, but the session was strictly an executive one. From what leaked out it is believed that it was decided to stand firm. Several mine managers are preparing to start up, and state that they can get all the men they need at the $2.50 scale.

The Madagascar Uprising.

Paris, Oct. 2.—Word has been received here that General Gallieni has arrived at Antananarivo, in Madagascar, and has proclaimed a state of siege. The insurgent natives attacked him in the forest while he was on his way to the Calito, and killed three of his carriers.

A Runaway.

A horse attached to an open two seated wagon owned by William Cable of Jamaica Plain was left hitched to a post near the Mt. Wollaston cemetery Thursday afternoon. While left thus the hook on the hitch rope broke for some reason and the animal dashed up Valley street into Greenleaf. As he turned from Greenleaf street into Hanock street the team was overturned, and before the animal could do any further damage he was stopped. The carriage was badly smashed.

Hit With a Brick.

John Anderson, a roofer employed on the Gridley Bryant school building, had a narrow escape from a serious accident Thursday afternoon. He stood on the ground near the building, when a brick fell from the roof and struck him on the head rendering him insensible and cutting a deep gash in his head. Dr. Ash was summoned and took eight stitches in the wound.

D. R. CLAMBAKE.

Mrs. Nelson V. Titus Entertains at Squantum.

On Anniversary of Landing of Myles Standish.

Another Memorable Day for Daughters of the Revolution.

Thursday was an ideal day for an outing at the seashore and a large gathering of the Daughters of the Revolution, responded to invitations to a clam bake, sent out by Mrs. Nelson V. Titus, regent of the Adams Chapter of Quincy.

Members of Adams Chapter went down to Squantum at noon to assist Mrs. Titus in receiving. The half past twelve train from Boston brought out in a special car over a hundred daughters, and when all were gathered nearly one hundred and fifty were present; including a few of the husbands, among them being Mr. Lewis Bass, Mr. Henry M. Faxon, Capt. B. R. Redman, Mr. Standish, a direct descendant from Capt. Myles Standish, Mr. Thompson, Mr. Towle and Mr. Titus. Mrs. Titus house, the farm houses and tent were decorated with bunting presenting a most patriotic and festive scene.

To those who have never attended one of Mr. and Mrs. Titus' clam bakes the occasion is really indescribable. The guests were much interested in the uncovering of the great fire on the beach, and when the seaweed and coverings were removed a most appetizing array met the eye. There were dishes and dishes of bright red lobsters, sweet potatoes, sweet corn, eggs, Frankforts and clams all steaming hot. The ride from the station, combined with the soft sea breezes had given every one an appetite, and soon all were seated at six long tables under a large tent on the lawn near the beach, ready to do justice to the contents of the big fire.

T. L. Cook of Boston catered, furnishing further additions to the clam bake, and his help supplied the wants of the guests.

An attractive feature of the dinner was the music by several colored men of the Old Kentucky Concert company and orchestra from Sudbury street, Boston.

As the day celebrated the 275th anniversary of the landing of Capt. Myles Standish at Squantum, soon after dinner carriages were taken by some while others strolled across the fields to Squantum head, to see the cairn erected a year ago to the memory of Myles Standish. The spot was found to be very attractive and the air so clear the view over the bay was very extended.

On returning to Mrs. Titus' farm, hot coffee and cakes were served, and then all gathered on the summer cottage veranda and Mrs. Titus took two photographs of the group, after which all went down to the tent and had two more views taken, Mr. Standish taking the last one, having Mrs Titus in the centre of the group.

The afternoon was rapidly disappearing so after signing Mrs. Titus' guest book and listening to some more of that fascinating music, carriages were once again taken and soon all were on their homeward way, declaring it to have been one of the pleasantest days in the history of the Daughters of the Revolution and unanimous in thinking Mrs. Titus a royal entertainer and the Adams Chapter the most enterprising and cordial in the state.

The members of the state chapters are to be entertained at the birthplace of John Adams by the Adams Chapter the 19th of this month when another pleasant time for the "daughters" is anticipated.

Struck by Train.

Max Hendrickson, a Finn, was struck by a gravel train at the West Quincy depot this morning about 11 o'clock. Although he was severely bruised and knocked out for a while he was not seriously injured. He was struck at the crossing just south of the depot, and at the time he was attempting to cross the tracks in front of a slowly moving gravel train. The train struck him on the hip and fortunately threw him off the track, otherwise he would have gone under the wheels and been crushed.

PROTEST FROM GOULD

Against Shabby Treatment by the Yacht Racing Association.

An Open Letter Giving Facts In the Case.

Will Wait a Reasonable Time For a Reply From British Sportsmen.

London, Sept. 30.—The yachting season having ended, and it being Howard Gould's intention to return to his home in America shortly, he has given out, as he feels it his duty to do, a copy of a long communication which he has sent to the council of the Yacht Racing association, regarding a visit by a committee of three from that association made to Mr. Gould's yacht Niagara last May, while at her moorings, without having sent Mr. Gould any notice of intended visit, and on which occasion the committee made an examination of the yacht, so as to ascertain as to whether there was any truth in the report that she was fitted with water tanks on each side of the cabin, which were connected by pipes, so as to obtain a shifting water ballast.

After pointing out that the construction of the water tanks on the Niagara was visible to the eye, and was known to many members of the Yacht Racing association, and that Niagara had raced throughout 1895 unquestioned, Mr. Gould's communication continues by saying: "After the race of the Royal Thames Yacht club, on May 22, in my absence, and without previous communication, without notice to me, although such notice could easily have been given, and without prior knowledge on my part, a committee from your association suddenly boarded the Niagara and made certain examinations. Notice of this visit was made to me five days later in the following letter from your secretary:

A report has been made to the council of the Yacht Racing association that your yacht, Niagara, is fitted with a water tank, under the seat, on each side of the cabin, and that these tanks are connected by a pipe, so as to make it possible, by merely turning a cock, to run water from one tank into the other, and thus use them as shifting water ballast, which might be advantageous in certain cases. Three members of the council were consequently requested to inspect the tanks, which they did immediately after the race of the Royal Thames Yacht club, on May 22, and in your absence, were afforded every facility by Captain Barr. The members of the council do not wish to convey any idea on their part that the tanks were used for the purpose indicated. On the contrary, their impression is the other way. But I am requested to suggest, in order to place the matter beyond suspicion, that it is desirable to make impracticable the run of water from one tank to the other, which could readily be done by a small alteration of the pipe. I should be glad to hear for the information of the council that this has been done at once.

Mr. Gould's communication then continues: "This was the first notice I had from the Yacht Racing association of their extraordinary action. I was never informed who constituted the committee, who failed even to leave their names with the sailing master."

Mr. Gould's answer to Secretary Kemp's letter states that he greatly regrets that he had not the courtesy of a notification of the intended visit of the committee, but he was pleased to hear that their investigation was satisfactory. Any reports that the tanks were used for shifting ballast, the letter says, are absolutely false. He asked that the council suggest making the change that would still leave three days' water carrying capacity for the needs of the crew in making passages.

Dixon Kemp's reply to this suggests the removal of the connections and a separate pipe service for each tank, which would not involve more than 10 pounds additional weight.

After citing this correspondence, Mr. Gould's communication to the Yacht Racing association continues: "Had I been communicated with prior to this discourteous visit, I would have gladly established the following facts: 'Niagara was measured with the tanks empty; the water in the tanks was never used for shifting ballast, and it would be impracticable to advantageously use the tanks for such purpose, and the report that the tanks were connected by a pipe so as to make it possible, merely by turning a cock, to run the water from one tank into the other, and to use them for shifting ballast, which might be advantageous in certain cases, conveyed an unjust reflection.'

"My objection is not the fact of the examination having been made, but to the mode of proceeding. Despite this action of your committee, and to prevent further unjust suspicion, and in the interest of harmony, I made the alterations, severing the pipes between the tank, much to the discomfort of the crew, by lessening their water supply. I am surprised that I have never received any explanation of the course pursued in boarding my yacht without communicating with me, although I characterized such action as discourteous at the time.

"In the absence of any such explanation or disavowal on the part of the Yacht Racing association, I cannot but consider that the course pursued is not only discourteous, but is personally offensive, and essentially destructive of those amicable relations which lie at the foundation of the existence of international contests of this character, which should be founded on gentlemanly intercourse, fair and open dealings, and high and scrupulous honor. Certainly self-respecting yachtsmen from other countries will not hereafter voluntarily subject themselves to similar treatment if such a course as was pursued towards me is held and declared by the Yacht Racing association to be according to its ideas of what is proper, fair and just.

Mr. Gould stated that he would sail for home in a fortnight. "I will remain till then," he said, "in order to answer any question which my letter may prompt. I do not wish it to be said that I made a statement and then ran away."

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 30.—The action of the Jockey club in ruling off Riley Grannan and refusing entries of Will Wallace, two noted young Kentucky turfmen, caused a big sensation here. The concensus of opinion is that the action is ill-advised, and will result in injury to the eastern turf. Kentucky breeders may refuse to enter in eastern stakes.

Why Silver Now Suffers.

To the Editors of the Daily Ledger:

4—(a). The stamp of the United States upon any recognized metal is a guarantee against fluctuation, in any direction, and assures the holder of a gold dollar that it is worth its face value as long as the force which created it shall last.

(b.) "In those silver countries in which the silver coinage possess a bullion value, how much is the government stamp worth?" In answer to Mr. Tupper I would ask, how much are those governments worth? "Joseph" believes that nothing is more insulting to the people and institutions of this country than this constant comparison with China, Japan, and semi-barbarous denizens of the Straits Settlement, or with struggling Venezuela, which Mr. Tupper cited in one of his articles as a sample of a silver state. But can Mr. Tupper find one word in the financial plank of the Democratic party that will allow him to assume that silver monometallism is desired. Gold, it may be said, will be driven from the country if silver is given a place, but what at this moment drives gold from the country? The treasury reserve needs the constant "patriotism" of our English cousins and the national banks to keep intact the required $100,000,000. Would the Chinese boy of 16 years pass muster with the American boy of 16? Would the ablest diplomat in Japan be compared with a Gladstone, a Bismarck, a Hohenlohe or a Leo? Would one expect the ablest newspaper in Russia to compare with the Boston Herald, the New York Sun or the New York World? Would the most skilled artisan in China, equal in intelligence and ingenuity the American artisan? If we are willing to judge of the possibilities of any measure here by results attained in far eastern countries, yet hardly out the darkness of heathenism, we might with equal justice look to the same source when seeking either a panacea for some ill or for a corrective when seeking to curb the passion of man. The lazy, happy-go-lucky, adventurous, afraid-of-work Mexican must feel highly complimented to know that he is made the equal of his alert, progressive and ingenious neighbor.

(c) The Confederate States were recognized as belligerents by Great Britain and France. The right to that status they could not assert, the encouragement given by Great Britain and France was short-lived and amounted to little when the constant losses and defeats of the Confederate army was known. Mr. Tupper knows full well the limitation of a recognition as belligerents, and with this knowledge his question is unfair. The two powers mentioned played the role of the boys who volunteer to hold the hats and coats of two bad boys fighting, in the hope that in the end they may receive the lion's share of the rosy apple in the victors possession. The rosy apple in the case of England was the cotton of the South, but a very effectual blockade somewhat interferred with the original programme.

(d) Fiat money cannot pass anywhere. And that was the kind of money and the only kind of money that the Continental Congress could issue. The treaty of Paris in 1783, and the adoption of the constitution in 1787, provided the means that the Continental Congress did not have. Supposing Mr. Tupper and "Joseph" should melt all the gold that came into their possession, and should convert it into coin shape with their stamp, who would be likely to take it, hoping of course that we had a permit, to be recognized by belligerents as it were, to prevent our being taken.

(e) That which backs anything is stability, standing, character. These qualities "Joseph" believes the United States has and always will have. A corporation or an individual that possess a reputation for conservatism and probity can do an incalculable amount of business upon a small amount of capital or money. This is credit!

(f) "Joseph" is willing at all times to be acquainted with every phase of a subject, but must resent the imposition of the irksome task of establishing the identity of some irascible and caustic old Reconstructionist, or perhaps, more properly Destructionist. How would Mr. Tupper like it if "Joseph" would ask him to go rummaging among Revolutionary history or subsequent history and tell him who was the originator of "not worth a tinker's damn" or "not worth a farthing," both phrases enjoying a longer life than the one he cites. Really in answer to his question "Joseph" must say that he "does not care a continental."

JOSEPH.

LOCAL LACONICS

The attendance at the Brockton fair Thursday was about 35,000, exceeding all records. Trains, electrics, etc., were all overcrowded, and many people must have been delayed in getting home. All the evening tally-hos, drags, brakes, and bicycles were returning through Quincy to Boston.

Last Sunday was temperance day with the Sunday School of the Methodist church; the matter of intoxicating drinks being demonstrated by object lessons. Forty-two signed the pledge against intoxicating drinks, tobacco, and profanity. The school has been increased by sixty-four new members since first of April and the most of this growth was during the vacation season. The school now exceeds the membership of the past.

It would be hard to find a more social company than those who met in vestry of the Methodist church, Atlantic, on Tuesday evening, for a "harvest social." After half an hour or more of social, singing, and recitations, the "harvest" part was manifested by the opening of the folding doors of the ladies' parlor; and introducing the pastor and his wife to a most bountiful donation of good things for the table. Money, wood, and other gifts came later. It was a complete surprise.

Political Potpourri.

Another opportunity to register tomorrow night.

Gov. Wolcott is in favor of biennial elections.

W. M. Crane carried eleven of the counties of the State leaving only two for Col. Winslow. The vote was 1347 to 538.

Col. Winslow is all right. In an interview he says: "My services are as heretofore at the command of the Republican party. It is a pleasure to congratulate Mr. Crane on his nomination and to wish him success in the coming election as well as in the administration of his public duties."

The Democratic State Committee has accepted the Music hall nominations.

Quincy was well represented on the committees at the Republican State convention: Charles A. Howland on the committee on resolutions, John Shaw on the committee on credentials, and Charles L. Hammond as chairman of the Norfolk County committee on ballots.

Brookline has another candidate for County Commissioner in Oscar B. Mowry, but the town has had a representative for three years and there are several towns in the county so it would be well to pass it round.

The new voters registered this week appear in another column.

ACREEMENT REACHED.

Salisbury and the Czar Have Had a Confab Concerning Turkey.

London, Oct. 2.—It would seem that the gaunt spectre that has been stalking before the eyes of affrighted Europe as presaging war has been laid to rest. It may now be hoped that the danger has been conjured by diplomacy, which alone was capable of dealing safely and adequately with the problem.

There is good reason for believing that a very important agreement has been arrived at between the great powers, and that all danger of a European war has, for the present, passed away. It is certain that the interviews between the czar and Lord Salisbury at Balmoral have borne good fruit.

According to this information it is not yet known what arrangements have been made for the contingency of serious disturbances in Constantinople and of further disorder in Asia Minor, but, assuming that the sultan's government shows itself able to preserve order and prevent evil deeds, either by Armenian conspirators or excited Mussulman mobs, the great powers will not forcibly interfere in Turkish affairs.

The Canadian Pacific Strike.

Montreal, Oct. 2.—Honors seem to be pretty even between the striking Canadian Pacific railroad telegraphers and the company. In this district passenger trains are running pretty much as though nothing had happened, but representatives from down east and the west do not appear so favorable for the company. It is very plain now that the strikers are building a great deal on the action of the other branches of the railway service. If they succeeed in getting the trainmen and drivers to go out in sympathy, the strikers declare that victory will be theirs. The Canadian Pacific railway authorities charge the strikers with tampering with the wires and station signals, but the men indignantly deny this.

Told of Laurada's Trip.

Philadelphia, Oct. 2.—Captain John D. Hart, who was taken into custody on information furnished by George W. Comley, charged with violating the neutrality laws by shipping arms and ammunition to Cuba on the Laurada, was given a hearing yesterday before United States Commissioner Edmunds. Comley was Captain Hart's chief accuser. He testified that Captain Hart had hired him to ship on the Laurada last August. He told how the Laurada had left here Aug. 5, and sailed around to New York, where men were taken on board from the Richard K. Fox. There was also a lot of ammunition taken on board from lighters. After Comley had told in detail about the landing of the Laurada's cargo in Cuba, Commissioner Edmunds held Mr. Hart in $1000 bail for further hearing.

Stand Collapsed.

Burlington, Ia., Oct. 2. — The semi-centennial exercises yesterday were marred by an accident which happened to the reviewing stand erected near the Union depot for the convenience of Vice Fresident Stevenson, Governor Drake of Iowa and his personal staff and some 40 other prominent people, in reviewing the parade. Just as the head of the parade reached the point, with almost no warning the entire stand collapsed, throwing its distinguished occupants to the ground, a distance of 15 feet. The majority of those on the stand were bruised more or less.

DEATH LIST GROWING.

Many More Persons Killed by Hurricane Than First Reported.

Probably a Hundred Killed In Florida Alone.

Late Reports Indicate That Property Loss Amounts to Millions.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 2.—Telegraphic communication with the outside world is being slowly re-established. The reports from various parts of the state tell of widespread destruction.

Five people were killed and many injured at Lake City. Three schoolchildren were killed at Boulogne, and others hurt, and fatalities occurred at many other places in the state in the path of the storm. In every instance fatalities occurred in collapsed buildings. The estimated damage done to the turpentine and lumber camps in the center of the state is $500,000. A great deal of damage was done along the lines of Florida Central and plant system of railroads between this city and Savannah. Fully 500 trees fell across the railroad track, and the first train that came through after the storm was 9½ hours late. A great deal of damage was done at Gainesville, High Springs and Newbury.

It appears that the storm left the gulf and struck the coast about Cedar Keys, which is said to be almost completely wrecked. From there it went in a northeasterly course, its diameter being about 40 miles across the state, doing fearful damage at the towns of Gainesville, High Springs, Newberry, Lake City, Bronford, Callahan and many others. Brick and frame buildings were blown down, and near Callahan, several children were killed in a schoolhouse which was wrecked.

The wind is reported to have reached a velocity of 100 miles an hour, and there is widespread destruction in the path of the storm. It is impossible yet to learn how many persons were killed, but it is believed that the dead will be fully 100, and that many others were injured. Much damage is reported at Jacksonville, but no loss of life, as the center of the storm seems to have passed to the north of that city. The storm was not felt here, but after it left the gulf Tuesday night, a high bank of air rushed in from the north, blowing almost a gale, and lowering the temperature about 25 degrees. Later reports received last night show that the storm was a twisting tornado, that moved with great rapidity from the gulf to the Atlantic coast. In many places buildings were wrecked in less than a minute, and soon afterward the sun was shining brightly. The loss of property cannot now be estimated, but it is very heavy, not only in the towns, but on the farms, where the crops were destroyed.

In Georgia.

Savannah, Oct. 2.—The worst of the tornado news from this city has been told. The number of deaths reported up to this time is 12, and there will probably be no other bodies found. The city has recovered entirely from the blow, and business is now going on without interruption. News from Tybee island is not encouraging. The Tybee railroad is badly damaged, and trains cannot reach the island. The wind cut a wide swath along the railroad track, destroying almost everything near it. Trees and grass were blown up by the ton and scattered all over the track. It is said that it is almost wholly buried under the debris, and it will take some time to clear it. The damage to property on the island is almost $30,000. The rice crop in Savannah and section will be shortened one-third by the storm. The loss in Savannah and section will be $1,000,000.

Reports come from Savannah river section of South Carolina that there was considerable loss of life among the negroes in Tuesday's storm. Roads are impassable because of fallen trees. Houses are down in all directions. The small schooner Island Flower, which left Wilmington island Tuesday morning, for this port, is believed to have been lost, with her crew of three men.

Damage at the Capital.

Washington, Oct. 2. — The work of counting up the loss and repairing the ravages of the storm continues, and as reports come in the widespread character of the damage wrought becomes even more apparent, no locality nor any of the surrounding country having escaped. About $433,500 is given as the total of the storm's damage within the city. The unroofing of so many houses caused a brisk demand for roofing tin, and sent the price up much above its normal value. The only loss of life in the city was occasioned by the falling of the Alert building, from the ruins of which the body of James Fitzgerald was taken. Several other persons were injured in the fall of this building.

A Hundred Fatalities.

Savannah, Oct. 2.—Reports from the coast are meagre. The Sea islands along the coast of Georgia and South Carolina had almost a repetition of the storm of 1893. Almost every cottage and cabin in the wake of the storm was destroyed, but the water was not piled upon them as in 1893, consequently the suffering was not so severe. The fatalities on the Sea islands were not numerous, and were due to accidents from falling timbers or trees more than to water. Only those who happened to be caught out in boats were drowned. It is believed the number of fatalities on the Sea islands will not exceed 100. Twenty negroes were killed on the rye plantations by falling timbers. The Sea islands cotton crop is badly damaged.

Deluge at Staunton.

Staunton, Va., Oct. 2.—The flood here was caused by the bursting of a lake, and the emptying of its waters into a stream already badly swollen by the rains. From 10 to 12 o'clock of Tuesday night the rain came down in torrents, and soon changed Lewis creek, which runs through Staunton, into a raging torrent, and the water backed and quickly swamped the neighborhood. A handsome brick, stone-trimmed building was totally wrecked. Along the line of the creek in the southern part of the city the water rose several feet in a few seconds, with the result that Staunton experienced the most disastrous flood in its history. Four persons were drowned.

THE PELICAN STATE.

Hanna Will Try Hard to Get It In the McKinley Column.

Watson Quits the Race For the Vice Presidency.

Senator Chandler Gives Some Advice on the Currency Question.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Mark Hanna has fixed his eagle eye on the state of Louisiana, and he means to capture its electoral vote for McKinley. If he fails in that, he proposes to secure several sound money congressmen as a sort of consolation purse. The Louisiana question was up for consideration at the recent conference, held in New York, between Mr. Hanna and Representative Babcock, chairman of the Republican congressional committee.

The situation in Louisiana was carefully reviewed, and the information in the possession of Mr. Hanna is said to justify him in making a determined fight in that state. It was represented that the sugar planters, and those interested with them, are prepared to make any reasonable combination, and they do not even shy at fusion with the Republicans.

When Representative Babcock returned to Washington, he reported to his associates on the congressional committee that he had been relieved of a very disagreeable job. When questioned further, he replied that Mr. Hanna and the national Republican committee will, during the remainder of the campaign, take sole charge of the Republican forces in Louisiana, thus relieving the congressional committee from all responsibility in that state as well as in Florida.

Early in the canvass, Senator Quay went to the latter state, and upon returning north, requested the national committee to take charge of the contest there, assuring his associates that there is more than a fighting chance to carry it for McKinley.

WATSON OUT OF IT.

Said to Have Given Up the Contest For the Vice Presidency.

Atlanta, Oct. 2.—The Atlanta Journal says that Tom Watson has decided to withdraw as the vice presidential nominee of the People's party. When it is considered that this paper is the property of Hoke Smith, who resigned from the Cleveland cabinet that he might give free expression to his views in support of Mr. Bryan, the announcement concerning Mr. Watson must be credited with some weight.

THOMAS E. WATSON.

Watson spoke at Stone Mountain yesterday. He made no direct allusion to any idea of withdrawing, and, indeed, left his hearers impressed strongly with the belief that he proposed to stick, come what may. Yesterday afternoon The Evening Journal contained a story, published over a Washington date line, which intimated strongly that the withdrawal was in sight. It spoke of Watson's disgust at the treatment he has received at the hands of other Populist leaders. Watson's paper is published from The Journal's presses. Whether he comes off or not, Watson is disgusted. He is quoted as having said to a friend that he believes McKinley is going to win.

Chandler Gives Opinions.

Concord, N. H., Oct. 2.—Senator Chandler, last night, made public his reply to a letter from a man in Selma, Cal., asking his opinion of the "Crime of '73," as the alleged demonetization of silver at that time is termed by many prominent silver men. Senator Chandler, in his reply, says the anti-silver legislation of 1873 was not a crime, but merely a "thoughtless act." His letter concludes as follows:

"Not until 1893 were England's India mints closed to silver coinage, and not until Sept. 12, 1896, at Bar Harbor, did Secretary Carlisle proclaim the obligation of the United States to reclaim every silver dollar on demand with the gold dollar. What the complete effect will be of this wholly blotting out all the silver coin of the world as money of final redemption, and measuring the world's value only by the $4,000,000,000 of the world's gold coin now in existence, remains to be seen. I think it will be ruinous to debtors and owners of real estate and personal chattels. Money lenders may reap a harvest. It does not seem to me to be worth while to denounce anybody for the thoughtless legislation of 1873. The wise course will be, after McKinley's election, to work earnestly, without crimination or recrimination, to secure the remonetization of silver and the restoration of bimetallism."

Bryan Won't Give Up.

Wheeling, Oct. 2.—The greatest demonstration given William J. Bryan in the state of West Virginia was last night paid him in this city. At the fair grounds he spoke to a crowd, the size of which was only limited by the space in front of the speaker's stand and the distance the nominee's voice could be heard. Neatly uniformed marching clubs, bands of music, and citizens in carriages and mounted on horses made up a large procession. At Parkersburg it was the greatest day that city has seen for many years. Excursion trains from all the outlying towns had contributed to swell the crowds. At the grove where Mr. Bryan spoke he received an enthusiastic reception. Mr. Bryan said, in concluding his speech at Parkersburg "You must not believe what you see sometimes in the newspapers, to the effect that I am about to give up. I will not yield, and if you will let me do this work by degrees, and not compel me to do too much, I will promise to keep it up until the evening before election." At Sisterville a great crowd of oil drillers had assembled at the depot, and Mr. Bryan said a few words to them. He also had a word to say to the people of New Martinsville, asking them to make their silver speech on election day.

Gold Horseshoe For McKinley.

Canton, O., Oct. 2.—It took three special trains to bring the Portage county delegation to Canton. There were McKinley and Hobart clubs from all the towns in the county, and three marching clubs composed entirely of women. The spokesman for the Portage county people was ex-State Senator Wolcott. In response to his remarks, Major McKinley made a speech which was greeted from start to finish with cheers and tumultuous applause. "We propose in this contest to protect our money from debasement, and with the same votes to protect our industries from foreign competition," exclaimed Major McKinley, in commencing his remarks, and this utterance was the keynote of his speech. A few minutes after the Portage county delegation left the Springfield delegation arrived. After the speechmaking there were songs by the Glee club, and T. J. Thomas presented Major McKinley with a gold horseshoe.

As Levering Sees It.

Baltimore, Oct. 2.—Joshua Levering, the Prohibition candidate for president, returned home yesterday, after a month spent in the northern and western states. During his absence Mr. Levering spoke in all the large towns in New England and New York, and extended his tour as far west as Minnesota. He will go south, where he will spend the remainder of the time prior to election day, speaking in all the large cities and towns as far south as New Orleans. In speaking of his trip, Mr. Levering said: "One of the best signs of the times, in my judgment, is that the meetings of all sorts and all parties are attended by such crowds and classes of people as have never taken much interest in politics before. The people everywhere seem anxious to hear these new questions discussed, and will turn out to hear anybody. So far as I could learn, I think McKinley will be elected."

Out Squarely For Bryan.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Representative McCreary of Kentucky was one of the most ardent advocates of the gold standard previous to the meeting of the Chicago convention. He was at the same time considered one of the closest friends of Secretary Carlisle and President Cleveland, and it was believed that he would refuse to support the nominees of the Chicago convention. He has, however, come out squarely for the Chicago ticket, and is now stumping the state of Kentucky for that ticket. In a letter to W. J. Houghtaling of this city, Mr. McCreary says of the situation in Kentucky: "I believe Kentucky will go for Bryan and Sewall. The Republicans and Boltocrats are very active, and this state is a battleground. We have a hard fight, but the outlook now is favorable to Bryan."

Eight Men Killed.

Pittsburg, Oct. 2.—A freight wreck occurred at Filson station, on the eastern slope of the mountains, on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, yesterday. The entire train crew, consisting of the engineer, fireman, conductor, two brakemen and a flagman, and two tramps, who were stealing a ride, were killed. Thirty-four cars, which were loaded with coal, together with the engine and caboose, are piled up on the track. Whether the train got beyond the control of the brakemen in the tunnel is not known, but experienced railroad men say that owing to the condition of the track from the effects of the storm, it would be almost an impossibility to control such a long train on the steep grade, which is 17 miles long and about 125 feet to the mile.

Corn to Burn.

Minneapolis, Oct. 2.—Corn will be burned for fuel this winter in many sections of Minnesota and South Dakota. Coal is $2 per ton dearer than last year, and with corn at 11 cents a bushel, it is much more valuable as fuel than as food. It makes an excellent fire, and an ear of corn makes more heat than its bulk in wood. In North Dakota coal is so high-priced that the mining of lignite has been greatly stimulated. This coal is abundant and easily mined. It is rich in carbon, but has a great amount of ash and moisture. For fuel it is worth two-thirds its bulk in anthracite, and costs half as much.

A Drunkard's Deed.

Holgate, O., Oct. 2.—The family of Mrs. J. P. Ricker, a widow, consisted of the widow and her daughter, Anna, 17 years old, a son, and a boarder named Nathan E. Spellman. The latter came home in a beastly state of intoxication, and was reprimanded by Mrs. Ricker. Spellman, while the son was at school, and Mrs. Ricker out attending to the stock, went into the house. He found the daughter ironing. What followed can only be surmised. Anna Ricker was attacked and her skull crushed. Spellman then cut his throat. There is no possible hope of Anna's recovery. Spellman is dead.

Scrappers In South Africa.

Buffalo, Oct. 2.—A local paper prints a letter written by Kid McCoy, under date of Aug. 30, from Johannesburg, South Africa, thus showing where the middleweight has hidden himself of late. He writes: "The country is overrun with fighters, and I think that, after October, fighting will take a back seat, or be stopped. Bell Hefferman and Bill Dougherty, two Australian middleweights, fight Sept. 5, for the middleweight championship and $2500 a side. I fight the winner for $5000 a side, Oct. 3. Then I shall return to God's country."

Train Wreckers Convicted.

Detroit, Oct. 2.—The second trial of John C. Bodewig and William H. Johnson resulted, yesterday, in a verdict of guilty against both defendants. They were tried for conspiring, with others, to obstruct the passage of the United States mail. On July 16, 1894, an express train was derailed two miles west of Battle Creek. One rail was found to have been moved, and spiked fast a foot out of the line. The fireman of the train was killed in the accident.

MOTHERS MUST GUIDE.

Should Watch the Physical Development of Their Daughters.

Information They Should Furnish at the Proper Time—Knowledge by Which Suffering May Be Avoided.

Every mother possesses information of vital value to her young daughter. When the girl's thoughts become sluggish, with headache, dizziness, and a disposition to sleep, pains in back and lower limbs, eyes dim, desire for solitude, and a dislike to the society of children: when she is a mystery to herself and friends, then, her mother should come to her aid.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will, at this time, prepare the system for the coming change. See that she has it, and Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., will cheerfully answer any letters where information is desired. Thousands of women owe their health to her and the Vegetable Compound, and mothers are constantly applying to her for advice regarding their daughters.

The Social Realm.

Oh, sweet and fair the autumn day.
When brown October slowly fills
The woods and vales with purpling mists,
And shadows linger on the hills!
Along the woodland paths the leaves
Drop, silent tokens, at our feet;
So sun and frost make Nature's mood;
God gives the bitter with the sweet.

To be strictly up-to-date she must have a sash for every gown, with the exception of her tailor-made costumes. Her collection will not be considered complete unless she has at least three velvet sashes—one in black, one in some dark shade to match a certain frock and another in a delicate tint to wear with an evening gown.

QUINCY DECEIVED.

Led to Expect Better Things From New Timetable.

But the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. Is Blind to Its Own Interest.

None of the Requests for Better Service Granted by the Road.

Quincy, which waited impatiently for the regular fall change of the timetable of the N. Y., N. H., & H. R. R., has been grievously wronged by the management of the railroad who seem blind to the needs of the city and to their own interests.

The murmurings of an outraged people has frequently burst forth, but there has been no organized effort to get redress except through a special committee of the City Council.

This committee waited upon the officials of the road, and were told that if they would return home and submit in writing the changes desired they would receive consideration. This the committee did, but the communication was undoubtedly pigeon-holed with little or no thought, for none of the asked for changes have been made.

Quincy, which years ago had 33 or 34, or more trains to Boston, now has but 24 each way, identically the same as Wollaston and practically the same as Norfolk Downs and stations on the Milton branch.

Quincy is not wholly a chamber for the city of Boston. It employes men who reside in neighboring towns. It is a business centre, a street railway centre for seven routes, the seat of the East Norfolk district court for seven or more towns which convenes daily, probate court for Norfolk county convenes here, political conventions are held here, the City Council, School Committee and other city boards meet here, etc. Our business men whose time is often precious are disgusted when in Boston, if they have to wait nearly an hour for a train after concluding their business.

The city from the fact that it is on the main line of the railroad, and an adjoining city to Boston, and the amount of travel, is entitled to better service, not only more trains but more cars. It should have at least 40 trains a day each way: 15 minute time during the busy parts of the day and half hourly at other times.

Lynn on the Boston & Maine railroad, 12 miles from Boston, has 65 trains to Boston, and a station like West Lynn has 30. Swampscott, which is beyond has 35, Salem 43, and Beverly 18 miles from Boston 33.

Quincy Changes.

There is one less outward train and that an express, shortly after 6 P. M. The other changes are slight, the 7 32 and 8.32 A. M. trains inward running two minutes later, the 5.16 P. M. at 5.12, and the 8.12 and 10.12 each two minutes earlier.

There is one less Sunday train to Boston too, but they are much better distributed. In the afternoon the trains will run almost hourly whereas there is now a long wait between 1.45 and 4.11. But there is need of a train between 6.08 and 9.08.

The first outward train for Quincy will leave Boston on week days one minute earlier, and the 5.14 P. M. train will be run at 5.12. The 6.14 and 6.16 are consolidated in the 6 12 which runs express in fifteen mintes.

On Sunday the outward trains will run on a new schedule almost hourly. There will be one more train than at present too.

The Quincy Adams changes on week days are slight, except the loss of the outward express at 6 14 which will be greatly missed.

Wollaston profits the most by the new timetable, receiving two additional expresses each way; inward at 7.33 and 8.33 A. M. and outward at 5.15 and 6.15. The other changes on week days are slight. On Sundays the number of trains remain the same but there are radical changes both ways.

Norfolk Downs gets a new train to Boston on week days at 5.18, and receives additional Sunday trains both ways.

Atlantic will lose three trains on week days to Boston, viz., the 8.35 A. M. which is dropped, the 8.20 and 8.24 which are consolidated in the 8.16, and the 10 20 and 10.24 which are consolidated in the 10.16.

Both the new trains stop at Neponset, Popes Hill and Harrison Square only. The Sunday service is entirely new, and there is an increase of two trains.

The outward trains to Atlantic which run accommodation are all two minutes earlier. The 8.20 and 10.20 P. M. trains are dropped. The Sunday schedule is revised.

West Quincy and East Milton will lose two evening trains to Boston at 8.16. and 10.16. There will continue to be two inward Sunday trains but one will be at noon instead of night.

SAVED FROM THE SURGEON'S KNIFE

P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, Saves a Man From Becoming a Cripple.

Mr. Asa Ammons, a well-known citizen of Jacksonville, Florida, was afflicted by a terrible ulcer. Medical skill seemed unavailing in stopping the ravages of the terrible disease. The leg was swollen and intensely painful, as the ulcer had eaten its way down to the very bone. All medicines and treatments having failed to effect a cure, the doctors said the leg must come off. Just when it seemed that Mr. Ammons would become a disabled and a crippled man, he tried P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and the result was wonderful.

P. P. P. SAVES HIS LEG.

"Jacksonville, Fla., July 1, 1895.—Two years ago I had the worst ulcer on my leg I ever saw. It had eaten down to the bone, and my whole leg below my knee, and my foot was swollen and inflamed. The bone was swollen and painful, and discharged a most offensive matter. My physicians said I had necrosis of the bone, and my leg would have to come off. At this stage I commenced to take P. P. P. and to bathe my leg with hot castile soap suds. It began to improve at once and healed rapidly, and is to-day a sound and useful leg.

"I think P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, is all a man could ask for as a blood purifier, as I have known it to cure so meterrible cases of blood poisoning in a remarkably short time.

"ASA AMMONS."

TERRIBLE BLOOD POISON.

The body covered with sores—two bottles of P. P. P. made a positive and permanent cure. This is only one of many thousand similar cases.

Catarrh yields at once to P. P. P. That smothered feeling at night, that heavy feeling in the day—can and should be removed; P. P. P. will do it if you only give it a chance.

Indigestion and constipation go hand in hand. Headaches and total loss of appetite are the results. Regulate yourself and tone up your stomach with P. P. P.

HER VOYAGE DELAYED.

Steamer Roman Refuses to Budge From Her Mud Bank Bed.

Stern Partially Blocks Waterway to Boston.

Small Boat Played a Part In the Grounding of the Big Vessel.

Boston, Oct. 3.—The Roman, a big four-masted steamer plying on the Warren line, started out of port well freighted yesterday afternoon, with the intention of bringing up at Liverpool, but instead, she came to a full stop on a mud bank at one end of Fort Warren.

She stopped moving toward the mother country a little after 5 o'clock, and lay with the whole length of her keel aground all night. A half dozen tugs hitched up to the Roman directly after she grounded, and almost wrenched themselves apart trying to haul her off, but she failed to budge.

The only way out of the difficulty appeared to be to get the cattle out with lighters and allow the ship to rise about a foot, and this is what a force of men started to do in the small hours of this morning.

She was in charge of Frank Fowler, one of the most experienced pilots in the harbor. As usual, the vessel proceeded at half speed, reaching the upper end of the Narrows shortly before 5 o'clock. The weather, though somewhat misty, did not prevent a range of vision, so that as the steamer rounded the Nix's Mate gas buoy Bug light, at the lower end of the channel, could be easily distinguished. The channel, however, for nearly a mile, is only 700 feet wide, and between Bug light and Fort Warren makes a turn to the northeast, and thence leads straight out to sea by Boston light. At the turn on the port side, near Bug light, a big dredger has been at work all summer, and vessels coming up and down have had to be extremely careful in passing through the narrow gut. The shore of George's island, opposite Bug light, is composed of huge boulders, and makes an ugly resting place for any ship.

The Roman, at this point, met a small vessel coming up before a light easterly wind, and the pilot swung the big steamer to starboard, on the George's island side. From some unexplained reason, the vessel refused to answer her helm when it was thrown over, and drove, head first, in the George's island shore.

At the time, the tug Triton was coming up the lighthouse channel with three barges, but immediately dropped them and proceeded to the assistance of the Roman. A big steel hawser was gotten overboard to the tug, and with the assistance of the Kate Jones, another tug, the two, with the steamer's propeller churning hard back, tried for two hours to pull the Roman off, but she would not budge an inch, and with the receding tide the officers reluctantly gave up hope of getting her off for the present.

The Leyland liner Lancastrian went ashore almost in the same place three years ago, and nearly all her entire cargo had to be removed before she came off. Shipping men do not anticipate that the Roman will meet the fate of the Venetian and prove a total wreck, but they all admit it will take some time to lighten her so that she will come off. The steamer is in a perfectly safe place so far as a heavy storm is concerned.

The Roman is 405 feet long, and was built in Birkenhead, Eng., in 1884, by Laird Bros. She is owned by the British and North Atlantic Steamship company, Richard Mills & Co. of Liverpool being her agents. She is chartered by Warren & Co., and has been plying between Boston and Liverpool for 10 years.

Another unfortunate fact connected with the grounding of the Roman is that as her stern is well out into the channel it nearly blocks the waterway at this point, and as a large number of large steamers sail from this port today, including the Cunarder Catalonia, nearly all will have great difficulty in getting past. The Roman carried no passengers, being used exclusively for freight.

It is rumored about the water front that the real cause of the grounding of the Roman on George's island was the fact that the pilot swung the vessel well over to the starboard, to avoid passing over sunken ledges, which had been filled with dynamite. A dredger, which was on the left side of the channel, has been blowing up these ledges all summer, and this week was preparing for another blast. Pilot Fowler knew this and kept off, while a small boat coming up the channel hindered him still further, and the steamer grounded. Neither officers of the ship nor the pilot will affirm or deny the story. The latter states that he will not say anything until he appears before the pilot commissioners.

So the Money Went Back.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 3. — Chief of Police Raymond received a telegram from Riley Grannan, dated New York, yesterday, asking the chief to go to the 4 o'clock train from New York and find Ralph Harris and send him back to New York. Grannan explained that he got a telegram in the morning asking him to send several thousand dollars to Boston by wire, waiving identification. The signature was well known to Grannan, but the request looked suspicious, and he took the precaution to send the money by Harris, who was found on the train. He started back immediately. Grannan's telegram said a plot to rob Harris in Boston had been discovered.

A Skowhegan Scandal.

Skowhegan, Me., Oct. 3.—A suit has been brought by Otis McDonald against Frank R. Whitten, the former alleging that the latter has alienated his wife's affections, and seeking to recover $3000 damages. Whitten has been twice married, and has a daughter 6 years old, the result of the second union. He resides with his only sister. His father carried on the tannery business in this town for many years, amassing a considerable fortune. Whitten is a prominent Odd Fellow. McDonald is a teamster. His wife is young, stylish and good looking.

Will Pay Their Own Way.

Boston, Oct. 3.—In view of the fact that so much criticism has been made regarding the proposed trip of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company to Baltimore, and the raising by the city council of that city of the amount appropriated for the entertainment of the visitors, Colonel Walker, the commander of the Boston company, telegraphed to Baltimore last night that the company would pay all expenses while in Baltimore. The original amount appropriated was $600, but the Baltimore city council increased the sum to $6000, by taking $5400 from the school fund.

Contractors Signing Agreement.

Boston, Oct. 3.—The strike of the garment operators and pressers continues, but hopes are enteratined that the end is near. Six contractors were reported last night at headquarters as having signed the agreement and filed the necessary bond. This makes a large hole in the number of unemployed this morning. It was stated that at least seven more will concede to demands today. The opposition anticipated is not, after all, so widespread, and whatever may be the incentive, the most of the contractors are said to be favorably inclined. Unless something unlooked for occurs there will be, it is claimed, a more encouraging situation manifested at once.

Sheriff Ringney Bested.

Naugatuck, Conn., Oct. 3.—One of the most brutal prize fights which has taken place in this section of late was pulled off at Boulder Grove last night, in the presence of about 200 people. Six rounds were boxed, when the appearance of Sheriff Rigney put the party to flight. The principals were Daniel Murphy and James Lynch. The men were matched for $50 a side for eight rounds, with four ounce gloves. Both men had been fighting fiercely, and Lynch would have been knocked out. Both men were badly punished.

Amesbury's Coaching Parade.

Amesbury, Mass., Oct. 3.—Three thousand visitors from all parts of northern Massachusetts witnessed the carriage and coaching parade here yesterday. The awards were as follows: Tallyhos and brakes, Winnesquam Boat club of Amesbury, first; West Newbury tallyho, second; G. F. Richard's, Haverhill, third. Prizes were also given for the best four passenger traps, singles and pony carts.

Damages Placed at High Figures.

Providence, Oct. 3.—Herbert E. Maine, a grocer, has been sued for libel by Herbert E. Horton, who says he has been damaged to the extent of $30,000. Maine had to give a bond for $60,000 for his appearance at the time set for the trial in the case. The trouble arises out of some litigation between the parties that occupied the attention of the municipal court the past summer.

Driver Boyse Acquitted.

Willimantic, Conn., Oct. 3.—Frank R. Boyse, the driver of Prairie Lillie, who won a free-for-all Thursday, was acquitted in the police court, yesterday, on the charge of abusing the horse by using a chain lash. He was arrested immediately after the race by City Sheriff Hill. The trial lasted over five hours, during which the prosecution presented 12 witnesses.

The Latest In Clubs.

South Framingham, Mass., Oct. 3.—A grandson club, composed of grandsons of the soldiers of the American Revolution who went out from Framingham, has been formed for the obtaining of information concerning their ancestors and their comrades, for establishing and continuing a regard of their memories, and for mutual pleasure and profit.

Plenty of Work Ahead.

Suncook, N. H., Oct. 3.—Notice has been given out that the China, Webster and Pembroke Manufacturing companies will run their mills the full 60 hours, beginning next week. Three weeks ago these mills began running 40 hours, after four weeks' shutdown. Business men and employes are much elated over the news.

Easily Drowned.

Methuen, Mass., Oct. 3.—George Crowther, a 17-months-old son of Sutcliffe Crowther, of this town, was found drowned in a tub of water in a back room in his home yesterday. There was less than three inches of water in the tub, and the child was found head downward. It is supposed that he fell in while at play.

Husband Deserted Her.

Portland, Me., Oct. 3.—Mrs. Charlotte Holick, the wife of John Holick, a traveling jewelry salesman, complained at the police station last night that her husband had robbed her of $745, and had run away. The police are looking for the man, who has left his wife destitute and alone.

Dwindling Away.

Amesbury, Mass., Oct. 3.—The Hilton will contest will be heard in the supreme court next week. The estate has shrunk to $70,000, which will probably lessen the bequest of $50,000 to the poor of the town of Salisbury, for which Amesbury and Salisbury are contesting.

Short of Spare Cash.

New York, Oct. 3.—The side bet of $10,000, made by Corbett and Fitzsimmons when they agreed to fight for the championship, has been reduced to $5000 a side. This change was brought about at the request of Corbett, who admitted to Fitzsimmons and his representatives that, owing to the fact of much of his money being tied up, he was unable to conveniently get together the $10,000 required, and so he desired the reduction named. This was assented to by Fitzsimmons.

Grannan Steps Out.

New York, Oct. 3.—Riley Grannan has sent in his resignation as a member of the Metropolitan Turf association. The resignation was accepted by the association yesterday. Grannan's leaving was voluntary. He told his friends that his ruling off by the Jockey club might put the association in an embarrassing position.

DON'T MEAN BUSINESS.

Senator Hoar's Opinion Regarding English Bimetallists' Attitude.

Willing to Have America Pull Chestnuts From Fire.

Many Favor Gold Because It Helps to Further Enrich England.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 3.—Senator George F. Hoar has arrived in this city, and is looking in excellent health and in the best of spirits. He is ready to take an active part in the campaign, but his itinerary is not arranged as yet. He had hoped to land early enough to attend Thursday's convention. He said yesterday:

SENATOR HOAR.

"I have had an opportunity of seeing a good many of the prominent English bimetallists, and of conversing with a considerable number of persons who are very important and influential leaders in the party now in power in England. There is undoubtedly a very strong opinion in England, which is eager for the restoration of silver to its place by the side of gold as a standard of value, a legal tender and a servant of national and international trade and commerce as currency.

"I suppose, indeed I think I know, that this is the opinion of a majority of the present cabinet. Perhaps they would not think it wise that England should open her own mints to the free coinage of silver, even if there were an agreement of all the other commercial nations to do the same. They think that might result in the drainage of their gold to the east. But they would at least favor the reopening of the Indian mints, but requiring the Bank of England to keep a large portion of its reserve in silver, and perhaps the discontinuance of the use of notes under the denomination of £10, with the result that their place in circulation would be very considerably supplied by silver.

"It is well known that a large majority of the French assembly have passed a resolution within a few months expressing the desire of France to co-operate in such a step, and there is a large party in Germany of the same way of thinking. Monsieur Meline, the present prime minister, declared in his speech, of which I have a copy, that whenever the other nations were willing to take that step, they would not have to wait for France.

"But there is in England considerable difficulty in the matter. Leaders of the opposition, Sir William Vernon Harcourt especially, and Mr. Gladstone, who, although out of office, is still a great political force, take the brutal view that so long as other countries owe England an indebtedness, estimated by some persons as high as $10,000,000,000, that everything that increases the volume of the coin in which the debt is to be paid is a clear gain to her. The administration is timid, and, although a majority of the administration are bimetallists, they would encounter some opposition among themselves, and they do not like to encounter the banking and investing classes in the city of London.

"So it does not seem to me that English bimetallists mean business. They seem to be rather willing the United States should take the risk of pulling this chestnut out of the fire rather than have England do it herself. They are not ready to say to the administration: 'If you do not do what we want in this matter we will not support your administration.' At the same time, in spite of this obstacle, I believe that Mr. McKinley can, if his administration be wise, effect an international agreement which will remove this vexatious question from our politics.

"I do not think any large number of sincere bimetallists, either in this country or England, tolerate for a moment the plan of having the United States establish the free coinage of silver, at the ratio of 16 to 1, or at any other ratio, without the co-operation of other nations."

WATSON AND BUTLER.

Vice Presidential Candidate Won't Submit to Chairman's Government.

Washington, Oct. 3.—It is well known here that Watson does not like Chairman Marion Butler, whom he rightfully regards as his rival for the leadership of the People's party, and for its nomination to the presidency in 1900.

Chairman Butler, naturally, does not like Watson, and, while compelled by his position to publicy support him, he has snubbed him privately and severely in the attempt to arrange for the election of Bryan by fusion in the different states between the Populists and the Democrats, against which Watson, as he announced in his newspaper yesterday, in an editorial attack on Chairman Butler, protested in writing, declaring "that no Populist could conscientiously vote for a single Sewall elector any more than he could vote for a Hobart elector."

"Mr. Butler," proceeds Candidate Watson, "has ignored Mr. Watson's protest and gone steadily forward on his own line," and later he adds: 'Mr. Watson's position has been humiliating and embarrassing, and he has been compelled to submit to policies he did not approve."

This frank statement reveals publicly what has been known here, and is doubtless the result of the message which Chairman Butler sent to Watson by Populist National Committeeman Reed of Georgia, who came here last week to talk with Mr. Butler, and yesterday reported to Watson and his friends at Atlanta.

Evidently, Reed took Watson's word that Chairman Butler proposed to go right on trying to elect Bryan, and that he wished him to stop talking and writing in a way that would interfere with that purpose of the Populist national committee. This evidently angered Watson still more, so that he burst forth in his paper yesterday. This editorial shows that Watson does not longer propose to submit to Butler's government, and he is expected to do more as he pleases hereafter, and whatever he does will hurt the chances of Bryan. In his editorial Watson defines his positon as follows:

"He is for a straight "Middle of the Road" ticket. In no other way can the Democratic managers be forced to abide by the St. Louis contract."

This indicates, it is believed here, that he will withdraw from supporting Bryan, even if he does not withdraw himself, and will demand that a "Middle of the Road" Populist, preferably himself, shall be nominated for president, and another "Middle of the Road" Populist shall be nominated for vice president by the Populist national committee, which has authority, under the plenary power given it by the Populist convention, to make any change it pleases.

Chairman Butler and the other Populist managers, if such a demand is made, will drop Watson rather than Bryan. They have all along ignored the "Middle of the Road" element, and have proceeded on the line of policy which they adopted at St. Louis, to combine with the Democrats for the election of Bryan. All the fusion arrangements, which now cover practically all the states in which they were desired by Chairman Butler, were made with this idea, and will be maintained.

Spoke In Three States.

Cincinnati, Oct. 3.—William J. Bryan addressed three big meetings in this city last night. He then crossed to the Kentucky shore and spoke to a great assemblage at Covington. It was a close to a most eventful day. From dawn to dusk the nominee sped across West Virginia, from Charleston to the Ohio river, stopping and speaking at almost every town of consequence, and then along the Kentucky banks to this city. Arriving here at 6.45 o'clock, he was met by a local committee and the members of the Duckworth club, and was driven to the Hotel Gibson. Almost immediately afterward a procession was formed to Music hall, where the first, and the biggest meeting of the night was held. At the conclusion of his speech there, he addressed two other successive meetings from stands erected at street corners, to gratify the thousands who could not gain entrance to the hall. Then he visited Covington. The vast hall was so thickly packed with people that it was next to impossible to move. Even the aisles were clogged with standing men and women. In the beginning was started what looked like an attempt to break up the meeting, but it was quickly suppressed, and thereafter the candidate's utterances were greeted with enthusiasm. Mr. Bryan came upon the stage at 8 o'clock, and the ovation that greeted his entrance continued, without abatement, for eight minutes. When the applause had subsided, Louis Remlen, who acted as chairman of the meeting, attempted to introduce Mr. Bryan, but the gallery would not permit him to talk. Gustave Tafel then tried to get something like order, but with no better success. Eventually Mr. Bryan stepped to the stand and raised his hand in a mute appeal for silence. For a moment he was successful, but at the end of his first sentence the noise in the upper part of the house was renewed, and he was obliged to resume his wait. Then Olway H. Cosgrove pointed out as the chief offenders three men in one of the balconies, and asked the police to remove them. In doing so he characterized them as blackguards, and entreated the rest of the audience to give Mr. Bryan fair play as a fellow American citizen. This effectually silenced the crowd, and after the trio of belligerents had been summarily removed, Mr. Bryan went on with his speech.

How Watson Feels.

Atlanta, Oct. 3.—Thomas E. Watson, vice presidential candidate, will neither affirm nor deny the report that he contemplates retiring from the Populist ticket. He says that he has no comment to make as to published reports further than to state that his retirement would defeat Bryan, because the "Middle of the Road" Populists would vote for McKinley before they would vote for Sewall. Watson says he has been badly treated in fusion arrangements which have been made south and west. If he contemplates any move he will not announce it until after the Georgia state election next week.

Kentucky Claimed For McKinley.

Louisville, Oct. 3.—The Republicans have completed a poll of the state, which puts Kentucky in the Republican column by a small majority. The poll shows these figures: Republican defection, 8000; gain from Democrats, 10,000; net gain, 2000; total McKinley vote, 173,000; Palmer and Puckner vote, 12,000; Democratic defection to McKinley, 10,000; total loss, 22,000; Republicans for Bryan, 8000; net loss, 14,000; total Silver Democratic vote, 150,000; Populists for Bryan, 20,000; total Bryan vote, 170,000; McKinley's plurality, 3000.

Bryan Wasn't Assaulted.

Wheeling, Oct. 3.—Careful investigation fails to substantiate the story sent out from here that there was an attempt to assault William J. Bryan by an unknown man in this city, Thursday night. There is absolutely no foundation for the story. As a matter of fact, Mr. Bryan was treated with the greatest courtesy and respect by men of all parties during his visit here, and there was no unpleasant incident whatever to mar the success of the meeting.

Hanna Makes a Speech.

New York, Oct. 3.—Mark Hanna spoke at yesterday's meeting of the Commercial Travelers' league. "McKinley," said he, "has said that politics is business and business is politics. If ever this was true it is true in this campaign. It is our business to protect our homes and our property. It is our business to protect the honor and integrity of our country."

For the Temple Cup.

Baltimore, Oct. 3.—The first game of the Temple cup series of 1896 was played at Union park yesterday, and after a remarkably brilliant exhibtion, was placed to the credit of the Champions by the score of 7 to 1. The weather conditions were most favorable, but only 3995 paid their entrance fee to the grounds.

A woman's noblest work is helping a baby into life and health. She is committing a crime when she helps a sickly baby into the world. It is a crime because it is wholly within her power to make the baby strong and healthy. She can do it by the proper preparation—by taking proper care of herself during the period of gestation. Many babies die early, or at birth, or are sickly all their lives because of their mothers' ignorance or neglect. Neither is excusable.

Every woman may be strong and well, and so insure the health of her baby. If she will take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription during the period of gestation, she will find that she will have none of the discomforts incident to this condition, and that parturition will be free from danger, and comparatively free from suffering. This medicine is the greatest remedy in the world for all the forms of weakness or disease peculiar to women. It is the only medicine of its kind prepared by a regularly graduated, experienced and skilled specialist in the treatment of diseases of women. It is the only medicine in the world that will make the coming of baby safe and easy. You can get it at the drug stores. If you want to know all about it, address Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

All those who suffer from biliousness, headaches, heart-burn, flatulence, palpitation of the heart, and a generally sluggish action of the digestive organs should take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules. Forty in a little vial. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative; two a mild cathartic. By druggists.

Puritana Patients

Why They Take Puritana.

WHY THEY GET WELL.

The proof does it.

That is why people begin to take Puritana.

People find that their neighbors have tried it.

Their friends have tried it.

Men and women in every walk of life have tried it.

A man suffers.

Perhaps he has suffered for years.

He has tried many things.

They have all failed.

He reads a Puritana testimonial.

He reads another.

He sees new ones wherever he looks.

Some of the writers are in his own town.

Some in his own business.

Some he can see.

Some he can write to.

Some have been cured of his own ailment.

Some of other ailments.

All are grateful.

All are glad to tell suffering people how Puritana gave them relief.

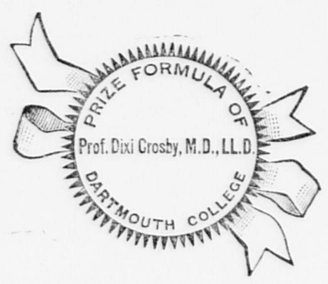
They are approachable folks, and their voluntary testimonials count.

Some live in town.

Some in the country.

Some hold office.

Some vote.



But all are honest and sincere.

That is why any one can prove for himself the genuineness of Puritana cures.

Puritana patients get well.

This is a fact.

There are reasons for it.

Puritana is the discovery of Prof. Dixi Crosby.

He was the greatest New Hampshire physician of his day.

He was at the head of the Dartmouth Medical College for a generation.

He used common sense, and found that disease or health came to the body through the stomach.

He scientifically compounded a stomach medicine from the harmless products of nature.

This is Puritana.

It makes the stomach right.

That is why it makes the health right.

With a sound stomach no one can help being well.

That is why Puritana patients get well.

Chemists say that Puritana is a good medicine.

They also say it is well made.

The materials are the purest and best that money can buy.

Druggists say it is a good medicine.

Their customers buy it and are more than satisfied with its effects.

What the people say about Puritana you have read before, and you will read again.

The thousands of Puritana cures are becoming better known every day.

The patients are real people.

The cures are real cures.

They can be proven in court.

They can be proven by any medical society.

They have been proven before the tribunal of Public Opinion.

The Passing of the Hat.

Though the red rose slowly crumbles
On the stringlet of the lath,
And no more the bumble bumbles
Down the sunny garden path,
Though the lights and shades are shifting
Where the butterflies repair,
And the thistle down is drifting
Here and there and otherwhere,
Oh, I know fall's clouds are massing
And the turkey's waxing fat
By the pathos of the passing
Of the white straw hat!

Not the patter of the chestnut
That the nimble squirrel hoards,
Though I know it is the best nut
That the market now affords,
Quite assures me that the season
Of the pumpkin pie is here.
There's a deeper, subtler reason,
With no reference to beer,
Nor the orator who's gassing
While the crowd goes pitapat—
'Tis the pathos of the passing
Of the white straw hat!

Oh, I'm feeling glum and glummer,
And no sentiment of glee
Thrills me when I dream of summer
By the sobbing, bobbing sea,
For that dream revives Matilda,
And the golden haired Elaine,
And the blue eyed little Hilda,
And the freckled Mary Jane!
Oh, my grief there's no outclassing,
For they've flown, I'm sure of that
By the pathos of the passing
Of the white straw hat!

Ex-Diplomat Says Russia Plays a Double Game In Turkey.

Three Refugees Tell a Most Interesting Story

Of Wholesale Massacre by Turks and Kurds In Two Armenian Cities.

New York, Oct. 1.—Oscar S. Straus, ex-minister of the United States to Constantinople, in talking to a reporter for the New York Times about the Armenian situation, said: "Turkey is as putty in the hands of the great powers, provided they are agreed. The fact is, she could not successfully resist any one of them, provided that one had not to fear the opposition of the others. The power that has taken the most advantage of that fact is Russia, and a careful study of the terrible conflicts between the Turkish troops and the Armenians, with their attendant atrocities, from the Zeitoom massacre a year ago, to the present day, will reveal the Mephistophelean hand of Russia directing it all. She sets the Turkish empire afire, and immediately rushes to the sultan with buckets of water to put it out, and the sultan, in gratitude, throws himself in the arms of the czar as his protector from the other European powers.

"If the diplomacy of the other European powers that are not allied with Russia had succeeded in opening the eyes of the sultan to this double game of Russia, many, if not all, of the horrors we have read about during the last year and a half would have been avoided. Russia does not propose, if she can help it, to permit England to act the humanitarian part in protecting the Christians of the Ottoman empire. That character in the play she has reserved for herself, as she did following the Bulgarian massacres. This is her method of carving up Turkey, by appropriating to herself all the good slices. For Great Britain to make a paper wall, as Mr. Gladstone in his speech advises, by withdrawing her ambassadors, is precisely what would suit Russia best. To my mind it would be unworthy of so great a nation as Great Britain in such a crisis as this to take the first step unless she is determined to follow it up with her ironclads and bayonets."

Three women, who claim to have been victims of the Turks in the recent massacres at the Golden Horn, are now at Ellis island. They tell a story of the cruelty of the Turks and Kurds that bears out what has already been told in the cable dispatches.

They give their names as Beizar Malachian, aged 40; Christine, aged 18, and Angele, aged 14. They all speak English, though they are Armenians by birth. The youngest girl tells the story of what her mother, sister and herself claim to have witnessed. The girl also says she speaks Turkish, Armenian, Yeddish, Greek (modern), Syrian, French and English, the latter with a strong Scottish accent. The youngest girl alleges that she was a teacher in the Scottish mission at Constantinople, and when the massacres commenced they were at a village named Haskeny, about three-quarters of an hour by steamer from Stamboul. They had gone there to spend their vacation.

"About four weeks ago," said the girl, "we heard that the Kurds were coming and we all hid away in the cisterns and under the roofs of the houses. My mother, my aunt, my sister and myself were in a cistern for three days. Then the women got out and hid under the tiles of a roof. We next went to the house of an English lady, and from there got away and came to New York. The Turks and Kurds rushed into the houses and killed all the Armenian males they could find. The soldiers used sticks and stones, and beat the men to death. The boys they tied up by the feet and told the mothers and sisters of them that all males ought to be hanging that way. The soldiers did not touch the women, though they insulted them with words. They said the sultan had so ordered it. When we left the village we had only a slight covering, and our slippers were wet with the blood that ran down the streets. Five hundred males were killed in Haskeny and 300 in Stamboul. The soldiers insulted the American flag, saying that that flag had no savior in that country. The day before the massacre began the Spanish Jews went through the village and put a red mark on the doors of Armenians. Some Armenian young men put red marks on the houses of the Jews, and a lot of them were killed. The Jews are the cause of the trouble to the Armenians. All the property we had they took and destroyed, and they burned up our clothing. The people hid in the churches, but the soldiers followed them and killed the men."

The three women are going to Worcester, Mass., where a son of Mrs. Malachian resides. He works in a factory there.

Pretty Close to Palace.

Habana, Oct. 1.—The large warehouse of Martinez Duran, which is opposite the captain general's palace, was burned last night. The fire was caused by an explosion of petroleum stored on the premises. The report of the explosion created much alarm, the first thought being it was caused, with hostile intent, by agents of the insurgents, and that it might be an attempt on the palace itself.

Miners Lose Heavily.

San Francisco, Oct. 1.—Mexican mine owners state that the terrible storm which recently swept the west coast of Mexico has played havoc with the mining interests around Candeleria and San Demar, where the most active work in the republic has been conducted for several years. The damage to mining property will aggregate $250,000.

A Pacific Flyer.

San Francisco, Oct. 1.—The Pacific steamship China arrived yesterday from Hong Kong and Yokohama, two days ahead of time, breaking the trans-Pacific record between Yokohama and San Francisco, and lowering the record of the fastest steamers of all lines between San Francisco and Honolulu.

Gold May Get a Test.

London, Oct. 1.—A financial article in The Times assumes that the export demand for gold for the United States has almost ceased, the rise in the price of cotton tending to check immediate large purchases.

YOUTHS' DEPARTMENT.

Foolish Pattypan, or the Career of a Mischievous Monkey—A Very Interesting Building.

"Pattypan, you are the worst monkey in the whole forest. You will get into dreadful trouble some day," said his mother.

"Now listen," said his father. "You are to give up your wild pranks and not to wander away so far."

Pattypan looked up saucily, sprang into the nearest tree and was out of sight in a moment. "I shall please myself," he said sulkily, when he had reached a safe distance. "I'm not a baby, and there is no danger for a monkey who keeps his eyes open."

So just to show how little he cared he traveled on and on until he reached the seashore. There he saw a sailor who had been wrecked in a storm the day before. He was now trying to open a large chest which had been washed up. When he had opened it, he turned away in disgust, for it was full of boys' jackets. He went slowly up the beach and lay down to sleep under the trees.

Soon Pattypan slipped down from his tree, and running to the box he began to turn over its contents. He was very pleased with the buttons and was so busy trying to pull them off that he did not see the sailor was awake until he was quite close. Then Pattypan tried to run away, but he had got his legs into the sleeve of a jacket, and before he could free himself he was caught. It was no use for him to bite and scratch and kick.

"No, no, you rascal, you shall go with me now," said the sailor. And tying a piece of string round his waist he tucked him under his arm and walked off with him. Then how Pattypan wished he had listened to his father, but it was too late now.

When, after some months, they reached England, Pattypan was sold and was so kindly treated in his new home that he grew quite happy again. But he also began to grow mischievous, and at last his friends were obliged to send him to the "zoo." Here he is well fed and kindly treated, but his only comfort is in telling long stories to the other monkeys of the beautiful forest home which he will never see again.

An Interesting Building.

A visit to the famous Mormon tabernacle which is used for public worship and is daily open to visitors is described by one of the latter in Sunbeam's Young People.

An old man is always on duty to show you about, and this is what he will say as you come in: "Good morning! Very wonderful building this, very wonderful. The roof is without center supports. No other like it of its size in the world. Seats 9,000 comfortably; will hold 11,000. There you see the great organ made of native woods."

After we have seen this organ, which at the time of its erection was the largest in the United States, and have looked at the curious roof which makes the building resemble a huge turtle we wend our way to the gallery at the far end of the room. The obliging official then says: "We are now nearly 200 feet apart. I'll whisper to you." (Whispers) "What state are you from?"

You hear his voice with startling distinctness and assure him of the fact. "Very wonderful whispering gallery, you see. Now I'll rub my hands." He rubs them briskly, and you hear a harsh, swishing sound. We express entire satisfaction with these acts; then he says, "Now I'll drop a pin on this railing." The pin falls with a clicking sound, and we assure him that the acoustic properties are certainly remarkable.

Baby's Evening Song.

Now the little white sheep,
Now the little black sheep,
They have all gone to sleep
In the fold.

Nothing is black,
Nothing is white,
When the kind old night
Hides them all out of sight
In the fold.

And the little chickens, too,
Must do as little lambs do—
They must go to sleep
In the fold.

Nothing is hungry,
Nothing is cold
When it once goes to sleep
In the fold.

And the sweet, bright things
That fly about on wings,
Round the fields and through the skies,
They have shut their cunning eyes
And have all gone to rest
In the nest.

And the little children, too,
Must do as the little birds do—
They must all go to rest
In the nest.

Nothing unkind
Can the baby find
When she goes to rest
In the nest.

New Inventions In Warfare.

Just as soon as any new invention becomes very useful to the general public the different governments begin to apply it to the needs of their armies, as is explained in the New York Times. It has been proved in actual warfare that balloons can do spying work that men cannot and messengers from a besieged city carrying valuable word to other headquarters can glide in a balloon by night over the heads of the surrounding army without detection. A late adaptation of two things very much in common use now is the typewriter bicycle. This is a typewriter mounted on a wheel specially made for the purpose and which, ridden by the operator, enables his services to be quickly available. A wheel can follow an army almost anywhere.

Light, Yet Heavy.

"Your honor," said a lawyer in a recent trial in England, "the argument of my learned friend is lighter than vanity. It is air; it is smoke. From top to bottom it is absolutely nothing. And therefore, your honor, it falls to the ground by its own weight."

DIPHTHERIA.

Clare Boy Dead—Many Cadets on Enterprise Afflicted.

William Clare, eldest son of Mr. James P. Clare of Edison street, died at the Boston City hospital this morning of malignant diphtheria. The circumstances of the young man's death are such as to arouse a deep interest on the part of the public and intense sympathy by the people of Quincy for the bereaved parents.

Master Clare sailed from Boston last May as a cadet on the Massachusetts training ship Enterprise, and the ship was out but a few weeks when many of the cadets complained of sore throats. The ship's physician, Dr. Alcott, pronounced it tonsilitis, but at Southampton, an examination by the English surgeon revealed one bad case of diphtheria. The cadet afflicted was treated in the Southampton hospital, and was discharged in a short time as cured.

The officers of the ship, it is alleged by many of the cadets, did not bestir themselves, even when the true state of affairs was made known to them, and used no precautionary measures for the further safety of the ship's crew.

From Southampton the ship went to various continental ports and finally reached Madiera in the early part of August, departing from there on the homeward voyage on the twenty-second of the month.

Soon after leaving Madeira a large number of the boys complained of sore throats, and again the doctor pronounced it tonsilitis. The climatic conditions surrounding the vessel and the unusual tempestuous weather undoubtedly did much to increase the malady, but despite the fact that at least a dozen of the boys were unable to do the work assigned them they were compelled to remain on the watches and to assist the crew on many occasion.

The food furnished was of the very poorest kind, and insufficient in quantity, even if the boys were disposed to eat it. The coffee was not drank but by only a part of the crew, and with all these discomfort, the officers behaved more like demons than men.

When off Hatteras one of the cadets, William Brown of Fairhaven, was in such a pitiable condition that he was ordered to the hospital, and William Clare and four other cadets, all of whom are now in the hospital, were sent to care for him. The doctor and the officers hardly visited the hospital and after a few days sickness the cadet died. His last moments were violent and delirious, and the boys attending him knew well that a proper diagnosis had not been made of his case.

An examination by the post physician, Dr. Shay, showed that William and his four comrades were suffering with the same dread disease, and they were consequently sent to the hospital. Master Clare's case was the most malignant of all, and at no time were the doctors hopeful of his recovery. The three days' struggle between life and death ended this morning.

William stood well in his class and in his duties showed an aptitude that gave his father the hope that at the end of his course he would be able to embark profitably and honorably in his chosen profession. He was well liked by his fellow cadets and all of them are filled with sorrow at the unfortunate outcome of their summer's cruise.

Mr. Clare, the father, has threatened an investigation of the doings aboard the ship and it is the earnest hope of the other Quincy parents having boys in the school that he may persist in his determination.

Undertaker Hall took charge of the body and the burial was at Mount Wollaston cemetery at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

OUR STATE LEADS.

In the Value of the Granite Output of the Country.

And Quincy in Turn is Easily First in the State.

Our City has the Advantage Because of Variety of Stock.

The U. S. Department of the Interior has just issued a government document "The Stone Industry in 1895 by William C. Day." Summarizing the report by states, the report says:

"Massachusetts still stands at the head of the list of those producing granite. The reason for this preeminence is mainly that stone of all grades is to be found in the State, from the finest ornamental stock to such material as is adapted only to road metal or paving blocks. The quarrymen can thus adapt themselves to changing demands, as well as to periods of financial depression better than those of other regions in which the stone is restricted to fewer uses. The product in 1894 was valued at $1,994,830, in 1895 at $1,918,894; so that while there has been some decrease, it is not proportionately large. The general complaint of lower prices for paving blocks is very similar to that so liberally made in Maine. As is also the case in Maine, a large number of small quarries have ceased operations entirely for the present, although when business improves they will probably revive."

The following table shows the value of the granite output for 1895 and also the value of paving blocks for the same time by States:

	Granite Product.	Granite Paving.
Massachusetts,	$1,918,894	$496,544
California,	348,806	34,079
Colorado,	35,000	——
Connecticut,	779,361	46,830
Delaware,	73,138	16,556
Georgia,	503,481	252,041
Idaho,	14,560	——
Maine,	1,400,000	636,063
Maryland,	276,029	2,633
Minnesota	148,596	4,800
Missouri	128,987	22,014
Nevada	3,200	——
New Hampshire,	480,000	16 823
New Jersey,	151,343	39,389
New York,	68,474	16,443
North Carolina,	75,000	1,320
Oregon,	1,728	——
Pennsylvania,	300,000	69,503
Rhode Island,	968,473	49,255
South Carolina,	22,083	12,505
South Dakota,	33,279	20 800
Vermont,	1,007,718	30,702
Virginia,	70,426	8,028
Wisconsin,	80,761	17,000
Total,	$8,894,328	$1,773,328

It will be observed that Massachusetts produced over 20 per cent of the granite output of the country, and had no near rival. Also that she produced nearly 30 per cent. of the paving blocks.

The granite output of Massachusetts was not as large however in 1895 as in 1890, 1891 and 1892. In 1891 the output was $2,600,000.

The diagram below shows at a glance the proportion of granite which each state produced in 1895:

DELEGATES CHOSEN.

Little Interest in Democratic Cacuses Last Evening.

Democratic caucuses were held throughout the city last evening to elect delegates to the Representative convention. The attendance of voters was small and there were no contests.

Ward One.

Fred F. Green was chairman and Philip Cook secretary of the Ward One caucus. These delegates were elected: F. F. Green, Philip Cook, Frank Garbarino, Luke J. Coyle, J. E. Dunn, Thomas J. McGrath, William A. Hodges.

Ward Three.

South Quincy Democrats do not know just exactly who they elected as delegates at the caucus Friday evening and a recount may be necessary. This may change the whole complexion of the list below.

Dennis J. Ford was chairman and George D. Cahill, secretary.

The delegates were balloted for, but in writing the names the voters bid not exercise any care as to how the names were written and there were votes for George Cahill, G. D. Cahill, William Kelly, William A. Kelly and William Kelly, 2d, and the caucus officers are in doubt as to just where they are at. If no recount is held the delegates will be as follows: Andrew S. Costa, Dennis P. Donahue, Frank Rafferty, Enos S. Costa, Dennis J. Ford, Andrew W. Howley, Robert J. Lewis, Edward H. McGinty, Thomas Higgins, William Kelly, 2d.

Ward Five

W. P. Chase was chairman of the Wollaston caucus and E. H. Austin Secretary.

Delegates—Edward H. Austin, Edward Twitchell, Charles H. Sargent and David J. Roche.

Ross and Peverley.

The roll-off in the candle and big pins at Costello's alleys for the September tournament was held Friday evening and resulted as follows:

Candles,—Ross, 278; Peverley, 277; Hill, 266; Porter, 227; McLane, 235.

Big pins,—Peverley, 561; Anderson, 474; Lennon, 473; McLane, 463.

The Saturday LEDGER is fast increasing its sales, adding new subscribers from week to week. The society column has become quite a favorite feature causing the paper to be so much sought after that our merchants will find the Saturday issue an exceptionally good one to advertise specialities in.

BRAINTREE.

Rev. Leonard B. Hatch will fill the pulpit at the Baptist church tomorrow afternoon.

D. B. Clossen & Co., and Williams & Kneeland closed their factories Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week that their employes might be able to attend the Brockton fair.

About one o'clock Wednesday morning, night officer Dugan of East Braintree discovered a stranger coming out from the rear of Mr. Freeman Whitmarsh's house. The stranger carried a bundle and the officer asked him to explain, but instead of this the stranger ran. Mr. Duggan fired his pistol which only increased the speed of his man, when the fourth shot had been fired the stranger gave a tremendous yell but continued on his way into Weymouth, where after a long chase the officer lost sight of him. It is thought that this may be the man that has been stealing of late in Weymouth. Officer Dugan evidently needs a shot gun.

The Thayer Academy Foot Ball Team will play Dean Academy at Franklin this afternoon. Dean is said to be strong; and an interesting game is expected.

The game of foot ball played on French's common Wednesday afternoon was the first of the season. The result stood Thayer Academy, 32; Emanuels of Boston, 0.

The State Inspector of Engineers examined in Quincy Sept. 29, the following engineers of Braintree and issued first-class-unlimited licenses: Arthur Feely, at Charles Keith's; John E. Coughlin, at Williams, Kneeland & Co.

At St. Francis church last Sunday Rev. Father Cuffe officiated. Sunday school was organized under leadership of Rev. Father Johnstone. Mrs. Thomas Slavin superintendent. Service will be at 10 A. M., and Sunday school at 3. Father Johnstone has made himself very popular with the parish.

Rev. M. F. Colborn, who was pastor of the M. E. Church, some fifteen years ago, died Sept. 22 in San Francisco, Cal. He had been pastor of a number of churches in California and was much beloved by his people. His death was caused by worry on account of false charges made against him by unprincipled slanderers. Although everything against him was proven to be utterly false, his sensitive nature overcame him. Shame to all slanderers.

Wednesday afternoon as Mr. Green, superintendent at the New England Kennel club farm was driving down Washington street the horse took fright and in running down Common street threw Mr. Green out with such force as to render him unconscious for a time. Mrs. Green and the child who were with him were more fortunate though much frightened. The vehicle was considerably damaged. Mr. Green is able to be out though not fully recovered.

Mr. James R. Qualey was thrown from his bicycle yesterday and somewhat bruised.

The Union Veteran fire association held a meeting Thursday night and voted to hold a banquet in Engine hall, Tuesday evening, Oct. 13.

There were nearly one hundred present at the meeting of the Choral society Wednesday night and rapid progress is being made. Indications point to a very successful society.

A peculiar case of hen stealing took place in the vicinity of Liberty street a few nights ago. Thirty-three hens, it is claimed were put into a barrel alive and kept there until all but eleven smothered. The matter is likely to find its way into the Quincy Court.

F. E. Drake, the popular baggage master from the Park Square station, and family have returned from Cottage City where they have spent a very pleasant summer. Master Gordon attracted much attention at the beach by his fearlessness in jumping from the wharf to the water. He is certainly a brave little fellow.

—The Denver Business Men's League, composed of men of different parties, declared in 1894 that populist control of the State had destroyed not less than $300,000,000 of values. It was a heavy fine, self-inflicted, and it seems strange that any of the people of Colorado want a repetition of the dose.

Can't Eat

This is the complaint of thousands at this season. They have no appetite; food does not relish. They need the toning up of the stomach and digestive organs, which a course of Hood's Sarsaparilla will give them. It also purifies and enriches the blood, cures that distress after eating and internal misery only a dyspeptic can know, creates an appetite, overcomes that tired feeling and builds up and sustains the whole physical system. It so promptly and efficiently relieves dyspeptic symptoms and cures nervous headaches, that it seems to have almost "a magic touch."

They Owned the House.

Last Monday evening was one that will be remembered by the Sons of Veterans of Quincy and Braintree and their friends, who were entertained at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. John Barbour on Washington street.

Mr. Barbour is very prominent in Grand Army circles and the Sons of Veterans of the Francis L. Souther camp were anxious to become acquainted with him, and as there was no better way, an evening's enjoyment at his home was planned, and happily carried out. There were about fifty present and the time was spent in music, speechmaking and lunch.

The boys brought an orchestra with with them that rendered several selections. Mr. Walter Philbrook gave a cornet solo accompanied by Miss Sadie Kelly at the piano. In a brief address of welcome Mr. Barbour said among other things:—

Sons of Veterans—I honor you because you are the Sons of those who took their lives in their hands to defend the flag. I honor you because you are strong and in full manhood; and feel that at a moments notice you would follow in the steps of your fathers, if necessary.

I honor you because the boys in blue are fast answering to the roll call commander on high, and ere a quarter of a century shall have passed the veterans of our late war will live in history only, and to you boys we now hand down for your defence and your protection our country's honor and her flag.

As a veteran who enlisted when but a boy and went forth in defence of my country and who marched and remarched through southern fields for three long years. I adjure you with all the emphasis of all my manhood to forever stand ready to resent any insult to this our beloved country, which I believe to be the best country on God's green earth, which is the result of the suffering and privations of the boys of 61 to 65. I trust you will ever keep in sweet rememberance the silent resting places of your heroic fathers; and once a year you will visit these sacred mounds and drop a silent tear of love, and place some flower of sweet perfume thereon.

In closing Mr. Barbour urged that whatever else the boys forget that they never fail to maintain the dignity of the old flag.

Mr. Barbour was followed by Rev. A. A. Ellsworth in a well chosen speech. Remarks were made by Mr. Kane and others.

In the dining room the table was heavily ladened with delicacies and flowers.

The genial host invited his guests to clear the table of everything but the flowers, which were the gifts of friends and they did it.

The whole house belonged to the guests and many of them expressed their delight by saying it was the best time they ever had.

H. A. Webber of South Braintree was the caterer. The young ladies who assisted serving the lunch were Miss Julia Ellsworth, Miss Fannie Ellsworth, Miss Susie Tenney, and Mrs. J. A. Barbour of Wollaston.

It was nearly eleven o'clock when "good night" was said and the guests departed, pleased with the thought that the desire to know Mr. Barbour had been gratified.—Braintree Observer.

TO HIS LADY.

[From the French of Pierre de Ronsard.]

When you are very old, and, by the candle's flame,
Sitting beside the fire, you talk and spin and sing
My songs o' nights, then you will say, half wondering,
"Ronsard in bygone days hath sung my beauty's fame."

When those around thee hear this word, no serving dame
Of thine, already at her task half slumbering,
But at the echo of my name awakening,
With everlasting praise shall rise and bless thy name.

But I, a formless ghost within the earth full deep,
Beneath the myrtle shadows I shall lie asleep,
While thou before the fire art crouching, old and gray,
Weeping for my lost love and for thy proud disdain.

Wait not the morrow, but live now, if thou wilt deign
To hear me. Pluck the roses of thy life today.

—E. R. Barker in Academy.

LOOKING FOR RICHES

There was silence between them. Wilson Shardeloe had performed the duties of a host. He had given his friend the best chair and himself had taken the one whose wicker had cracked at the back so as to make it a little creaky, a little dangerous and a little uncomfortable. He had passed the cigarettes and the whisky and had unwired the soda water. It was 11 o'clock. The temple is very quiet at that hour. Even the rumble of the hurrying hansom in Fleet street or the Strand only comes with soft murmur as of green woods in summer time.

The hour and its stillness, the solitude a deux, all invited confidences. Yet the men sat silently smoking. Jack Tyrwhitt spoke first.

"You're a poor host, Shardeloe. You care for the vile body with cigars and things, but you leave my intellect unfed. For goodness sake, man, talk of something, if it is only the odds about the Leger."

Shardeloe heaved a sigh and came out of his absorption with an obvious effort.

"It's generally I who talk most," he said, reproachfully. "You have grown as silent as an owl, Jack, lately. I don't know what's the matter with you. Have you been committing a murder, or getting married, or running away with your neighbor's wife, or what is it? I'm sure you have some guilty secret."

The other laughed with a little embarrassment.

"I'm as innocent as the babe unborn," he said. "But, seriously, there is something I should like to tell you, only I promised not to mention it to any one."

"Holy Moses!" cried the host, with sudden and complete enlightenment. "I see it all now—you're engaged."

"It's true," said Jack, after a moment's hesitation. "There can't be any harm in my telling you that much. The fact is, she doesn't want the engagement talked of at present for family reasons."

"Yes, I know," said Wilson, encouragingly; "they are like that sometimes. I don't believe it's really family reasons. It's only because they like to make a fuss about nothing. We must humor them, you know. Is she pretty?"

"She's divine!"

"Any money?"

"Oh, yes, I should think so! Her people are very well off. But I ought not to be talking about her."

"So you're caught at last!"

"I wish you wouldn't chaff about it," said his friend. "I'm sorry I said anything about it."

"I'm not chaffing. In fact"—the need of a confidant was strong within him—"I'm engaged, too, and mine is just the same as yours. She will have this stupid little mystery. Only it isn't family reasons with her. It's because"—He pulled himself up short on the brink of repeating her words, which had been to the effect that she must get used to her strange new happiness before she could share her holy secret with the hard, unsympathetic world.

"And is she beautiful too?"

"My dear boy," said Shardeloe warmly, "she's an angel—so clever, too, and so noble and high minded. I never feel that I can live up to her. She makes me feel a low, base, sordid creature, sometimes. I assure you, when I have been spending the evening with her, I come home quite worn out. The moral atmosphere is so"— He paused. "I mean," he added, "it's so difficult to keep up—that sort of high pressure business."

"I know," said his friend, with sympathy. "Mine's just the same. I know what you mean. I'm glad we have told each other, old man," Tyrwhitt went on after another pause, "because I was beginning to wonder what had come over you, and now, of course, I understand it."

"I only wish I could tell you her name. You'll be best man, won't you?"

"Of course I will, if I am not put on the shelf before you."

"Oh, Tyrwhitt, when I think of that girl you don't know how terrible all sorts of things look that I never saw any harm in before! Hello, we are getting sentimental! Have another go of whisky."

The next day Shardeloe went out of town, and the two men did not meet for nearly three weeks. Then, as before, they sat drinking whisky and soda, and silence was between them.

'You're looking rather chippy, old man," said the host.

"I dare say I do. The fact is I don't know what to do with myself. I daren't look in at a ball or take any one out to dinner or do anything amusing because she—you know who I mean—is so dreadfully down on anything of that sort, and, upon my word, I never knew the time go so slowly, except when I am with her, and then, of course, it's all right. Why, you've no idea how bored I am. I was actually thinking today I would answer one of those matrimonial agency advertisements. It might be a lark."

"But suppose she found out?"

"Oh one could write it on the Remington and put a different name. I don't know whether it's worth doing. Nothing is."

"Oh, yes, come on," said Shardeloe, drawing the typewriter toward him. "But, I say, if we give a false name they'll look us up in the directory and find us out."

"Oh, I'll write in Daubeny's name. His rooms are over in Harcourt buildings, and I have got the key of them. He's away in Algiers."

"I'm afraid it's rather silly—like two schoolboys."

"Oh, well, one must do something, you know."

Shardeloe went out for a copy of The Matrimonial Globe. They selected the most glowing advertisement:

"Personal—Ethel, aged 19, golden hair, blue eyes, independent fortune, wishes to meet with a gentleman of about 25 with £500 a year or more. Must be musical. Address Ethel, office 567 Fleet street."

So they wrote a letter describing the pecuniary and moral affluence of the absent Daubeny.

"I like the name Ethel," said Jack, drawing the letter from the typewriter, "it's such a sweet, good, innocent, tender name."

"I think I like the full name, Ethelreda, better. There's something dignified about it."

"I don't know," said the other. "It's not cozy, like Ethel. It makes you think of Anglo-Saxon attitudes, don't you know."

"I don't agree with you," said Wilson a little stiffly.

Well, they sent the letter. There were some inquiries from the office of the paper, which Tyrwhitt, impersonating the absent Daubeny, answered to the office's satisfaction.

"Daubeny won't mind, you know," he said to his friend. "He'll enjoy the joke."

And three days later came the answer to their typewritten eulogy of the gentleman in Algiers. This also was typewritten. A photograph was inclosed which Wilson would have unwrapped at once.

"Fair does," said Tyrwhitt, holding the photograph at arm's length, while they read the letter together. It stated that if Mr. Daubeny's income was as represented and if he thought from the inclosed photograph that Ethel would be likely to make his home happy she would arrange to meet him at the office. "A personal interview," the letter stated, "is always more satisfactory."

"Now for the photograph!" cried Jack. "We shall have to stop short at this, Wilson. I have often wondered what sort of women do put in these advertisements. This will be some old catamaran of 50, I suppose."

Shardeloe drew the photograph from its silver paper resting place and gave one glance at it. He dropped it with a hurried "D—n!"

"As bad as all that?" said Tyrwhitt gayly, picking the photograph out of the sugar basin into which it had fallen. It had arrived at breakfast time. "Good God!" he cried as soon as his eyes fell on it. "It's Ethel, Ethel—you know, the girl that I was engaged to."

Already he spoke in the past tense.

"So she was to me, by Jove!" cried Wilson incoherently. "Jack, that's my girl too!"

They stood frowning at each other across the photograph. Then Jack began to laugh, and in a moment Wilson followed suit.

"What a let off, by heaven!" he said. "What shall we do?"

"I was very fond of her, Shardeloe, old fellow," said Jack.

But his friend said: "Don't be an ass. How can you be fond of a girl like that—a girl who was engaged to two men at once and tried to get hold of a third? You were fond of a girl who never existed—your pure souled, high toned darling."

"Shut up, can't you," cried the other savagely, "and tell me what you are going to do?"

"I shall return her letter and her photograph and tell her that all is at an end between us."

"If you do that, there is nothing left for me but to go and break it off personally. I should rather enjoy that."

"Shall we go together?" said Wilson, struck by a happy thought.

"No, I don't want to hit her when she's down!"

And the next day Tyrwhitt went. Ethel received him with her usual quiet grace and dignity.

"I have come to release you from your engagement," he said.

Her great, innocent, baby eyes filled with tears.

"Oh, what is it? Don't you love me any more?"

"I can't be put off," he said, "with a divided heart. You have already shared yours between my friend Wilson Shardeloe and me. Now that you propose to add Daubeny to your collection you leave me no resource but to retire."

"I don't understand," said Ethel, "but I see you mean to insult me. After what you have said we are strangers from this moment."

And, with all her old saintly dignity, she turned and left him. It must be owned that she carried off the situation well.

* * * * * *

But the worst of it was that they forgot to tell Daubeny anything about it, and, while they were away at Monte Carlo next winter, she really did meet Daubeny at an art students' dance at Kensington, and, finding that his means were as represented, married him out of hand. And then of course it was of no use for them to tell him.

Shardeloe and Tyrwhitt dine sometimes with the Daubenys, but Mrs. Daubeny does not encourage her husband to ask them often.

"Of course I must be hospitable to all your friends," she says to her husband, with the sweet, saintly dignity that sits so well upon her, "but I'm afraid, dear, that Mr. Shardeloe and Mr. Tyrwhitt are rather worldly."—Sketch.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 4
Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Why I believe in the atonement.—Heb. ix, 11-28.

The doctrine of the atonement is one of the most precious doctrines of the Bible. It is the belief that Christ died for us, that by His death on the cross, as an expiatory sacrifice, He paid the penalty of our sins, satisfied divine justice and reconciled us to God. It is an important doctrine and because of its importance we should know why we believe in it. Taking its importance into consideration, it is a matter of satisfaction that there are so many and such positive proofs that the Bible teaches this doctrine. Upon these proofs our belief in this truth is founded.

1. The atonement is prophesied and God fulfills prophecy. Only one instance of prophecy need be quoted—the fifty-third chapter of Isaiah, which undoubtedly refers to Christ's atoning death. "He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities, the chastisement of our peace was upon Him and with His stripes we are healed" (verse 5). Language could not be more definite or plain. Christ's death for us is distinctly prophesied in this chapter. God fulfills prophecy, and this one was fulfilled by the death of Christ on the cross of Calvary.

2. The Old Testament sacrifices were expiatory and pointed to Christ. The names of these sacrifices prove their character. They were called sin offerings, trespass offerings—that is, offerings made by sinners on account of sin. They are said to bear the sins of offenders and to secure God's forgiveness by the shedding of blood by giving life for life. These sacrifices were the type of the sacrifice of Christ, who once offered Himself up, and if they were expiatory it necessarily follows that the sacrifice of Christ would possess the same character.

3. The New Testament declares positively that Christ's death was expiatory. In Rom. iii, 25 Paul says Christ is set as "a propitiation (an expiatory sacrifice) through faith in His blood." In Gal. i, 4 he says that Christ "gave Himself for our sins." The writer of Hebrews says that were "sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all." John says that Jesus Christ "is the propitiation for our sins, and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the world." Peter speaks of Christ as He "who His own self bare our sins in his own body on the tree."

4. No other theory will explain the death of Christ. God would not have given Christ to pay a debt to satan, or to teach us by example to live a life of sacrifice, or to show His idea of the majesty of the law. Christ's death must have been necessary to atone for the sins of the world or He would never have died.

Bible Readings.—Isa. liii, 4-6; Zech. xiii, 1; Math. xxvi, 26-28; Rom. iii, 23-26; v, 6-8; II Cor. v, 18; Gal. i, 3-5; iii, 11-14; Titus ii, 11-14; I Pet. i, 18-21; ii, 24; iii, 18; I John ii, 1, 2; Rev. i, 5.

Individual Effort.

When John Williams, the martyr missionary of Eromanga, went to the south sea islands, he took with him a single banana tree from an English nobleman's conservatory, says The Irish Congregational Magazine. And now from that single banana tree bananas are to be found throughout the whole group of islands.

Before the negro slaves in the West Indies were emancipated a regiment of British soldiers was stationed near one of the plantations. A soldier offered to teach a slave to read on condition that he would teach a second, and that second a third, and so on.

This he faithfully carried out, though severely flogged by the master of the plantation. Being sent to another plantation, he repeated the same thing there, and when at length liberty was proclaimed throughout the island and the Bible society offered a New Testament to every negro who could read, the number taught through this slave's instrumentality was no less than 600.

Missionary Endeavorers.

We have heard from Ningpo, China, through Rev. H. E. Shoemaker, of a district in which there is no paid Christian worker, and which has been wonderfully quickened through the zeal of five or six delegates to the Christian Endeavor convention at Ningpo. Genuine Christian Endeavor conventions always make missionaries of their delegates.—Exchange.

Factory Endeavorers.

"The factory Christian Endeavor societies will soon be able to have a conference at the international conventions, the same as the seamen and travelers." Thus prophecies Miss Sara L. Oller, an earnest worker in this new and auspicious branch of Christian Endeavor. We look for the fulfillment of her prophecy.

Endeavor Notes.

The Floating Society of Christian Endeavor at Portland, Me., makes a noble six months' report. Forty new members were secured, 1,600 tracts and 2,602 papers were distributed on vessels and at the Marine hospital. Six hundred and twenty visits were made to vessels and 75 to the seamen's boarding house. Thirteen services were held at the Marine hospital. Fifty-six comfort bags were given to seamen. Seven persons asked prayer in the services.

The splendid sum of $211 was raised for missionary purposes last year by the Junior society of the Montclair (N. J.) Congregational church.

The Christian Endeavor movement in the Nutmeg State is progressing. If we are not enlarging in numbers, we are deepening in spiritual life. If we have less of enthusiasm, there is more of genuine service. Still, we are not wanting in true enthusiasm. Many of the quarterly and annual meetings are largely attended, often filling the houses, with chairs in the aisles. Connecticut has 24 unions, with about 35,000 members.

OPPOSE A CHANGE

Massachusetts Should Not Adopt Biennial Amendment.

AN ADDRESS TO THE VOTERS

By Ex-Governor Boutwell and Many Others.

The undersigned, citizens of the State, respectfully call your attention to the proposition now before the Commonwealth for a change of the Constitution.

From the organization of the Colonial government until the present time there has been an annual election for the Governor of the State, and since 1780, when the present Constitution was framed, the governor, lieutenant governor and the members of the legislature have been elected annually. In November next the voters of the Commonwealth will be called upon to decide whether elections for State officers shall take place only once in two years, beginning in 1898. The amendment, if adopted, will work a very radical change in the fundamental law of the State, and, as we think, a change adverse to popular rights.

The burden of proof is upon those who demand the change. It is for them to show beyond reasonable doubt that the rights of the people will be equally well protected when the change shall have been made. In support of the present system we have first, the history of the Colony and State through a period of two and a half centuries as a witness at once of the advantages and the evils of the present system. In this long period of time the Commonwealth has prospered, it has increased in population, and its limitless natural resources have been developed to a degree surpassing the development that has taken place in any of our sister states. Can the advocates of the proposed amendment show how, or wherein, or when, since the adoption of the constitution of 1780 the state would have been more rapidly advanced if the change which they now advocate had been made originally a part of the fundamental law?

The two most important elections, those of president, once in four years, and of the members of Congress, once in two years, cannot be changed. The effect of the proposed amendment is to transfer the election of the State officers and the expression of a judgment by the people upon State policy from years of comparative repose and quiet to periods of national excitement, when it will be impossible for the voters of the State to give deliberate attention to and to pass careful judgment upon their own affairs. If in former times, when the interests of the State were few comparatively, and when subjects of legislation were limited in number, it was essential or wise to bring these matters before the people as often as once a year, there are now additional reasons for a frequent judgment when we have a population of two and a half million people, with large wealth and important questions of business which demand consideration.

It is claimed as an advantage to be secured by the proposed amendment that members of the legislature would gain experience from the term of two years from which the public would derive benefit. Under the present system the constituency have an opportunity to decide upon the merits of men as often as once a year, and whenever they are of opinion that a certain member is capable of performing other and better services on account of his experience, they have the capacity, and usually, we believe, they have the disposition, to re-elect him. If, however, under the present system, a member has failed in his duty, the voters have an opportunity at an early period to substitute a new man in his place. Under the present system we have the judgment of the people which we believe to be a safe guide, as to the qualifications of a sitting member, but by the proposed plan a member once elected must occupy the seat for two years, whether he prove himself worthy and capable for the place or otherwise.

The importance of a careful judgment by the people may be realized in the present aspect of the question which we are now considering, whether or not we have overvalued its importance. It is clear that the people will be unable in the year 1896, in the presence of Congressional and Presidential elections, to give that attention to the proposed alteration of the Constitution which would be given in the year 1897. The public mind is engrossed by great questions of national concern, and the discussion before the people will be limited to national questions.

We do not hesitate to say that the education which is often obtained by the mass of the people from the discussion of pending questions of public policy far outweighs the objections suggested by the advocates of the proposed amendment. Within a decade some of our sister States of New England have adopted the change which is now proposed. The time that has passed is insufficient to enable the people to form a judgment as to the value of the change. Will it not be wise, even for those who think the amendment judicious, to postpone a final judgment until our sister States shall have reached a conclusion as to the wisdom of the new system?

It is worthy of notice that neither in the convention of 1780, which framed the Constitution, nor in the constitutional conventions of 1820 and 1853 was the abolition of annual elections a subject of consideration.

THE STAUNTON FLOOD

Swept Twenty-Five Business Houses From Their Foundations.

Stables, Lumber and Coal Yards Swept Away.

Loss of Life and Property In Florida Has Reached Startling Proportions.

New York, Oct. 3.—Mail advices received here from Staunton, Va., give the following account of the flood and storm in that vicinity last Tuesday, by eye witnesses: The main thoroughfares of Staunton present a complete picture of desolation, wreck and ruin, which is the result of the seven inches of rain that fell here in less than 12 hours Tuesday. The rain swelled the lake in the fair grounds west of here till it burst asunder its banks and deluged the entire busjness portion of the city. The banks of the lake gave way shortly after 9 o'clock Tuesday night, and in a jiffy the mad torrents rushed down Central avenue, flooding the electric light plant and demolishing the gas works. This left the city in total darkness, and pandemonium reigned, as the people were terror-stricken. On came the surging stream, sweeping everything in its path. When the stream reached the corner of Central avenue and Frederick street it divided, half of the water going down the avenue, while the other half made its way down Frederick and then rushed down Augusta street. The two streams met at the corner of Augusta and Frederick streets, where, with renewed force, supplied by a large volume of water which came from another lake, one mile east of the city, it swept away buildings, flooded business houses and tore up railway tracks.
In some places the water was between 10 and 15 feet deep, and its velocity was almost incalculable. Twenty-five business houses were demolished, livery stables were gutted, and lumber and coal yards swept away. Over 40 horses were drowned. As far as can be ascertained, only four lives were lost, and they were colored people, who resided in a small farm building, which was swept from its foundation and carried 500 yards and hurled against a railway bridge. The fire department rescued 49 drowning persons. The exact loss cannot be accurately estimated now, but it is not thought to be less than $250,000.
The telephone and telegraph wires are down, and other towns cannot be communicated with. What the loss elsewhere is cannot be ascertained, but meagre reports show that it will be very heavy. The loss in Augusta county alone will reach $500,000.
The Norfolk and Western railway is blocked at Basis City, a small town near here, and traffic has been suspended. A large force of workmen are now engaged in removing the debris from the streets, and business is partially resumed.
The mayor has issued a proclamation, extending aid to the suffering, and this will be supplemented by private subscriptions.

IN FLORIDA.

Death List Grows Larger and the Worst Is Not Yet Known.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 3.—Communication with the interior is restored, and the news of the destruction of life and property by Tuesday's hurricane becomes appalling. Hundreds of persons are homeless, and must suffer from hunger unless relief shall be quickly furnished. Reports to The Citizen from 76 different towns show that 67 persons were killed and 62 injured. These are the known casualties. To this total, probably a considerable must be added to cover those not heard from. The loss of life was greatest at Cedar Keys, on the Gulf of Mexico, where the hurricane entered the state. Over half of the known deaths occurred at that place. The destruction of valuable timber, turpentine trees, farm crops, phosphate works and buildings of every description, forming a belt across the state southwest to northwest, will aggregate hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of dollars.
Full and authentic advices from Cedar Keys show the almost total destruction of the town and the loss of 39 lives. This is believed to include the complete roll of the dead. At Shell Mound, a pleasure resort, near the place, a party of five men, three women and three children were camping. Some surveyors making their way home after the storm found the 11 dead bodies strewn on the shore under logs and brush. They were close together, which would indicate that they were simultaneously killed by the tidal wave. Eight other bodies have been found on the beach. Twenty more fishermen are still to be heard from, all of whom are probably dead.
During the hurricane at Cedar Keys the water came up with the wind, and down the principal streets rushed a mad torrent, upon which floated houses, boats and debris of every description. While the tempest was at its height the Bettilini House, the Schlimmer House and John Sherrill's residence took fire and were burned.

Heavy Damage at Washington.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The property loss from the recent hurricane, which visited Washington, appears to be considerable more than was first estimated. The Bijou has been ordered closed until the walls and roof are repaired. The manager of the Grand Opera House was notified that only the first floor can be used for the present. Several church edifices and charitable institutions are being inspected with a view to extensive repairs. The loss of residences and stores, where repairs will be ordered, is a large one, and in the aggregate the loss will be upwards of $500,000.

Mile Unpaced In 1:59 5-8.

Denver, Oct. 3.—On a soft track, wet in places, R. C. Lord beat the world's record for an unpaced mile yesterday, making the distance in 1m. 59 1-5s., which is 1 1-5s. under all previous records. He rode a 97-geared wheel.

A Modest Appeal.

Berlin, Oct. 3.—The Kolnische Zeitung asserts that the Greeks propose to appeal to the Christians of Europe and America to subscribe £10,000,000, in order to buy out all the Mohammedan landowners in the Island of Crete.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Shows That Slight Gains In Preceding Weeks Still Continue.

New York, Oct. 3.—Bradstreet's says: Merchants at primary cotton markets and at larger centers in the spring wheat region, report a better movement of staples, due to unusually heavy receipts of those crops. Throughout the central west the volume of trade falls behind that of a year ago in some instances, but is equal to it in others. At eastern centers the improvement is seen in greater ease in the money markets, and more disposition to discount commercial paper, although at unchanged rates. Wholesale merchants report a better feeling very generally, but few anticipate any material increase in the volume of business this month.
Mercantile collections continue slow and as difficult to make as heretofore, except in the cotton states and at some points in the northwest, where heavy crop receipts have enabled interior merchants to liquidate long standing accounts. The more conspicuous demand at larger interior cities is for dry goods, clothing, shoes, hardware, leather and lumber. There is also a better demand for pig iron and for steel. Business in cotton goods has been checked by the advance in prices, and mill stocks tend to accumulate again.
For the third week in succession prices for some of the more important staples continue upward, notably for cereals, wheat alone having advanced more than 13 cents a bushel within a month. Quotations for leather, lumber, wool, and for naval stores, are also higher. The decline in cotton appears due to extraordinarily heavy receipts at primary markets, in addition to which there are more important decreases for sugar and petroleum.
The total number of business failures throughout the United States from Jan. 1 to Sept. 30, 1896, is 11,280, the largest aggregate reported for a like period since records of this character have been compiled. The next largest corresponding total was 11,140, for nine months of the panic year 1893. Contrasted with the corresponding portion of 1895, the increase in number of failures is 21 per cent; in total liabilities, 56 per cent, and assets, 63 per cent. While there have been 140 more business failures this year than in nine months of 1893, total liabilities, amounting to $171,350,000 in 1896—more than one half the corresponding total three years ago—failures in the third quarter of the current year were extraordinarily heavy. The nine months' record of failures, which exceeds that in the corresponding portion of the panic year 1893, appears due, in part, to the effects of the widespread, active agitation for a change in the standard of value.

THOUSAND TROOPS KILLED

In a Night Attack by Maceo's Troops Upon Spanish Forces.

New Orleans, Oct. 3.—The Times-Democrat Key West special says: Advices received here from Habana state that Antonio Maceo, in a recent attack on the trocha, inflicted terrible losses on the Spaniards, more than 1000 being killed and wounded. The attack was made at night, and was carefully planned. The fighting was general all along the line, but was fiercest near Artemisa, where Antonio Maceo led a picked force of insurgents against the Spanish columns commanded by General Aratas. The Spaniards were taken completely by surprise. They were aroused from sleep, to find a hail of insurgent bullets falling upon them. General Aratas and his staff, half clad, rushed from their headquarters and tried to rally the Spaniards, who were panic-stricken by the insurgents attack. It was half an hour before even a semblance of order could be restored to the Spanish column, and during that time the troops remained huddled together, an easy mark for the bullets of the Cubans. It was during this period of panic that so many of the Spanish troops were killed.
The insurgents had several dynamite guns, and these were used with terrible effect, the shells bursting among the Spaniards and striking them down by the score. The wounds made by the dynamite shells were frightful, in many instances men being literally blown to pieces. It is said that many Spanish officers were killed, and that General Aratas himself was slightly injured.

The Arrogant Turk.

London, Oct. 3.—The Constantinople correspondent of The Times says: Every indication points to a renunciation (by the Turkish government) of a conciliatory policy toward the Armenians. Expulsions among the lower orders continue, although on a reduced scale, and arrests extend now to bankers and other wealthy classes. So much for the agitation in England.

Alleged Embezzler Captured.

Baltimore, Oct. 3.—Merriweather H. Griffith, aged 63, was arrested here yesterday, charged with having embezzled $18,000 from the Tilden estate in Boston. Griffith is a native of Baltimore, but has resided in Boston since 1856. He left the latter city on Tuesday last, for Newport News, by steamer, and came here by rail.

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—In the house of commons yesterday, Minister of Agriculture Fisher said that the government intended to make arrangements for a continuous line of cold storage from the point of production, which included the northwest territories, to the British markets.

SPIDER AND THE FLY.

Workingmen Should Avoid Parlor of Wreck and Ruin.

FREE SILVER AND CHEAP MONEY.

Past History Gives Light to Judge the Future.

For those of us who have no capital other than our hands and our brains the presence amongst us of men who have money, capital and the ability and disposition to employ it in business is a supreme necessity. We must work, and it is important that we should work for men who have the ready ability to pay us promptly and fairly at regular stated periods.
Now, if these employers should elect to pay us in orders upon neighborhood merchants, none of us would have reasonable cause to complain so long as these orders were readily exchangeable for money without discount or for merchandise at regular cash prices, but the very moment that these had to be sold at a discount for cash or when we had to pay an advance over cash prices for goods in exchange for them, then they would work a practical cutting down of our wages and prove to be a plain and palpable injury to us.
Only a few years ago, or up to the beginning of the war, every state of the Union had its own distinct and separate banking laws. Under these laws were organized banks of issue of every variety of security and solvency, from absolute safety in New York and Massachusetts, to anything but safety in some of the less careful states. The bills of these banks were scattered all over the country, and instead of being redeemable everywhere at par they were bought and sold by the money brokers upon every street corner at discount ranging from one or two to ten or fifteen per cent. The practical effect of this kind of currency was that the manufacturer or other employer of labor would make up his pay-roll, then take good near-by bank bills, and, in New York or Boston, for instance, go to the brokers and buy Ohio and Pennsylvania bills at ten or fifteen per cent discount with which to liquidate it.
Now, the working people, having little or no occasion to send money away and, in these so-called good old silver days, less occasion to put it in the savings banks, were made, without realizing it, to pay an advance price for all that they bought of their clothiers, butchers and bakers to the full extent of the depression in the value of the bills in which they were paid; and more too, for the merchants in turn had to sell these bills to the brokers again in order to get a kind of money which their banks would receive from them upon deposit. This was the way that a cheap and abundant currency affected the working classes before the war.
Upon the breaking out of the war, gold disappeared from circulation. Subsidiary silver, which was then the only silver money in circulation, disappeared with it, and even the old copper cents soon became so much more valuable for metal than their nomial coin value that they also were hidden away, and for several months our people had to resort to postage stamps, private coins and all sorts of devious devices to take the place of these hitherto familiar currencies. Then came the smaller fractional notes and the government greenbacks, and once more we had a cheap currency that could be run off from the government printing presses to order.
But what was the result? During the dark days of the war our national credit both at home and abroad varied daily with the varying fortunes of battle, and this shifting credit was marked by an almost hourly change in the price of greenbacks, when these were the cheapest, that is to say when gold, being at 290, they were worth about 35 cents on the dollar; those things which the people had to purchase in order to live rose in price not only to correspond with the apparent price of gold, but away beyond this point of correspondence. For instance, sugar that is now six cents per pound sold then for 30 cents, salt pork at from 15 to 25 cents per pound and flour at from $20 to $24 per barrel. Now, admitting that wages doubled and more than doubled during this period, or rather that they were paid on the basis of $2 in greenbacks for one of the old gold currency, under these circumstances the laboring classes received two dollars where they had previously received one but at the same time it cost them to live three or four or five dollars where it had previously cost them only one.
On the other hand, men of capital made vast fortunes in speculating upon the rise and fall of these greenbacks, while like fortunes were reaped by brokers who charged a commission for exchanging gold and greenbacks back and forth for the people who had need of their services from day to day. Thus, the rich grew richer while the poor grew poorer during this period of so-called cheap money.
Having again placed our finances upon a solid basis in 1879, we prospered and increased in wealth among the poorer as well as the wealthier classes, until 1893, when a panic was precipitated by the danger of a shifting to cheap silver currency. This crisis was averted for the time by the splendid ability of our great President, but the escape was so narrow, and the danger of its recurrance has been so imminent that a restoration of business confidence has since been impossible, so that uncertainty and indefinite dread of undefined financial dangers have paralyzed industry and thrown very large numbers of laboring men out of work and out of an income.
Thus have they suffered, while the capital not needed for these suspended industries has earned comfort and the accustomed ease for its owners in other channels. Thus has labor suffered and capital gone practically unscathed, because of the mere threat of a free coinage governmental policy.
What would an actual adoption of this policy bring about? Canute had to give hasty heed to the tide which rose calmly in the face of his futile and foolish mandate. And so even the great and mighty United States of America must give heed and obey the economic and financial laws which God himself has made. The violation of these laws entails the same consequences upon the great as upon the little. God made arithmetic, and neither one man nor a hundred thousand can change it. No mortal man, either great or small, can make a part of a thing equal to the whole of it. You can stamp the word dollar upon fifty cents worth of silver, but its value is not changed one whit by the lying embossment. No sensible man will be deceived thereby. Fifty cents worth of silver stamped with the word dollar will be fifty cents still, and so to the end of time, so long as the word does not involve a promise of some sufficiently solvent party to pay a dollar for it, and such a promise is not included in the free coinage program.
Under the proposed plan we should have fifty-cent disks stamped as dollars, but it would take two of them to buy as much as one dollar buys now, while the legal tender clause in the proposed scheme would enable your employer to make you take them for their full face value in payment of your wages, so that without raising your wages free silver would double your expenses, and you would have less of this so-called abundant money than you have now of the honest and valuable kind.
It is the same old game of rich and avaricious mine owners trying to deceive and entrap you into a scheme which will enable them to rob you under cover of the law

Workingmen!

Remember the spider's solicitude for the comfort of the fly, and don't walk into this parlor of wreck and ruin.
The following vigorous language expresses the opinion of L. C. Bateman, Populist candidate for governor in Maine, in reference to the leaders of the Democratic party in that state. Possibly the description may be applicable to some Democratic leaders in other states: "The pie-counter paupers who lead the Democratic party. A more disreputable gang never brought a great party and a noble principle into disgrace. They are perfectly willing to blow either hot or cold on any public question if it will only bring the offices. Democracy is a stench in the nostrils of Maine voters. This does not mean that they despise the doctrines of Jackson and Jefferson. Far from it. But the people here know only too well the cheap gang that leads the Democratic party to ruin every two years. They care nothing, nothing whatever, for principle. It is simply boodle with them. They are ready to adopt any kind of a platform if it will catch the voters and the offices. Free trade or protection, free rum or prohibition, gold or silver, is all the same with them. They can adopt a platform of so-called principles one week and the next week call a convention and reverse their position, adopting exactly the opposite without even a blush of shame. A Comanche Indian would be ashamed to do things which the Democratic leaders will do without moving a muscle."

Carroll Wright's Outline.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Carroll D. Wright, commissioner of labor, and in charge of closing the work on the 11th census, says in his annual report to the secretary of the interior, that the clerical work of the census office is now substantially complete, and the tables are in the hands of the printers. Mr. Wright says he will be ready to report to congress by December a plan for a permanent census bureau. He says he has been in correspondence with statisticians relative to a uniform census of the civilized nations of the world in 1900, and expects to submit a report to congress at the coming session.

Prepared For Business.

Athens, Oct. 2.—The Russian barbette ironclad, Alexander II, flying the flag of Admiral Andrieff, and the turretted cruiser Navarin, have arrived at Piraeus, the seaport of this city. The Alexander II carries two 12-inch 50-ton guns, four 9-inch 19-ton guns, eight 6-inch guns and eight smaller guns, and has five torpedo tubes. The Navarin carries four 12-inch 52-ton guns, eight 6-inch guns, and 14 smaller quick-fire guns, and has six torpedo tubes.

Cure for Sick Headache.
Thousands of ladies suffer from sick headache caused undoubtedly by disordered liver or stomach. The best remedy that can be obtained for this distressing complaint is found in Hood's Pills. The Quincy Board of Registrars meet again tonight.

All interested in the formation of the McKinley and Hobart battalion should be at Republican headquarters on Granite street tonight.

The Democrats of East Braintree met in Kelly's hall last night to complete the formation of a Bryan-Sewall-Williams club. Mr. John Scollard presided and speeches were made by Col. A. C. Drinkwater and F. A. Hobart.

A Democratic caucus was held in the Lower Town Hall, Braintree, on Thursday evening, for the purpose of choosing delegates to the representative convention.

Those elected are F. A. Hobart, J. V. Scollard, Edward Shay, John T. Powers, Daniel Gallivan, and it is understood that they will favor a Weymouth man.

The town committee for 1897 will be F. A. Hobart, John V. Scollard, J. E. Shay, Frank Jackson, P. F. Sullivan, Walter Howland, John Cavanagh, Conrad Mischler, Daniel Gallivan, J. T. Powers and James Merren.

The Herald hopes the Gold Democrats will not make a nomination for Congress in this district.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The interesting features of the educational reception next Wednesday evening will be a talk on educational work, illustrated by charts, by Mr. D. F. Graham, superintendent of the educational department of the Association Training school at Springfield, and music by members of the new orchestra. The reception will be informal and is open to all men.

The course of lectures on engines and boilers to be given by the association this fall, have received the hearty endorsement of Mr. David H. Dyer of Fall River, the examiner for this district. Mr. Dyer says that the plan to give engineers and firemen of the city this opportunity is the most sensible move he ever knew an Association to make. The first lecture will be given Oct. 15.

The Association Sloyd school will be conducted at Wollaston again this year, probably opening the third week in October. The work this year will be divided between Mr. J. M. Nowland and Mr. C. F. Merrick. Names can be left at Mr. Loring's drug store or at the Association rooms. The classes are limited to twelve each.

Castle Square Theatre.

"The Bohemian Girl" has been selected as the fourth of the season's attractions at the Castle Square Theatre. The popularity of this opera is best shown by the fact that it has held the stage wherever operatic music is known for over half a century, its original production having been made in London in 1843. Its tuneful melodies have been sung in every language, and its music has become as familiar on the concert stage and in the home as in its original form for stage production. Its earlier performances by the Castle Square Company have been made notable by the revival of many numbers not usually heard in the productions of later days; and Mr. Max Hirschfeld has always succeeded in meeting the severest criticisms by the presentations of the opera under his baton. General Director Jaxon will give "The Bohemian Girl" an elaborate stage setting, and a repetition of its earlier popularity at this house can be safely relied upon. In the cast Miss Clara Lane and Miss Laura Millard will alternate as Arline; Miss Rose Leighton will be the Queen; Mr. Edgar Temple, Thaddeus; Mr. J. K. Murray, Count; Mr. W. H. Clarke, Devilshoof and Mr. Chas. Holly, Florestein. Genee's "Royal Middy" is announced to follow "The Bohemian Girl."

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. OFF TO ANTARCTICA.

DR. NANSEN IS SOON TO SEEK THE SOUTH POLE.

Coast First to Be Explored, Then Inland In Detachments—Several Scientists to Go Along—Borchgrevinck Also to Lead an Expedition There, Starting This Month.

The Morgonbladet, a newspaper of Christiania, Norway, announces that the arctic explorer, Fridtjof Nansen, will soon undertake an expedition to the antarctic regions, and possibly he may try to reach even the south pole.

The trip will be made under the auspices of scientific bodies in Norway, and the purpose is to map out portions of the continent around the pole and to collect scientific data. The expedition will be made in two vessels, and many dogs will be taken along.

When the exploring party arrives at antarctica, it will divide into two or three detachments, which will make their way inland from different points on the coast, after that has been thoroughly explored. The ships will winter in Ross harbor, at Erebus and Terrar.

Nansen's remarkable success on his recent arctic expedition has aroused intense enthusiasm in Norway, and he has been feted and dined as no other explorer ever was. His achievement in reaching a point 200 miles nearer the north pole than that attained by his predecessors, by allowing his ship to drift with the ocean currents, has won for him the confidence of Norwegian scientists. They believe that in the unexplored continent around the south pole even more priceless scientific data are to be obtained. Recent explorations, they say, have revealed enough to make a new expedition extremely desirable.

Scientific bodies in various parts of Europe have been exceedingly anxious to have some explorer of renown undertake such a journey, and one has already been started by private subscription to leave England this month under the leadership of Borchgrevinck, who was with the last expedition to Antarctica.

It is expected that the government will furnish a handsome portion of the fund for this expedition. This method was adopted with success when Nansen declared his intention of making a try for the north pole. About $100,000 will be necessary. There will be no dash for the pole, such as Nansen and Johansen made when they abandoned the Fram in northern ice. The progress of the detachments will be slow and sure.

The antarctic ice forms a field 500 miles in breadth, which will require probably 50 days to pass. In trying to break through this, several vessels have met with disaster.

The last journey to Antarctica, made by Borchgrevinck, H. J. Bull and Commander Toyn, started from Tonsberg, Norway, Sept. 29, 1893, and returned in March, 1895. They were the first to set foot on the mainland of Antarctica.

The additions made to natural science by the expedition were extremely meager, because no one of adequate scientific attainments was in the party. A large number of well known scientists will accompany Nansen.

At the sixth geographical congress, which assembled in London last year, resolutions regarding antarctic exploration were adopted, the congress speaking of such explorations as "the greatest piece of geographical exploration still to be undertaken," and "in view of the addition to knowledge in almost every branch of science" every scientific society of importance was recommended to urge that a new expedition be undertaken.

Dr. John Murray of Edinburgh applied to the government for $250,000 for this purpose, but met with refusal on account of political disturbances in the east.

Nevertheless, an expedition was arranged by subscription and Mr. Borchgrevinck was asked to take charge of it. It is this expedition which will start this month. Nansen will therefore have a competitor in the field. Nansen will probably set out on his journey next spring.

A Query From High Life.

Here's a query, snipped from an evening newspaper, which throws a journalistic X ray upon high life in New York: "How many husbands may a woman in good society have? Beautiful New Yorkers, who have more than one spouse, would make a singularly fascinating story. One lady in particular, who dined at Delmonico's, lunched at the Waldorf and breakfasted at Claremont with three separate cavaliers, will get up at 4 in the morning the day that story is announced for print." Now, between ourselves, I don't believe that she would spoil her nap for a trifle of that sort. Scandal is forgotten and forgiven here with a swiftness that makes one's head swim.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Centenarian Stops Smoking.

After smoking tobacco 50 years or more Mrs. Hannah Chard, a famous Gloucester county (N. J.) centenarian, has thrown away her pipe with the determination never to use the weed again. The old lady has been convinced lately that smoking was shortening her life. "Aunt" Hannah is living at Ferrel, still enjoys good health and is looking forward to the celebration of her one hundred and eighth birthday.

Argentine's New Census.

Minister Buchanan, in Buenos Ayres, sends the secretary of state advices showing that the census just completed in the Argentine Republic makes the population 4,042,990. The increase in population since the last census, taken in 1869, has been 2,218,776.

The Crime.

Our score was three when the game was done,
The visitors double that, plus one.
The rooter sighed and then said he,
"The same old crime of seven to three."

PISTOL AND KNIFE

Figured In What Came Very Near Being a Tragedy at Danbury,

The Sequel to an Elopement In Pennsylvania.

Wronged Husband Locked Up While Authors of His Troubles Are Free.

Danbury, Conn., Oct. 5.—A tragedy, in which three lives were endangered, Saturday night, was the result of an elopement, which occurred five months ago in Pennsylvania. Thomas Gurno, a farmer, took his friend, Frank Gillott, to board with him. One day he found his wife and friend gone. Then he gave up his home and began a search for them. He went through Maine and Connecticut, and finally came here, where he found work on a sewer. He found that Gillott was working on the same job, and he followed him home, where he found his long lost wife. They both professed repentance and were forgiven.

Gurno suspected that his wife was still untrue to him, and he watched her. Saturday night he went to Gillott's house and secreted himself beneath the porch. He waited there an hour. Mrs. Gurno and Gillott entered the yard and started to go into Gillott's apartments. Gurno sprang in front of them and barred the way. Then he pulled a revolver and fired at the woman's head. His aim was bad, and as she fled into the darkness he turned upon her companion.

Gillott was at the door, but before he could close it Gurno sprang after him. They met in a room on the first floor of the house, and Gurno closed the door and stood with his back against it and the revolver levelled at Gillott. The shots attracted the attention of the neighbors, and they saw Gillott as he sprang toward the weapon. The men grappled as the revolver was discharged, and in the scuffle the lamp in the room was overturned and extinguished.

The police, who entered the house with the expectation of finding two dead men, discovered the men locked in an embrace upon the floor. Gurno still clutched the revolver, but Gillott held his hand. Gillott held a dirk knife, but Gurno held his wrist. Both were nearly exhausted and covered with blood. Neither was seriously wounded. The policemen dragged them apart and disarmed them.

Gurno was charged with attempted murder, while Gillott was discharged and left the court with Mrs. Gurno.

Behind the Bars.

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 5.—William Harper, aged 19, recently released from the Concord reformatory, was arrested yesterday. He was driving a team which had been indentified as belonging to Frank Lewis of Brockton. A search of Harper's barn brought to light property which, the police claim, will substantiate the charge that the prisoner has been doing much thieving. Two complete outfits of harnesses belonging to Gaffney of Taunton and Briggs of Middleboro, and two more belonging in Plymouth. Some horse trades made recently by Harper, are alleged to be with stolen horses. The amount of property seized by the police is valued at $1500.

Roman Again Afloat.

Boston, Oct. 5.—The Warren liner Roman, which was released from her involuntary anchorage on the mud flat at George's island just befere high tide Saturday night, came up to her dock yesterday morning, having anchored off Boston light all night. No time was lost in reloading the cargo taken out of her while she was aground, and such good progress was made that the steamer will start today for Liverpool. A diver who has examined the vessel's bottom reports that no injury was sustained.

Bad Railway Wreck.

Osage City, Kan., Oct. 5.—A railroad wreck, attended by serious loss of life, and made more terrible by the self-murder of one of the terrified passengers, occurred yesterday on the Santa Fe road, two miles north of this station. Seven dead bodies have been recovered from the wreck, and it is feared other victims are buried beneath the debris. The wreck was caused by the explosion of the boiler of the locomotive. The engineer should have stopped for water at Osage City, but being behind time he endeavored to run to the next tank. The engineer and fireman both met death in the wreck. The locomotive was completely shattered. The express, baggage and passenger coaches came crashing upon the wrecked engine, and the coaches that were ditched were piled up in one heap of wreckage. The coaches in the rear were all derailed.

The Latest About Armenia.

London, Oct. 5. — The Vienna correspondent of The Daily Mail declares that the agreement of the powers for the settlement of the Turkish problem includes the formation of an Armenian zone in the Turkish empire on the basis of the Jewish Pole in Russia, the powers guaranteeing the safety of the Armenians therein, with the idea that the zone would become the germ of a new Armenian state. The active preparations, this correspondent proceeds by saying, would be undertaken by England, France and Russia, while Italy will cooperate if necessary. As far as England is concerned, the harbor of Smyrna will play an important part in the final settlement.

Four Boys Burned to Death.

Antlers, I. T., Oct. 5.—At 11 o'clock Saturday night, Spencer academy, located 10 miles west of Antlers, burned to ashes, with all the furniture. Four Choctaw boys were burned to death, and five were badly injured. The origin of the fire is supposed to be incendiary, as no one was occupying the room in which the fire broke out. The boys threw their beds out of the windows and jumped to the ground on them. One of the boys, who was burned to death, was a cripple, and the other three were in rooms where there were no windows. Their moans and groans were heartrending in the extreme.

India's Grain Shortage.

London, Oct. 5.—A dispatch from Simla, with reference to the proposed shipment of California wheat to India, says: The best news we could receive would be that 20 or 30 cargoes of wheat were being shipped from North and South America. It would steady the market and check the further rise, while the actual arrival of cargoes would cause the native grain dealers to lower their prices, the high prices having already caused discontent and grain riots in various towns.

GROCERS' HOLIDAY.

A Novel Parade to the Opening of the Food Fair.

The Quincy grocers, clerks and guests were off this noon in the midst of much enthusiasm for the opening of the World's Food Fair in Boston, and the stores are closed for the afternoon and evening. Grocers from Hingham and the Weymouths accompanied by a band arrived here about 12 45 by special electric cars, and a special car was also run from East Milton, West Quincy and Braintree.

It was quite a procession of electrics which left City Square about 1 o'clock for Neponset.

Here a change was necessary to cars of the West End Company, and the journey was continued via Dorchester avenue. At the Kneeland street station other grocers from the Old Colony district joined the party, and on Tremont street cars from Lowell with the Lowell grocers fell into line, the grand procession arriving at the Mechanics building about 3 P. M.

The grocers and guests marched into the building to the stand, Andrew McNeill of Hingham being chief marshal and L. M. Pratt of Quincy one of the aids.

The programme for the opening of the fair was as follows:

Music, Reeves' band.

Prayer, Rev. J. C. Jaynes of West Newton.

Address, general manager George H. Bond.

Address, Hon. Roger Wolcott, acting governor of Massachusetts.

Address, Hon. Josiah Quincy, mayor of Boston.

Address, Mayor Courtney of Lowell.

Address, Mayor Adams of Quincy.

Address, R. A. Flanders, president national grocers' association.

Music, Reeves' band.

As over 200 exhibitors will give away samples during the fair, it is expected all will come home loaded.

A Fine Block.

The large and handsome brick block on Hancock street, erected the present season for Messrs. H. L. Kincaide & Co. by F. A. Perkins, is now ready for occupancy, and the firm has commenced to move in their goods.

The building cost about $30,000 and stands on land owned in former years by Mr. William Panton; is 60 feet front by 100 feet deep, four stories high, built of brick with Bedford stone for trimmings. It has in front 850 square feet of plate glass, which makes a very attractive appearance. There are 107 windows, besides the show windows, which make the floors light and pleasant. There are passenger and freight elevators operated by city water pressure. The front entrance is of Mosaic and has the word "Kincaide," in front of the door. It is one of the largest and most attractive stores in this city, and will be one of the busiest business centres on Hancock street.

A COLLISION.

Cape Express Runs Into Rear of Freight Train.

Latter Had Parted on Grade and Cars were Going Back.

Wreck Piled Up and Outward Trains Were Delayed.

Quite a serious accident occurred upon the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., about 7.30 this morning between Quincy Adams and Braintree at a point near where Center street passes beneath the railroad.

An outward freight train was approaching Braintree when it broke apart and the rear end started back down the grade toward Quincy Adams. Meanwhile the 7.10 outward Cape express train was approaching Braintree at a rapid speed.

There is a sharp curve at this point and it was impossible for the engineer of the Cape to see but a short distance ahead As he rounded the curve he saw the end of the freight coming toward him. So near was it that the brakes which he quickly applied could not prevent a collision and his engine struck the buggy of the freight with terrific force.

The engine telescoped the buggy and knocking the trucks from under it forced it against the next car, breaking in the end and also tearing its tracks from their fastenings.

Two cars beyond, a flat car was doubled up in the centre and thrown onto the inward track completely blocking it.

Conductor Ingalls of the Cape train was thrown from his feet by the force of the collision, and the passengers were badly shaken up, but outside of a few bruises no one was injured, although the damage to rolling stock will be quite heavy.

A wrecker was quickly sent from Boston and the inward track was cleared at 9 o'clock so that inward traffic was resumed.

It was several hours later before the outward track was cleared and considerable inconvience was experienced by the travelling public and expresses.

The point where the accident took place is a bad one, there being a steep embank on both sides, and had it not been on a grade where the speed of the express train would naturally be checked, a serious loss of life would have resulted.

Free Reading Room.

Wollaston although not favored with a public library, has, through the co-operation of the five church societies, come into possession of an institution which is almost equally as valuable as an educator,—a free reading room.

The project has been under consideration for some time, and as Wollaston increased in population it became more and more apparent by the public spirited citizens of the place that steps should be taken to establish such a room at the earliest possible moment.

After mature deliberation upon the part of its projectors it was decided, that as funds were required for its maintenance so that the public could have free access to its privileges, to invite the co-operation of the various churches. This was done and each society appointed a committee of one to form an executive committee to administer its affairs.

The Congregational society appointed as its representative the Rev. Rufus B. Tobey; the Unitarian society, the Hon. Henry O. Fairbanks; the First Baptist society, Mr. Herbert B. Bailey; the Methodist Episcopal society, Mr. John N. Emerson, and the Episcopal society, Mr. George Henry Page.

The committee met and organized with the Rev. Rufus B. Tobey, president; Mr. Herbert B. Bailey, treasurer; and Mr. John R. Anderson, although not a member of the committee was chosen secretary.

The committee took initiatory steps to put its plan into practical operation last week and leased a room in the new Nickerson-Sherman building on Brook street. The room was fitted up and supplied with the best of current literature and games, where a man could pass a social hour with his friends, in fact it has been very appropriately named "The Social Hour."

The room was opened to the public for the first time on Saturday evening.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The regular Sunday afternoon men's meeting in the Y. M. C. A. rooms were resumed yesterday afternoon. The attendance was good and much interest was manifested in Rev. Robert Westly Peach's remarks on "Shifting the Load." The services of Mr. C. C. Bradford have been secured as organist. It is expected that a small orchestra will be organized to assist at these meetings.

A Large Sarcophagus.

The Governor and Council have approved the design for the monument to be erected by the State at Antietam. It is a very large sarcophagus, 21 feet long and 15 feet high. Nothing would be more appropriate for this than Quincy granite, and it is hoped some Quincy firm may cut it. It was illustrated in the Saturday evening's Herald.

Political Potpourri.

The most interesting convention of the week will be the Republican county convention which will be held Wednesday in Boston.

George R. R. Rivers has no desire for a nomination from the gold Democrats for Congress.

The Chickatawbut club of Dorchester will have as guests at Young's, Oct. 20. Candidates Barrows and Folsom, and probably some of the candidates for State officers.

Councilman Rice is mentioned in connection with the Democratic nominations for Representatives.

J. B. Whelan of Weymouth is the Democratic candidate for Representative in the Braintree-Weymouth district.

The Democrats of the 1st Norfolk district have nominated Alfred Smith for the Legislature.

This is the last day for holding conventions for nominating candidates to be voted for at large throughout the State.

The Registrars of Voters held a busy session Saturday night and added 68 names to the voting lists, by wards as follows: One, 19; Two, 12; Three, precinct one, 4; Three, precinct two, 7; Four, precinct one. 4; Four, precinct two, 7; Five, 10; Six; 6. The names will be published Tuesday.

A meeting of those interested in forming a McKinley & Hobart battalion was held at Republican headquarters Saturday night when measures were taken for uniforms and 53 enrolled themselves. Officer of the battalion will be elected this week.

Watts H. Bowker is reported to have said that he will quietly drop out of the contest for a renomination as county commissioner.

There are plenty of candidates for the Republican nomination for County Commissioner, there being favorite sons in Milton, Needham, Walpole, Brookline, Medfield and Dedham. Capt. E. D. Wadsworth of Milton with the endorsement of his own town, Hyde Park and Quincy, should gain support in the other towns.

Quite a feeling has been stirred up in Braintree and Weymouth because only one Democrat was placed in nomination for Representative whereas the district is entitled to two.

"All Well Now, But."

The Boston press has considerable to say concerning the way the training ship Enterprise passed quarantine, and the yellow flag and answer to the hail of the port physician are in dispute.

The assistant port physician hailed the Enterprise, and says he understood the answer: "Yes, all well now," but the captain says his reply was cut short by the quarantine boat suddenly sheering off. That he did say: "Yes, all well now, but—" That he intended to explain the presence of a body and the cases of tonsilitis. He expected the physician to come on board. Later, upon application to the board of health for the removal of the body, Dr. Shea came aboard and discovered diphtheria.

Up to that time we believed that we had tonsilitis on board, basing the belief upon the statement of the physicians and surgeons at Southampton. Brown developed pneumonia and had heart trouble, from which he died as was stated. So far as Clara was concerned, when he was found to be sick, he was taken aft and separated from the others, and he sat around on the deck.

When asked whether he had traced the origin of the disease on the ship the Commander said that he ascribed it to a boy who came from the country and who had evidently contracted the trouble before coming on board.

I think that it speaks well for the school, he said, that out of 110 boys we had no more cases than we did, and that so many of them recovered.

It speaks strongly for the beneficial effects of the pure, sweet ocean air in stamping out the germs of disease. No, he added, there never was any previous infection of the ship. I feel confident that the trouble was brought on board, as I say. I do not consider her an infected ship by any means. If I did I certainly would not have brought my wife on board.

There are just seven horse cars now running in the city of Detroit. All the rest are electrics.

Good Blood

Is essential to health. Every nook and corner of the system is reached by the blood, and on its quality the condition of every organ depends. Good blood means strong nerves, good digestion, robust health. Impure blood means scrofula, dyspepsia, rheumatism, catarrh or other diseases. The surest way to have good blood is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine purifies, vitalizes, and enriches the blood, and sends the elements of health and strength to every nerve, organ and tissue. FOOT BALL.

The Quincy High Losses the Opening Game of the Season.

The first game of football of the Quincy High school eleven was played Saturday afternoon at Merrymount park, when the home team lined up against the East Milton A. A. eleven. The High school boys put up a good game but were no match for the visitors who not only averaged some thirty pounds heavier but played a very much stronger game.

The visitors put up a strong line and when Quincy had the ball they found it next to impossible to break through their centre line and being unable to get around the end it was seldom that they were able to make their ten yard gain in four downs.

On the other hand Milton being much stronger had but little difficulty in breaking through Quincy's line.

In the first half Milton won the toss but had not succeeded in getting the ball a great distance from the centre line when one of their players made a fumble and the ball falling into Ripleys' hands he dashed around the end and across the field and secured the first and only touchdown for the home team. They, however, failed to kick a goal.

When play was resumed Quincy had the ball but failing to make the ten yard gain Milton got the ball. Quincy fought hard but Milton continued to gain until the ball was within three yards of the line. Then with a rush Baldwin got it over the line and made a touchdown which evened up the score.

The teams again lined up and Quincy made a good kick, but Milton caught it and carried it back near the centre line. Baldwin again got the ball and made a rush for Quincy's goal but a good tackle by Porter prevented much gain. Quincy then got the ball on a fumble and carried it back to the 25 yard line. They failed to make any further gain and the ball passed to Milton. Milton then continued to gain and Homer succeeded in getting a touchdown. Score: Milton, 8; Quincy, 4.

When the teams again lined up, Porter made a good punt which sent the ball dangerously near Milton's goal line. Milton, however, got the ball and had worked it back to near the centre line when half time was called.

When the teams lined up for the second half, Milton had the ball. Quincy got it and succeeded in making gains of 2 and 4 yards when Milton again got the ball and started off with a gain of 10 yards which they followed up with a gain of 4 yards.

Quincy held them here until they got the ball but were unable to make their 10 yard gain and surrendered the ball to Milton, who continued to make small gains until Baldwin secured another touchdown, but failed to kick a goal.

But few minutes were left for play. Porter punted the ball to the 25 yard line but Milton caught it and carried it back 15 yards. Quincy then regained some of its lost ground. Porter forced it through Milton's line and made a slight gain, following it up with gains of 1 and 2 yards. Milton got the ball then and made gains of 3, 5 and 10 yards.

Milton now tries punting for the first time, but punting too high the gain was not over 10 yards. Another punt sends it 10 yards farther into Quincy's territory. Then time was called.

The line up was as follows:

EAST MILTON, A. A.	QUINCY HIGH.
Walters l e	r e Hall
P. Babcock l t	r t Saunders
Homer l g	r g Litchfield
Elden c	c Park
Kemp r g	l g Fitzgerald
Baker r t	l t Lukeforth
Bracket r e	l e Wilkins
Randall q b	q b Morse
E. Babcock l h b	r h b Porter
Robertson r h b	l h b Magnuson
Baldwin f b	f b Ripley

Score, Milton 12, Quincy 4. Touchdowns, Ripley, Baldwin 2, Homer. Umpire, McNally. Referee, Carpenter. Linesman, Haley for Milton, Wales for Quincy. Time 20m halves.

Thayer Eleven Loses

The Thayer Academy foot ball eleven played at Medford Saturday instead of Franklin, and were defeated by the Medford Highs 16 to 6. The teams lined up as follows:

MEDFORD HIGH.	THAYER ACAD.
Bradlee l e	r e Belcher
Sawyer l t	r t Ried
Hodgson l g	r g Moore
Mayo c	c Clinton
McPherson r g	l g Stevens
Trott r t	l t Rogers
Remick r e	l e Waite
Glidden q b	q b L. Hayden
Kakas h b	h b M. Hayden
Wadleigh h b	h b Gannon
Grothe f b	f b Arnold

Score, Medford High 16, Thayer Academy 6. Touchdowns, McPherson, Wadleigh 2, M. Hayden. Goals from touchdown, Bradlee 2, Arnold. Umpire, McPherson. Referee, Kelly, Linesman, Emery. Time 20-minute halves.

FAREWELL RECEPTION.

Cardinal Satolli Retires and Mgr. Martinelli Becomes Apostolic Delegate.

Expresses Gratitude For the Kindness Shown Him.

Gossip Concerning Bishop Keane's Resignation From Washington University.

Washington, Oct. 5.—The last public mass in this country conducted by Cardinal Satolli, and the farewell reception to him, took place yesterday, the mass being celebrated at St. Aloysius church, and the reception being given at Gonzaga college. At the mass also was the first public appearance of the new apostolic delegate, Mgr. Martinelli, Cardinal Satolli's successor. Rev. William O'Brien Bardow, provincial of the province of Maryland and New York, made an address at the reception and preached the sermon at the mass in the morning. In speaking to Cardinal Satolli at the reception, his language was very complimentary.

ARCHBISHOP SATOLLI.

In relinquishing office, Cardinal Satolli sent a copy of the following letter to the bishops of the United States:

Washington, Oct. 4, 1896.

Cardinal Rampolla: Your Excellency: After the holy father had shown his sovereign goodness by elevating me to the dignity of the cardinalate, naturally no great length of time could elapse before he should recall me, and name my successor in the office of this apostolic delegation.

He has named to succeed me the illustrious prelate, his excellency, Mgr. Sebastian Martinelli, who, for his distinguished qualities of mind and for his endowment of prudence, has rightly been deemed well fitted to fill the requirements of this office, and to further the greatest good in the spiritual government of the Catholic church in this great country, where the most striking and noble characteristic is the universal love of justice, charity and peace. Mgr. Martinelli has now arrived, and from this day, assumes, as apostolic delegate, the high office which the holy father has entrusted to him, with all the accompanying facilities and powers.

FATHER MARTINELLI.

While conveying to your excellency this information, I most cordially fulfill a grateful duty, by thanking your excellency for all the kindness you have shown me from the time of my arrival in this country up to today. I am sincerely grateful for all your goodness, indulgence and co-operation in everything which pertains to the duties of my office. It only remains for me to wish you health and prosperity for many years to come, in the exercise of your personal ministry.

With sentiments of highest esteem and fraternal charity, I remain, most faithfully, yours in Christ,

Father Cardinal Satolli.

The current belief among some of the prominent Catholics of Washington is that one of the reasons for Bishop Keane's resignation from the Catholic university may be found in his cooperation with Archbishop Ireland in fathering the liberal spirits as against the old regime. These same persons say that the German Catholics of the country are antagonizing the archbishop and everybody having anything to do with him for his attitude on the parish parochial school question. It is asserted that Mgr. O'Connell, formerly the rector of the American college at Rome, has lost his position, because of the hostility of thee who are opposed to Archbishop Ireland, and that the retirement of Bishop Keane is another evidence of their hostility. Bishop Keane is said to have been a warm supporter of Archbishop Ireland and his official acts, and that the latter supported Bishop Keane in all he did.

The officials of the Catholic legation here and Cardinal Satolli decline to make any statement in regard to the resignation, and declare that the news was a matter of utter surprise to them.

The Flyers of 1896.

According to the records of the Yacht Racing Association the championship winners are Ida J., Gleaner, Arab, Alpine, Elsa and Cock Robin, in respectively the first, second, third, fourth, fifth and knockabout classes. The Elsa's average though not her championship, may be affected by a pending protest, and some other minor changes may come in other classes from the few protests still undecided, but the standing of the boats will not be materially affected.

The Beatrice, owned by John Cavanagh, was fourth in the first class with a record of 3 firsts, 3 seconds and 3 thirds in 21 entries.

The Cleopatra and Swirl, both owned by H. M. Faxon, were fourth and fifth in the second class.

The Rooster owned by Adams brothers was third, and Capt. W. P. Barker's Opechee fourth in the third class.

H. B. Faxon's Sunbeam was fourth and the Sphinx sixth in the fourth class.

Narrow Escape from Drowning.

A young man named Frew had a narrow escape from drowning Sunday afternoon between 3 and 4 o'clock at Quincy Point. He was out in a skiff with a sprit sail when the boat dipped her nose into the water and filled.

Frew who had on a pair of heavy rubber boots was on the water several minutes and it looked as though he would drown. Frank Pray, who saw the accident, put out in a boat and rescued him.

Accident.

A young lady fell on Friday evening over a stump in front of Kincaide's new block, and injured herself considerably. It sticks up several inches above the sidewalk and is very dangerous, We do not think a suit will be brought against the city, but it would be well for the Commissioner of Public Works to remove the obstruction.

NEURALGIA
BOUND HIM WITH BANDS OF PAIN

He is now Cured, and He Thanks God and P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, For It.

Mr. George Briggs, of Moore, Okla., suffered almost indescribable torment for three long years. Neuralgia held him captive. The right side of his face was so badly affected that the slightest touch would cause the unfortunate man intense agony. For several weeks he could open his mouth just wide enough to be fed with liquid nourishment, and in this manner life was sustained. Read the following extract from his letter: "Truth is stranger than Fiction."

NEURALGIA, CATARRH AND RHEUMATISM COMPLETELY CURED.

George Briggs, of Moore, Oklahoma, writes that P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, cured him of catarrh, facial neuralgia and rheumatism, after three years of intense suffering. The pain lay in his cheek bone and temple, down the right side of his face, along his upper lip, and from the slightest touch he suffered agonies for weeks at a time. Could only open his mouth wide enough to admit a teaspoon, and any acid in his food would put him in torture. He had a consultation of the best physicians in Texas, but all to no purpose.

Catarrh and rheumatism were also causing him much trouble, until he tried P. P. P. He says he is well and will swear that there are no cases of neuralgia, catarrh and rheumatism, no matter how chronic or how old the cases ar , that P. P. P. will not make a total cure of.

Mr. Briggs winds up his testimony by saying he thanks God and our medicine, P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, for the great cure.

Kidney troubles, if neglected, bring about serious and painful and very often fatal results. P. P. P. removes the irregularities, and cures the diseased parts.

Dyspepsia and indigestion, skin and blood diseases, can be speedily removed by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

Ladies, take P. P. P. and rid your face of pimples, blotches, freckles, yellow or muddy skin, wrinkles and vulgar redness.

SOCIALISTS NOT BAD.

Candidate Matchett Defends the Party Which He Represents.

Bryan Accepts the Nomination of Populists.

Tom Watson Refuses to Step Out of the Vice Presidential Contest.

Boston, Oct. 5.—A reception to Charles H. Matchett, presidential candidate of the Socialist-Labor party, was given in Faneuil hall last evening. A meeting, to take place on the common, had been announced, but it was abandoned on account of rain. There was a large and enthusistic crowd in Faneuil hall when the meeting was called to order by Squire E. Putney.

CHARLES H. MATCHETT.

He introduced Thomas C. Brophy, the party's candidate for governor, who enunciated the propositions that labor created all wealth; that capital was not accumulated by saving, but by spoliation, and that land and the means of production and distribution belonged to the people. He claimed that what was wanted was not free silver, but free access to the means of production and distribution, and that the cause of misery and degradation among the people was that they were in the hands of private monopolies. The gold bug party, he declared, had nominated a man for president who, five years before, had advocated the free and unlimited coinage of silver. He concluded that the workingmen had no use for the Republican party, and denounced some of the leaders of the Democratic side.

Mr. Matchett was received with loud applause. He said that the pulpit and press had maligned socialism as something mean and bad, and he wished to throw the lie back in the teeth of organized society. Between gold and silver bugs it was simply a question of who could rob the masses most. The socialistic party had no millionaires in it.

"How about William Morris?" someone in the audience called out, and Mr. Matchett stopped in his speech long enough to make the correction and praise the dead socialistic poet and millionaire. He stated that he didn't want any more interruptions, as he was there to do the talking, and recounted the history of his party since 1867, when it started in Berlin with 600 voters, until today, when it had millions, he claimed. The rising tide of the proletariat would, he continued, swell until it swept to the foot of the throne of the Emperor William and overthrow his despotism.

He wanted to say to the voters in this country that they thought their votes thrown away when they gave them to Socialistic candidates, but they didn't hesitate to cast them for the gold bug, who rode on their backs, or the silver bug, who would defraud them. On his trip through Connecticut he had had men say to him that they dared not express their political opinions, because they would be discharged if they did.

"I hear some of you say," he exclaimed, "what could be do without capitalists? It's a pity you weren't born 40 years ago with black skins, and then you could have asked: 'What can we do without a master.'"

Mr. Matchett characterized the talk of the gold standard men as amounting to a statement to the effect that they had always buncoed and swindled the people, and they wanted to be allowed to continue to do so. Gold was valuable simply because it wa a material which it took a certain amount of toil to extract from the ground. Labor was the sole measure of value.

Resolutions condemning biennials were adopted at the conclusion of his speech.

FORMAL ACCEPTANCE.

Bryan's Letter to Notification Committee of the People's Party.

St. Louis, Oct. 5.—On his arrival here, Candidate Bryan gave out for publication the following letter of acceptance of the Populist nomination for president:

To the Hon William V. Allen, Chairman, and others, Members of the Notification Committee of the People's Party:

Gentlemen—The nomination of the People's party for the presidency of the United States has been tendered me in such a generous spirit and upon such honorable terms, that I am able to accept the same without departing from the platform adopted by the national convention at Chicago.

I fully appreciate the breadth of patriotism which has actuated the members of the People's party, who, in order to consolidate the sentiment in favor of bimetallism, have been willing to go outside of party lines and support as their candidate one already nominated by the Democratic party and also by the Silver party.

I also appreciate the fact that while, during all the years since 1873, a large majority of the Democratic party and a considerable minority of the Republican party have been consistent advocates of the free coinage of silver at the present ratio, yet ever since the organization of the People's party its members have unanimously supported such coinage as the only means of restoring bimetallism.

By persistently pointing out the disastrous effects of a gold standard and protesting against each successive step toward financial bondage, the Populists have exerted an important influence in awakening the public to a realization of the nation's present peril.

In a time like this, when a great political party is attempting to surrender the right to legislate for ourselves upon the financial question, and is seeking to bind the American people to a foreign monetary system, it behooves us, as lovers of our country and friends of American institutions, to lay aside for the present such differences as may exist among us on minor questions, in order that our strength may be united in a supreme effort to wrest the government from the hands of those who imagine that the nation's finances are only secured when controlled by a few financiers, and that national honor can only be maintained by servile acquiescence in any policy, however destructive to the interests of the people of the United States, which foreign creditors, present or prospective, may desire to force upon us.

It is a cause of congratulation that we have in this campaign not only the support of Democrats, Populists and Republicans, who have all along believed in independent bimetallism, but also the active co-operation of those Democrats and Republicans who have heretofore waited for international bimetallism, now join with us rather than trust the destinies of the nation in the hands of those who are holding out the delusive hope of foreign aid, while they labor secretly for the permanent establishment of the single gold standard.

While difficulties have always arisen in the settlement of details of any plan of co-operation between distinct political organizations, I am sure that the advocates of bimetallism are so intensely in earnest that they will be able to devise some means by which the free silver vote may be concentrated upon one electoral ticket in each state. To secure this result, charity toward opinions of others and liberality on the part of all, is necessary, but honest and sincere friends who are working toward a common result, always find it possible to agree upon just and equitable terms.

The American people have proven equal to every emergency which has arisen in the past, and I am confident that in the present emergency there will be no antagonism between the various regiments of the one great army which is marching to repel an invasion more dangerous to our welfare than an army with banners.

Acknowledging, with gratitude, your expressions of confidence and good will, I am, very truly yours,

W. J. Bryan.

STILL IN THE FIELD.

Watson Will Keep on Populist Ticket Until the Campaign Closes.

New York, Oct. 5.—The World this morning publishes a special dispatch from Atlanta, in which Thomas Watson emphatically declines to retire from the ticket in favor of Mr. Sewall. He said:

"I'd lay my head on the block before I'd retire from the race to make way for a plutocrat, a bondholder, a national banker and protectionist like Mr. Sewall. If Mr. Sewall is willing to get off the ticket, I believe that even now there is a chance to elect Mr. Bryan. Mr. Bryan and I could at once make a tour together, and inside of 10 days we might restore thousands of votes."

"How could Mr. Sewall be got off the ticket?"

"It would be easy enough. The Democratic national committee could go to Mr. Sewall and say to him, 'Mr. Sewall, you are the menace to the ticket. Unless you withdraw Mr. Bryan will be defeated. You are endangering his chances.' There would be no nothing for Mr. Sewall to do but resign. If he would see Mr. Bryan elected, he must resign now."

"But if Mr. Sewall should refuse, the national committee cannot compel him?"

"I remain on the ticket till the last ballot is cast. When the election is over I will go back to my party, and they will know then that the trust committed into my hands has not been betrayed."

Fusion Fails In Virginia.

Richmond, Oct. 5.—All efforts to effect a fusion electoral ticket in Virginia have failed. There were several propositions submitted by the Populists. One of them was for the Democrats to give the Populists two electors, who were to vote for Bryan and Watson, the Democrats to have the other 10 electors. This suggestion was favorably received by several members of the committee, but others raised such a vigorous opposition that it was abandoned. In its place the Democrats proposed to allow the Populists three electors, who were, however, to vote for Bryan and Sewall. This substitute was rejected by the Populist committee by a vote of 20 to 2, one member being absent. The Populist committee failing to agree, and its members having separated, the fusion will fail. The time in which the electors could file their names with the secretary of the commonwealth under the ballot law has expired, and the Democratic electoral ticket, which was chosen at Staunton, had been sent to the secretary of the commonwealth.

Busy Times at Canton.

Canton, O., Oct. 5.—After a week closed with 16 speeches on Saturday, Major McKinley arose at the usual hour yesterday, and morning service at his church found him at his accustomed pew. Agreements with delegations are now booked at late as Oct. 24, with but two open dates between now and then. The schedule for this week shows more delegations than announced at the beginning of any previous week. Definite arrangements have been made for 34 distinct parties, Michigan, Indiana and New York being conspicuous in the list, with about the usual quota from Pennsylvania and Ohio. The south will be represented by two crowds, and the week opens with one from Missouri.

Doesn't Expect Nomination.

Brookline, Mass., Oct. 5.—County Commissioner Watts H. Bowker of Norfolk county, in an interview last night, stated that he did not believe that his name would be presented to the convention as a candidate for re-election. Commissioner Bowker and Chairman Morrell of Hyde Park were severely criticised by a committee of the legislature, which investigated the building of the Dedham courthouse. Since this finding there has been a strong movement in the county against Mr. Bowker, and although one or two towns have elected delegates favorable to him, a majority are believed to be in favor of some other candidate.

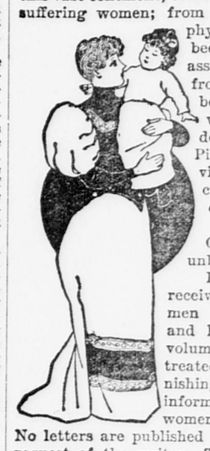
A Restful Sunday.

St. Louis, Oct. 5.—W. J. Bryan left St. Louis last night on a special train for Memphis. During the day he spent most of the time in bed, recuperating from the fatigues of the past week. He did not arise until 5 o'clock. From that hour until the time for the departure of his special train he was besieged by visitors. Mr. Bryan did not go to church, nor did he leave the hotel until he started for the train. There was no crowd around the depot when the train left, as it was not generally known that the presidential candidate was to leave the city last night.

MRS. GOOLD'S GRATITUDE.

Her Story of How She Was Restored to Health.

Condition Before and After the Birth of Her Child.



From every city, town and hamlet on this vast continent, come letters from suffering women; from those whose physicians have been unable to assist them, or from that numberless class whose confidence in Mrs. Pinkham's advice and the curative properties of her Vegetable Compound is unbounded.

Every letter received from women is recorded, and hundreds of volumes of cases treated aid in furnishing practical information for the women of to-day. No letters are published without the request of the writer. The strictest confidence is observed. The following letter represents thousands:—

"I always enjoyed good health until six months before the birth of my babe. Then I was very weak; my back ached all the time. My physicians said I would be all right after the birth of the child, but I was not, although at that time I had the best of care. The pains in my back were almost unbearable. I had leucorrhœa in its worst form; menstruations were painful.

"Any work or care would entirely unnerve me. When my babe was 11 months old, friends persuaded me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I had taken one bottle I felt the effects. My back did not ache so badly, and I felt stronger. After taking four bottles I felt well. My ambition returned, menstruations were painless, leucorrhœa entirely cured, and I could take care of my babe and do my housework. I shall always recommend your Vegetable Compound for all women, especially for young mothers."—Mrs. H. L. GOOLD, Oregon, Wis.

If Mrs. Goold had been well before the birth of her child, subsequent suffering would have been avoided. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should always be taken before and after birth, in order that the system may withstand the shock.

FAILED TO COMPROMISE

Both Factions of Massachusetts Democracy File Nomination Certificates.

Republican Gains In Connecticut Town Elections.

Hobart Denies That He Is, or Has Been, In the Coal Trust.

Boston, Oct. 6.—An attempt was made yesterday on the part of G. F. Williams and his supporters, to arrange a compromise with the Democratic state committee in regard to the conflicting nominations for presidential electors, which resulted from the opposing Democratic conventions of a week ago. Mr. Williams evidently judged from the fact that the state committee filled up its ticket in the main with the same names that were placed in nomination at Music hall, that it could be induced to agree on the same electors; and yesterday Bordman Hall went to the headquarters of the state committee, met the members of the executive committee, and requested, in the name of Mr. Williams, that the committee withdraw the names of the gentlemen nominated at Faneuil hall as presidential electors-at-large. These were John F. Murphy of Lowell and Ernest C. Marshall of Boston. The supposition was, that if the state committee should withdraw those names, it would fill the vacancies with the names of the electors-at-large chosen at Music hall, Henry Winn of Malden and Brooks Adams of Quincy.

Chairman Corcoran, Hon. J. H. Sullivan, Congressman Fitzgerald and Philip J. Farley were among those present at headquarters, and after deliberating over the request from the enemy's camp, they returned the reply that under the vote taken at Faneuil hall, they had no power to withdraw names. The committee by that vote was merely given power to fill vacancies in its ticket. So Mr. Hall's mission was unsuccessful.

Although the committee would not withdrew the names mentioned for electors, there was nothing in its attitude which will prevent Mr. Marshall and Mr. Murphy from withdrawing by their own volition, if they see fit; but the matter will be a personal affair of their own. The list of nominations from the conventions had to be filed with the secretary of state before 5 o'clock, and the nominees have until 72 hours thereafter to withdraw their names.

The Music hall ticket was filed at 3:45 p. m. by James H. Mellen of Worcester and Timothy W. Coakley of Boston, in person. One hour and 13 minutes later, or two minutes before the time expired, at 5 o'clock, the Faneuil hall "Certificate of nomination" was placed in the hands of the secretary. The Music hall ticket is as follows:

Presidential electors-at-large, Brooks Adams of Quincy, Henry Winn of Malden.

By districts—First, Frank H. Gross of Lee; Second, William M. E. Mellin, Chicopee; Third, Enoch Earle, Worcester; Fourth, Harry J. Jaquith, Wellesley; Fifth, James E. Donohue, Lawrence; Sixth, Thomas Saunders, Haverhill; Seventh, William J. Brickley, Everett; Eighth, James F. Mullen, Boston; Ninth, William J. Burke, Boston; Tenth, Quincy A. Lathrop, Boston; Eleventh, James Jeffrey Roche, Brookline; Twelfth, Francis A. Hobart, Braintree; Thirteenth, Charles H. Lane, Tisbury.

Governor, George Fred Williams of Dedham.

Lieutenant governor, Christopher T. Callahan of Holyoke.

Secretary, Joseph H. Potts of Lynn.

Treasurer, Thomas A. Watson of Braintree.

Auditor, Morris P. Cavanaugh of Springfield.

Attorney general, John B. O'Donnell of Northampton.

The ticket filed by the Faneuil hall wing is as follows:

Presidential electors-at-large, Ernest C. Marshal of Boston, John F. Murphy of Lowell.

By districts—First, William B. Mahoney, Westfield; Second, Joseph F. Callahan, Springfield; Third, Levi Barker, Worcester; Fourth, Hnery J. Jaquith, Wellesley; Fifth, Michael O'Mahoney, Lawrence; Sixth, James B. Dearborn, Haverhill; Seventh, Edward H. Newhall, Lynn; Eighth, John P. McCormick, Cambridge; Ninth, James J. Lanigan, Boston; Tenth, William S. McNary, Boston; Eleventh, William D. Leahy, Milford; Twelfth, Francis A. Hobart, Braintree; Thirteenth, Thomas J. Meaney, New Bedford.

For governor, George Fred Williams of Dedham.

Lieutenant governor, Christopher T. Callahan of Holyoke.

Secretary, Joseph A. Potts of Lynn.

Treasurer, Thomas A. Watson of Braintree.

Auditor, Morris J. Fitzgerald of Boston.

Attorney general, John B. O'Donnell of Northampton.

The Faneuil hall ticket is certified to by Philip J. Farley as presiding officer, and Nathaniel G. Robinson as secretary of that convention; while James H. Mellen and James H. Coakley certify the Music hall ticket as presiding officer and secretary, respectively. The ballot law commission will take up the controversy in a few days.

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 6.—John F. Murphy, nominated for presidential elector-at-large by the Faneuil hall convention, was quoted by the Bryan-Sewall-Williams club of Boston yesterday as having resigned. Mr. Murphy last night denied the statement. He said: "I never had any intention of resigning, as I was fairly nominated by what I consider the legal state convention. After the blundering manner in which Williams created a split in the party, I do not intend to resign, but to stick and fight it out before the ballot commissioners, if necessary."

NOT IN COAL TRUST.

Hobart Corrects a Rumor Which Has Been Widely Circulated.

New York, Oct. 6.—Republican headquarters gave out the following last night: A report has recently been circulated in the west to the effect that Mr. Hobart, the Republican candidate for vice president, is president of the Hard Coal trust, which, it is alleged, has advanced the price of coal. When Mr. Hobart's attention was called to this report he said that, while he did not make it a practice to deny campaign rumors, he felt that inasmuch as this matter had been circulated through the west, it was proper to make a statement, the substance of which is as follows:

"Last December the trunk line railroads located east of the Mississippi were called upon, under an agreement known as the Joint Traffic association, to select three arbitrators to arbitrate the differences which might arise between these railroads. Only trunk lines were included in this arbitration. Coal roads were not included, and the matter submitted to arbitration had nothing to do with coal, coal production, coal tonnage or the price of coal in any manner, form or shape whatever, either directly or indirectly. The selection of Mr. Hobart as a judge between these railroads was made, because he had no interest therein in any form. Mr. Hobart also distinctly stated that he has no connection, directly or indirectly, with any such Coal trust. He does not know of the existence of any such trust, except as he has seen statements in the newspapers."

Figures From Connecticut.

Hartford, Oct. 6.—Town elections were held all over the state yesterday, except at Hartford, New Haven, Bridgeport, Ansonia, Derby and Naugatuck, and the results show a decided gain in Republican strength, and may be accepted as an index to the greater political battle which will be waged at the polls four weeks from today, and the extreme satisfaction with the result, expressed by Lieutenant Governor Cook, the Republican gubernatorial nominee, found a reiteration at the headquarters of the state central committee, where it was stated last night that McKinley and Hobart would get upward of 30,000 majority at the state election. Though yesterday's elections present many local issues which complicate the efforts to arrive at an intelligent estimate of the leading party's strength, it was a significant fact that in the few towns that had both gold and silver tickets in the field, the gold men were greatly in the majority. The weather conditions were decidedly unfavorable for a large vote, but the leaders of both parties realized that upon the result of yesterday's elections an estimate of the Republican majority in Connecticut next November would be formed, and an effort was made in almost every town to get out the fullest possible vote.

Bryan at Nashville.

Nashville, Oct. 6.—The greatest crowd that ever turned out to a political meeting in the history of Nashville crowded about the streets last night, shouted and yelled, cheered and applauded, and listened to William J. Bryan, on his arrival. It was nearly 9:15 o'clock when Mr. Bryan addressed his first audience in this city at the Haymarket. At that meeting, the five acres of ground in the enclosure was half filled with people, who cheered the candidate wildly, on his appearance. A glee club of 30 male voices opened the meeting with "Home, Sweet Home," the old-fashioned melody which the nominee has declared to be his campaign song. The candidate was then introduced by Senator Bate as the next president of the United States. He was cheered and applauded throughout his speech, and many times was stopped by the enthusiasm of his listeners.

Harrison at Richmond.

Richmond, Oct. 6.—Ex-President Benjamin Harrison spoke here last night. The meeting was held in the Auditorium building at the exposition grounds. Not quite half the seats were taken, the audience was about equally divided between the two races. On the stage were many of the leading Republicans and Gold Democrats, and also a sprinkling of Silver Democrats. General Harrison's wife was present. She was accompanied by several Richmond ladies. The ex-president was applauded when he made his appearance on the stage. The rival applause for McKinley and Bryan interrupted him several times. His arguments were along the line of those he has used in other speeches. Once the lights went out, and the building was in darkness five minutes, during which General Harrison suspended his remarks.

A Disrespectful Audience.

St. Louis. Oct. 6.—An immense crowd of people assembled at the Auditorium here last night, to listen to Bourke Cockran speak upon the money question. So frequently was he interrupted, however, by askers of questions, that the effect of his speech was almost spoiled. There appeared to be a prearranged plan on the part of the questioners, and there were at least 100 of them. On several occasions some of the crowd took exceptions to certain assertions made by Mr. Cockran, and became quite boisterous. The disorder increased as he progressed, so that many people left the hall. Officials of the Gold Standard Democratic club, under whose auspices Mr. Cockran was brought here, are highly indignant over what they term an outrage.

First Voters Visited McKinley.

Canton, O., Oct. 6.—Major McKinley had an unexpected delegation last night. The First Voters' club of Canton, headed by a band, marched to the lawn unannounced, and when Major McKinley appeared upon the porch, greeted him with three cheers. Then Attorney Thomas F. Tarner made an introductory address, to which Major McKinley responded.

Bald Is Champion.

Washington, Oct. 6.—Washington entered the list of national circuit bicycle cities yesterday, and 5000 persons saw the pick of the season's cracks struggle for the title of champion of 1896. The meeting closed the national circuit races for 1896. The result of the races gives Eddie Bald the championship for the season of 1896. During the national circuit season, including yesterday's events, Bald has won races that give him 67 points, while Tom Cooper, who started in about the same number of races, scored 65 points. Both men rode yesterday in three races, Bald winning two of them and Cooper one.

He will leave Washington tomorrow, and sail from New York Oct. 17. He will go from this city to Newark, N. J., where he will visit the bishop of Newark and the institutions of the diocese. Saturday he will visit the West Point military academy. On the following Monday he will leave for New York, and will spend the remainder of the time before sailing in that city and Brooklyn. His plans contemplate no participation in formal functions of any kind.

Troublesome Redskins.

Washington, Oct. 6.—At the request of the interior department, the secretary of war has sent troops to Duskahoma, in the Choctaw country, to guard against trouble, which is apprehended by Agent Wisdom when the new chief of the tribe is installed. The troops made a forced march, and arrived at Tuskahoma yesterday. The troops were placed entirely under the orders of Agent Wisdom.

Contracts Given Out.

Washington, Oct. 6.—Secretary Herbert has awarded the contract for building one of the 30-knot torpedo boats to the Union iron works of San Francisco, and the contracts for two smaller 30-knot boats, upon plans projected by the French builder, Normand, to the Bath iron works of Maine.

Fall Carpets.

Just a seasonable word or two, to-day.

When you're buying, think about quality as well as price.

Remember that the words "Axminster," "Wilton," "Brussels," etc., can be made to cover a multitude of sins.

Remember, too, that our stock is far larger than that of any other Boston house, and that as nobody can possibly buy to better advantage than we can, it is reasonable to suppose that our ability to name very low selling figures is also unsurpassed.

We are combining high quality with moderation in price, this Fall, more effectively than ever before.

We ask for your patronage on this basis—the basis of "goods for the money."

Educational Reception.

Wednesday the Young Men's Christian Association will for the first time give an educational reception. It will be not only a pleasant affair, socially, for all interested in the educational work, but will undoubtedly prove of a very practical help to those who are considering how they can spend their evenings this fall and winter to the greatest profit. Mr. D. F. Graham of Springfield, a specialist in every educational work for men will be present and give some very interesting facts and suggestions. There will be remarks by instructors and others and a short entertainment.

The Food Fair.

The trolley parade of the grocers and friends to the Food Fair on Monday attracted considerable attention along the route. It was a long, cold, wet ride, however, and all were glad when the Mechanics building was reached. Grocers and their guests marched with a band into and through the hall, and there were brief opening addresses, Col. Thomas, Mayor Quincy of Boston, and Mayor Adams of Quincy being among the speakers. The attendance on the opening day was upwards of 15,000, and the Food Fair of 1896 was very successfully inaugurated.

No-License Campaign.

The various chairmen of the Ward Committees of the No-License movement met at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, Monday evening, and organized with Rev. Edward Norton as chairman, O. C. Colton as secretary and Jonas Shackley as treasurer.

The work to be done was freely discussed and steps taken to push the campaign vigorously immediately after the November election. From reports received there is no doubt but that strong outside, as well as local influence, will be brought to bear this year for license in Quincy.

Let those who believe in the protection of the home and family begin the campaign of education at once.

Universalist Church.

This church is in active operation. Rev. Charles S. Nickerson, the minister in charge, preached on Sunday from the text found in Matthew VIII:9—"I will come and heal him." The sermon dealt with the derangements of society and of the individual. It also set forth Jesus as the one whose teaching and life would remedy the existing ills and make the individual and thereby society whole, natural and healthy.

Mr. Nickerson announced that October 25th would be Rally Day with the congregation and Sunday School. Also that services appropriate to the harvest season would be held that day.

Young men are invited to join the class for Bible Study to be formed Oct. 25th, to be conducted by the minister.

The Harvest festival, under the auspices of the ladies' association, occurs next week.

The Young People's Christian Alliance is arranging for it's anniversary to take place early next month.

Meetings for Bible study are held every Friday evening at 7.45 as appointed. This week it will be held at Mrs. Newcomb's, on Hancock street.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Copeland Street Improvement Order Fails to Pass.

Hearings on Street Railway Turnouts and New Streets.

Henry H. Faxon Delivers a Prepared Speech on Street Railway.

Every member was present at Monday night's meeting of the City Council. There was but little business but as usual in such cases the Council finds something to get into debate over and so it did Monday night over the order for paving Copeland street.

Communications.

The Mayor forwarded two communications, one stating that the appropriation for Miscellaneous City Expenses was exhausted by meeting large claims against the city; the other enclosed the petition of James F. Moran for soldier's relief. The former was referred to the Committee on Finance and the latter to the Committee on State Aid.

The City Auditor also forwarded a communication in relation to the appropriation for Miscellaneous City Expenses which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Petition.

Petitions were received from George Wilson for license to collect junk, and from John L. Maxim for Military aid. Referred.

Report of Committee.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for a public hearing, Nov. 2, on the petition of the Quincy & Boston street railway for a double track from the corner of Franklin and School streets to the Neponset bridge.

Upon motion of Councilman Sidelinger the report of the Committee on Licenses on petition of H. W. Coburn, for license for billiard and pool table, was taken from the table.

Councilman Sidelinger then offered a substitute order granting the license which was adopted.

Copeland Street.

Upon motion of Councilman Lamb the order appropriating $18,000 for paving Copeland street was taken from the table.

Councilman Lamb then offered an amendment, adding the words "except the part to be paved by the street railway," this was adopted and the question came on passing to be ordained.

Councilman Claflin said he originally opposed the order because the street railway had not been charged with part of the expense and that abutters should be assessed for edgestones. But now street railway has been provided for he saw no good reason why order should not pass, although he saw no good reason why abuttors should not pay for half of edgestones.

Councilman Little thought if it had been the custom for abutters to pay half of cost of curbing when streets were rebuilt he would not object but saw no reason why it should not be done here. He thought it would come hard on some of the poor widows.

Councilman Anderson did not think city justified in expending that amount of money. It could be repaired cheaper.

Councilman Lamb said the street was in bad condition. He objected to assessing abutters half for edgestones.

Councilman Sprague offered an amendment that abutters be assessed half for edgestones.

The chair put the motion but gave it as his opinion if passed it could not be collected.

Councilman Geary did not think abutters should pay for edgestones. The street needed repairs. It was wrong to keep patching every year. Was economy to pave, as it was the only proper way.

Councilman Rice said the part that is wide enough to pave is in good condition and that part that should be paved is too narrow.

At this point public hearings were held on the extension of Newcomb street, acceptance of Miller Stile road as a public way, and on petition of the Quincy & Boston street railway for a turnout on Washington street, all of which will be found elsewhere in this report.

Councilman Little thought it economy to pave and not extravagance. Was not customary to assess abuttors for edgestones.

Councilman Rice thought city not in condition at present to pave the street without serious consideration.

Councilman Badger thought it would be a difficult matter to collect betterments unless parties were first given a hearing.

Councilman Sprague's amendment was then voted down.

Commissioner Knowlton, in response to question, said there was no doubt but what the street was in bad condition. The question was whether you want it repaired in a permanent manner or patched up. Certain portions were in worse conditions than any street in Quincy, especially at Brewers corner and near Willard school.

Councilman Rideout asked if turnout at Brewers corner was not the cause of the dangerous condition.

Commissioner Knowlton replied no, the worse part was nearer the corner.

Councilman Sprague asked how much it would cost to put the street in repair until next year.

Commissioner Knowlton replied from $300 to $400 the whole length and $250 as far as Willard school.

Councilman Anderson said the Quarry railroad had taken away much of the heavy travel over the street.

Councilman Phillips asked if it was advisable to commence so large a job so late in the season.

Commissioner Knowlton replied that he would not make plans to complete this fall but would make a start.

Councilman Lamb said Quarry railroad did not do all the teaming. Patching was only an expense and cost would more than pay interest on money to pave.

Councilman Field hoped order would lay on table until it was found out where the railroad was to be located and he so moved.

Councilman Moxon hoped motion would not prevail. He was in favor of paving some street every year, as he believed it the true policy to pursue.

Councilman Nickerson thought some streets should be paved every year. He voted against it in committee as he understood city was not in a condition to expend the money.

Councilman Claflin replied that at that time nothing was said about street railway, but now the question had been changed in some of its aspects.

Councilman Anderson thought the city should pave when city was in proper condition financially but did not think it was now.

Councilman Murray hoped order would pass. Money that had been spent there had been thrown away.

The motion to lay on the table was voted down.

Councilman Pinkham did not like the way notes were drawn. Thought we should pay some before the end of six years.

Councilman Moxon said there was due in 1897, $61,720; in 1898, $58,280; 1899, $65,980; 1900, $59,300; 1901, $26,755; 1902, $12,000. Upon plan of equality it was our duty to divide the debt over some certain time and would be better even to pay it one year later.

Councilman Pinkham did not think it good policy to show we had a large debt in 1901. Those that used the street should pay for it now and not ten years hence.

Councilman Moxon said it was our duty to spread our debt equally. The trouble is that early Councils have loaded the next few years with debt which makes our taxes high. The way to help this condition is to pass order as it is.

Councilman Pinkham moved as an amendment that one note of $800 and one of $1,000 be issued for each year commencing in 1895.

The motion was voted down.

Councilman Rideout moved the order be recommitted. Voted down.

Councilman Pinkham moved to amend by making it read nine notes of $2000 each payable one each year. Voted.

The order was then put on its final passage but failed to pass by the following vote:

Yeas—Badger, Barker, Claflin, Cleaves, Geary, Hayden, Holt, Lamb, Little, Moxon, Murray, Pinkham, Russell, Sidelinger—14.

Nays—Anderson, Field, Nickerson, Parker, Phillips, Rice, Rideout, Sprague—8.

NOT VOTING—President Bryant.

The vote was then reconsidered and the order laid on the table.

Turnouts.

The Committee on Streets reported an order granting temporary locations for turnouts an Hancock street.

President Bryant asked City Solicitor if order passed if it would be legal without a public hearing?

City Solicitor replied, should say it wou'd not.

The order took its second reading.

Forbes Hill Lot.

The Committee on Water Supply, on communication of the Mayor, reported a resolution authorizing the Mayor to negotiate and convey to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts the land on Forbes Hill for $5,000, if Quincy is admitted to the Metropolitan Water Supply system for a reasonable sum, and that after reservoir was built Quincy should have free access over the land.

Councilman Rice thought the amount too small.

Councilman Moxon thought we should take time to consider.

Councilman Sprague did not think it good business to sell for less than it cost the city.

The order was recommitted.

Licenses.

The Committee on Licenses reported order granting carriage license to N. V. Titus, and billiard and pool licenses to J. N. Page and B. H. Kingsley. Adopted.

Public Hearings.

The first hearing was on the extension of Newcomb street to Greenleaf street.

W. P. Barker as an heir of Henry Barker opposed. The land to be taken from him was high land and it would injure his property as the most of it was low land.

Henry H. Faxon thought all land would be improved by this street. The betterment act should be applied to Mr. Barker's land.

The hearing closed and the order was recommitted.

The next hearing was on acceptance of Miller's Stile road.

Ex-Mayor Hodges thought the street very much needed. Few streets were used more than this until bridge was closed.

W. G. A. Pattee appeared for Dr. Everett. This was connecting link between City Square and Quincy Neck. No person has a right to go through this property if abutters object. All the abutters desire it

MARTINELLI ATTACKED.

Charge That He Is Here to Counteract Liberal Policy of Satolli.

New York, Oct. 6.—Rev. J. A. O'Connor, pastor of Christ's Mission, made an attack on the Catholic priesthood, and severely criticised the first utterances of Archbishop Martinelli. Christ's Mission is an institution for the conversion of Roman Catholics, and Rev. Mr. O'Connor was formerly a priest. He said:

"I see that Martinelli has come from Italy to be the pope of America. Satolli was a little too liberal for his holiness; he was making too many friends among the American people, and was in danger of becoming a Protestant himself, and he didn't say much against the public schools. Martinelli is sent here to reverse Satolli's policy. They made Satolli a cardinal before removing him. Whenever Rome has a troublesome priest, they first promote and then remove him.

"What were Martinelli's first words to the reporters? I want you all to mark them. He was asked, 'In what country does the pope think the Catholic church will be the strongest?' The answer was: 'The holy father thinks that in future America will be the strongest Catholic country in the world.'

"We must be up and doing. God bless these patriotic societies that have arisen during the past few years, who say to the Roman Catholic church, 'Thus far and no farther, hands off our public schools, hands off our institutions, beware.' There is need for the multiplication of these societies. Every Protestant church in our land should raise its voice."

Harcourt on Armenia.

London, Oct. 6.—Sir William V. Harcourt, Liberal leader in the house of commons, speaking last night at Ebbvale, expressed himself upon the Turkish question for the first time since the present conditions have developed. He called upon the government to grant security and protection to the Armenians. The Turkish government, he said, could never be reformed until it ceased to exist, but, he added, England could not act alone, because only a military occupation of Turkey would avail to protect the Armenians. England must co-operate with Russia, the first step being to obliterate the Cyprus convention, by which the Island of Cyprus was ceded to Great Britain.

Belligerent Georgians.

Atlanta, Oct. 6. — The heated state campaign in this state has led to a personal controversy between Steve Clay, the Democratic chairman, and John D. Cunningham, chairman of the Populist executive committee. In a speech at Winder, Saturday, Clay made a severe attack upon Cunningham's personal character, charging Cunningham with drinking more whisky than water, and with playing poker. Cunningham replied by a card in The Journal yesterday, admitting the poker game and explaining the circumstances. He concluded by denouncing Clay as a "common liar and a coward."

Abington Wild Preacher Captured in Quincy.

He Came by the Late Train Last Night.

Was Arrested, and in Court Today Was Sent to Dedham.

The "Wild Preacher," who has been making things extremely unpleasant for the people who reside near woods at Abington, Holbrook and South Weymouth for the past two weeks was scooped in by Officer Barry Monday night for drunkenness.

The fellow got off one of the late trains Monday night and began to walk up and down the platform talking to himself. He then walked up Hancock street and laid down near the residence of ex-Mayor Hodges, where Officer Barry found him and took him in out of the cold.

When arrested he gave the name of James Brown, and his residence as Boston, Salem and other places.

This morning he was brought into court when Officer Allen and Butler, of Weymouth, who have been looking for the fellow, recognized him as the "wild preacher" of Abington.

He was fined $5 for drunkenness and as he did not have any money he was sent to Dedham, although he pleaded to be sent to the State Farm.

When the court attempted to question him he made incoherent replies and said he needed no advertising. He said he was a school teacher and had taught school in New York and Boston.

The fellow was about 6 feet tall and weighed 190 pounds; he had a clean shaven face and wore glasses, his clothes were dark and had the appearance of a clerical man, other than his boots which showed hard usage.

As he was about to be taken from court he was apparently seized with cramps, for he doubled up and fell to the floor in a heap and all that could be made out of his talk was whiskey but upon being informed he could have nothing but spring water he braced up and walked off.

He first made his appearance in Abington about two weeks ago when a woman was attracted by his preaching. She informed the neighbors, who tried to make an investigation but did not succeed.

When they approached the spot where he was, he shouted "Vandals, you are disturbing my meeting," and he followed these words by two pistol shots which caused the investigators to beat a hasty retreat.

Several attempts were made by the officers to capture him but he always managed to elude them.

The good people of Abington, however, can now sleep in peace with the knowledge that the fellow is behind the strong walls of Dedham jail.

BRANCH ACCOMMODATIONS.

Railroad Forgets Quincy is a City and on Main Line.

The Quincy station is the most important and profitable one to the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. between Boston and Brockton, if not on the entire Plymouth division. It is on the main line over which all trains from Nantasket, Plymouth, Abington, Brockton, Fall River, Newport, New Bedford and the Cape must pass, yet none of these trains stop. Quincy has only a local service the same as is given on the Shawmut, Milton and Granite branches.

The number of trains each way for Quincy and other stations is summarized below:

	INWARD.	OUTWARD.
Quincy,	24	24
Wollaston,	24	24
Norfolk Downs,	22	22
Atlantic,	41	41
Neponset,	22	22
Pope's Hill,	22	22
Harrison Square,	43	43
Savin Hill,	22	22
Crescent Avenue,	22	22
Mattapan,	21	21
Milton branch,	21	21
West Quincy,	19	19
Quincy Adams,	22	22
Braintree,	44	44
South Braintree,	34	34
Holbrook,	14	14
Campello,	14	14

Perhaps the greatest inconvenience just now is in the theatre trains. Most of the theatres in Boston close at 10 30 and there have been trains at 10.50 and 11.10 or 11.15, but now if one has to wait until 11.30 there will certainly be considerable less theatre going from Quincy.

Bethany Church.

A large congregation was present at Bethany Congregational church, Sunday, despite the storm.

Rev. Edwin Noah Hardy, the pastor, took for his theme "The Christian Life in the major key." His text was taken from Acts 4:8. "Peter filled with the Holy Ghost." The speaker said he was led to present the subject because of many inquiries which had been raised by the sermon of two weeks ago on the "Christian Life in the minor key." The present subject was much more difficult to present. Many Christians had not experienced it," the eccentricity of many who profess it, and the fact that many who had experienced it were those in the humbler walks of life, whose lives were hidden, all made it hard to discuss.

As before, Peter is the example. The time is after Pentecost where he is again the centre of the scene. He himself is now the prisoner brought before almost the same tribunal. He makes no denial of the charge which is brought against him, that of healing the lame man, through the name of Jesus Christ, but admits it. Whence comes this power? It comes from the filling of the Holy Ghost. Peter stands now firm as Gibralter. He has lost all his cowardice and compromise. He knew that under the pontificial robes of his accusers there were no hearts. That the threatenings meant something he knew from the experience of his Master.

In the first place there is no denying the fact that there is a great difference in the average Christian life as it is and as it ought to be. There is no denying the fact that many Christian lives are not happy ones, hence they do not attract others to this life. Too many are feeding on the husks, far away from the Father's house. The Father's table is full of the Bread and the Water of life. Life is a war-fare and we should keep near our Heavenly Father. The speaker said he did not believe in holiness in the sense of perfection, as some people teach. We can be blameless but not sinless. We do believe in a Higherand fuller Christian experience. We must not think that this life is simply for an Elijah or John the Baptist. It is a life of sunshine and happiness.

We notice that Peter showed a boldness after he received the Holy Spirit. We should bear in mind that what Peter received is for every child of God. Peter was never a coward after that. When man is doing God's work he is never afraid.

He was possessed with great power. Every thing he did now showed this power. When he was admonished not to preach Jesus Christ the reply was "We cannot but speak the things we have seen and heard." This life is the life of God. There was an irrepressible stream of gladness in the life of Peter and the disciples after this. It says they were of "one accord", worshipping daily with gladness and singleness of heart."

It is a life of great blessing. Peter's life was a constant blessing to others. The Christian life in the major key over flows. This Higher life is a life of naturalness. Young people are often afraid of experiencing this life for fear it will mean that they must abandon their business and enter Christian work. But it does not mean that. God needs above all today Christian business men. Every one should read that remarkable book "Hiram Goffs' Religion," which teaches so beautifully that the humblest vocation should be used to the glory of God, in that every business that is honest is God given. It is not the business but the way that you do it, which honors God. It makes no difference what a man is doing but what he is. The Spirit filled life does not take away from business, but sends men back to business, to serve God. The Bible is full of examples of lives in the minor and major key. Witness Jacob at Bethel and at Peniel. Christ taught of this life again and again. To the women at the well He said, "But whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall become in him a well of water springing up unto eternal life."

Good Citizenship.

The training school for Christian service met again Monday evening at the Bethany church, about 140 being present. Deacon Cyrus T. Sherman conducted the Bible lesson and gave an interesting talk on "Its source and place."

Rev. John M. Dutton of Newtonville, gave the lecture, taking for his subject "Good Citizenship." The speaker handled his subject in a manner which could not fail to convice his hearers that he was thoroughly familiar with it. He spoke of the fundamental principles of good citizenship, and traced the subject from the early history up to he present time.

The manuals for the school have arrived and can be obtained of the committee or at the store of Miss Hubbard.

accepted. Dr. Everett is willing to contribute the stone in his walls for the bridge.

Herbert T. Whitman favored the acceptance. The bridge was all right until Board of Health made them take out the middle support of the bridge as it obstructed flow of water. He hoped Council would lay it out.

City Solicitor Blackmur, as an abutter, favored the acceptance. The bridge was broken down by heavy stone teams. The average travel over the bridge was from 40 to 50 teams a day. The estimated cost of bridge was $800 outside of granite. The doctor had told him that he would not only give the stone but a piece of his land at the end to make a good outlet.

The hearing closed and the order was recommitted.

The third and last hearing was on the petition of the street railway for a turnout on Washington street.

John F. Merrill of the street railway told of the needs of the turnout.

Henry H. Faxon was the next speaker, and he has kindly furnished the press with his remarks. He said: "This hearing is one of great importance not only to the petitioners but also to the general public who desire to enjoy the pleasures of life at a small expense. I therefore hope that you will show the greatest possible liberality to the company by granting them all privileges which you can consistently and thus enable them to render better service to their patrons.

"Some people seem to derive their chief enjoyment by endeavoring to make others around them miserable, and there are always a few men in every community who obstruct and hamper all enterprises that do not enrich them and their friends. A handful of people who ride in a flashy style, imagine they will be hindered and their comfort interferred with by a few turnouts and switches which are greatly needed to benefit the masses who make business and pleasure trips daily. I learn from a reliable source that during the month of June, July and August of this year more than 375,000 passengers per month rode in the cars of the petitioners. I believe that you will agree with me in that the interests of this large number of the travelling public are entitled to greater consideration than the whims of a few fault-finders actuated by selfish motives.

"I claim that no industry ever aided and improved business affairs and advanced real estate in Quincy equal to the Quincy and Boston Electric Railroad. As a man who recently engaged in business here remarked, 'It is the most convenient place I was ever in. You can go anywhere—, yes, you can to the devil if you want to.'

"At the last hearing before this body relative to the removal of certain turnouts those who had favored the project cowardly failed to appear and state their reasons. They did not merit success.

"Permit me to quote a few figures to satisfy you as to the advance in the value of real estate since the advent of better facilities for travel. In 1888 the assessed value of the land upon which the old court-house stands was $4500; in 1896 it was $6500. The valuation of the land which I own at the head of Granite street has increased from $15,900 in 1888 to $27,500 in 1896. At number 58 Hancock street $4500 represents the valuation in 1888 and $12,000 in 1896.

"In view of all this improvement in real estate values and the advantages which our city can offer to business firms to locate here, both largely due to the enterprise of the president and directors of the electric railroad I ask you, Mr. President and gentlemen of the Council, to carefully consider and favorably pass upon the company's petition."

Herbert M. Federhen also favored the granting of the location.

The hearing closed and the order was recommitted.

Councilman Hayden then offered an order granting the location, which was referred to the Committee on Streets.

Political Potpourri.

Gov. Wolcott and Curtis Guild, Jr., are to speak in Quincy, Tuesday, Oct. 20.

We suppose it is generally understood that the county commissioner from Norfolk county whose term of office expires this year will not be renominated. It does not seem to be in the power of political manipulation to bring this about. Yet there are evidences of a desperate effort still to be made for this purpose, against which the delegates who are to meet in the Republican county convention tomorrow may well be on their guard.—Herald.

A Republican rally at East Milton, Oct. 15, will be addressed by W. S. Knox and M. J. Murray.

The McKinley & Hobart club will unfurl its campaign flag next Saturday night when it will be suspended between the Adams building and the pole in front of the Hancock cemetery. Previous to the flag raising the battalion will form on Granite street and headed by the City Band will march over the following route: Hancock street to Adams Academy, countermarch to Hancock, to Washington, to head of River street. Countermarch on Washington to Elm, to Hancock, to City Square when the flag will be unfurled mid the explosion of fireworks, cheers, and patriotic music by the band. There will be no speaking.

Senator Lodge will speak at Braintree, Oct. 28.

For Three Years He Suffered—Could Hardly Breathe at Night—One Nostril Closed for Ten Years.

Mr. A. M. Ramsey, of De Leon, Texas, was a sufferer from Catarrh in its worst form. Truly, his description of his sufferings seem little short of marvelous. Instead of seeking his couch, glad for the night's coming, he went to it with terror, realizing that another long, weary, wakeful night and a struggle to breathe was before him.

DE LEON, TEXAS.

Messrs. Lippman Bros., Savannah, Ga.,

GENTS: I have used nearly four bottles of P. P. P. I was afflicted from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet. Your P. P. P. has cured my difficulty of breathing, smothering, palpitation of the heart, and has relieved me of all pain. One nostril was closed for ten years, but now I can breathe through it readily.

I have not slept on either side for two years; in fact, I dreaded to see night come. Now I sleep soundly in any position all night.

I am 50 years old, but expect soon to be able to take hold of the plow handles. I feel glad that I was lucky enough to get P. P. P., and I heartily recommend it to my friends and the public generally.

Yours respectfully,
A. M. RAMSEY.

THE STATE OF TEXAS, } ss.:

Before the undersigned authority, on this day, personally appeared A. M. Ramsey, who, after being duly sworn, says on oath that the foregoing statement made by him relative to the virtue of P. P. P. medicine, is true.

FOUND BY CHILDREN.

Aged Widow In a Maine Town Murdered by Unknown Person.

Attempt Was Then Made to Cremate the Body.

Searching Parties Found No Clue to Perpetrator of the Awful Deed.

Cornish, Me., Oct. 6.—Mrs. Betsy Hobbs, a widow, aged 70 years, was brutally murdered at her lonely home in Maplewood, in the western part of Parsonsfield, yesterday, and her body was nearly entirely destroyed by fire. The motive for the crime is unknown, and the murderer or murderers are unknown.

Mrs. Hobbs was the widow of William Hobbs, and had two sons living in Boston. She was in humble circumstances, and supported herself by doing work by the day for the wives of the neighboring farmers, and raising a few vegetables on the small farm left her by her husband. It was about noon yesterday when some children were passing by Mrs. Hobbs' house, when they saw smoke issuing from the door and windows. They rushed up into the yard and found the door closed and blood on the door steps. Pushing open the door, the children found Mrs. Hobbs lying on the floor with her feet toward the door. Clothing, saturated with kerosene, had been piled on top of the body and a match applied to it. The body was rescued from the flames by the children, but not until it had been badly burned.

Mrs. Hobbs' body was taken to a neighbor's house, and in her neck and head were found four shot holes, of the size of buckshot. Searching parties were at once organized to hunt for the murderer or murderers, but no clew, which will lead to a discovery of the old woman's murderers, has yet been discovered, Coroner Hobson of Cornish is investigating the case, and Deputy Sheriff Mills of Saco will go to Parsonsfield to look into the case.

The motive for this brutal crime cannot be imagined, and only the above given facts are as yet known here. Maplewood, where the murder occurred, is 12 miles from this village, and is very near the New Hampshire line.

Drew a Large Crowd.

Boston, Oct. 6.—The opening exercises of the World's food fair at Mechanics' hall yesterday afternoon, were of an interesting character. It is estimated that over 15,000 people attended the fair during the afternoon and evening. Manager Bond opened the proceedings with a speech of welcome. Henry A. Thomas, in the absence of Lieutenant Governor Wolcott, spoke for the commonwealth, while the city was represented by Mayor Quincy. The city of Quincy also received recognition on the first day, and its mayor, Charles Francis Adams, 2d, made an address. President R. A. Flanders spoke for the New England Retail Grocers association, while music by Reeves' band of Providence composed the balance of the program. The fair will continue until Nov. 7. In connection with the fair there is a Home congress, at which lectures on food will be given during the six weeks.

Deeply In Debt.

Laconia, N. H., Oct. 6.—The Laconia Car company, through its president, Perley Putnam, a large creditor of the company, petitioned the supreme court yesterday for the appointment of a receiver. At the hearing before Judge Wallace, the prayer of the petitioner was granted. John T. Busiel, Dennis O'Shea and Perley Putnam were appointed receivers, and furnished $100,000 bonds. The receivers will complete the existing contracts. The company is insolvent, and when the contracts are completed will liquidate in insolvency proceedings, unless the indebtedness can otherwise be adjusted. The entire indebtedness is $350,000, of which $150,000 is mortgaged bonds. The floating debt is about $200,000. The company is capitalized at $200,000.

Two Sides to the Story.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 6.—About 500 of the colored people of this city attended an indignation meeting last night, called to denounce an alleged insult given a colored lawyer by Mayor Bancroft some weeks ago. The colored lawyer, whose name is Plummer, claims that he was unceremoniously kicked out of the mayor's office without cause or pretext, because he insisted in defending a colored policeman against charges preferred against the officer by the mayor. On the other hand, the mayor says he was justified in ejecting the lawyer, for the reason that he was insulting. The meeting was an exciting one, and some of the speeches were of a particularly fiery character.

A Protest Forthcoming.

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 6.—John F. Wonson & Co. of this city were notified yesterday by United States Consul Carleton, at Souris, P. E. I., of the action of the Canadian authorities in shutting out Gloucester fishermen from the Northumberland strait. Great indignation is expressed, and the board of trade has been called upon to ask the government to inquire into the case. Valuable fisheries on the George's banks lie in the prohibited waters, and their exclusion means a heavy loss to Gloucester men.

For Three Days' Fun.

Boston, Oct. 6.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company left last night for a three days' trip to Baltimore, with a side excursion to Annapolis. The company were escorted to the Park square station by the Ninth regiment, and a large crowd saw them off on a special train to Fall River, where the boat was taken to New York. The company, in accordance with the message of Colonel Walker to the Baltimore city government, will pay its own expenses during the trip.

Left Short-Handed.

New Bedford, Mass., Oct. 6.—Advices received here state that the whaling steamer William Lewis, from this port, is at Petropaulorski, having struck a rock in Ochotsk sea, and some of the crew have desertel the steamer. She had taken no whales up to the time of the accident.

Veterans' Patriotic League.

Concord, N. H., Oct. 6.—A state branch of the Union Veterans' Patriotic league was formed here yesterday, with these officers: President, E. B. Huse, Enfield; vice presidents, L. A. Dodge, Manchester; C. H. Wescott, Contocook; secretary, James Minot, Concord; treasurer, Alfred E. Emery, Penacook. A meeting of the officers and executive committee will be held in this city Thursday, to perfect details for active participation in the work of the poltical campaign.

Policy Holders Want Investigation.

Haverhill, Mass., Oct. 6.—A meeting of the policy holders of the Massachusetts Benefit Life Insurance company was held in this city last night. B. I. Paige reported that the petition asking for an investigation of the methods of the company contained the necessary names, and would be presented to Governor Wolcott at once, asking his appointment of a commission for that purpose.

As In Days of Yore.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 6.—The students of the classes of '99 and 1900, at Harvard, made it evident last night that "Bloody Monday" is not yet a thing of the past. It was the most noisy of any during the last three years. The students of both classes spent the night in yelling and cheering, and in rushes. An attempt was made to prevent the disturbance, but was unsuccessful.

Woman Charged With Embezzlement.

Boston, Oct. 6.—Kitty Drury, 22 years old, was arrested last night, on the charge of embezzling $570. The complaint was made by John F. Ellaney, who formerly kept company with Miss Drury, and who, it is alleged, intrusted the money to her care. A short time ago he demanded the money of her, but, it is said, she refused to give it up, and he therefore had her arrested.

Going It Heavy.

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 5.—The sinking fund commissioners yesterday purchased $35,000 worth of bonds created by the famous $100,000 sewer loan, which last season bothered the legislature. This makes $65,000 purchased of the city by the commission during the last two months.

Vacation Ended.

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., Oct. 6.—The president has definitely decided to leave here this afternoon, as have also Mrs. Cleveland and the children. The plan is now that the president will take the Oneida to New York, and Mrs. Cleveland expects to go by train.

Mill Is Closed.

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 6.—On account of dissatisfaction with a new scale of wages, the weavers at the Stevens mill struck yesterday, and the mill shut down.

New England Briefs.

Mayor Quincy of Boston vetoed the pneumatic tube order, because he believes the rights of the city are not sufficiently protected.

A freight train on the Maine Central broke apart on a down grade near Iceboro, Me., and was badly wrecked, by the rear section smashing into the front section. No one was injured.

Sympathy For Cubans.

Cincinnati, Oct. 6.—A week of carnival, for the benefit of the Cuban patriots, began at Music hall last night, in a free admission mass meeting. Twenty-five hundred people attended the meeting, and for more than two hours listened to patriotic speeches. The house went wild when General Quesada said that next March an Ohio senator, Foraker by name, would take the lead in securing belligerent rights for the Cuban patriots, and that Cuba would be recognized, no matter who might be president, whether the "Boy orator of the Platte," or "The Napoleon of the West."

Not So Bad as First Reported.

Cedar Keys, Fla., Oct. 6.—Many of the missing persons from this place have returned, and the latest definite information is that the total number of recovered dead is 15, and the missing dead nine. In addition to these, four colored spongers from the schooner Rosa Lee were drowned. It is now thought that the sponge fleet was beyond the range of the wind, as a boatman arrived from the direction taken by them and did not know that there had been a storm.

Spiders Again Defeated.

Baltimore, Oct. 6.—The Orioles took their third straight game in the Temple cup series from the "Spiders" by dint of brilliant playing, both at the bat and in the field, together with a bit of good luck here and there. All hands leave for Cleveland today, and the Orioles say there will be but one game in the Forest City, which they expect to win, and thereby settle the contest for the trophy.

Mahoney In Disgrace.

Washington, Oct. 6.—First Lieutenant James E. Mahoney, marine corps, has been sentenced by a court-martial to lose half his pay for one year ($1050) and two numbers, and to be publicly reprimanded for scandalous conduct and drunkenness, while stationed at the New York navy yard. Acting Secretary McAdoo has approved the sentence, though holding that it was inadequate.

Cawley Wasn't Fair.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Billy Vernon, the "Havrestraw brickmaker," got the decision over Tommy Cawley of this city, on a foul in the sixth round of a bout here last evening. The bout was marked by the rough tactics pursued by Cawley. Three times he threw Vernon over the ropes and off the platform. The crowd greeted the decision with applause.

Spencer Denies It.

New York, Oct. 6.—President Spencer of the Southern railway says that there is no foundation for the reports that negotiations are going on in behalf of the Southern Railway company, for the purchase or acquisition or control of the Seaboard Air line.

An Unpleasant Experience.

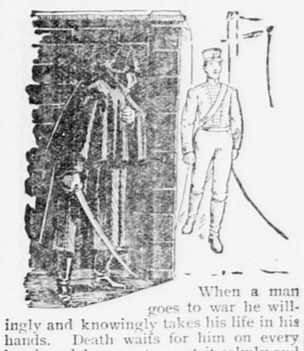
Brockville, Ont., Oct. 6.—A telegraph operator named Kennedy of Syracuse, while passing through here for Ottawa, to take the place of a Canadian Pacific striker, was rotten-egged at the Union depot. He was also refused lodgings at one of the hotels.

American Horses Won.

London, Oct. 6.—In the race for the maiden plate of 106 sovereigns, at Nottingham yesterday, Richard Croker's American horse, Georgiana, was first, and Pierre Lorillard's Belisama was second.

An Oft-Repeated Tale.

London, Oct. 6.—The Chronicle says this morning that it learns, from a good source, that the czar and Lord Salisbury have agreed upon a policy for the ultimate deposition of the sultan.



When a man goes to war he willingly and knowingly takes his life in his hands. Death waits for him on every hand, and he goes to meet it calmly and fearlessly. He has offered his life, and he is willing to give it. In ordinary affairs, a man's life is pledged in another way. He assumes obligations that he must live to fulfill. Carelessness of health in this case is worse than undue carelessness would be in war. It is every man's duty to preserve his health to the fullest, and to live as long as he can. The sick man can't do a man's full duty in the world. A man who is weak from loss of flesh, whose nerves are run down, whose blood is impure, who shows from his sunken cheeks and hollow eyes and lingering cough that he is on the direct road to death or consumption, can in no way perform the full duties of a man. If he lets these things go on, it is because he prefers disease to health—death to life. He can be cured surely and quickly by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Thousands and thousands of people have testified to the wonderful effects of this most marvelous medicine.

Dr. Pierce's great work, "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," may now be obtained, paper-covered, absolutely free, by any one who will send 21 one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. If you desire French cloth, embossed covers, send 10 cents extra (31 cents in all) for that more handsome and more substantial binding.

IN A FRENZY OF JOY

Frenchmen Welcome Czar and Czarina to the Republic's Capital.

Crowded Streets and Magnificent Decorations.

Visitors Attended Church, Reception, Banquet and an Opera.

Paris, Oct. 7.—The czar and czarina arrived in this city at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, and since that time the inhabitants seem to be in a delirium of joy. Such tumuituous, ecstatic demonstrations of welcome have probably never been witnessed in Paris by the present generation.

Some pretend to think that this is only the ordinary exuberance of the French mind, but there is a deeper significance beneath it all, and it is probable that during these days of excitement, the thought of the "Lost Provinces" is ever before the mind of the French people. In a word they are anxious to show to the world, and especially to hated Germany, that the alliance with Russia is no shadowy, intangible thing, but that on the contrary there is a lasting friendship between the two nations, which can be relied on for offensive and defensive purposes—even for a conflict with Germany, whenever the passion for the recovery of the "Lost Provinces" becomes too strong to be resisted.

Paris is filled to overflowing. It seems difficult to imagine where all the people came from. They have come by the 100,000 for the last few days, and the railway lines have almost collapsed under the strain. So great was the crowd Monday night, and so great was the desire to see the czar yesterday, that over 20,000 people slept in the Bois de Boulogne, in order that they might be sure to be on time to see the procession yesterday.

At 8:20 o'clock President Faure, in a special train, arrived at Versailles, where he met the czar and czarina. The train arrived here at 10 o'clock, and the visitors were enthusiastically cheered by the vast crowd of people, packing every available space. The imperial visitors entered the reception tent, outside of which a gala carriage, with four horses, attended by postillions, awaited them. The reception over, the czar and czarina and President Faure entered the carriage, the president occupying the front seat, with his back to the horses. The various officials, members of the czar's suite and others formed in procession behind, and the cortege proceeded at a walking pace to traverse the streets to the Russian embassy.

The president, after reaching the Russian embassy, remained with the majesties for a quarter of an hour, during which the czar expressed to him how deeply he and the czarina were affected by the heartiness of the welcome accorded them by the citizens of Paris and their representatives.

The neighborhood of the Russian church was as densely thronged as the vicinity of the Russian embassy when the czar and czarina entered the Rue Daru. They were received on the threshold of the church by High Priest Wasliff and the synod. Upon entering the building, the czar and all the male members of the imperial suite took up places on the right side of the aisle, the czar standing alone beside the sacred icons. The czarina and the ladies in her suite occupied places standing on the left of the aisle. The service was a short one, only the "Te deum" being sung.

After leaving the church the czar drove to the Elysee palace alone, in order to return the visit to President Faure, and the czarina returned to the Russian embassy.

President Faure, surrounded by the members of his military household, met the czar at the portico of the palace, and they proceeded to a saloon, where they remained in conversation for 20 minutes. The president then conducted the czar to another saloon, where the ministers were presented, and thence the latter was escorted to the Grand Salle Des Fetes, where 5000 sailors and deputies were presented to the czar, M. Faure expressing the high satisfaction which he felt at having the honor of presenting the members of parliament to his majesty.

The czar replied that he was happy to find himself among the nation's elect. He then entered into conversation with the leading men.

The czar bowed to the majority of the persons present, without conversing with them, and, on returning to the Russian embassy, he received the presidents of the chambers, the cabinet ministers and the members of the diplomatic corps.

The czar and czarina took their departure from the Russian embassy once more at 7 o'clock, to proceed to the palace of the Elysee, where they were to dine. They were in the state coach. The escort was of cuirassiers. Two other coaches conveyed their majesties' suite. The entire route was splendidly illuminated with all manner of devices in light. The chief buildings from the Cathedral of Notre Dame to the Blais Du Trocadero were outlined in flame. The waters of the Seine reflected quivering lines of light from a flotilla of illuminated boats.

Arriving at the Elysee the dinner was immediately commenced. There were 225 guests. The table of honor was placed at the end of the great hall of Fetes, upon a raised platform, separated from the other tables by a couple of beflowered pillars. The czar and President Faure sat at the center of this table, the czarina sitting beside M. Faure, and Mme. Faure sitting beside the czar. The czarina wore a robe of shot blue silk, a diadem upon her head and a diamond necklace about her throat. Mme. Faure was also attired in a blue robe. Other persons at this table were the members of the French cabinet, high Russian functionaries, with their wives, and other distinguished Frenchmen, wearing their newly conferred Russian orders.

President Faure, addressing the czar, said: "The welcome which has greeted the entry of your majesty into Paris has proved to him the sincerity of the sentiments of which I have ardently desired that he should receive an expression on touching the soil of the republic. The presence of your majesty among us has sealed, amid the acclamations of the entire people, the ties uniting the two countries, an harmonious activity and mutual confidence in their destinies. The union of the empire and the laborious republic has already exercised a beneficent influence upon the peace of the world. Fortified by tried fidelity, this union will continue to spread everywhere its happy influence.

"As the interpreter of the entire nation, I renew to your majesty the wishes we form for the greatness of his reign, for the happiness of her majesty, the empress, and for the prosperity of the vast empire, of which the destinies rest in the hands of your imperial majesty. May I be permitted to add how much France has been touched at the readiness with which the empress has been pleased to accede to the nation's wishes; her gracious smile will live in our country an ineffaceable souvenir. I rise my glass in honor of his majesty, Emperor Nicholas, and in honor of Empress Alexandre Feodorovna."

The czar replied as follows: "I am deeply touched with the welcome given us— the empress and myself—in this great city of Paris, the source of so much genius, taste and light. Faithful to imperishable tradition, I have come to France to greet in you, Monsieur Le President, the chief of a nation to which we are united by such previous ties. As you have said, this union can but produce by its constancy the happiest influence. I beg you to be the interpreter of these sentiments to the whole of France. In thanking you for the good wishes expressed for the empress and myself, I drink to France, and raise my glass in honor of Monsieur, the President of the French Republic."

All the main arteries of Paris were crammed with the populace last night, re-enforced by strangers to a number estimated as high as 1,000,000. Vehicular traffic was entirely suspended. Open air balls and fetes were in progress. The place Le L'Opera was guarded by a triple cordon of the Republican Guard, not uselessly, for as far as the eye can reach there was an ocean of human heads, the owners of which were shouting themselves hoarse with incessant acclamations. Women were constantly fainting, and many persons were slightly injured.

The guests of the Demi-Gala performance at the Comedie Francaise began to arrive at 9 o'clock. At 10:30 o'clock renewed and vociferous cheering heralded the approach of the czar and czarina. The Republican Guard lined the grand staircase in the theater. Two attendants, bearing flambeaux, headed the procession, the directors of the theater Francaise preceding the imperial guests. Then followed President Faure's wife and daughter, the suites of the sovereigns and others.

The audience in the theater included the military and naval officers of distinction, the Tunisian Caides, the Arab chiefs, senators and deputies, and the ladies in toilettes glittering with diamonds. It was a beautiful scene.

Ancients Enjoying Themselves.

Baltimore, Oct. 7.—The city council committee and representatives of business organizations invited the Boston Ancients to be their guests at a theater party last night. The entire lower floor and all the boxes of the Academy of Music were reserved for the theater party. In the boxes were several ex-mayors of the city, members of the city council and other city officials and representatives of the board of trade, Merchants and Manufacturers' association and other trade organizations. As the visitors entered the theater they were greeted with the strains of a march composed in their honor when they made the trip to London last summer.

A Fruitless Mission.

Montreal, Oct. 7. — A committee on conciliation, composed of employes of the different branches of the Canadian Pacific, arrived here from different parts of the Dominion yesterday, in connection with the telegraphers' strike. Assistant General Manager Tait admitted that the committee called on him, but he was not at liberty to state the result. It is inferred, however, that the interview was fruitless.

Uncle Sam Not Asleep.

Washington, Oct. 7.—A concentration of the Mediterranean fleet of the United States at Smyrna has been ordered. The Bancroft, which arrived at Gibraltar on Sunday, coaled hastily, and in company with the Cincinnati, yesterday started on the 1700-mile journey. The San Francisco, Minneapolis and Marblehead will be waiting at Smyrna for these boats, which are expected to arrive the middle of next week.

Russia and Corea.

Vienna, Oct. 7.—The Russian minister at Seoul has been instructed to inform the King of Corea that Russia has no idea of concluding a treaty with Japan for a joint protectorate of his kingdom; that Russia considers Corea as an appendage of Siberia, and that the Corean question is closed. This information was communicated to Lord Salisbury during the czar's visit to England.

Insurgents Lost Heavily.

Habana, Oct. 7.—General Bernard has had two engagements, the first with 3800 insurgents, who lost 80 killed, the Spaniards having 16 killed and 92 wounded, while the second battle was with 700 insurgents, who had 100 killed and 200 wounded, the Spaniards losing 16 men and two officers killed, and 165 men and nine officers wounded.

Mr. Israel Waterhouse will give up his residence in this city this week, and go to Washington, D. C. Except while traveling this will be his future home. About January 1, Mr. Waterhouse expects to go to California and possibly to Japan, China and India. His departure from Wollaston will be much regretted, as he has been one of her foremost citizens for about twenty-five years. He owned a large estate there and was one of the largest taxpayers of the city. Mr. Waterhouse has served in the City Council and is at present one of the assessors. But he has travelled extensively and enjoyes it very much, and readers of the PATRIOT have enjoyed his writings.

When the rooms of the two men were searched Tuesday night by the police a large quantity of jewelry, that had been stolen from several pawnshops, was found.

Wollaston Kicking.

There is a decided kick at Wollaston over the arbitrary manner in which the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. officials have treated the theatre train question requiring suburban patrons to wait nearly an hour after the close of the theatres before they can take a train for their homes. There is no doubt but what there will be a decided falling off in the theatre patronage this coming season. The case is analogous to that of the man who bit his nose off to spite his face. Railroad officials can make exhibitions of themselves as well as some others folks.

It may be pertinent to point out to Superintendent French and General Manager Allen that the Dedham branch has a theatre train leaving Boston at 11.07; Readville and way stations at 11.18; Taunton and way stations at 11.18; and to come nearer home, Harrison Square, Mattapan, Atlantic, East Milton and West Quincy at 11.18. But the residents of Quincy, Wollaston and a few other minor places have to wait until nearly morning before they are started for home. Verily, this is not setting a good example to the residents of these staid Old Colony towns.

Bowling at Wollaston.

The opening match bowling contest of the season was bowled on the Duck's Nest alleys, Wollaston, on Tuesday evening, between the Wollastons and Quincys. The Wollastons were too much for the visitors. They had the lead on the first string and held it right through, to the finish, 1,238 to 1,175. Fairbanks was the star bowler, both on singles,—100, and on totals,—262. The result :

Political Potpourri.

Tonight is another registration date.

Speaker Reed will be the principal speaker this evening at the grand Republican ratification meeting in Music hall, Boston.

The 10th Congressional district, as summed up by the Boston Advertiser, on the basis of the vote for Greenhalge and Williams a year ago, had a Republican plurality of about 1,000. The Boston wards in the district at the municipal election gave Mayor Quincy a plurality of about the same figure over Mr. Curtis, but the normal Republican plurality in Quincy and Milton when reckoned with even this computation is large enough to overcome the Democratic vote in Boston. In addition to this, the new registration in Boston has been largely to the advantage of the Republicans. For these reasons, it is not strange that there is no great amount of excitement over the situation on the Democratic side in the 10th district, as there always has been up to the present year.

Democratic Representative Convention will be held in Ward Room, City Hall, on Friday, October 9.

The Democratic Senatorial Convention will be held in the same place Saturday, October 10, at 3 P. M.

The Democratic County and Councillor Conventions will be held in Dedham, on Wednesday, October 14, the time and place have not yet been given out.

According to Mr. McEttrick, who is out of the Congressional contest in the tenth district, Candidate Boardman Hall will shortly declare emphatically for every plank of the Chicago platform,—free silver, no bond issues, the condemnation of the Supreme court and of the use of federal troops to maintain law and order. Candidate Hall should promptly ask to be saved from those who are defining his views for him. They bite like a serpent and sting like an adder.—Herald.

The liquors seized from William S. Tracy at Braintree were forfeited.

Fell from his Team.

A teamster named McDonnell, employed by John Cashman, fell from his team at Field's corner, Tuesday afternoon and the wheels passed over his wrist and it is also supposed that the wheels must have passed over his body for when found blood was spurting from his mouth. He was removed to the hospital.

Needlework Guild.

Another new society for good enters its second year in Quincy. The headquarters of this charity is in Philadelphia and through some Quincy ladies, now living there, it became a strength only last winter in our city. The need of discriminating in charity to avoid the fault of making more poverty, led Lady Wolverton, of England, to form and mature this particular new benevolence. H. R. H. Princess Mary, president of the London Guild, is most active in this.

The simple method of charity is in the beginning to make two new articles of comfortable winter clothing, and to give those to the branch of your own town or city. Then, through the directors and officers, these garments reach the needy poor. Each garment must be made of new material, and sensibly, of warm cloth, like flannel, wool, outing cloth, unbleached muslin, etc. Then knitted garments, and household and bedding materials are added to the list desired.

The Quincy branch last winter gave away 180 new articles, consisting of all kinds of garments. The little night wrappers of pretty outing cloth are remembered as very attractive, feather stitching in colored wash silks making them valuable to children's eyes. This is of course not necessary and does not add to the warmth of the articles, but ladies of leisure like to make the garments pretty to the eye.

The President of the Quincy branch was and is Miss Abby B. Wood of School street. She is passing this season in Portland, Oregon, and her mother, Mrs. John Wood, kindly assumes the office. Mrs. J. R. Wade, 12 Gay street, is secretary and treasurer. The directors are Mrs. W. A. Coolidge, Miss Mary Dinegan, Miss Abby B. Wood, Miss Maria Whitney and Mrs. J. R. Wade.

Last winter they gave 168 garments to various families, and 12 to our Hospital. Any member who obtains ten or more garments from others, becomes a director, and gains the privilege of choosing to whom these garments shall go. This enables one to provide for her own especial poor, as each lady generally has some who individually appeal to her.

This in brief is what this work is. It is before us another winter when the season makes unusual demands upon the poor and destitute. Already this week, we saw four warm garments made to suit a child of ten or twelve, there were two petticoats of pink and white outing cloth and two pairs of night drawers of the same, all cut and made beautifully, as this member, a lady living on Foster street, always does her work. Other of our friends, busy people last winter, purchased mittens and wool stockings to give. The system this guild adopts should prevent only those who are most worthy receiving gratis of their store.

The Needlework Guild Branch of Quincy is an accepted fact and a good addition to our local charities.

Braintree Votes $3,500.

At a special town meeting held in Braintree Tuesday night the sum of $3000 was voted for the purchase and installing of a new generator for the electric light plant, and $500 to build a store house, office and stable. There was the usual amount of debate which resulted in a somewhat larger appropriation than was asked for.

New Man Nominated for Clerk of Courts.

Norfolk Republicans Hold an Interesting Convention.

No Ballot at 2.30 O'clock For County Commissioner.

[Special to the DAILY LEDGER.]

At the Norfolk County Republican Convention held at Wesleyan Hall, in Boston, today, Louis A. Cook of Weymouth was nominated for Clerk of Court, by a vote of 62, to 59 for Erastus Worthington.

At 2 30 P. M., no ballot had been taken for County Commissioner.

TO BE INVESTIGATED.

Hearing Before Commissioners on Clare Boy's Death Next Saturday.

Mr. James P. Clare has succeeded in having the Nautical Commissioners grant a hearing, and the day set is next Saturday. Many of the cadets have voluntarily offered their services to Mr. Clare, and their testimony is of the most value in getting at the conditions of the voyage and elsewhere. The friends of Mr. Clare in this city are severe in their criticism of one of the Quincy cadets, who has spread many false stories, and who has on every possible occasion endeavored to discredit the stories of his comrades.

Mr. Clare has retained the services of Boston's first-class attorneys, and is determined to probe the matter to the bottom.

Mrs. Clare is nearly prostrate with grief, and it is only by the kind ministrations of neighbors and friends that she is able to bear up under her great sorrow.

Evening Schools.

The evening schools opened Monday evening and although the weather was against a large attendance the number at the Willard school was 70; and at the Adams school 47. At the evening drawing drawing school in the old High school building, there were 12 in the free-hand class, and 10 in the mechanical class.

The schools meet again this evening when these numbers will doubtless be increased.

The teachers in charge of these schools are:

Willard; Albert Candin, Miss Mary L Crowe, Miss Nellie C. Gragg, Miss Catherine McGovern.

Adams; J. M. Nowland, Miss Daisy J. Adams, Miss Maggie E. Haley.

Drawing; Charles Bryant.

Bible Class for the Public.

The Calvary Baptist church, Franklin street, has secured the services of Rev. M. W. Plummer, Evangelist of Boston, to hold a class meeting every Wednesday evening, in the chapel, at 7.30 o'clock. To this class all are invited, and those who had the pleasure and benefit of hearing Mr. Plummer last winter need no further recommendation as to his rare ability and knowledge of the Bible. His aim is to teach sinners the way of salvation and help Christians into the light, and beauty of God's word. A collection will be taken at the meetings to defray expenses, but none need stay away because of this, as its simply a voluntary giving.

A DESIRE FOR PLUNDER

Thought to Have Been the Basis For the Murder of Mrs. Hobbs.

No Clue to the Perpetrators of the Awful Deed.

Authorities Would Like to Find Two Young Men Who Had Guns.

Maplewood, Me., Oct. 7.—The Ossipee valley towns of York county, Me., and the northwestern border towns of Carroll county, N. H., were all represented in the long lines of teams that came from every direction yesterday and converged in the little village of "Taylor City," where Mrs. Betsy R. Hobbs was murdered and burned in her homestead Monday.

Dr. J. W. Dearborn of Maplewood, whose assistance the selectmen of Parsonsfield solicited after the discovery of the crime, communicated with Coroner Bradbury of Saco yesterday, and that official promised to come by the quickest possible route, which included a circuitous train ride to Conway Junction, thence to East Wakefield, and from there a carriage drive of eight miles to the scene of the murder. He arrived here about 2 o'clock.

County Attorney Emmons of Saco was at Alfred, the county seat, when the summons reached him. He drove across country, about 22 miles. Sheriff Hurd of Alfred came by the same route as the county attorney, and they reached here in time to participate in the inquest. The inquest was held at the residence of George Beals, in an apartment of which was the corpse of her whose murder the county officers are seeking to avenge.

The first witness was Charles Littlefield, a boy, who discovered the fire. He was on his way to school, he said, just before 9 o'clock Monday morning, and saw smoke issuing from the Hobbs house. Accompanied by several schoolmates, he ran to the house, opened the rear door, and through the smoke saw Mrs. Hobbs' body lying on the sitting-room floor. The clothing was burning and the fire had communicated with the wainscotting. Young Littlefield said he tried to extinguish the flames, but without success. Then he ran home and alarmed his parents, who followed him back to the scene of the fire. Mr. and Mrs. Littlefield, their son, and Mr. Littlefield's father succeeded in getting the body out into the yard and to a place of safety. Charles H. Littlefield, father of the previous witness, corroborated his son's testimony. Within five minutes from the time the body was removed the frame of the structure fell. Dr. Leavitt of Effingham shortly arrived, and after he had made an examination the remains were taken to Mr. Beals' residence and the nearest selectmen notified. Mr. Littlefield's wife and father gave corroborative testimony.

Dr. Leavitt of Effingham testified that he was making a professional call not far from the Hobbs place, when his attention was attracted by the smoke in that direction. He and several others who had noticed the smoke drove to the scene of the fire. When he reached there little remained of the house.

On investigation, witness said he found shotgun wounds on the side of the neck. He made known his discovery to some of the citizens assembled there. The body was to be removed, and Dr. Leavitt, accompanied by Selectman Davis, continued the examination in private. He located 15 shot in the back of the head, five of them within a space of two inches behind the ear. Seventeen shot wounds were found in the back, above the shoulder blades. He removed none of the shots, but he judged that their size was No. 4, such as are used in hunting ducks, coons or rabbits. On the right temple was an indentation as deep as the thickness of a man's thumb, apparently caused either by the victim's fall to the floor, when she received the contents of the gun barrel, or by a heavy blow with a club or the breech of a gun. The absence of any abrasion of the skin or clotting of blood in the wound convinced him that Mrs. Hobbs was dead when the blow was struck. The burns, said witness, were confined chiefly to the chest, upon which lay most of the charred remnants of the skirt, indicating that the clothing was turned back upon her chest to facilitate the work of the flames.

The inquest adjourned at 4 o'clock, subject to the call of the coroner. An autopsy will be performed by Drs. Dearborn, Leavitt and Chellis. In the meanwhile, the sherriffs will continue to work upon the case, in the hope of fixing the crime on its performers. The general belief among the people of the bordering towns is that a desire for plunder was the sole basis of the crime.

Nobody acquainted with the Widow Hobbs could have suspected her of being possessed of means. Nearly two years ago she sold a timber lot for about $300. The moeny was paid her in a check, which she promptly deposited in the Limerick bank, and it is still there to her credit.

Two young men who were seen in the woods with guns on their shoulders, not far from the Hobbs place, an hour or so before the fire, will be given an opportunity to account for their time. The report of a gun was heard by the village folks shortly before the fire broke out.

Caged at Last.

Boston, Oct. 7.—J. George M. Thomas of this city was arrested here yesterday, charged with being a professional bogus check operator. The man resisted, and it took the combined efforts of four of Boston's inspectors to effect the arrest. He has been wanted since last August, for issuing and circulating forged checks drawn in the name of the Bacon Trust company. Later the prisoner confessed that he has forged checks bearing the signatures of several business men of Maine.

McMonagle's Body Found.

Perry, Me., Oct. 7.—The body of Michael McMonagle of St. Andrews, N. B., who was thought to have been murdered by Indians, was found on the beach here yesterday. There were no marks of violence. A sum of money in a pocket upsets the theory of murder for robbery.

The Cost of a Collision.

Boston, Oct. 7.—The case of the Metropolitan Steamship company vs. the British and North Atlantic Navigation company, which involved the question of the legal liability for the collision between steamers H. M. Whitney and Ottoman, in the harbor in 1892, has been ended by the entering of a final decree, which, in accordance with a mandate from the United States circuit court of appeals, orders the owners of the Ottoman to pay $36,413, together with $1343 costs, to the Metropolitan Steamship company, which owned the Whitney.

Couldn't Save Them.

Providence, Oct. 7.—Captain Taylor of the schooner W. W. Converse reports that while off Point Judith on Sunday last he saw a catboat with four men on board, laboring heavily on the seas. After taking a tack out to sea, he came back near the same place, and discovered what he thinks was the same boat, bottom up. No trace of the occupants could be found.

About Queen Victoria's Eyes.

London, Oct. 7.—The Medical Press denies a rumor that Queen Victoria is to undergo an operation for cataract, and explains that the queen only suffers with defective vision, due to age.

PROUD OF THE HONOR.

Sewall Formally Accepts Nomination Tendered by Democrats.

Says Present Money Standard Is Not Honest.

Favored, Therefore Dangerous, Classes Are Behind Gold Standard.

Bath, Me., Oct. 7.—Appended is the letter of acceptance of the Hon. Arthur Sewall, Democratic nominee for vice president of the United States:

The Hon. Stephen H. White, Chairman, and Members of the Notification Committee:

Gentlemen—I have the honor to accept in writing, as I have already verbally done, the nomination tendered by you, on behalf of the Democratic party, as its candidate for vice president of the United States. And in so doing I am glad, first, to express my satisfaction that the platform of our party, which has commanded my life long allegiance, is honestly and fully declaratory of all its principles, and especially of the absorbing financial issue upon which, as you say I took my stand, "When the hours of triumph seemed remote, and when arrogant money changers throughout the world boasted that the conquest of the American masses was complete."

These principles have been of late in abeyance, but only because those whom we trusted to maintain them have failed to do so—these principles can never die.

We have rescued our party from those who, under the influence of the money power, have controlled and debased it. Our mission now is to rescue from this same power, and its foreign allies, our own beloved country.

This is the first and highest duty imposed by our party's platform. Upon the performance of this duty all other reforms must wait. The test of party principles is the government they assure, the proof of good government is a contented and happy people, and the supreme test of both is the ability to guide the country through a crisis as well as to administer the government In ordinary times. Our people now face a crisis. A crisis more serious than any since the war. To what party shall they turn in their dire emergency? It is true that the present crisis may not involve all equally, that there are those who do not suffer now, and who may not suffer should the crisis threatened by the gold standard come on in all its fury. Human selfishness makes these deaf to all appeals. But to these, fortunately, the Democratic party has never needed to appeal to win its battles, nor does it now, save as there are some among them who can rise superior to self in the sacrifice which such a crisis demands of every patriot. We are told that the country has prospered under the present monetary standard, that its wealth has enormously increased. Granted, but in whose hands? In the hands of the toilers, the producers, the farmers, the miners, the fabricators in the factories, the creators of the nation's wealth in peace, its defenders in war? Have they the prosperity which was theirs so late as even 20 years ago? I deny it. They deny it. None affirm it, save those whose interest it is to do so. Whose profits would diminish as prosperity returns to those of whose distress they thrive?

All is indeed right between capital and capital. "The best money in the world" is none too good for those who have got it, but how is it with the 90 per cent of our people who have "got it to get?" How is it with those who must buy this "best money in the world" with the products of their own labor?

Those are the people for whom the Democratic party would legislate.

What is the best money for these? is the question for all to ask who really love this land. How else can you increase labor's purchasing power, but by increasing the price of labor's products? Is it a fair measure of values that in our great producing section, 10 bushels of potatoes must be paid for $1, 10 bushels of oats for $1, six bushels of corn for $1, three bushels of wheat, and all other products of the soil and mines, and the labor of all wage-earners at the same ratio? Does any fair mind say this is honest money that forces such an exchange, and if it is not a fair exchange, is it honest, is it less than robbery? This is the condition to which the single gold standard has brought us. Under it the appreciation of the "best money in the world" has increased the wealth of the rich, and for the same reason has increased the debt of the debtor. So it has been, so under the present standard it must continue to be.

With these object lessons about us, little need have we for history and statistics, and the studies of scholars. Little satisfaction it is to us that they have warned us long since of the deadly evil of the gold standard. It has brought us at last to the parting of the ways. Whither shall the people go, in the way that has led to their enslavement, or into that which offers them their only chance to regain individual liberty, lasting prosperity and happiness? Let not our opponents charge us with creating class distinctions. Alas for the republic, they are already here, created by the Republican policy of the last 36 years, created by the very system we would now overthrow and destroy. Nor do we raise a sectional issue. The nomination you tender repels the charge. None know better than I that this nomination is meant as no personal tribute, but as an assurance that our party is a non-sectional party. Not by our policy, but only by the continuance of the gold standard can sectionalism be revived. Neither shall our opponents be permitted to terrify the people by predictions that temporary disturbance or panic will come from the policy we propose. The American people will be loyal to the nation's money, will stand behind it and maintain it at whatever value they themselves may put upon it. Once before in the present generation have our people been called upon to face a momentous crisis.

What then, said Mr. Lincoln, the chosen leader of the plain people of the land? Was he awed by threats or weakened by the wily persuasion of the false friends, who, as today, pleaded for compromise with wrong? His answer was: "If our sense of duty forbids this, then let us stand by our duty, fearlessly and effectively. Let us be diverted by none of these sophistical contrivances wherewith we are so industriously plied and belabored, contrivances such as groping for some middle ground between the right and the wrong. Reversing the divine rule and calling not the sinners, but the righteous to repentance, such as invocations to Washington, imploring men to unsay what Washington said, and undo what Washington did. Neither let us be slandered from our duty by false accusations against us. Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us, to the end, dare to do our duty as we understand it."

We know well the nature of the struggle in which we are engaged, we are anxious only that the people of the land shall understand it, and then our battle is won. Behind the strong entrenchment of the gold standard are gathered all those favored classes it has fostered, the only dangerous classes of the land. Avarice and unholy greed are there every trust and combination is there, every monopoly is there, led by the greatest monopoly of all, the monopoly of the power of gold. With us, in our assault upon these entrenchments are all those unselfish men, who now, suffering themselves, cannot rest content with conditions so full of suffering for others, and that vaster number of our people who have been sacrificed to the small and selfish class, who now resist their attempts to regain their ancient rights and liberties. These are the patriots of 1896, the foes of a "dishonest dollar," which enriches 10 per cent of our people to rob the rest, the defenders of the homes of the land, of public morals and the public faith, both of which alike forbid the payment of government obligations in a coin costlier to those who have to pay than that the contract calls for, the defenders of the honor of the nation, whose most sacred charge is to care for the welfare of all its citizens.

The free and unlimited coinage of silver is the sole remedy with which to check the wrongs of today, to undo the ruin of the past, and for our inspiration we have the justice of our cause and those principles of Jefferson and Jackson, which shall be our guide on our return to power. "Equal and exact justice to all men. Absolute acquiescence in decisions of the majority, the vital principles of republics. The honest payment of our debts and sacred preservation of the public faith." Profoundly sensible of the high honor of the nomination you tender, I am, truly yours,

Arthur Sewall.

Figuring on Results.

Hartford, Oct. 7.—Of the 168 towns in the state of Connecticut, elections were held Monday in 162. Returns have been received from 146 of these towns, those not heard from being isolated and without wire communication, and containing so few voters as to be of inconsiderable importance. Of the 146 towns heard from, 133 have elected the Republican ticket, which shows a gain of 12 towns over the election of last year. These towns have given the Republicans majorities averaging about 100, indicating an approximate majority in the state of 15,000. Of the 16 towns now missing, nine are considered as safely Republican, with insignificant Republican majorities. These missing towns, together with the larger towns of New Haven, Hartford, Bridgeport, Derby, Ansonia and Naugatuck, where no elections were held Monday, according to the estimates of the Republican managers, would give a Republican majority in the state of about 20,000. At the Democratic headquarters, however, the managers do not concede that Monday's results afford justifiable estimates, and while they concede an apparent Republican majority of 10,000 or 12,000, they claim that local issues were too sharply defined to permit of an expression on the national issues, and that the Republican majority in Connecticut on Nov. 3 will not exceed 10,000.

McKinley's Visitors.

Canton, O., Oct. 7.—Rain and slush did not keep the big delegations from Canton yesterday. No more enthusiastic callers have been here than those from Tonawanda and Buffalo and Syracuse, and Lenewee county, Mich., and through the drenching showers the callers marched to the McKinley home, making the city resound with their enthusiasm, while mounted troops and large bands of music and finely drilled companies, uniformed in macintoshes, evoked cheers from the thousands who stood sheltered in doorways and under awnings while the visitors marched by. The formal receptions of the visiting delegations did not end the demonstrations. Soon as the city was shrouded in the darkness, the clubs were again on the street. Michigan and New York and Ohio united in the spectacle. When the parade was well organized, it marched and countermarched past the McKinley home, and was reviewed from the little stand on the front lawn by Major and Mrs. McKinley.

A Visit to Hoosier Land.

Indianapolis, Oct. 7.—The reception accorded William J. Bryan on his arrival in Indianapolis yesterday was nearly as great as any he has received during his entire trip. He made five speeches here. The Bryan party arrived at 12:45 o'clock. The Cleveland club, the Indianapolis Silver club and Glee club escorted him. The principal thoroughfares were so crowded that the sidewalks were roped off. After dinner, Mr. Bryan addressed the largest crowd of the day at the state house. The park in front of the state house was packed with humanity, and the streets on either side were crowded. At Tomlinson hall he spoke to as many people as could be gotten into it, and in front of the balcony where he stood. Last night he spoke to three more audiences, one to the Commercial Travelers' association in the Grand hotel, one from a platform outside the courthouse, and one in Tomlinson hall. The speech inside the hall was to the laboring men of Indianapolis, and his remarks were applauded to the echo.

Destroyed Cleveland's Picture.

Richmond, Oct. 7.—At the meeting last night of the Powhattan club, the leading political organization in this city, there was a heated discussion as to whether President Cleveland's picture should be removed from his place over the president's chair in the clubhouse, to make a place for photographs of Bryan and Sewall. After much discussion a resolution was passed providing that the picture of the chief executive be removed to some less conspicuous place, and those of the Democratic nominees be hung in the place of honor. Upon the adjournment of the club, however, the painting of the president was torn by some of the members of the organization, and in a few minutes the likeness was a ruin.

Won't Accept Faneuil Hall Nomination.

Boston, Oct. 7.—George F. Williams and his associates upon the ticket who were named at the Music hall convention, do not intend to accept the nominations tendered by the Faneuil hall Democracy, under any curcumstances. Every candidate on the ticket named at Music hall, and endorsed by the Faneuil hall convention, will also refuse to accept the latter's endorsement, and the proper document relating to their declination, it is intended, will be filed today with the secretary of state.

Florida's Election.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 7. — Reports from all parts of the state indicate a large vote, with the totals of the Democrats about the same as in 1892, when the vote for governor was: Mitchell (Dem.), 32,004; Boskin (Pop.), 8309. Only two tickets were in the field in that election, Democrats and Populists, now three, Democratic, Republican and Populist. The Australian ballot is in use for the first time, and the counting will be exceedingly slow. Almost universal satisfaction with the new system of voting is expressed.

THE STUDIOUS GIRL.

An Interesting Letter From a Young Ladies' College.

Race Between the Sexes for Education. Health Impaired by Incessant Study.

The race between the sexes for education is to-day very close.

Ambitious girls work incessantly over their studies, and are often brought to a halt, through having sacrificed the physical to the mental. Then begin those ailments that must be removed at once, or they will produce constant suffering. Headache, dizziness, faintness, slight vertigo, pains in the back and loins, irregularity, loss of sleep and appetite, nervousness and blues, with lack of confidence, these are positive signs that women's arch enemy is at hand.

The following letter was received by Mrs. Pinkham in May, one month after the young lady had first written, giving symptoms, and asking advice. She was ill and in great distress of mind, feeling she would not hold out till graduation, and the doctor had advised her to go home.

—— College, Mass.

You dear Woman:—

I should have written to you before, but you said wait a month. We are taught that the days of miracles are past. Pray what is my case? I have taken the Vegetable Compound faithfully, and obeyed you implicitly and, am free from all my ills. I was a very, very sick girl. Am keeping well up in my class, and hope to do you and myself credit at graduation. * * My gratitude cannot find expression in words. Your sincere friend, MARY ——

P. S. Some of the other girls are now using the Compound. It benefits them all.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the only safe, sure and effectual remedy in such cases, as it removes the cause, purifies and invigorates the system, and gives energy and vitality.

TOM REED IS POPULAR

As Was Plainly Shown by a Great Gathering at Poston.

Greatest Personal Tribute In the State's History.

He Responds by Making a Speech In Behalf of Republican Principles.

Boston, Oct. 8.—Speaker Thomas B. Reed, the big and brainy statesman, Republican leader and congressman from Maine, was accorded a reception at Music hall last night that will go on record as the greatest ever accorded a public man in Massachusetts. The purpose of the Music hall meeting was nominally to ratify the national and state tickets, but in reality it resulted in a tribute of affection for, and a unanimous expression of confidence and approval of the speaker of the national house of representatives.

No man in party leadership in this state has more of a hold upon an audience than Senator Lodge, but while his reception was an ovation, enthusiastically enthusiastic, it was mild in comparison with the great welcome accorded the Maine statesman.

Twice during the progress of the great meeting in Music hall the audience, which crowded every available space, rose en masse and cheered, applauded, shouted and yelled, waved flags and in many ways demonstrated that they knew Tom Reed.

The audience repeatedly broke forth in patriotic demonstrations. Every man, woman and child in the audience had an American flag, and they waved the national emblem on every occasion, making a moving sea of red, white and blue. Then there was patriotic music —"The Star Spangled Banner," "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," "Marching Through Georgia," Yankee Doodle," "Rally Round the Flag, Boys," and "America," in which the audience joined in singing with a will.

It was 8:15 when Chairman Lyman of the state committee, accompanied by W. C. Lovering of Taunton, made his way to the stage from the rear. He was followed by Acting Governor Wolcott, W. M. Crane, the candidate for lieutenant governor; Attorney General Knowlton, State Secretary Olin, State Auditor Kimball, Congressman Simpkins, and then came Senator Lodge and Speaker Reed. For the latter pair the crowd held in reserve its enthusiasm. It did break loose the minute the familiar figures came in view, and for fully five minutes the two national leaders were kept busy bowing their acknowledgment. There were cheers for McKinley and Hobart, but they were faint as compared with Reed's greeting. The man from Maine was wreathed in smiles, and apparently much affected by his reception.

Chairman Lyman opened the meeting by introducing William C. Lovering of Taunton as presiding officer.

The speeches by Messrs. Lovering, Lodge and Wolcott covered the break in the state Democracy and the dual conventions, and also touched upon national affairs.

When Mr. Reed was introduced by Chairman Lovering, every man and woman in the audience were on their feet instantly. This reception exceeded the first in point of noise, and even in enthusiasm. The band played "Hail to the Chief," but its efforts were lost in the roar from thousands of throats. During it all the speaker stood at the side of the desk, with his hands behind his back, looking the people squarely in the eye, and smiled his pleasure at the thunderous welcome.

The Maine statesman said: Fellow citizens—" but the people had not got ready to listen to him, and continued their cheering. When they did cease he began by saying he was glad to witness such a remarkable demonstration for the cause he represented.

Instantly there came from all over the hall: "You are wrong." "It's all for you." "We mean you." Then the vast crowd took to cheering again. When quiet was restored once more he said, with much feeling: "If that is your desire, then I accept it as a personal tribute, and no cause, however great, can take it away from me. I shall cherish it all my life, and wear it near my heart as a token of the friendship of the people of this great commonwealth."

Mr. Reed was at his best in his delivery last night, and his speech was confined solely to the money question. He incidentally referred to the tariff, and expressed his confidence in the triumph of the Republican party and its candidates.

When Mr. Reed got fairly started in his address, he said, in part:

I thank you most sincerely for the kind reception you have given me. It is the duty of a man duly modest, in my place, to assure you that it is the greatness of the cause and not the inconsiderable advocate which has called forth your applause. Just now, too, the cause can spare me this pleasure, for if you and I should pass away before election, there would be enough left to make Major McKinley president, and dispose of the silver question in the light of reason, sound sense and business intelligence.

We do not talk of protection, for this country, by three elections, each more decisive than the other, has practically determined that question. The main questio now before us is the silver question. This discussion we are now having is born and bred of the depressed condition of public and private affairs. It has come upon us like the greenback agitation of 1878. It had the same causes, and in my judgment will have the same fate.

With the rising tide of business in 1879, which followed specie resumption, greenbackism disappeared from the face of the earth, perhaps never again to reappear. In like manner, when this election is over and business revives, this question of free coinage of silver by the United States, single handed and alone, will disappear from public and private discussion.

It was never any wonder to me that the notions of fiat money took so deep a hold as they actually did upon the people of this country. There was just enough of truth in them to mislead in the worst possible way. Nothing can lie like a half truth. Those of us who went through the conflict of 1878 must admit that there was more in fiat money than in this idea of free and unlimited coinage of silver, 16 to 1, by the United States alone, in force and power of the argument before the people. The people of the United States were sensible enough to take no steps in the dark, and on the action of the people of this country 18 years ago I found my belief in the victory of the Republican party.

Nor is the question today half as difficult as the question of 1878. It is certainly not bimetallism. Bimetallism means the use of both metals, and not one. It means the use of both metals by all the civilized world, at least. At this bimetallism Mr. Bryan sneers. He says that is establishing a system in America with the "consent of Europe, as if we were vassals." Had he said "agreement," as does the Republican platform, he would have recognized both the individuality of other nations and their equality. When this same gentleman talks about a "foreign monetary system," one wonders how long it takes for such a system to get used to our climate. Since 1834 we have had the same standard, and that standard has been gold. True it is that nominally silver was decreed to be at an equivalency to 16 to 1, but as the silver in a dollar was worth $1.03, the only use of the right of mintage was to get silver stamped by the government, and then it went its way.

Bimetallism is not the issue. I put aside all this talk about the rise of the value of silver under free coinage, to meet the value of gold, and all the harmony that would come of the marriage. It seems very clear, if we are to credit history and experience, that, if we coin silver 16 to 1, when its market value is 32 to 1, we should certainly go to a silver standard, and that standard will be below our present one.

It is not necessary to pose as a friend of the wage-earner in order to point out to him what this means for him. It means lower wages; nothing less than that. Now, I contend that the whole world suffers when the wage-earners and salary-earners suffer. The reason is a simple one. The great motive power, the engine, which moves the whole productive power of the world, is in the wages and salaries of the men who are hired. These wages and salaries make very near 70 per cent of the total purchasing power of the country. Lowering of that fund, either by non-employment or by lessening of wages, is a check to progress, and a continuance of hard times. Hence, I do not want to see a depreciating currency, for that means a depreciation of salary and of wages, and, consequently, a depreciation of that fund which, in the form of purchasing power, sets mills in motion, pays wages and salaries and makes business.

Mr. Bryan was nominated in July. In the month of August the Pennsylvania railroad, which runs half across the continent, and is a fair index of the business of the whole country, for it helps furnish that vast mass of coal which gives the power that runs the mills and employs the workmen, lost more than $1,250,000. One million and a quarter of dollars in one month by one railroad. That means much to a thinking man. If the shadow has done this, what, I repeat, will the substance do?

When all this has happened where are we? What are we doing it all for? Simply and solely to get upon another basis to have our operations measured by another standard. Even if it were a better one, what a terrible price should we pay. A flurry, a panic, a scaling down of debts due to worthy men and worthy institutions, and all to get a standard less stable, more fluctuating, than we have now.

But we shall not do this thing. The American people have shown too much sense during 100 years of life to leave any chance for doubt. We shall raise revenue, which will pay our expenses. We shall revive our industries, and have another period of prosperity and peace.

It is true that underneath the faith we have there is a heavy sense of anxiety. When I contrast these last four years with the years that preceded them, it seems as if we lived in another land, and were almost another people. Think of those glorious years between 1860 and 1892. We fought a great war, unhappily among ourselves, but with honorable results, for the good of the human race. We passed through years of trouble and of pain. We had our period of depression, and a long, hard climb out of the evils of a disordered currency, and of reckless expenditure. We lifted ourselves to great heights of national credit.

When I think of those great achievements and those glorious years, whatever doubts may come, whatever sorrows we are enduring, I know, beyond all denying, that the United States of America, under the same control, will take not the old place, high as it was, but a loftier one, among the nations of the earth.

The Clevelands at Greenwich.

Greenwich, Conn., Oct. 8.—E. C. Benedict's steam yacht Oneida, with President Cleveland and party on board, arrived here early yesterday morning, and dropped anchor off Mr. Benedict's summer residence at Indian point. The members of the party were not aroused until 8 o'clock, when they went ashore and disappeared in the Benedict residence, where the president joined Mrs. Cleveland and his daughters. President Cleveland spent the entire forenoon with his family. Yesterday afternoon he drove about the town with his host.

And Still It Grows.

Boston, Oct. 8.—Word has been received at the headquarters of the Christian Endeavor society, in this city, from President Clark, announcing that the Christian Endeavor movement has been formally launched in Sweden. Dr. Clark met with the Swedish Sunday School union at Stockholm, Sept. 19 and 20. Most of the time of the convention was taken up with a discussion of Christian Endeavor work, and the result was a formal endorsement of the movement by the union, and the adoption of the name "Kristna Endeavor Foreningen."

GEORGIA'S ELECTION.

Atkinson Again Elected Governor by a Majority Estimated at Thirty Thousand.

Atlanta, Oct. 8.—The polls throughout the state closed at 6 o'clock, and from bulletins received the indications are that Atkinson's majority for governor will be less than 30,000.

Chairman Clay of the Democratic state committee made a statement last night, in which he said that while it was difficult to make any exact estimate, he expects the Democratic majority to be about 30,000.

W. Y. ATKINSON.

The reports from all over the state indicate that a heavy vote had been cast. There were three tickets in the field, but the Prohibition vote was light. In addition to the governor and county officers to be elected, two constitutional amendments were submitted, one increasing the number of judges of the supreme court from three to six, the new ones to be elected by the people, instead of by the legislature, as now. The other amendment requires the state school commissioner to be elected by the people, instead of appointed by the governor.

The legislature will be Democratic by an overwhelming majority, insuring the election of ex-Speaker Charles F. Crisp to the United States senate, as the successor of General John B. Gordon.

A. E. Buck, chairman of the state Republican committee, says: "Atkinson's large majority is due to the Prohibition plank in the Populist platform. The governor won the negro vote by his efforts to suppress lynching. The result has no significance nationally."

The election caused a murder and lynching at Mount Junction, Screven county. Gus Williams, a Populist negro, struck a ticket out of a Democratic negro voter's hand. The Democratic negro struck Williams for his insolence, and Williams fired at his assailant, but missed his aim, and shot and instantly killed Engineer Middleton of the Central railroad, who was an innocent looker-on. Bystanders took Williams and lynched him and riddled his body with bullets.

Big Demand For Reed.

Washington, Oct. 8. — The demand which has been made upon the Republican committee from all sections of the country for Speaker Reed in this campaign, is described at Republican headquarters as simply enormous. In reply to a letter, Mr. Reed writes as follows to Chairman Babcock: "I am very glad that you have some of the letters which might have unfortunately come to me, for I am very much disturbed by them. The country being rather large, and I being only one, it is impossible to comply with the many requests that are made. If some of the people whom I have to refuse knew how I hated to do it, I should have their compassion instead of a less tender feeling."

Tabernacle's Capacity Tested.

Canton, O., Oct. 8.—The rains of Tuesday, which drove the McKinley crowds indoors, were dried up by a bleak, cold wind yesterday, which made it necessary to carry out the day's program, save one early meeting on the lawn, at the Tabernacle. There were four demonstrations, by as many delegations. Two Ohio counties sent crowds, and it was intended to double them up, but they were so much larger than was expected that the doubling up process would not work. Combined, they filled the hall twice. A particularly enthusiastic delegation closed the day's doing. It came from Parkersburg, W. Va., and completely filled a special train of 10 cars.

Bible Lesson.

At the Calvary Baptist church, last evening, Rev. M. W. Plummer took for his introductory lesson Hebrews 5:12, 13 and 14 verses. The simplicity in which he presented these truths could not but be appreciated by young and old Christians, showing the close comparison between the natural babe and the spiritual, in the growth of either. A good number were present, and next Wednesday evening Mr. Plummer will prove to any the inspiration of the Word of God, the Bible. All are cordially invited to this meeting.

About 50 were given out and another lot will arrive today for distribution tonight, so that before Saturday night the 100 members all have received their uniforms. A GRAND WEDDING.

The Holden-Russell Nuptials at First Church.

Attended by the Elite of the City last Evening.

A Brilliant Reception Followed at Home of Bride's Mother.

Long before the doors of the First Unitarian church were opened Wednesday evening for the wedding of Mr. Walter Beale Holden and Miss Edith Gertrude Russell, there was a large crowd of people waiting to be admitted to the gallery, which quickly filled up and a hundred or more were turned away. At quarter past seven the invited guests began to arrive, each new arrival causing a flutter of excitement.

The decorations were green and white, the altar being banked with palms and green vines caught up with ragged white chrysanthemums. A new and pretty feature were three large arches over the broad aisle of green and white, tied with white satin ribbon.

Mr. James F. Harlow presided at the organ playing continuously during the arrival of the guests.

At 8.15 o'clock the church was full and two little maids in white, Miss Barker and Miss Claflin, neighbors of the bride, walked down the aisle strewing flowers as they went. As they reached the entrance the strains of Lohengren's wedding march pealed forth and all eyes were turned to watch the entrance of the bridal party. The little flower girls came first, then six ushers, four bridemaids, and lastly the bride, leaning on the arm of her uncle, Judge Everett C. Bumpus.

Mr. Holden, attended by his brother, Mr. Henry R. Holden, met the procession at the altar. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ellery C. Butler, pastor of the church, and was very impressive. Mrs. Edward Russell, the bride's mother, gave the bride away.

Once more the bridal party formed, the bride and groom leading the way to the triumphal strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march.

The bride looked handsome, as was expected, and her gown was elegant in its simplicity. It was of heavy ivory white moire satin, with long square court train. The bodice was trimmed with duchess lace and chiffon. Lilies of the valley caught up the tulle veil.

The bride was to have been attended by Mrs. Paul R. Blackmur, who had prepared a handsome gown of green and white brocaded silk trimmed with green chiffon and white roses, but a sudden bereavement prevented her attending.

The four bridemaids were Miss Emelie Moone of Easton, Penn., Miss Isabel Cole of Newton, Miss Bessie Pratt and Miss Minnie F. Eaton, of Quincy. Their gowns were very beautiful of green and white taffeta silk, with bodices of brussels net over white satin, trimmed with green ribbons. They carried shower bouquets of white carnations and maiden hair ferns.

The brooch pins worn by the bridemaids, gifts from bride, were heart shape set in cut silver and came from Paris.

The ushers were Mr. George B. Dewson, Mr. Harry L. Rice, Mr. Fred B. Rice, Mr. Moreton T. Swallow, Mr. Harry E. Russell and Mr. Arthur B. Holden.

Mr. I. Hull Adams and Miss Elizabeth C. Adams were noticed among the guests at the church and the gift they sent to Mr. and Mrs. Holden is one that they cannot help but prize. It was a silver ice pitcher used by President John Quincy Adams.

After the ceremony at the church a largely attended reception was held at the home of the bride on Greenleaf street.

Mr. and Mrs. Holden were assisted in receiving by Mrs. John O. Holden and Mr. Henry R. Holden, mother and brother of the groom, and Mrs. Edward Russell and Mr. Harry E. Russell, mother and brother of the bride. Several hundred tendered their congratulations during the evening.

The broad piazzas were enclosed in canvas and the wedding supper was served in an immense tent leading off from the piazza. Cook of Boston was the caterer.

The floral decorations were potted plants bouquets of chrysanthemums and roses and garlands of green.

All the presents were lovely, there being china in every shape, quantities of cut glass and silver, and most everything one could desire. Mr. Holden gave his bride a handsome gold chatelaine watch with fleur-de-lis pin set with pearls. Mrs. Holden's gift was a handsome mahogany chamber set inlaid with pearls, Mrs. Russell and Mr. Harry Russell's gift was a mahogany case with brass trimmings full of silver. Besides these there were many other valuable presents from the near relatives.

Never was there a wedding in Quincy where so many pretty gowns were noticed. Mrs. Edward Russell wore an elegant black velvet with duchess lace, Miss Elsie Russell a heavy grey moire, Mrs. John O. Holden, black silk, Mrs. Everett C. Bumpus, black and green, Mrs. John C. Randall, black with low bodice, Mrs. James H. Stetson, blue taffeta silk, and all the recent brides were in their white wedding gowns, which blended harmoniously with the dainty gowns of delicate tone wore by the maidens.

Mr. and Mrs. Holden will be at home Wednesdays, December second and ninth at 26 Greenleaf street.

ADAMS WON.

The High School Eleven No Match for the Academy Boys.

The Adams academy football team made its first appearance Wednesday, in a game with the Quincy High school, at the park. The result was most pleasing to the supporters of the blue and white.

Porter kicked off for the High school. It was fumbled by the Adams backs, but someone dropped on it. Eldridge took it ahead in a good rush. Adams gained steadily and after good rushes by McConarty, Taylor, Manning and Eldridge, the ball was forced across the line for the first touchdown. Eldridge kicked the goal. Porter again kicked off and the ball was caught by Eldridge who carried it well up the field before he was downed. By quick snappy plays the High school line was broken for several good gains, and a second touchdown was scored. Again Eldridge was successful in kicking the goal.

After the third kick off the ball went to High on four downs and they rushed the ball into Adams' territory. At one time, with the ball in Porter's hands, a touch down was imminent, but a good tackle by McGrath saved the point. Time was called with the score Adams, 12; High School, 0.

Adams kicked off in the second half. The High School boys pushed the ball steadily but very slowly down the field. The gains were short. At the end of ten minutes' play the ball went to Adams on four downs, and the pigskin was soon on its way towards the High's goal. The time was too far gone however, and "time" was called with the ball in Adams' possession on the High School twenty-five yard line.

For the High school Porter made the longest gains, Litchfield and the new centre did good work.

The Academy boys played an extremely snappy game.

Eldridge made the longest rushes with one exception when Taylor made a very good rush. McConarty and Manning battered the opponents line for shorter gains. W. McCabe played a cool and satisfactory game at quarter back.

The teams lined up as follows:

ADAMS ACADEMY.	HIGH SCHOOL.

Educational Lecture.

A small but interested group of young men gathered in the parlor of the Young Men's Christian Association Wednesday evening to listen to an informal talk on educational work. Strange to say, though the talk was mainly statistical, it was anything but tiresome. It was given by Mr. D. F. Graham of Springfield, the father of the industrial educational work in the Associations of the country, and was interested because illustrated by something like fifty very ingenously arranged charts, which showed the relative standing of various educational religious and socialogical subjects.

There are thirteen millions of young men in the country, 25 per cent. are artisans or skilled laborers, leaving 75 per cent. which need industrial and scientific education. Twenty per cent. belong to the commercial class, 5 per cent. to professional, 50 per cent. are agriculturists and laborers.

Of the young men in Associaation educational classes 60 per cent. are taking commercial studies, 15 per cent. miscellaneous and professional, and 25 per cent. industrial. Thirty per cent. of the young men of the country are within reach of Association privileges.

Many facts relating to Association educational work were given, which if true, show that Quincy is on the right track for the greatest usefulness and that if these advantages are used, young men will not only be helped in business but in their moral character.

St. Chrysostom's.

On Sunday last it was our pleasure to attend the initial service of the vested choir, consisting of twenty-four men and boys. It is some months since this choir was decided upon; the Woman's Guild very kindly furnishing the necessary funds.

It was thought at first that it would be hard to secure suitable voices, but Professor Stover had no doubt that as soon as the parents were aware of the great advantages to their boys belonging to the choir, the necessary voices would be forthcoming, which seems to be a fact, as he has new applications at every rehearsal.

Promptly at 10.45 the opening prayers were heard in the choir room. Immediately the organ took up the processional with the choir joining in as it neared the church, finally breaking forth in a grand volume of music on entering the chancel. Every piece was well rendered. In fact, from the work shown one would suppose the choir had been singing together for years instead of weeks, reflecting great credit upon the painstaking care and training of Professor Stover.

It is needless to say that the church is very proud of its new choir, and if they can keep on as well as they have begun it will soon be one of the best in the city.

Below we append a list of the members:

Men,—Messrs. G. H. Page, Osborne, Briggs, Howard, Fowler, Price.

Hewins Managers Unable to Deliver Their Votes.

At the Norfolk County Republican Convention.

Capt. Wadsworth Nominated and Mr. Morrell Asked to Resign.

For over five hours the Norfolk county Republican convention was in session in Boston on Wednesday without a recess. There was excitement from first to last. The contest over the Dedham delegates, the turndown of Clerk Worthington, the attempt to sell delegates for county commissioner, and the futile efforts of Chairman Morrell's friends to prevent the passage of condemnatory resolutions all make interesting reading.

Samuel R. Moseley of Hyde Park called the convention to order and was elected temporary chairman, with Charles C. Henry of Wellesley, as temporary secretary.

The committee on credentials reported 121 delegates present and a peculiar state of affairs in Dedham.

Arguments which followed showed that at the caucus only three of the six delegates were elected, when the caucus adjourned. The three had filled the vacancy, and then two of the first three had resigned and those vacancies were filled.

Judge French interpreted the law that only a majority could fill vacancies and a majority had not been elected.

It was voted to admit only those duly elected, as declared in the caucus.

R. O. Carpenter of Foxboro was elected permanent chairman and Mr. Henry secretary.

Messrs. Erastus Worthington and Louis A. Cook were placed in nomination for clerk of court and an informal ballot gave Mr. Worthington 66, Mr. Cook, 52 and E. J. Whitaker 7.

Dedham cast three votes when the town was called, and the right was questioned at the time, but as it was an informal ballot, the voting proceeded, it being understood that in the future no substitute for Dedham delegates should be admitted.

After the ballots Mr. Schultz of Dedham desired to fight it out. The point was raised that he was not a delegate and could not speak. The chair so ruled, but by vote Mr. Schultz was allowed to explain.

After a spirited debate it was voted to admit the three Dedham gentlemen presenting certificates of those elected.

A formal ballot for clerk proved a surprise, as Mr. Worthington who had a majority on the informal ballot lost seven votes and Mr. Cook received a majority and the nomination, which was afterward made unanimous. The vote on the formal ballot was: Worthington, 59; Cook, 62, and no scattering.

County Commissioner.

Five candidates were then placed in nomination for county commissioner and the balloting began. The first was informal and the others formal, viz:

Ballot,	1	2	3	4	5	6
Number cast,	120	121	119	118	117	110
Majority,	61	62	60	60	59	56
E. D. Wadsworth,	44	44	49	51	49	78
James Hewins,	44	57	55	55	54	14
Oscar B. Mowry,	15	18	11	12	14	18
H. D. Humphrey,	19	2	—	—	—	—
Emery Grover,	5	—	4	—	—	—
J. T. Southworth,	2	—	—	—	—	—

After the result of the fifth ballot had declared Mr. Mitchell, the manager of the Hewins campaign, took the platform and thanked the convention for the support it had given Mr. Hewins of Medfield and withdrew his name in favor of Oscar D. Mowry of Brookline, and moved his nomination by acclamation. There was an attempt to stampede the convention for Mowry but John Graham showed up the trick, and J. P. S. Churchill stemmed the tide by a ringing speech against nomination by acclamation, which was endorsed by Henry H. Faxon, and old feuds were buried while the two shook hands.

The motion to nominate by acclamation was lost, and it was voted to proceed to another ballot.

But Mr. Mitchell was unable to deliver his votes as chattels as the vote shows. In fact only 4 of Mr. Hewins' 54 went to Mr. Mowry, for the Wadsworth men, among whom Frank E. Badger of Quincy was prominent, took up the cry, "Don't be sold, boys!" and Mr. Wadsworth made a gain of 29 and was handsomely elected by a majority of 22. The nomination was made unanimous.

Other Nominations.

George H. Mann of Sharon was nominated by acclamation without any contest for special commissioner.

The county committee of 1896 was re-elected for 1897.

Morrell Not Wanted.

Dr. Swan then offered this resolution adopted by the Stoughton caucus:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that, in view of the report of the Legislative Committee appointed to investigate the Board of County Commissioners of Norfolk County, Melville P. Morrell be requested to resign from said board."

Dr. Swan offered another resolution requesting the resignation of Mr. Morrell and moved its adoption.

All other business had been transacted and the followers of Mr. Morrell endeavored to stave it off. After the resolution was seconded, there was a motion to lay on the table. When this question was put the chair was in doubt. A show of hand showed 27 in favor and 25 opposed. A verification was asked for by excluding non delegates. The motion was lost by a large majority.

The motion to adjourn was also lost.

The resolution was then adopted by a decisive vote and at 4.27 the memorable convention adjourned.

Shawmut Spring Water.

How many people realize the importance of drinking only pure water in large quantities in order to keep in absolutely good health? When we consider that two-thirds of the human body is in the form of water, and that in order to supply the losses from excretion and evaporation it is necessary to drink from one-half to one gallon of water daily; it is of the utmost importance that it should be of the very best quality, perfectly free from the slightest trace of organic matter.

The Shawmut Spring Water stands second to none as a pure drinking water. Hundreds of families are using it every day. It is an important factor in maintaining health, building up and restoring the organs of digestion to healthy action. Cures Rheumatic, Kidney and Bladder troubles, when drugs have proved useless.

Send your order for a 5-gallon sample package. If you don't like it, it costs you nothing. Drink it and you will be satisfied of its purity.

FALL WEATHER DANGERS.

Much Sickness Expected by the Authorities.

Puritana Recommended for the Public Health.

A long season of hot weather has used up the strength and pulled down the flesh of many people. Their stomachs have become week and flaccid.

This is noticed especially in the case of children whose digestions seem to be paralyzed by the first cold wave. But it is also true of grown people, who are surprised that the cool days of approaching fall make them feel worse, instead of better. They have increased appetites perhaps, but their enervated digestive organs are unable to properly assimilate their food.

The time is coming for cold nights and mornings and warm noons. The clothing that is needed for the proper protection of the vital organs in the early morning becomes burdensome in the middle of the day. It is the season of drafts and sudden changes, which find the system but poorly prepared to stand such strains.

Many deaths will result in this season, but the chief effect will be in the general loss of public health until the people in the community have been enabled to adjust themselves to the new climatic conditions.

All doctors agree that great care is needed both in food and clothing. Unnecessary exposure should be avoided, and especially should the stomach be given every possible assistance in its important functions. If the stomach is toned up and invigorated, if the liver and kidneys are kept in good working order, the whole machinery of life is given strength and renewed energy. The stomach is the power producer of the human body, and 92 per cent. of all sickness comes from its failure to do its proper work.

Physicians, chemists and practical druggists who have administered and investigated Puritana, the prize-formula of Dr. Dixi Crosby of Dartmouth College, have publicly and privately stated that it is the one safe and effective stomach remedy within reach of the people to-day. Tens of thousands of patients have tried Puritana with success. Testimony of all sorts, public and confidential, has been forthcoming from various sources, proving the value of Puritana beyond all question.

A BOSTON LAWYER.

What Mr. John P. Wyman Says of Puritana.

The duties of his law practice make Mr. John P. Wyman an exceedingly busy man, and yet, when asked by an acquaintance what he knew about Puritana, he took time briefly to recount his experience. Mr. Wyman writes:

"I have long been subject to severe headaches and to other symptoms which seemed to indicate a nervous affection of the stomach. Some weeks ago it occurred to me that there might be virtue in Puritana, which I was informed was the formula of Prof. Dixi Crosby of Darthmouth College. As it gave evidence of being a thoroughly good preparation, and as there was a chance that it might bring me the relief which I earnestly desired, I tried it to the extent of several bottles.

"I am not enough of a medical man technically to diagnose my own case, or absolutely to measure the benefit derived from the use of Puritana, but I know, as a fact, that after I had been using Puritana, I had a better appetite, a better night's sleep, and, practically, freedom from headaches, which had previously caused me much suffering.

"The result is that I feel sure the credit can fairly be given to Puritana, and, while I am not licensed to prescribe any medicine, I am willing, on the basis of my own experience, to express the opinion that Puritana is an important remedy for troubles of the stomach and nerves."

DYSPEPSIA DID IT

Weakened One Man's Constitution Until It Brought Him to Death's Door.

Mr. James S. Harrison, a well-known and highly respected citizen of Cleveland, O., was for years a sufferer from dyspepsia and general debility, and in his weakened condition, resulting from the above causes, he had the additional ill-luck to fall a victim to malaria from this complication of disorders. Mr. Harrison's condition was becoming very serious, when he commenced to take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. Its effects were marked and immediate. Read his letter to us. Its earnestness is apparent:

GENTLEMEN: For the benefit of all suffering from dyspepsia and general debility I beg to submit my testimonial as to the efficacy of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, as a positive cure for all the distressing complaints from which I suffered.

My system was also full of Malaria and my condition was growing very serious; I had no appetite, was losing strength and was completely broken down in health, but now my health is completely restored, and I can eat like a field laborer, without the slightest fear of any serious results.

I take great pleasure in telling the world that P. P. P. did the grand work of restoring me to my accustomed health.

Yours truly,
JAMES S. HARRISON,
Cleveland, O.

If you get up feeling tired and stupid, P. P. P. should be taken—it will make you feel well.

P. P. P. cures eczema, that torturing, itching disease of the skin and blood. If your blood is kept pure, you will not be disfigured with pimples, boils and blotches.

P. P. P. is the deadly foe and vanquisher of rheumatism. Its effects are immediate and lasting, and it not only relieves, but permanently cures.

Scrofula, which is hereditary and deep-seated in the blood can be cured by P. P. P. It is the one and only positive cure for this dread disease.

Sufferers from kidney troubles find immediate relief when they take P. P. P. as it cures all irregularities and restores to nature her proper functions.

Loyal Sentiment of Ancients Expressed at Their Banquet.

North and South Unite For the Nation's Good.

War Has Wrought Lessons Making Our Flag Dearer to Us All.

Baltimore, Oct. 8.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston were simply overwhelmed with Baltimore's hospitality yesterday, and their second day's stay in this city was a long one, full of incidents.

The annual banquet last night was attended by a large number of representative citizens. Colonel Walker presided. In his address he said:

For the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Massachusetts, I give you all a hearty and cordial welcome to our table. It is a question whether we have captured Baltimore, or Baltimore has captured us. Be that as it may, host and guest are of the one mind in earnestly hoping that our two cities may remain united in loving friendship, one and indivisible, now and forever. The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, each year leaving the city of its birth to make a pilgrimage, has become a proselyting missionary body; not seeking to propagate any religious dogma, or to bear aloft the banner of any political faith, but to carry the hospitality and good wishes of the Bay state to its sister states, and to make converts to interstate brotherhood and national unity. With the outing for social enjoyment is the duty of recognizing whatever is good, wherever found, and everywhere holding fast to the basic principles of our government.

The company is a representative body of the Puritan commonwealth, made up of citizens of almost every profession and business, believing in the teachings of her citizens and her shcoolhouses, proud of her history, and eager to make her future as glorious as has been her past. Its members recognize that all good is not to be found within her borders, and that elsewhere there are men as capable, as honest, as patriotic as themselves.

The company was chartered in 1638 as "The Military Company of Massachusetts," to be a school of soldiery. Long the head of citizens' soldiery of the commonwealth, it still lives under that charter, a military body, with officers bearing military rank and titles, and with military duties to perform, who are yearly commissioned by the governor and commander-in-chief. Its members have fought in every war in which the colony, the state and the Union have been engaged, holding every rank, even to the highest. Today it stands the oldest military organization on the continent.

Where could such a company, with so many glorious memories, more than 2½ centuries clustering about it, better come than to the capital of Maryland. Proud as we are of all our sister states, we can't but feel a little warmer to the old thirteen, the heads of families from which have sprung so many illustrious children. Coeval in their birth, settled by men of the same race, from the same home across the sea, inspired by the same love of liberty, Maryland and Massachusetts have, for nearly three centuries, stood side by side in settling and developing a continent.

From the thirteen has rolled a mighty wave of civilization, which, sweeping over a continent, has peopled it with millions, than whom none braver or better exist the world over. In this struggle between civilization and the savage in man and nature, the members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company have ever been foremost, and the soldier of Maryland has ever proved his prowess.

A few months since I stood in Arlington, on the Potomac, and as I looked over that vast cemetery of the Union dead, its grassy slopes and green-clad mounds, its white headstones speaking eloquently of those lying beneath them, and of their deeds, mingled with the sad memories, there came to me a pride in the heroism of the sleepers, and in the gratitude and greatness of the people which thus, ignoring rank and condition in life, paid like honor to all who died that it might live. A few hours since I stood beside the graves where Confederate soldiers were sleeping the sleep that knows no awakening, and as I thought of the men buried there, the cause they had died for vanished. I remembered only that these men were of our race and blood, and had met us of the north on many a battlefield with a devotion to what they believed to be right, and a heroism equal to our own. Over the graves of the Blue and the Gray alike nature has spread her mantle of living green, and on both the morning dewdrops glisten, nature's tribute to human suffering, devotion and death.

The qualities of an heroic manhood, shown by soldiers of the south, unequaled but by those of the men of the north, who grappled with them on many a hard-fought field of alternate victory and defeat, can never be forgotten, nor cease to be admired. These qualities, matchless courage, unsurpassed endurance, unquestioned devotion to principle, as God gave them to see the right, are now needed. Those of the north man and southron combine in building up our country, and in increasing its prosperity and power. As the men of the south, led by the teachings of their lives from infancy to manhood, and honest in their faith, gave up life itself in its defense, so may they stand shoulder to shoulder now with us of the north, henceforth and forever, keeping the touch of the elbow with us as we cluster and serry ranks beneath that flag, the flag of a united country, ours and theirs, made dearer to both by the past of suffering and purified in the fiery furnace of affliction. Let our only rivalry be to see who shall go farthest in devotion to country, our only antagonism, opposition to all its enemies, our common hope and determination that "The government of the people, for the people and by the people shall not perish from the earth."

In that spirit, men of Baltimore, your soldiery a few years since, in the streets of Boston, paid tribute to the heroism of the men wore the blue. In that same spirit the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company stand in the streets of Baltimore today, and drop a tear of pride and sorrow for the men who wore the gray. Together we have borne through many years the cross of sacrifice and sufferings, together we now wear the crown of a great republic's glory, jewelled with all the stars of statehood, never one to be dimmed, but to shine on forever and forever a light unto the nations of the earth.

Other toasts were as follows: "The President of the United States," "The State of Maryland," "The City of Baltimore," "The Army," "The Navy," "The National Guard of Maryland," and "The Visitors."

The banquet was one of the most successful ever held in Baltimore. Those present embraced many who are prominent both in the city and the state.

UNPLEASANT WEATHER

Did Not Prevent Russian Visitors From Taking In Paris Sights.

Paris, Oct. 8.—A cold, drizzling rain fell throughout yesterday forenoon, but despite the discomfort of being out of doors, thousands of people assembled in the vicinity of the Russian embassy, hoping to catch a glimpse of the imperial visitors. President Faure, with Mme. Faure and Mlle. Faure, drove to the Russian embassy at 9 o'clock, for the purpose of accompanying the czar and czarina in their sight-seeing tour of the city. The party started on their trip half an hour behind the time fixed by the program. The czarina wore a gray dress, and looked bright and fresh, but the czar looked pale, and wore a serious expression. The party were driven to the Cathedral of Notre Dame, where they were received by Cardinal Richard, archbishop of Paris. Assisting the cardinal in the reception of the visitors were the vicar general of the archdiocese and the members of the Maroponitan Chapter. The streets through which the party passed were lined with people, and the great square fronting the cathedral was densely packed. The enthusiasm of the people along the route and in the square was manifested by almost incessant cheering.

The czar and czarina, after leaving the cathedral, visited the Palais de Justice, the Pantheon and the Hotel Des Invalides, returning to the Russian embassy for luncheon.

In the afternoon the czar laid the first stone of the new bridge across the Seine, to be known as the Alexander III bridge, in honor of the late Czar of Russia, the father of Nicholas II. The weather was showery. The czar, while at the Pantheon, paid a visit to the tomb of the late President Carnot, upon which his majesty placed a magnificent wreath. Mme. Carnot and her sons were present.

Hurriedly Sent to Rome.

New York, Oct. 8.—Colonel Herman Stump, United States commissioner general of immigration, sailed on the steamship Paris yesterday, and will proceed immediately to Rome. In the written instructions he received from Secretary Carlisle, Colonel Stump was instructed to proceed at once to Rome, and "consult with the royal secretary of the interior of the Kingdom of Italy," in relation to the immigration of Italians to the United States. He is also directed to appear in person before the Italian parliament, which convenes in November, and to hurry back here before congress meets, so as to report the result of his mission in Italy. That the mission is urgent and serious would seem from Colonel Stump's abrupt departure, and by the peremptory instructions of the secretary of the treasury.

Fit Mate For Holmes.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Dr. Carl F. Nitz, a physician, murdered his wife and then killed himself, yesterday afternoon. As shown by notes that were found after his death, Nitz sat by the woman's side, watching her die slowly, and now and then, to note the effect of another wound, he would stab his knife into her again. He carefully noted all the symptoms of the woman's approaching demise, and at one time left the house and the dying woman while he procured an oyster stew at a neighboring restaurant, and bought the revolver with which he shot himself.

Not Going Abroad.

New York, Oct. 8.—A morning paper says: President Cleveland is not going abroad with his family at the expiration of his term, on March 4, after all. It was the intention of the president to make a tour of the world, but he has abandoned his idea, and will spend next summer about New York. He has purchased about 60 acres of land at Hempstead, L. I., and in the early spring a modest little cottage will be built there. The land immediately adjoins that of his close personal friend, ex-Secretary William C. Whitney.

Blocked.

Washington, Oct. 8.—The action of the Turkish government, in giving it to be understood that no guardships of the powers not parties to the treaty of Paris shall be admitted to pass through the Dardanelles, is looked upon here as a shrewd piece of diplomacy. Thus far the United States has not made any formal request to have a guardship at Constantinople, and this announcement, in advance of the preference of a request, renders it improbable that one will be presented.

Washington Left Behind.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Cardinal Satolli left Washington yesterday at 12:45 p. m., on the beginning of his journey to Rome. He goes first to Newark, N. J., thence to West Point, Brooklyn and New York, taking up his time in paying visits to some friends until Oct. 17, when he will sail from the shores of America.

Sherburne, Mich., Oct. 8.—The Bank of Sherburne was entered at 2 p. m. yesterday, and Assistant Cashier Thoburn and O. J. Overton, collector for the W. A. Wood harvester works, who was in the bank, were shot dead. The murderers escaped on bicycles. Officers are in pursuit.

You wouldn't think much of a man who remained tied when he had a knife in his hands, would you? He would be foolish to remain helpless when the slightest effort would free him. A man is made helpless and useless by other things besides ropes. Constipation will make a man helpless. His muscles and brain are so weighed down with impure, poisonous matter, uselessly retained in the system, that effort of all kind is distasteful; and what little work he is able to perform is not of good quality. Constipation makes a man sluggish and heavy. It gives him a headache, most likely. His "brain doesn't work." He has a bad taste in his mouth, a foul breath, and he "feels bad" all over. Constipation causes nine-tenths of all human sickness. It is the cause of sick and bilious headaches, of biliousness, sour stomach, heart-burn, palpitation of the heart, pimples, blotches, indigestion and dyspepsia. It can be cured just as easily as a rope may be cut. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will do it. They will do it without producing any harmful effect on the rest of the system. They are not violent in their action. They merely assist Nature. They will restore the healthy, natural action of the digestive organs. You don't become a slave to their use. You stay cured when you are cured. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative; two a mild cathartic. Get them at druggists. Nothing else is "just as good."

HEALTH FOR NOTHING.—If you knew more about your body and its needs you would be sick less often and less seriously. You may have this knowledge free. If you will send 21 one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only, we will send you post-paid, a paper-bound copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. This 1,008-page, illustrated, medical work contains more information about the human body in health and disease than any other medical book printed in the English language. If you would like to have a copy bound in fine, French cloth, send ten cents additional (thirty-one cents in all). World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

TREASURER A SUICIDE.

Cape Ann Savings Bank of Gloucester Is Closed In Consequence.

Had Handling of Finances of Many Estates.

Heavy Shortages Are Looked For When Investigation Is Completed.

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 9.—The people of this city and all residents of Cape Ann were surprised to hear that George J. Marsh, treasurer of the Cape Ann Savings bank, shot himself fatally in the head at his summer house in Annisquam, yesterday afternoon.

Shortly before 11 o'clock yesterday forenoon the curtains in the Cape Ann Savings bank were drawn, the door locked and a notice posted bearing the following: "Bank closed for the balance of the day." This caused much comment on the street.

The secret was guarded until after 3 o'clock, when it was learned that the treasurer of the bank had shot himself at his summer house at Annisquam.

Late last night the bank officials stated that after a hurried examination by the savings bank commissioners, no shortage could be found in Mr. Marsh's accounts with the institution, although the securities of the bank in Boston have not been examined. The trustees of the Gilbert hospital corporation, however, have a different story to tell. It appears from their statement that three months ago the trustees discovered that Mr. Marsh was insolvent. The trustees in the meantime learned that Marsh had been speculating heavily, and had lost considerable money. They then called upon him to produce the securities of the corporation, and yesterday was set as the time when they should be turned over. The trustees of the corporation are also directors of the bank, and the first intimation they had of any wrong was a note which Vice President Cunningham received upon entering the bank yesterday morning. The note was from Mr. Marsh, and stated that his (Marsh) dead body would be found in the cellar of his summer home at Annisquam.

Two messengers were then dispatched to Annisquam, six miles distant, and when they arrived at the house, Mr. Marsh was heard walking about a room in an upper story. The captain of his yacht, who is also janitor of the bank, was in the house, and, on being informed of the contemplated suicide of his employer, went up stairs to prevent it. For some reason he came down again immediately, and sent a message to Gloucester, but when he returned, going in by the way of the cellar, he found Marsh lying on the floor, with a carbine in one hand and a revolver in the other. The top of his head was completely blown off, while on a table near was a note, saying: "If any one thinks this a cowardly act, let him try it."

Marsh, who was a bachelor, lived the life of a recluse for many years. His home is on the extreme point of rocks, almost inaccessible, except by a narrow path, while there were no living rooms on the ground floor. It is known that he was very intemperate, and during the past year had lost large sums in speculation. Nevertheless, he had full run of the bank, attending to all investments, as well as those of the numerous corporations and estates, with which he was connected. He was treasurer of the Cape Ann Savings bank, of the Gilbert home corporation, of the Gilbert hospital corporation, and trustee of the Gilbert charity fund, the Gilbert estate, the Hough estate, the George H. Rogers estate, the Fuller Davis estate, the estate of Mrs. Sarah M. Johnson, and the Hildreth estate.

One of his bondsmen stated last night that Marsh's bond to the Gilbert hospital would probably cover the shortage, but it is rumored that his peculation from the other estates will be more than $100,000, the Hildreth estate being the principal sufferer.

The savings bank commissioners closed their examination of the books of the Cape Ann Savings bank, and reported that the funds of the bank were intact. The deposits amounted to $3,300-217.87, and the guarantee fund is $170,000. The directors state that if there is a run on the bank, they will take advantage of the 60-day clause.

Overcome by Superior Force.

Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 9.—The brave soldier boys of the Fifth regiment had a taste of warfare in a bloodless battle, which accompanied the invasion of this historic old town yesterday, on the occasion of the annual fall maneuvers. In the early morning 11 companies, under command of Colonel Bancroft, disembarked at Seaside, just north of the town. It fell to the lot of the Standish Guards, the local company of the regiment, Captain Butler, to defend the town, aided by a number of volunteers, Force of numbers prevailed, and Captain Butler was obliged to capitulate just as the gallant Fifth came trooping all around the little band of gallant defenders. Colonel Bancroft warmly congraturated Captain Butler for his remarkable defense, and the men for their determined action.

An Unexpected Greeting.

Brockton, Mass., Oct. 9.—John Canfield, who lives near Middleboro, heard burglars at work at his house at about 2 o'clock a. m., and taking a gun he went down stairs, where he found two men at work upon a window. He waited behind a door until one of the thieves started to climb into the window, when he fired. The man groaned and fell back into the yard, and three other men suddenly appeared and carried their wounded comrade into the woods. As the men departed they fired a fusiliade from their revolvers at the house, but none of its inmates were hurt.

Salem Company Took First Prize.

Haverhill, Mass., Oct. 9.—The firemen's muster here yesterday was a great success, particularly in the display of hand machines, and in the number of engine companies brought here by the program. There was a brilliant parade of the local and Bradford fire departments, together with the visiting firemen. In line there were 1500 men, 28 pieces of apparatus, eight bands and drum corps. In the afternoon there was a contest for hand engines, in which 14 were entered. The first prize of $150 was won by the White Angel of Salem, distance 179ft. 11¾in. The firemen's celebration concluded with a concert and ball in city hall.

Cold Above the Clouds.

Boston, Oct. 9.—Yesterday a recording instrument was sent up from the Blue Hill observatory 9385 feet above sea level. It was supported by nine kites and three miles of wire. It remained up 3½ hours at an altitude of more than a mile, went into a cloud at three-quarters of a mile, and went past the top cloud at an altitude of about a mile. The air above the cloud was found to be very dry, and the temperature below freezing. At the highest point reached, about 4:30 p. m., the temperature was 12 degrees below the freezing point.

Connecticut Federation of Cyclists.

Meriden, Conn., Oct. 9.—The project originated by President Brainard of the Meriden Wheel club several months ago, of forming a state wheelmen's federation, for the purpose of protecting the rights of Connecticut wheelmen in all matters pertaining to bicycling, crystallized at a convention here yesterday. The first business of the meeting was the selection of a name, and "Connecticut Federation of Cyclists" was selected. Officers were then chosen.

New Governor Assumes Duty.

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 9.—Josiah Grout of Derby was duly inaugurated governor of Vermont yesterday, before the joint assembly of the legislature. Mr. Grout was escorted to the bar of the house by a committee. Lieutenant Governor Mansur, who was presiding, then administered the oath. Immediately after Governor Grout ascended to the rostrum and took the chair of office, and forthwith began the reading of his inaugural address.

Babe In the Bushes.

Salem, Mass., Oct. 9.—Harry Smith, aged 19, who was arrested for concealing a babe in the bushes in Wenham, was in court again yesterday, and his bail increased to $3000. Smith said he was not ready for trial. Byron, who was arrested here on the charge of passing worthless checks, will be obliged to remain in jail until next Tuesday, as he has not obtained bail. Baltimore Gets It.

Cleveland, Oct. 9.—The final game of the Temple cup series may well go on record as as hard a fought contest as ever played on any diamond, despite the fact that the score was 5 to 0. That Baltimore got so much the better of the run-making was entirely due to the fact that Corbett was too much for Cleveland, for in fielding the game was magnificent on both sides, and honors were easy. Cuppy pitched a strong game, but toward the end hits were bunched on him, and Baltimore earned the victory well.

Toward Washington.

New York, Oct. 9.—President Cleveland arrived in this city last night on E. C. Benedict's steam yacht Oneida from Greenwich, Conn. He was accompanied by Dr. Bryant, his family physician, and Private Secretary Thurber. The president was driven to Dr. Bryant's home in West Thirty-Sixth street, where he dined. Mr. Cleveland had arranged to leave for Washington on the midday train from Jersey City. Mrs. Cleveland is spending several days in Lakewood.

"A little trust that when we die
We reap our sowing; and so—good-by."

So wrote George Du Maurier, at a time when he began to realize that he had won success; but that popularity meant his death. For long years he had suffered from heart trouble, and during the exciting times that marked his progress to literary fame he was constantly warned by physicians and friends that he was hurrying himself toward the goal of earthly life. To halt he could not; and if he could, it is probable that he would not have made the attempt. During these later years his life was in his pen, and he wrote it away in the joys and pleasures that he has left as a legacy to the reading world of now and all future time.

Du Maurier was also a maker of pictures—one who depicted the life of luxurious England, but whose dainty breadths of wit left no sting, but showed the finest humor that was a part of his very life. As someone has said, he was "the Thackeray of the pencil," in that he gave true but not malicious pictures of his time.

And all these finer qualities appeared when he plunged into the literary world and set the critics agog, discussing his "Peter Ibbetson" and "Trilby." Du Maurier was born in Paris, March 6, 1834.

Death of a Veteran.

Mr. John L. Maxim, one of Quincy's well known citizens, died at his residence on Union street Thursday afternoon of heart trouble, after an illness of five weeks duration, aged 56 years. Mr. Maxim was borne in Wayne, Me., and came to Massachusetts when quite a young man. He has resided in Quincy a greater part of the time since then although in the seventies he returned to Maine where he remained for a few years.

He was a shoemaker by trade and was for a number of years employed by T. A. Whicher & Co., as a foreman. Some few years ago he left the employ of Messrs. Whicher and went into the meat business which he carried on for some months, when he again entered his old business as a shoemaker.

During the rebellion he served in Co. I, 3d Heavy Artillery, and was at one time a member of Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R., although at the time of his death the only organization he was affiliated with was the Knights of Honor. He leaves a widow and one son.

Benefit for Officer.

A number of the members of the police department are arranging to hold a benefit entertainment and dance at St. Mary's hall, Nov. 6, for Officer Michael J. Canavan of West Quincy.

Officer Canavan has been on the permanent police force ever since the department was established and has been a faithful and efficient officer, but his health has been gradually failing until two weeks ago, when he was obliged to give up active duty. Since that time he has been confined to his home and his friends have no hope of his recovery. Besides being an efficient officer he was very popular, and the testimonial should and probably will be largely attended and a grand success.

The committee of arrangements are: Thomas F. Ferguson, Patrick J. Bradley, Frank Daveron, John Vogel, P. Mannix, J. McDonnell, Geo. L. Berry, John McAloon.

HYDRANGEA TEA.

With a Social and Birthday Party at Wollaston.

The first social of the season at the Wollaston Congregational church was given in the vestry on Thursday evening by a committee from the Ladies' Benevolent society. The committee who so ably carried through one of the most successful socials ever given by the society consisted of Mrs. N. G. Nickerson, Mrs. John A. Barbour, Mrs. Bain, Mrs. George W. Nash, Mrs. Charles E. Finch, Mrs. Frederick K. Belcher and Mrs. Stevens.

Although the affair was officially designated as a "social," it was in reality a "hydrangea tea" in connection with a birthday party. Each guest as he entered deposited in a basket provided for that purpose a small silk bag, which had previously been supplied by the committee, containing as many pennies as he was years old. One guest, who must have been a lineal descendant of Methusela, dropped in five dollars, thus of course indicating that he was 500 years old. Long may he live! Wollaston always has been noted for its remarkably healthy climate.

Although this was a "hydrangea tea" no tea was served, the committee having a little joke concealed in each napkin. As each guest unfolded his napkin, preparatory to eating a most tempting supper, out dropped a bit of paper with some two score "questions" written upon it, such as—

"What our forefathers fought for?"

"A total abstainer?" and the like.

The word answering these questions either began or ended with the letter T. That was the only tea served. The vestry was beautifully decorated, however, with hydrangeas.

The entertainment kept the large audience in exceedingly good humor. Mrs. Frank W. Sprague rendered a solo; Mr. Charles E. Snow read "Jenkins goes to a Picnic;" and the Quartette,—Mrs. N. G. Nickerson, Mrs. H. W. Lull, Mrs. F. W. Sprague and Mrs. Smith, the director of music in the public schools, sang two selections.

Druggists Interested.

William W. Bartlett, president of the Massachusetts Druggists' Alliance has written a letter to the Transcript in reply to a recent editorial on the Durgin malt extract case, which is of local interest. It is reproduced in full:

BOSTON, Oct. 1.

"In your edition of Sept. 25, I noticed an editorial entitled 'The Liquor Masquerade,' which, doubtless unintentionally on your part, does the druggist in question a great injustice. The law does not forbid the 'sale of liquors containing over one per cent. of alcohol,' but does forbid the sale of any beverage containing over one per cent. of alcohol. The facts in the case at Dedham, briefly, are these: A druggist in Quincy sold two bottles of extract of malt to Henry H. Faxon, and he made a complaint against the druggist for maintaining a 'liquor nuisance,' the local authorities, as I am informed, refusing to act in the matter. At the trial in the Superior Court before a jury, the prosecution, by the evidence of Mr. Faxon, proved that the sales were made; by Professor Sharples, that the extract of malt contained 5 94 per cent. of alcohol, 7.12 per cent. of solid matter, and that it was like porter. He did not say that it was porter. The defence proved by unrefuted testimony as follows:

"By Professor Babcock, that it was not porter, and could not be used as a substitute for it. That it contained a large per cent. of diastase, that porter contained none, was medicinal, was not a beverage, and if taken in a beverage quantity, it would cause a serious disturbance in the stomach of the person using it. Drs. Welch and Padula (both regular practising physicians, one a graduate of Harvard and the other of Dartmouth), testified that they had prescribed it and that it was a medicine and not a beverage, and that when used as a beverage would produce nausea. Undisputed testimony was produced at the trial that proved that it was sold only as a medicine, and was never sold as a beverage, as stated in the editorial referred to. Yet, he was convicted of maintaining a liquor nuisance and fined $116. This case is interesting to every druggist in Massachusetts, as everyone who has sold extract of malt without complying with the legal requirements for the sale of intoxicating liquor is a criminal under the law. The result of this trial shows that, under the present law, every liquid, from oil of vitrol to printer's ink, containing over one per cent. of alcohol, is an intoxicating drink!"

Grand Lodge Degree.

Wollaston lodge was honored Tuesday evening by having a special session of the Grand lodge held in their hall. The following members took the Grand lodge degree: A. G. McKinley, Mrs. M. McKinley, Mr. J. McLeod, Mr. M. G. Shanks, Mrs. A Sparrow, Miss G. Miner, of Wollaston lodge; Rev. Ira Price, Miss M. Brown, Miss M. Burr, of Faxon lodge; Mr. E. E. Allen of Belcher lodge.

In the Subordinate lodge the grand chief was presented with a handsome bouquet from the members of Wollaston lodge. Several candidates were initiated. A pleasant "Good of the Order" followed.

Enterprise Hearing.

A preliminary hearing was held before the Nautical School Commissioners Thursday. Cadets Edward Frampton of Braintree and Joseph W. McGrath of Quincy have been summoned as witnesses for Mr. Clare. Paul R. Blackmur of this city is one of the lawyers engaged by Mr. Clare. The hearing will be resumed Saturday morning at 9.30.

NEGLECTED CHILDREN.

Parents Drunk Most of the Time and All Destitute.

State Agent Loring of the society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children visited Quincy this morning and took charge of the two children of William Walker. The children were bright looking boys, one 3 years old and the other 18 months. They were scantily clothed, and what clothing they did have on was very filthy.

Walker and his wife live in the rear of the old pumping station on Cottage avenue and both are drunk the larger part of the time. Walker is away somewhere now and Mrs. Walker has been in the habit of leaving the children alone for two or three days at a time. Three years ago, when the family lived at West Quincy, Agent Loring took three children away from them, and the two now taken have been born into the world since that time.

When Agent Loring visited the house he found it very filthy and dirty. There was no fire, nothing to eat in the house, and no furniture. On the floor were two old mattresses with a few rags for covering.

The children were taken to the Quincy poor farm until next Thursday when they will doubtless be given in charge of the State.

MILTON.

Milton people generally are elated over the nomination of Edwin D. Wadsworth for County Commissioner. Although when elected he will be only one of three they assure the voters of the county that the affairs of Norfolk county will be conducted much differently in the future.

The indications are that there will be considerable building here next spring, as many lots of undeveloped property have been sold.

The members of the fire department who have been on their vacations have all returned.

East Milton people have about given up all hope of seeing the street railroad extended to Mattapan, owing to the large amount of land damage it would entail.

Belcher lodge, I. O. G. T., of East Milton, held a very successful "bundle party" on Wednesday evening. A large number of visitors were present. The competition for the ownership of the various bundles was at times lively and interesting. The event was both a social and financial success.

World's Food Fair.

The largest and best exposition ever held in New England was successfully opened at Mechanics' Building, Boston, on Monday last; and will be continued five weeks. Large gatherings are now in attendance daily. Four hundred souvenir spoons are given away daily to the first four hundred ladies purchasing tickets of admission. Every day at 3 P. M., Mrs. Sarah Tyson Rorer, of Philadelphia, lectures on Therapeutics of Diet. In place of the cooking lectures ordinarily given at Food Fairs, the people are to have scientific lessons.

Loss Made Good.

John W. Touhy, ticket agent at the West Quincy depot, was surprised Thursday upon opening his mail to find a letter from Howland's parents, enclosing a check for the full amount taken by Howland, who is among the missing. Touhy is an industrious and popular young man, and as the loss of the money fell directly upon him, it came quite hard, and he is therefore overjoyed at receiving a check for the money taken.

Sleep

Induced by the use of coca, opiate or narcotic compounds is bad, decidedly bad. They undermine health and shatter the constitution and the patient is steadily growing into a worse condition—often resulting in the terrible slavery and misery of the cocaine and opium habit. Sleep induced by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla does not perhaps come as quickly, but it comes more surely and more permanently through nature's great restoring and rejuvenating channel—purified, vitalized and enriched blood. This feeds the nerves with life-giving energy and builds up the system and constitution from the very foundation of all health and life—the blood—pure, rich, red blood.

—The women of Holland and Belgium, who make their linen so beautifully white, use refined borax instead of washing soda in the proportion of one large handful of borax powder to about ten gallons of boiling water. Thus they save in soap nearly half. Its effect is to soften the hardest water, and, therefore, it should be kept on every toilet table. It is good for cleansing the hair, is an excellent dentrifice; combined with tartaric acid and carbonate of soda it is a cooling beverage. —The American Storms and Winds.

The primary cause of the movements of the air which are commonly known as "winds," varying in velocity from the gentle breeze of eight-miles an hour to the shrieking gale of seventy-five, is the unequal distribution of heat at different parts of the earth's surface or in different regions of the atmosphere of equal elevation, which occasions variations of density and consequently of weight in the air.

The colder and heavier air displaces the warmer and lighter air, and is itself replaced by other air. The atmospheric motions thus originating are variously modified by the earth's rotation and numerous other causes. The sun's rays are intercepted and absorbed by the earth's surface which then radiates the heat so derived into the atmosphere in amounts depending on whether the surface at particular localities is an absorbent or a reflective medium, like lamp-black, for instance, on one hand, or glass on the other. It is the unequal amount of heat so diffused into the atmosphere at different localities which causes atmospheric disturbances or "winds."

Now this constantly moving air holds moisture of varying amounts in suspension and when it encounters a cooler stratum of air its power of suspension is lessened and precipitation ensues, which manifests itself by a fall of rain. Should this precipitated moisture, when falling, encounter and pass through a layer of air sufficiently cool it would congeal and fall as snow, hail or sleet, in accordance to the suddenness of the change, the degree of coldness and the depth of the cold layer. The size of the drops when first precipitated depends on the suddenness and degree of the cooler stratum encountered, and the size of these drops, in turn, largely determines whether they will congeal in the form of snow, hail or sleet.

The more violent movements of the air often generate storms which vary in force and duration with the climatic and topographical influences brought to bear on them. For instance, level plains offer easy progress to storms, while high mountain chains are often an impassible barrier. Level, highly-heated deserts and prairies are prolific breeding places for tornados, which are rapidly-revolving, funnel-shaped columns of clouds originating in a superheated mass of air, which has risen and punctured a cooler layer above.

The escape of the hot air into the cooler layer above creates a draft or suction on the lower air, and as the air comes in at different angles a rotary action is produced like water when running down the vent of a bath-tub. These tornadoes are often called "cyclones" though strictly and technically speaking, a "cyclone" as described by professional weather-forecasters is a term applied to a well defined, progressive storm-area, whose course may cover thousands of miles, but does not include local disturbances which are limited in area and not progressive.

The surface of oceans being uniform in temperature and reflective in nature do not disturb the atmosphere above them by absorbing rays and radiating heat in unequal quantities, as in the case of continent surfaces. The great progressive storms encountered at sea, therefore, began on land headed seaward. It is probable that storms generate their own motive force, as fires do their own drafts. Water-spouts and what are called "forests-fire tornadoes" which are funnel shaped clouds of smoke, are caused by the same forces as regular tornados.

There are several kinds of very violent storms or tempests. A simoom is a desert wind storm which blows at the equinoctial seasons. A hurricane is what we call, in this vicinity, a "thunder storm" intensified by tropical heat and other influences. It is accompanied by falling thermometer, rapidly shifting and very violent winds and darkness. A typhoon is the same as a hurricane and occurs in the Chinese sea. A sorocco is another species of desert wind, and like the simoom of long duration.

In closing this article I wish to refer briefly to the scourge of New England shipping, the "North-Easter" and to the accurate and beautiful description of the conditions which precede them found in the opening lines of Whittier's Snow Bound.

"The sun that brief December day
Rose cheerless over hills of gray
And, darkly circled, gave at noon
A sadder light than waning moon."

About twelve hours before the advent of the north-east storm, high up aloft may be seen a layer of slowly-moving, ashy-gray, clouds, which creep along and give a hazy, watery look to the sun, which shines dimly and feebly through a ring. The wind slowly increases in force and the breakers begin to pound the beach and rattle the pebbles with its undertow. The clouds gradually thicken and lower. There is more moisture felt in the air and soon we get into the centre of the storm, which moves from 20 to 50 miles an hour and in winter is full of arctic cold and snow, from Baffin's Bay or Labrador; in the fall with cold driving rain and wind. They commonly last three days and it clears off cold after them, with a north-west wind, clear sky and freezing snap. The clouds do not, as in summer, when it clears off, break into wooly mountains (curmulus clouds) but move off in a sheet leaving on the horizon an increasing border of bright, blue sky. Our local storm is the south-east rain storm, a warm, weak affair which lasts but about twenty-four hours, when the wind veers to south-west, (our prevailing summer wind). It often happens that the wind "backs" into the north-east from the south-east storm and then we are in for two or three days of cold storm. There is none but "showery" rain with a south-west wind which brings clear weather.

A WAR OVER SCHOOLS

May Be Precipitated by the Pope's Removal of Bishop Keane.

Cardinal Satolli Said to Be Responsible For It.

Catholic University Will Suffer Heavy Monetary Loss by the Controversy.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Bishop Keane's removal from the rectorship of the Catholic university, is considered here not only as the practical result of the parochial and public school controversy, but as a signal for reopening that old trouble. The forces of Catholicism now stand arrayed against each other to fight this matter to the bitter end. It is a matter of general prediction in Catholic circles that the storm, which is about to break, will be powerful enough to be felt even in Rome. Among the Catholic clergy and laity, not only in Washington, but in every part of the Union, Bishop Keane's retirement is regarded as an overwhelming defeat for Archpishop Ireland, and what is known as the American school of Catholicism. But this party does not intend to accept this stunning blow silently.

The question at issue is whether it is best for Catholics to accept the education offered by the state or to adhere to the rigid rule of parochial teaching. The archbishop of St. Paul and his followers, including the former rector of the Catholic university, are on the popular side of the question. They say the state, and not the parent has the first right over the child. They hold that the state has the right to offer education, and to force the parent to adopt it, in one form or another. He may choose the parochial schools if he is disposed; if not, the state may compel him to take advantage of the free system it provides for all its children. Archbishop Ireland has contended that it is unfair that Catholics should be compelled to support both parochial and public schools.

The other forces, representing strict adhesion to the ancient usages of the church are, as is well known, led by Archbishop Corrigan. The primate of New York holds that the church has the absolute right to control the education of the young, and that the state has none. Furthermore, that the state has no right to offer education to a Catholic—that Catholics should be absolutely forbidden to consider such an offer, and that, should it be a choice between state education or absolute ignorance, a Catholic is conscientiously obliged to select ignorance. A Catholic's first allegience is to God, next to the state. They must first be Catholics, Americans afterward.

The recent important event—the removal of Bishop Keane—points to the conclusion that Rome endorses Corrigan and condemns Ireland. But it is stated that the Vatican is not really acquainted with the school question in the United States, that the best element of Catholicism is outraged when patriotism becomes a matter of secondary consideration. A large number of local clergy have thus expressed themselves. The two factions are now gathering their forces, and it is predicted that the American hierarchy can no longer be divided on such a vital point. This will be the death fight of either Corrigan or Ireland. It is recognized as such, and the next few weeks will witness a contest that will long be memorable in the history of the Catholic church in the United States.

"Who is responsible?" is a question now being generally asked, and the most plausible answer seems to be "Satolli." Some who profess to know say that Satolli is directly responsible for the removal of Bishop Keane.

A man well informed in these matters said yesterday: "There can be no doubt that Cardinal Satolli is responsible for the whole thing. Cardinal Satolli has different views from those of Bishop Keane, and he had the ear of the pope. The blow is a terrible one to the Catholic university, and to the progressive party of the church. The party was represented by the university, and Bishop Keane not only represented the university, but was, it might be said, the university itself.

"No topic is so much discussed among the Catholics, both lay and clergy, as this. It overshadows all others in importance. I know that the university will suffer greatly from his loss. The day his deposal became known, a will in Washington, in which $50,000 was left to the university, was changed, and it will not receive a cent. Another leaving $100,000 and a third leaving $150,000 to the university have since been changed. That is $300,000 which I know of which the university has already lost. The income of the university will be lessened materially, and it will require the strongest efforts to place it where it was a few days ago.

"The true state of affairs was known to Pope Leo, who told Mgr. Schroeder when he was there this summer, that he knew all about the situation in the university. This information could have come from one person only — Cardinal Satolli."

COUNTY JUDGE

The Honorable J. F. Greer, one of the best known and most highly respected county Judges of the State of Florida, writes of his horrible sufferings from Inflammatory Rheumatism:

OFFICE OF J. F. GREER, COUNTY JUDGE, Green Cove Springs, Clay Co., Fla.

GENTLEMEN: Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. I was attended by the most eminent physician in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places, always consulting with the local physicians for directions, and finally came to Florida, ten years ago. About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks, and during that time was induced to try P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, knowing that each ingredient was good for impurities of the blood. After useing two small bottles I was relieved. At four different times since I have had slight attacks and each time I have taken two small bottles of P. P. P., and have been relieved, and I consider P. P. P. the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully, J. F. GREER.

James M. Newton, of Aberdeen, Ohio, says he bought a bottle of P. P. P. at Hot Springs, Arkansas, and it did him more good than three months' treatment at Hot Springs.

Rheumatism, as well as sciatica and gout, is cured by a course of P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, is a friend indeed to weak women. It is a positive and speedy cure for general weakness and nervousness.

All skin diseases are cured by it; anything from pimples to the worst cases of eczemas succumbing to the wonderful healing powers of P. P. P.

Dyspepsia and indigestion in their worst form are cured by it. As a tonic to restore the appetite and to regain lost vigor, it is simply marvelous.

P. P. P. is the best spring medicine in the world. It removes that heavy, out-of-sorts feeling and restores you to a condition of perfect physical health.

For Indigestion, Sick and Nervous Headache, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Heart Failure, Fever, Chills, Debility and Kidney Diseases, take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, the most wonderful medicine in the world

Sold by all druggists.

CHEERS FOR M'KINLEY

Bewildered Candidate Levering In an Address at New York.

Republicans and Democrats Get Sharp Thrusts.

Says Currency Agitation Should Be Secondary to the Liquor Question.

New York, Oct. 9.—The Prohibitionists of this city, in mass meeting in Carnegie hall last night, listened to speeches from Joshua Levering of Maryland, Prohibition candidate for president, and Hale Johnson of Illinois, Prohibition nominee for vice president. On being introduced by Chairman Samuel Dickie of the Prohibition national committee, Candidate Levering said:

"The liquor traffic, as embodied in the saloon, is an unmitigated and a lasting evil, which has produced so much poverty, debt, crime, political plunder throughout all the land. The only remedy for the ills of the country today is the wiping out of the saloon, and when that is accomplished peace and plenty will fill the desolate homes of the poverty stricken. The preacher in the church across the street thinks the gold dollar of more importance than human souls. Preachers who for 20 years were persistent in their denunciation of the liquor traffic have now abandoned the question, and are devoting their time to the advocacy of the gold dollar. Would not this make the angels in heaven weep? McKinley 20 years ago—

Here the audience burst into a storm of applause, which so bewildered the speaker that he stood in mute astonishment for several minutes. When quiet was restored, Mr. Levering, with a high inflection of the voice, which rang in every corner of the hall, said in response:

"I like brave men. I like to see where men stand. What I was about to say was that McKinley, 20 years ago, was out against the liquor traffic, and now is silent on that all important subject.

"Now, what do we find Mr. Bryan doing? He is going up and down the country as no man ever before did, and he says he is going to hold out until election day. He wants a change of the currency custom, and there is not one word about the evil of the saloon.

"McKinley, on the contrary, stands still, while Hanna is sending the people to him, and the newspapers tells us they are voluntary delegations. McKinley, through these delegations, tells the country that if he is elected, peace and plenty will cover the land, and never mentions a word as to the saloon, and I tell you tonight that the question of liquor is of far greater importance to the country than the currency question."

Vice Presidential Candidate Johnson and Oliver W. Stewart of Michigan, who acted as chairman of the Prohibition national convention, denounced the liquor traffic, and attributed to its use the ruin of homes and the cry of the hungry and the naked.

Resolutions denunciatory of the saloon, and urging all true Prohibitionists to vote for Levering and Johnson on Nov. 3 next, were passed without a dissenting voice.

Connecticut Gold Democrats' Ticket.

Hartford, Oct. 9.—The state convention of the Gold Standard Democrats was held here yesterday, and during the three hours' deliberations, which were not marred by a single discordant ripple of opposition, there were placed in nomination presidential electors, a full state ticket, congressmen, and an endorsement given to the nominees for state senators, and judges of probate selected by the several caucuses. The nominations were entirely by acclamation. The state ticket includes:

For governor—Goel A. Sperry, New Haven.

Lieutenant governor—William Waldo Hyde, Hartford.

Secretary of state—Judge William Belchers, New London.

State treasurer—George H. Hoyt, Stamford.

Comptroller—Herbert Curtis, Waterbury.

The meeting was presided over by ex-Governor Waller, who was in his happiest mood, and the convention showed their appreciation of his inimitable scintillations of humor, sarcasm and irony by repeated applause.

The platform adopted reaffirms the declarations made by the Connecticut Democracy, in convention at Hartford, June, 10, of this year, endorsed the administration of President Cleveland, especially approving his support of the public credit and his exemplification of the Monroe doctrine, and the platform and candidates of the Indianapolis convention were also endorsed. Seventy-seven towns were represented in the convention.

Delegations From Three States.

Canton, O., Oct. 9.—Canton's streets were crowded all day yesterday. Forty carloads of finely uniformed and decidedly musical visitors crowded about the McKinley home. Pittsburg Italians waved old glory by the hundreds as they marched from the Pennsylvania depot. Indiana shortly afterward tried to outdo them in music, cheers and fine drills of handsome uniformed clubs. Women marched in good line from Jefferson county, Pa. By the middle of the afternoon, Market street, leading to the McKinley house, was filled with marchers. The Cleveland first voters, who came last, kept crowds on the sidewalks cheering. When Major McKinley returned to his home from his drive to his registering place, yesterday morning, he found Lieutenant Governor Hailis of Massachusetts among his callers. Mrs. J. Ellen Foster and daughter of Iowa came shortly afterward from Chicago, and took lunch at the McKinley home.

Bryan's Journey.

Marshalltown, Ia., Oct. 9. — After a speech in the coliseum at Burlington, yesterday, Mr. Bryan spoke twice from a carriage, asking the people to study the question of finance, and to make their silver speech on election day. There were but few people at the depot at Burlington to see the nominee off, and those who were there were not demonstrative. Cedar Rapids was reached shortly after 4 o'clock, and the local committee escorted Mr. Bryan and his party in carriages to the baseball park. He spoke on the same lines followed by him in his former platform speeches. Mr. Bryan's car arrived here at 7:20. Mr. Bryan made two speeches here. When he concluded he was conducted to his car, where he soon afterward retired for the night. Shortly after 1 o'clock the party left for Sioux City.

Late Figures From Georgia.

Atlanta, Oct. 9.—Advices received by The Journal from combined official and unofficial sources, fix the total Democratic majority at 36,129. This estimate is based upon the vote for Atkinson for governor, which is in many cases less than that cast for the other state officials. It is not believed that the final returns will materially alter this estimate. The legislature is almost solidly Democratic in both branches, insuring practically, the unanimous election of ex-Speaker Crisp to the senate, to succeed Senator Gordon. Two constitutional amendments were voted on, and both were carried overwhelmingly. One is to provide for increasing the supreme court from three to six justices, and to provide for their election by the people. The other is to make the state school commissioner elective.

Palmer and Buckner at Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Generals Palmer and Buckner were the principal speakers at the rally of National Democrats at the Auditorium last evening. The hall was filled with people, and thousands had been turned away. The generals were given an ovation, the audience rising en masse, cheering and waving flags. General Palmer said, in the course of his speech, that he did not accept the nomination of the Indianapolis convention with any expectation of serving either the Republican or the Populist party, but as a Democrat. General Buckner, who followed, was greeted with continued cheers. He discussed the financial issue.

Reed a Drawing Card.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 9.—Thomas B. Reed arrived here from Boston yesterday afternoon, and addressed two large meetings here last night, one at the Fourth regiment armory, and the other at Suiler's hall. As soon as the doors were opened there was a rush, and in a few minutes the halls were crowded, and thousands were turned away. While Mr. Reed was speaking, the telling points he made were received with the wildest applause. At times the cheering continued for several minutes without cessation.

On to Canton.

Harrisonburg, Va., Oct. 9. — Twenty carloads of people left here last evening. They are a part of an ex-Confederate veterans' excursion to Canton, O. The train from Staunton had the famous Stonewall Jackson brigade band on board, and it, with several others, accompanied the excursion. A great many people at points between here and Harper's Ferry joined the crowd. The excursion complete consists of about 1700 persons, about 1000 being ex-Confederate veterans. The excursionists will meet Governor McKinley today.

Chandler Uses Plain Language.

Portsmouth, N. H., Oct. 9.—Senator Chandler addressed one of the largest Republican rallies held here for years. Senator Chandler charged President Cleveland with being the first to array the classes against each other, and quoted from his message in 1887, where he urged the farmer to take issue with the manufacturer. He classed the followers of Bryan as being anarchists, wild men, and murderers, if need be, to accomplish their purpose.

Diffendorfer's Figures.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Secretary Diffendorfer of the Silver party, in an estimate on the election, gives Bryan 282 electoral votes, McKinley 107 and puts 58 in the doubtful column, this last being made up of Iowa, Maryland, Minnesota, New Jersey, West Virginia and Wisconsin. He concedes New England, New York and Pennsylvania to McKinley, and claims for Bryan all except these states, and those in the doubtful list.

The Florida Election.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 9. — The returns to date of Tuesday's state election, embracing 491 out of the 632 precincts, and all but about 4000 of the total vote, show a loss of 15 per cent in the total Democratic vote, as compared with 1892. The indications are that the total vote of the state did not exceed 40,500, of which Bloxham received about 27,250, as compared with 32,064 for Mitchell (Dem.) in 1892.

Two Killed and Many Injured.

Danville, Pa., Oct. 9.—A large boiler in the Reading iron works exploded last night, killing two persons instantly, seriously injuring four others and slightly injuring a score or more other persons at various points near by. The house of John Burns, close to the scene of the explosion, was completely demolished. The cause of the explosion is shrouded in mystery, but it is suspected that there was no water in the boiler, or that it got too low.

Appreciation of Good Work.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Miss Clara Barton, the head of the Red Cross society, was given a welcome on her return to Washington, from her trip to Turkey, by a reception in her honor at the Shoreham hotel last night. It was an informal affair, and a number of her friends turned out to greet her. Following the public reception, there was a banquet, at which a number of speeches were made, to which suitable responses were made by Miss Barton and others.

A Drunken Brute's Crime.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 9.—Edward Warga, a laborer, who had been drinking for some time, went to his home in this city intoxicated yesterday, and seizing his 8 months' old child by the feet, dashed it to death on the floor. His wife was absent at the time, and a neighbor, who had been caring for the child, had left temporarily. After committing the murder, Warga seized his 6-year-old son and fled.

Navy Short-Handed.

Washington, Oct. 9.—As the naval engineer force has just been called upon to furnish officers for the Puritan and the Brooklyn, just about to be placed in commission at New York, the corps is severely taxed in its present crippled shape, to find men to take the places of men who have broken down on the Asiatic station.

Two Miles In 3:38 3-5.

Chicago, Oct. 9. — John S. Johnson broke the world's record for two miles, paced flying start, at the new Garfield park track yesterday. He made the ride in 3:38 3-5, breaking the record previously held by Bero, of 3:43 1-5. The first mile was made in 1:41 2-5, and the second in 1:57 1-5.

Ancients Homeward Bound.

Baltimore, Oct. 9.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery evacuated Baltimore at noon yesterday, after having held full possession of the city for 48 hours. They left behind them a host of friends and well-wishers, and the members of the organization say that this fully equals any of the "field days" of former years. Previous to the departure, Colonel Walker and several of his staff made the tour of the leading clubs and said "good-by." An early luncheon was eaten at the Carrollton, and the Ancients marched to the Mt. Royal station, where they boarded the special train for New York. There they will take a boat on the Fall River line for home.

The World Goes On.

Taking no note of our dole and dearth,
Heeding as little our joy and mirth,
Fasting or feasting, bliss or bane,
Smiling or weeping, health or pain,
The seasons come and the seasons go,
Forth from their haven the four winds blow;
Waken the flowers, or drift the flakes,
On the patient shore the wild wave breaks,
The day wears on in dusk or dawn,
And ever, forever, the world goes on.

Jackets continue popular with those to whom tailor made effects are becoming. They are made 24 inches long, with decidedly smaller sleeves, which in some cases are so cut that a puffed effect at the shoulder is obtained. The plainest coats this season, designed to be worn with furs, are of Kersey in various colors, with handsomely strapped seams and standing collar of velvet, the garment being lined with pretty checked silk. The coat buttons under a fly and is decidedly chic.

Evening gowns are all made long; the handsomer the material the longer the train, and princesse gowns are the most fashionable of any for what is known as reception or house gowns. Of all the different fashions the princesse is the most difficult to fit well, and great care must be taken that the back looks well. The front of a princesse dress does not matter nearly so much as the back and sides, for the trimming will hide the faults, and it is the rule that the fronts of these gowns shall be most elaborately trimmed, while the back is left absolutely plain.

It is said that if there are many large weddings in the fall a gay winter will follow. If that is a sure sign then Quincy promises to be unusually lively the coming winter.

Capes are to play an important par in my lady's winter wardrobe. First and foremost are the pretty dress capes for opera and theatre wear, usually made to extend just below the waist. They come in a variety of dainty shades; are fur lined and trimmed with white thibet down the front and around the bottom; while the collar is also made of thibet. This season, collars vary slightly from those of last winter. At the neck they fit tightly for about an inch, and then flare abruptly away from the hair.

Mrs. Frank E. Hall and son are settled for the winter with Mrs. Annie E. Faxon at the cottage at the corner of Spear and Coddington street.

We learn from the Worcester Spy that the most brilliant fall wedding that the year has seen in Worcester was solemnized at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening, at All Saints' church, when Miss Nettie E. Willis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Willis, and Mr. Wm. L. Hutchins, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Hutchins, were united in marriage by Rev. F. G. Burgess, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, of which the bride is a member, assisted by Rev. Dr. Alexander H. Vinton, rector of All Saints'. One thousand invitations had been issued for the function, and the handsome church was crowded, while for a time Pleasant and Irving streets were one thickly-packed jam of slowly moving hacks and private carriages. The bride was the granddaughter of Elisha Thayer and daughter of Samuel A. Willis formerly of Braintree.

A CHILD ASLEEP.

How he sleepeth! Having drunken
Weary childhood's mandragore,
From his pretty eyes have sunken
Pleasures to make room for more—
Sleeping near the withered nosegay which he pulled the day before.

Nosegays! Leave them for the waking.
Throw them earthward where they grew.
Dim are such beside the breaking
Amaranths he looks unto.
Folded eyes see brighter colors than the open ever do.

Heaven flowers, rayed by shadows golden
From the palms they sprang beneath,
Now perhaps divinely holden,
Swing against him in a wreath.
We may think so from the quickening of his bloom and of his breath.

Vision unto vision calleth
While the young child dreameth on.
Fair, O dreamer, thee befalleth
With the glory thou hast won.
Darker wert thou in the garden yester morn
by summer sun.

We should see the spirits ringing
Round thee were the clouds away.
'Tis the child heart draws them, singing
In the silent seeming clay.
Singing! Stars that seem the mutest go in music all the way.

As the moths around a taper,
As the bees around a rose,
As in sunset many a vapor,
So the spirits group and close
Round about a holy childhood, as if drinking its repose.

A DETECTIVE'S RUSE.

Cholmondely is a very old friend of mine. To the world he poses successfully as a social star. He runs a flat in Mayfair which would knock the stuffing out of an earl. His country house is situated in one of the best parts of Hertfordshire. Any day you would pick his yacht out of the swaggerest batch at Cowes, and his horses and wine are beyond all reproach.

But he hasn't a friend saving myself who knows where his money comes from.

As a matter of fact, Cholmondely is a sort of society Sherlock Holmes.

There are a good many affairs of international importance which require the most subtle investigation and diplomacy of a high order.

And then there are many society cases affecting people of high standing which require the most delicate handling. Such matters are placed entirely in the hands of men of Cholmondely's stamp. He makes quite $50,000 a year.

I was more agreeably surprised than otherwise when one day last week the following wire arrived from him:

"Can you see me before 12? Important matter. Urgent."

There was nothing of the blase man of the world air which Cholmondely affects in society as he greeted me this morning. Instead he got to business at once.

His first action was to cross the room to a little box which was fitted against the wall. I had seen it scores of times before. It was what he called his peeping machine—an arrangement of pipes and mirrors—by means of which he is able to see from the study what is going on in his drawing room and dining room.

"See anything?"

"Yes. There's a man there."

"Recognize him?"

I started back in surprise. The visitor was none other than a prominent member of the government.

Cholmondely said nothing, but simply turned a small lever and told me to look again. This time I saw into the dining room.

Seated at the table was a gentlemanly man of about 40. He was studying a notebook.

"Think he looks the desperate criminal of fiction?"

"Couldn't say boo to a goose," I replied.

"Well, anyway, he's our man, and we've got to catch him."

"But, my dear chap, he's here. You could sprinkle salt on his tail."

"Steady, my friend, steady. This is not a common or garden case. It's a matter involving the theft of a government secret.

"Our client is Lord ——, whom you saw in the drawing room just now. About 9 o'clock last night he left the foreign office with dispatches of the most important description. Were they in the hands of the government to whom they are addressed nothing could avert a great European war. He had orders to cross to the continent with them the first thing in the morning.

"To cut a long story short, they were stolen on his way home, and half an hour later he received urgent instructions to return them at once, as in view of fresh complications they must not be delivered at any cost.

"Now, the case hadn't been in my hands for more than an hour before I discovered who were the guilty gentlemen in the affair. I had been there before, so to speak. As a matter of fact, I know within an ace where those dispatches are now, but there are one or two difficulties in the path. In the first place, it is impossible by the nature of the case to arrest the men.

"Now these gentlemen offer the usual alternatives. Either we must pay them a huge ransom for the papers—you see now why they stole them—or they will skip across the channel and deliver them, in which case there will be the dickens to pay.

"The man you saw in the dining room is one of the two gentlemen concerned in the theft. Knowing he is safe from arrest, he has called to negotiate with me on the question of compensation. It's blackmail in plain English.

"Of course my clients are willing to pay anything to get the papers back, but that isn't Cholmondely's way of working. We've got to get those papers without paying for them, and if you're the man I take you for we can manage it.

"The other man's at a well known south coast port waiting to skip across the channel if negotiations fail. I think it is more than likely he has got the papers. Now, you have got to go down there and keep him in view while I dilly dally with the business manager of the show and keep him waiting here for a day or two till I hit on a good scheme.

"If he has got the papers and there's a chance, get 'em at any cost, old man. It won't cost you more than $10 to knock him down if necessary. But for heaven's sake don't make a scene. Wire me every hour, but don't take any risk of making a mess of it."

I found him in the billiard room. From my friend's description I recognized him at once. A tall, aristocratic fellow, who gave me the idea of a clever ne'er do well. Now, I know something about billiards, and as there was no one else in the room I ventured to suggest a game.

"Aw, just as you please," he drawled. "I'm not much of a hand at the game."

We played a 50. I didn't shine. You can't play any billiards to speak of with one eye, and the other was on my man. Meanwhile I was trying to form some definite line of action. I determined to get these papers single handed without any advisory assistance from Cholmondely.

At the end of the game we had a whisky and soda together. He was not half a bad fellow and was no stranger about the world.

Suddenly a brilliant idea struck me. It was a sort of neat little inspiration, and unless he carried the papers on his person I decided it ought to work.

It was 9 o'clock when I finished a most comfortable dinner. My quondam friend had strolled into the cardroom, and I followed. If Cholmondely had been present he would have noticed that I no longer wore my diamond ring.

I proposed a quiet game of cards. We played for about a quarter of an hour, when I thought it about time to open the plot, which I did by turning to my adversary and deliberately accusing him of cheating.

In a moment the room was in an uproar. The proprietor appeared on the scene, followed by the guests from the other rooms. To the former I repeated my accusation. While my victim violently protested against the insult offered him, I quietly approached the landlord.

"I would be much obliged if you would send for the police. I have lost a valuable ring, and have reason to believe that this man is not only a professional card sharper—he is also a thief."

My victim was completely staggered, and, as I imagined he would be, indignant at the accusation. Conscious of his innocence in this matter at least, he bore out my request that the police should be sent for and his character cleared. He accompanied the inspector to the station, and I followed.

What my victim felt when my diamond ring was found in his pocket I leave you to imagine. I did not consider it advisable to tell him that I had placed it there during that quiet game of cards.

"It's a lie! A foul lie!" he shouted. "It's a conspiracy! The man is trying to ruin me. I am a man of position, I tell you! It is a plot."

"You will have an opportunity of explaining that to the magistrate tomorrow morning," replied the inspector. "In the meantime I am afraid I must detain you."

Now came the critical part of the plot. Calling the inspector aside, I informed him of my suspicions that the prisoner had stolen other articles of mine which doubtless were concealed in his baggage. A judicious tip impelled the sloven arms of the law with such effect that that same night a search warrant was obtained, and accompanied by the officer I returned to the hotel, where we went through the arrested man's traps.

In a corner of his portmanteau was a bundle of papers stamped with an important looking seal. It was that described to me by Cholmondely.

As the inspector was engaged in searching the prisoner's dressing case I dipped by hand in the bag and abstracted the dispatches.

That night they went under registered cover to my London friend, and the same train that brought the prisoner's confederate to his aid in the morning in response to his urgent telegrams numbered Cholmondely among its passengers.

The magistrate said it was a most flagrant case of theft. Under the circumstances, however, he didn't think a month's hard labor too much for the prisoner.

I wish you could have been in court at the moment when the prisoner and his friend properly appreciated the fact that the prosecutor was a bosom friend of Cholmondely.

I can see their faces now as the trick dawned upon them.—Answers.

Skulls of Papier Mache.

In making animals' skins into fur rugs and in the manufacture of various articles made of fur imitation skulls are often used in place of the natural skull. The imitation skulls are made of papier mache, the inside of the mouth and the tongue being wax coated; the teeth are of celluloid. When mounted, the animals are supplied with artificial eyes. The imitation skulls are modeled from natural skulls, and they are strikingly characteristic in appearance. They are made in great variety as substitutes for the skulls of many animals.—New York Sun.

Struck Home.

The festivities at the coming of age of the present Lord Hopetoun included a service at the parish church, which was filled with members of the great Hope family and also with members of the Hope clan. The feelings of the congregation thus composed can be imagined when the minister began his discourse with the words, "My brethren, the world is full of blasted hopes."

Crests Cost Money.

To display a crest on stationery and plate in England costs each family a tax of a guinea a year. About 40,000 people pay it.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 11. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—God or Mammon.—Math. vi, 19-24. (A temperance meeting suggested.)

The contest for rule in the human heart between God on the one side and the world in some form or the other is a very old one. It is as old as man himself. Yet it is ever new, for it is engaged in by every newcomer upon the stage of life.

Two worlds are placed before us in the Scriptures—the present one and the future one, earth and heaven. It is not to be wondered at that the present life so often seems to us the more important one. It is more real to us. We see it before our eyes every day and every hour. The other is distant. It is not so real; at least it does not appear so real, and men usually rely much upon appearance when they make a choice. Therefore it is necessary for the Scriptures to warn us against centering all our affections upon this world. It seems more real, but it soon passes away. The wealth, the pleasure, the honor, the attainments of this life are ours for but a very short time. Then they are gone as if the thief had broken in and stolen them. In the world to come it is different. Its pleasures and its treasures are eternal. Therefore we should choose heavenly wealth in preference to earthly possessions.

There is another reason why we should prefer God to Mammon. We cannot serve both. "No man can serve two masters." We cannot make two principles the ruling motives of our lives. One will gain the mastery. One must be chief and the other subordinate. "The chief end of man is to glorify God and to enjoy Him forever." There are other ends. Man must preserve his life, continue his kind, provide, in the present and for the future, for those dependent upon him and fulfill all obligations devolving upon him as a member of society and of the home and the state. But these are all subordinate aims. The chief end is to obey God, and He simply warns us against the mistake of making the subordinate aims the chief aim.

Does it pay to serve God instead of Mammon? God says it does. The experience of men proves that it does. To live for God and the future instead of for self and time may seem to some to be a waste of life. But time will prove that he is the one who wastes life, who prefers the flesh pots of Egypt to the blessing of Canaan.

Endeavor Prison Work.

This noble tribute to the value of the Christian Endeavor society in prisons, says The Golden Rule, is from Mr. C. L. Curry, warden of the Western Kentucky Branch prison at Eddyville: "Since the organization of the prison society some six months ago my punishment reports, I am glad to say, have been greatly reduced. The general discipline of the prison is greatly improved, and a decided improvement is noticeable in almost every phase of the prisoners' lives. Many of the convicts in this prison are, in my belief, living upright Christian lives, and all the result of the good influences of the Christian Endeavor society. The entire population of the prison is permitted to attend the Sunday services, and out of a total of 600 prisoners I have seen 300 in attendance at one time. This is remarkable when you take into consideration the fact that all our prisoners are given the liberty of the yard on Sunday, and the attendance is purely voluntary. The presence of one guard is all that is necessary in the chapel to maintain the best of order."

Never Satisfied.

The reason that he who is striving for wealth or renown for his own personal good or aggrandizement is never satisfied is because there is a want in his nature that is never met and never will be until he opens his purse or seeks to bless others. That man alone is truly blessed and happy who seeks to gain that he may bestow on others. And finally the great lesson taught us is that God Himself only lives and labors to save and bless all His creatures, and that His happiness and the perfection of His purpose will not be attained until every creature will be saved from sin, misery and death.—Conversation.

Humility.

Humility is a grace of God. It is not a natural growth. Self conceit is of the devil. We are warned against it as dangerous to the soul. "Pride goeth before destruction and a haughty spirit before a fall." He that is lifted up with pride is in danger of "the condemnation of the devil." It lies at the root of all rebellion against God, and it leads to the contempt of the rights of others and disregard of just obligations to them. But wisdom is with the lowly.—Christian Instructor.

One of the Mysteries.

Why any man should glory in his ignorance of a thing that deeply interests the public mind is one of the mysteries we cannot understand. — American Friend.

Rather Worse.

Thought makes the access of melancholy rather worse than better.—Selected.

How the Roses Grow.

How do the roses grow?
If you would know,
Trust when days are dark and drear:
When hope faileth, do not fear;
Bear the wintry time of year,
For so
The roses grow.

How do the roses grow?
If you would know,
Believe the trial is not in vain
When the pruner's hand brings pain;
Loss oft means the blossoms' gain,
For so
The roses grow.

CAN'T DO IT ALONE.

England Would Make a Grave Error by Interfering In Turkey.

Rosebery Urges Concert of the Powers.

Pays His Respects to the Sultan and Great Britain's Grabbing Policy.

Edinburgh, Oct. 10.—Speaking in this city last night, Lord Rosebery, the ex-prime minister, discussed the remedies that had been suggested for the settlement of the Turkish question.

The earl was pale with suppressed feeling when he arose to make his address. He said that he had resigned because he could not sacrifice national interests to personal ambition. He welcomed the national agitation in Great Britain on behalf of the army, because it would convince foreign governments of Great Britain's unselfishness, and integrities would strengthen the hands of the government.

But the present agitation, Lord Rosebery pointed out, differed from Mr. Gladstone's Bulgarian agitation. Then Great Britain was supported by Russia. Now we have Russia and her armies against us. Russia's declaration on this point are absolutely conclusive. Moreover, then we had to force the hands of an unwilling government, while now the government is animated by the same wishes as ourselves. They possessed unprintable details, the speaker said, of crimes, in horror surpassing all he had ever read. Their ferocity and cruelty seemed to transcend the imagination of very fiends. By a device of the powers, they had first doubted these massacres, but the more recent Constantinople massacres made it impossible to deny them.

After referring to the unspeakable government of Turkey, Lord Rosebery pointed out that partial measures would not suffice. The whole Eastern question, he said, was raised. In dealing with the various remedies proposed, his lordship said:

"The mere deposition of the sultan would be no remedy, as the asylum, and not the man, must be tackled. More, this would be impossible without a concert of the powers, and if the latter were attained it would be better to call upon it to deal with the larger issue involved. The proposal to withhold the Cyprus tribute is impracticable, as this is paid to the sultan's creditors, and not to the sultan, and it would be like tickling the tortoise's back to make it laugh."

Regarding the proposal to place the Dardanelles, or Turkey, in the hands of Russia, Lord Rosebery pointed out that neither of these was Great Britain's to dispose of, and Russian methods, he said, were not so ideal as to warrant us in acquiescing. He also differed with Mr. Gladstone's proposal to cut off diplomatic relations with Turkey, but they differed, he added, as friends. A warm eulogy of Mr. Gladstone followed. But, the ex-premier continued, he even deprecated the proposal of such a thing.

Lord Rosebery also differed with Mr. Gladstone, he said, in his contention that Great Britain was bound, in honor, by the Cyprus convention, to intervene. This convention, he urged, had been a dead letter ever since it was signed, and neither the sultan nor Great Britain had ever fulfilled their pledges, as they found it impracticable and futile to do so. He cited as an instance in support of this argument the tripartite treaty between Austria, France and Great Britain, of 1856, guaranteeing the integrity of Turkey. But this had never been carried out.

"I attach no vaule," he proceeded to say, "strategic or otherwise, to the retention of Cyprus, but to whom should we give the island? I should regard the abandonment of Cyprus as a cheap price to pay to secure the concert of Europe on this question. I cannot agree with Mr. Gladstone that the possibility of war is a phantasm. My knowledge, to a very recent time, was that a fixed and resolute agreement existed of all, or nearly all, the powers, to forcibly resist any single-handed intervention by England in Eastern affairs. I earnestly protest against a policy involving the horrors of a European war."

Enlarging further upon this topic, Lord Rosebery expressed the opinion that the British colonies would take the same view of it as does the United States, "which," he added, "although willing to join in diplomatic action, would deprecate invoking the arbitrament of the sword on a question not directly concerning their vital interests. Peace," Lord Rosebery affirmed, "is a necessity of our empire. For the last 20 years you have been laying hands, with frantic eagerness, on every available and desirable tract of territory. The amount thus brought into your possession, or sphere of influence in the last 12 years, is 2,600,000 square miles. This policy has produced two results: First, the exciting of an almost intolerable degree of envy in the other colonization nations, entailing their malevolence instead of their benevolence; second, the making of an unwieldy empire difficult to administer and to defend, until a long period of peace effects its consolidation."

The Liberal ex-premier then continued lengthily to argue for his own panacea, namely, the concert of Europe. He was unable to subscribe to the opinion, he said, that the European concert was impotent in Turkey. It was powerful, he thought, a year ago, in a sense opposed to British policy.

"It must be the object of every British statesman," the speaker continued, "to secure the same concert in favor of our policy. Whether the powers act diplomatically or otherwise, they are omnipotent in the Eastern question. My hope is that recent events will tend to produce the desired agreement, because it is impossible that they should longer tolerate the sultan's enormities, and politically, financially and morally, the condition of the Turkish empire calls loudly for reform. The writing is plain upon the wall, and the powers cannot much longer postpone action."

After eloquently reminding his audience how Cobden, Bright and Gladstone had been publicly reviled for the advocacy of an unpopular peace policy, Lord Rosebery declared: "Although I am aware that it is unpopular to advocate diplomatic methods, I shall never cease to exert my voice and strength against England engaging in such a dangerous war, of which you can see the eloquent commencement, but nobody living can see the catastrophe or the end."

Fads in Medicine.

There are fads in medicine as in every thing else and a "new thing" frequently sells for a short time simply because it is new. But in medicine, as in nothing else, the people demand and will be satisfied only with positive, absolute merit. The fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has stood its ground against all competition, and its sales have never wavered but have remained steadily at the top, demonstrates, beyond any doubt, the intrinsic virtues of this medicine. The new things have come and gone but Hood's Sarsaparilla rests upon the solid foundation of absolute merit and its power to cure, and its sales continue to be the largest in the world.

ACTIVITY IN WHEAT

Has Been the Feature of the Week In the Business World.

New York, Oct. 10.—Bradstreet's says: Cold weather, continued heavy receipts of cotton and wheat, and other influences have stimulated demand for staple goods at various points, but the volume of trade remains moderate, without material change from a week ago. The tendency at some centers is to a smaller volume of trade, but the general outlook is for an improved demand after election. Interior merchants adhere to the hand-to-mouth policy of buying, and wholesale merchants are inclined to examine into credits closely. Except in the cotton and wheat regions, mercantile collections continue unsatisfactory.

Print cloths are lower, as are cotton, sugar and oats. The recent advance in wheat is firmly held, as is that in wool, iron and steel. Some varieties of pig iron have advanced 25 per cent per ton. Higher quotations have been made for wheat flour, Indian corn, pork, lard, coffee, petroleum and leather, and advices from interior markets are that the general produce trade show more activity and presents brighter prospects.

Bank clearings throughout the United States aggregate $1,159,000,000 this week, 18 per cent more than last week, but 8 per cent less than in the corresponding week one year ago, and 10 per cent less than in the like week of 1892, when the volume of business was of full proportions.

The world's available stock of wheat increased about 18,000,000 bushels in September, approximately one-half more than in September in three preceding years.

A further decline in exchange to the gold importation point has resulted in renewed engagements of gold in London, amounting to about $4,000,000. Some further amounts may also have been taken in Paris. Silver has declined on decreased Indian demand. Bar silver, in London, is 29 15-16d. per ounce. Foreign exchange is 4.83¾ and 484 for demand sterling.

The Pacific coast reports increasing activity in wheat, the noteworthy feature being a cargo of wheat exported to India. Total exports of wheat from both coasts of the United States and from Montreal, flour included as wheat, continued to attract attention, in view of short supplies in Russia, India, Argentina and Australia. The domestic wheat crop is more likely to approximate 500,000,000 bushels this year, than only 400,000,000, the general interpretation of the government wheat crop report. With the prospect favoring an exceptionally large demand for wheat for export within the next six months, a larger supply than heretofore reported is likely to prove fortunate.

September gross railway earnings make a better showing than those for last August, although both show smaller totals than in the corresponding periods a year ago. Total earnings of 111 companies for the month aggregate 38,291,170, a decrease of 7-10ths of 1 per cent.

Whacking Up.

Cleveland, Oct. 10.—The players of the Cleveland baseball team will each get $117 for his share of the proceeds from the Temple cup games, over and above all expenses. Cleveland's share of the profits was nearly $1700. The money will be divided between 14 players. The Baltimore players will divide about $2500 as their share of the profits, and each man will get about $200. Last season the Cleveland players got over $580 each for the Temple cup games.

Won by Miss Hoyt.

Morristown, N. J., Oct. 10.—The second annual golf tournament to decide who was the champion woman golfer of the United States was completed yesterday, on the links of the Morris County Golf club, and Miss Beatrix Hoyt earned the title, which she well deserved for her wonderfully plucky play. The winner is not quite 18 years of age, but she showed a wonderful quantity of grit and stamina in her play throughout the tournament.

An Opium Fiend's Crime.

Ossburg, Miss., Oct. 10.—The Jasper county jail, at Ppaulding, was burned last night. Two prisoners, E. A. Strickland, charged with forgery, and Mollie Daniels, a crazy negro woman, were cremated. On Tuesday evening Strickland dropped a note out of the jail window, in which he stated that unless opium was brought to him, he would burn the jail. He kept his word.

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRACY.

The Party In Massachusetts Nominates Presidential Electors Pledged to Support Palmer and Buckner.

Also a Complete State Ticket Headed by

HON. FREDERICK O. PRINCE, EX-MAYOR OF BOSTON,

FOR GOVERNOR.

And Captain James E. McConnell of Fitchburg For Lieutenant Governor.

The Full List of Electors and Other State Officers.

The birth and first official action of a great national party is always interesting.

Such a party was born at the great convention at Indianapolis on Sept. 2. The only true Democratic party of Massachusetts is now perfecting the work of that convention by placing before the voters of the commonwealth lawful opportunity to vote not only for the candidates nominated at Indinapolis, but for a full list of state officers, all pledged to support the platform and the National Democratic Candidates.

In the beginning of such action certain formalities are necessary. In the first place law requires that the blank forms of nomination papers shall be furnished by the commonwealth. Then that these papers, for state officers, including electors for president and vice president, shall be signed by not less than 1000 legally qualified voters of the commonwealth.

And then the law prescribes that the signatures of each voter shall be certified to by the registrars of voters in the town where the voter resides.

The work of preparing these nomination papers was undertaken by the National Democratic state central committee at its headquarters at No. 12 Bosworth street.

The papers furnished by the secretary of state, read in the opening, as follows:

"The undersigned, qualified voters of the commonwealth, in accordance with the provisions of the election act of 1893, make the following nominations of candidates for state officers, to be voted for in the commonwealth on the 3rd of November, 1896."

Against the spaces prepared in the blank form for electors of president and vice president the committee caused to be printed these words: "Nominated to support John M. Palmer of Illinois for president, and Simon B. Buckner of Kentucky for vice president."

In the column headed in the blank form, "Party or Political Designation," the committee also had printed the words:

"Democratic National."

The transposition from "National Democratic" to "Democratic National" was necessary to comply with the technical requirements of the statutes.

The minimum number of 1000 signatures of qualified voters has already been largely exceeded, and the papers will be duly filed with the secretary of state not later than Monday, Oct. 12.

The nominees for electors-at-large, and by districts, include some of the most prominent, well known and distinguished Democrats of the commonwealth, as will be seen by the brief sketches given below.

At the head of the list is

of Boston, candidate for elector-at-large, who is one of the best known Democrats in Massachusetts. He was born in Boston, Oct. 27, 1844, a son of Patrick and Rose Gargan. He was educated in the public schools of Boston, with private instructions in literature, and in the classics, by Rev. Peter Krose, S. J. After a course of the Boston university law school, from which he graduated in 1873, with the usual degree of L. L. B., he studied in the office of the late Henry W. Paine, who was once a Democratic candidate for governor. He had in the meantime served the United States in the Civil War. He enlisted in 1863, and held the rank of second lieutenant. He also had had experience in business in the dry goods store of Wilkinson, Stetson & Co. He began the practice of law in Boston, and has since continued here, achieving great success.

Mr. Gargan has long been prominent in local and state politics, acting with the Democratic party. In 1868, 1870 and 1876 he was a member of the house of representatives. In 1875 he was a member of the Boston board of overseers of the poor. In 1877-78 he was chairman ber of the Boston board of overseers of the poor. In 1877-1878 he was chairman of the board of license commissioners, and in 1880-81 he was a member of the board of police. He is a forcible and brilliant speaker, and among his most notable addresses was his Fourth of July oration, delivered in Boston in 1885. He was also the orator at the centennial of the Charitable Irish society in Halifax in 1886. In 1873-74 he was president of the Massachusetts Charitable Irish society. He was married in Boston in 1868 to Miss Catherine L. McGrath.

Hon. James S. Grinnell

the other candidate for elector-at-large, was born at Greenfield, July 24, 1821, and is well known among lawyers, and es pecially by the farmers of New England.

He resides on a beautiful farm in Greenfield, bought by his grandfather over 100 years ago. He is the son of Hon. George Grinneil, for many years a leading lawyer in the town, who was in the state senate 50 years ago, and who also represented the district in congress from 1828 to 1840. The father died in 1871, at the age of 91. The present candidate's mother was the daughter of Rev. Nathan Perkins, D. D., of Amherst, with an ancestry running back to Rev. Thomas Clapp, who was among the first presidents of Yale college.

At the age of 17, young Grinnell entered Amherst, and graduated when 21. He then studied law in his father's office, and finished at the Harvard law school.

He began practice at Orange. A year later he returned to Greenfield, and entered into a law partnership with his father. After a year in a manufacturing business in Belleville, N. J., he managed a large farm and vineyard in Cincinnati.

He has always been interested in agriculture, and was one of the founders and first officers of the Berkshire County Agricultural society. In 1876 he was a judge of agricultural machinery at the centennial exposition in Philadelphia. Since then he has divided his time between the requirements of his farm and his duties as a trustee of the Agricultural college, and as a member of the State Board of Agriculture. He has been president of the Greenfield Agricultural society. He is a most prominent and devout member of the Episcopal church.

He was elected to the state senate of 1882, and made a record for high intellectual attainments and knowledge of the wants of the people of the rural districts. In 1883 he was defeated for congress in the Tenth district by Hon. Amasa Norcross. He has been twice married, but has no children. He has been at various times Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, treasurer and other offices, and has served on the state central committee.

James W Hull

of Pittsfield, candidate for elector in the First district, is 50 years old, and has been a resident of Pittsfield for 30 years.

For seven years he was with the Pittsfield National bank. In 1872 he was elected secretary, and in 1878 treasurer of the Berkshire Life Insurance company.

He is interested in the Pittsfield Electric Street Railway and Coal Gas companies, in each of which he is a director. He is connected with several other public institutions, and has been an officer of the First Parish church since 1876. From 1877 to 1882 he was chairman of the school committee. He has been connected with several public important plans, notably the opening of Bartlett avenue, and in the development of real estate. He is a real estate owner, and has been prominent in Democratic circles.

Leander B. Morse

of Athol, candidate for elector in the Second district, is one of the best known men in his part of the state. He has long been identified with Democratic politics, and is prominent in business and social affairs in the western part of Massachusetts.

Eben S. Stevens

of Dudley, candidate for elector in the Third district, ran on the Democratic ticket last year for treasurer. He was born in Dudley in 1848, is a woolen manufacturer, and is a nephew of ex-Congressman Moses T. Stevens. He has served in various town offices with honor and distinction, and was a member of the senate in 1892 and 1893.

Charles J. Williams of Acton, candidate for elector in the Fourth district, is well known as one of the leading Democrats since 1884 in his section of the state. He has been prominent for a long time in social, business, military and political circles. He was for years captain in the First Corps of Cadets, is about 45 years old, and was formerly in the banking business in Boston. He was elector on the Cleveland ticket in 1892.

Sam D. Stevens

of North Andover, candidate for elector in the Fifth district, is about 40 years old, is a son of ex-Congressman Moses T. Stevens, and, though still a young man, has been for several years active in Democratic politics. He is well known in business and social circles, and is popular wherever known. He is associated with his father in the woolen firm of M. T. Stevens & Sons. He is on the executive committee of the Young Men's Democratic club.

Robert S. Rantoul

of Salem, candidate for elector in the Sixth district, is a lawyer, and was born in Beverly in 1832. He is a Harvard man, and was graduated in the class of 1853, and then entered the law school. After study in the office of Charles G. Loring in Boston, he was admitted to the bar. His public career has been quite extended. He was a member of the Massachusetts house in 1858, and from January, 1865, to May, 1869, was collector of the Salem and Beverly district. He was again a member of the house in 1884 and 1885. In 1890 he was elected mayor of Salem, and was re-elected three times.

Samuel K. Hamilton

Mr. Hamilton was a member of the Biddeford board of aldermen in 1870 and 1871, of the Maine house of representatives in 1872, of the Wakefield school board nine years, six of which he was chairman; was chairman of the board of selectmen in 1887 and 1888, and chairman of the board of trustees of the Beebe town library. He has been treasurer of the Pine Tree State club. He was delegate to the national Democratic convention in 1880 and 1896, and was the Democratic candidate for congress in the Seventh district in 1894.

He has been prominent in the councils of the Democratic party, and was a delegate to the recent Indianapolis convention.

Sigourney Butler

candidate for elector in the Ninth district, is the son of the late Peter Butler of Quincy, and a cousin of Richard Olney, secretary of state.

He is a magnetic man in personal and social intercourse, and possesses qualities of a kind that admirably fit him to overcome and adjust the innumerable differences that are liable to arise among those who are endeavoring to shape party policy. He was born in Quincy, is a graduate of Harvard, and a lawyer by profession. He is president of the Young Men's Democratic Club of Massachusetts, and was chairman of the Massachusetts delegation to the Indianapolis convention.

Daniel L. Prendergast of Boston, nominee for elector in the Tenth district, is a well known Democrat. He was born in Boston in 1837, has been influential in party councils for years, as a member of the Young Men's Democratic Club of Massachusetts, the Knights of Columbus, the Clover club, the Catholic union, the Charitable Irish society, and is well known in business circles, being closely identified with the cotton manufacturing interests of this state since boyhood.

James E. Cotter

of Hyde Park, candidate for elector for the Eleventh district, was a candidate for presidential elector on the Democratic ticket in 1884, receiving 122,000 votes. Born in Ireland in 1848, he was educated in the public schools of Marlboro and the state normal school at Bridgewater. He was admitted to the bar in 1874. He has always been a Democrat, and has been honored by his party with varied nominations and elections. He is a member of the Norfolk and Suffolk Bar associations, of the Massachusetts Order of Foresters, and has been president of the Irish Charitable society.

Charles G. Davis

of Plymouth, candidate for elector in the Twelfth district, was born in Plymouth in 1820. He was a strong anti-slavery man. He attended the convention which nominated General Taylor for president and later the convention which nominated Martin Van Buren. Upon the incorporation of the Massachusetts agricultural college, in 1862, he was designated as trustee by the legislature, and served as such till 1887. He was assessor of internal revenue under President Lincoln. He was a member of the Democratic national convention in 1872, and has acted with the party ever since. In 1874 he was appointed judge of the Third district court of Plymouth county.

Louis B. Thacher

of Yarmouth, candidate for elector in the Thirteenth district, although he is only about 30 years old, is well known throughout the state in business, social and political circles. He is the son of Hon. Henry C. Thacher, who has been, for a generation, one of the war horses of the Democracy. Mr. Thacher is a member of the firm of H. C. Thacher & Co., wool importers in Boston, and is a leading member of the Young Men's Democratic Club of Massachusetts.

THE STATE TICKET.

Prince at the Head With McConnell In Second Place.

The state ticket is headed by Frederick O. Prince of Boston, the candidate for governor. He is one of Boston's favorite and most favored sons. He has been several years mayor, and was, in 1885, the Democratic candidate for governor of the commonwealth.

Frederick Octavius Prince

was born in Boston on the 18th day of January, 1818. His father was a State street merchant, and his grandfather United States marshal during the administrations of Jefferson, Madison and Munroe. Jeffersonian Democracy runs naturally in the Prince family.

He entered the Boston Latin school in 1827, graduating from it with all the honors when 14, at once entered Harvard, from which he graduated in 1836, being then 18. He studied law with Franklin Dexter and William H. Gardner, and in 1840 was admitted to the Suffolk bar. In 1848 he married Miss Helen Henry of Philadelphia, daughter of Bernard Henry, who had been United States consul at Gibralter ever since the war of 1812.

Mr. Prince, when 30 years old, established his residence in Winchester, which sent him to represent her in the legislature of 1851, and the two succeeding years, and also in the constitutional convention in 1853. In 1854 he was elected to the state senate. Up to that time he had been a Whig, but when that party finally broke up, in or before the campaign of 1860, Mr. Prince followed his inclinations and associations. He went into the Democratic party, and was a delegate to the memorable Charleston convention, and, when the split came he went with the majority to Baltimore, where Stephen A. Douglass was nominated for president. Before that convention adjourned, he was unanimously elected secretary of the national Democratic committee, which place he filled until 1888. The secretary of the national committee is practically the executive officer of the party, and upon Mr. Prince devolved the duty of organizing every Democratic convention from the date of his affiliation with the party. He organized the convention at Chicago in 1864, the one at New York in 1868, that at Baltimore in 1872, the one at St. Louis in 1876, in Cincinnati in 1880, in Chicago in 1884, and in St. Louis in 1888.

It was in December, 1876, that Mr. Prince was put up as mayor of Boston. He had not held any city office, but such was his personal popularity, and such the confidence felt in him as a man of business that he was elected by a majority of 5000 votes over the Republican candidate, Nat. Bradlee. There was even in those days a cry from the taxpayers for economy in municipal affairs. Mayor Prince, during the first year of his administration, secured a reduction of over $500,000 in the tax levy, while the real estate valuation was also reduced nearly $50,000,000. But this was a year when many great projects were begun; improved sewerage for example, the Back Bay park and the new high school building, improvements which surpassed any thing of the kind hitherto attempted in America. In the following year Mr. Prince failed of a re-election, but at the next election he was chosen again, and re-elected for the two succeeding terms. It was during this term that the 250th anniversary of the settlement of Boston was celebrated with great display, Sept. 17, 1880, and he was selected by the city government to deliver the address.

Mr. Prince has not been in office since that time, though in 1883, while in Europe, he was nominated for lieutenant governor by the Democratic convention. Mr. Prince declined this nomination. In 1885 he was the Democratic candidate for governor. He has been a trustee of the public library for eight years, vice president for five years, and is now president of the board of trustees.

That Mayor Prince enjoys the respect and confidence of all classes of our citizens is shown by the attention given to his utterances whenever he appears upon the platform. His address as permanent chairman of the convention at Horticultural hall, Aug. 25, was a masterly effort.

James Edward McConnell

the candidate for lieutenant governor, is about 30 years old.

He is a native of North Adams, and in the schools of that town his primary education was received. He prepared for college at Drury academy, entered Holy Cross college, Worcester, and after a term of three years was graduated in the class of 1886. Having determined on the legal profession for his life work, he pursued a course of study in Boston university school of law, spending two years in that institution. After graduating he went to New York, and in the office of one of the leading law firms of that city further perfected himself in the requirements of his profession. He came to Fitchburg in 1888, immediately engaged in practice, and has identified himself with matters of public interest. In politics he has always been a Democrat and has done valuable service in behalf of his party. He has served on the school committee for a term of three years, and his personal popularity was made apparent when, unsought by himself, he was elected to the captaincy of company D, Sixth regiment, M. V. M.

Captain McConnell has an established and still growing practice, both civil and criminal, and by his fellow members in the profession, as well as by the public generally, he is recognized as one of the leading attorneys of the state.

of Worcester, candidate for secretary of state, is a native of the heart of the commonwealth, where he was born in 1849, and where he has lived ever since, with the exception of two years spent traveling in Europe. He comes of the old Lincoln stock, which has always been prominently identified with the growth of Worcester, being a grandson of General Levi Lincoln. He received his early education in the schools of Worcester, and graduated from Harvard college in the same class with Governor Wolcott in 1870. After leaving college he engaged in business in Worcester as a member of the firm of W. E. Cutter & Co., manufacturers of chemicals. He was also prominently identified with other big concerns, and served on the board of directors of several of the banks and railroads centering in that city. He retired from active business in 1893, and spent the next two years in Europe.

He has always been a Democrat, and has several years held a high place in the party councils in this state, but he has never held any political office. He was a candidate for national elector on the Democratic ticket in this state in 1884 and was a delegate to the convention of the National Democracy at Indianapolis.

Horace B. Tobey,

of Wareham, who has been placed in nomination for the office of treasurer of the commonwealth, is very well known to the democracy of this state. He is treasurer of the Wareham Tack company and has been long identified with the maufacturing interests of New England. He has been for years, prominent in advocacy of tariff and other reforms.

Charles C. Spellman,

of Springfield, candidate for auditor, was born in Hampden, or as it was then called, South Wilbraham, on December 3, 1843. He attended the public schools of his native town and the Monson academy. After his course in Monson he fitted for college at Williston seminary in East Hampton; graduating from Yale college, he studied law with the late E. D. Beach of the Harvard law school, and finished with ex-Mayor Charles E. Winchester. He was admitted to the bar in 1870 and once taken into partnership by Mr. Winchester, who was then mayor of Springfield. This partnership was continued but a little while, as the following year Mr. Spellman was appointed clerk of the police court, at the time when that office was established in Springfield. He filled the place with credit until February, 1884, when he resigned and formed a law partnership with Mayor E. B. Maynard. He was nominated for the Legislature by his party in the strongest Republican district in the state a few years ago and was elected by a handsome mapority. It was the first time he ever ran for office.

Henry F. Hurlburt,

candidate for attorney general, is considered one of the ablest, brightest, and most successful young lawyers practicing at the Essex county bar. He was born in Boston 42 years ago. When seven years of age his parents removed to Hudson, where he received his early education in the public schools. In November, 1877, Mr. Hurlburt moved to Lynn, where he has since lived. In 1883, he was nominated and elected district attorney for Essex county on the Democratic ticket and was re-elected the following year. He has been a member of the Lynn board of health, and has been identified with many popular movements, and is one of Lynn's most substantial citizens. Mr. Hurlburt was the Democratic candidate last year for attorney general.

This ticket taken as a whole ought to receive the votes of the true Democracy of Massachusetts and there is no doubt that it will prove a powerful factor in sustaining the credit of the grand old commonwealth in this crisis.

There is a butterfly of India, which, if pursued by a bird, simply alights on a bush or a tree, and becomes invisible by reason of its green color.

Women in the far East are educated to a life of pure sensuality. Wrong, of course, but the other extreme is nearly as bad. Continually hammering away on the idea that anything connected with the reproduction of the human species is of necessity bad and degrading has had, in civilized countries, the effect of keeping women in ignorance and of developing a false modesty that has been prolific of weakness and disease. Four out of every five women in America are not perfect women in the sense of being perfectly healthy. They are not perfectly equipped for the performance of the duties of wifehood and motherhood. Their training has made them feel that it is better to suffer in silence than to tell of their trouble and be cured.

The doctors are much to blame for this, because when treating the diseases peculiarly feminine they invariably insist on examination and local treatment. That these things are generally absolutely unnecessary has been proven by the wonderful success of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for all forms of female weakness and disease. It purifies, strengthens and regulates the organs distinctively feminine, restoring them to a state of perfect health, and in so doing cures four-fifths of all the illness of women, for almost all womanly illnesses spring from this one cause.

Any woman who wants to know just how to use the "Favorite Prescription," and just what methods will be surely successful in her case, may have the desired information, free of cost if she will write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the only known cure for constipation, biliousness, heart-burn, and attendant ills. There are many temporary reliefs from these troubles, but only one cure. The "Pellets" do not gripe or cause any other unpleasantness. Druggists sell them—25 cents.

THE DOVE OF PEACE

Seems About to Settle Over Massachusetts' Warring Democracy.

Overtures of the Faneuil Hall People Are Accepted.

Ballot Law Commission Might Have Declared Both Conventions Illegal.

Boston, Oct. 10.—The Democrats of Massachusetts made an attempt yesterday to settle the Faneuil hall and the Music hall convention controversy. When the ballot law commissioners met at the state house to go on with the hearing, there was a long array of witnesses on both sides present, and it was expected the hearing would go on, but instead there was a conference held by representatives of the two factions in an adjoining room.

At 11:20 Charles T. Russell left the conference room, and entering the commissioners' apartments announced that a compromise was about to be effected, and returned to the conference. Later Counsel Anderson announced that in view of the fact that the compromise was assured, he asked for an adjournment of the hearing until Monday, at 3 o'clock, when he expects all difficulties may be adjusted.

At 2:30 o'clock Mr. Russell made the following statement: "The conference of the representatives of the Faneuil hall and Music hall conventions has reached the agreement that a single ticket should be prepared. How that ticket shall be made up is not yet agreed upon. We have not time to prepare the ticket before the hour to which the ballot law commission has adjourned the hearing —3 o'clock—and when the commission comes in we shall ask for a continuance until Monday morning, to afford an opportunity to arrange a ticket that shall be satisfactory to all parties interested."

The proposition submitted for a compromise by the Faneuil hall people is to make the Music hall and Faneuil hall tickets identical so far as the state officers are concerned, and to make certain changes in the electoral ticket, the Williams men to have one elector-at-large and the Faneuil hall Democracy the other. As regards the electors by congressional districts, the Faneuil hall people ask the Williams men to endorse the electors chosen at congressional conventions, in return for which the Williams men will have those electors from the First, Second and Ninth districts, in which no conventions were held prior to the state convention.

As to the state committee, of which there are two sets of committeemen, this matter will be left to the 40 committeemen chosen in the senatorial districts.

There is some apprehension that, should the ballot law commissioners be called upon to render a decision, it would be that both conventions are illegal. Senator Corbett, chairman of the Democratic city committee, said that it would be impossible for either convention to prove that it had a majority in attendance. From his observation of the ballot law commission, he believed it would regard the question of the attendance of a majority of the delegates at either convention as of the highest importance.

John F. Murphy of Lowell is an objector to the withdrawal of his name from the Faneuil hall convention ticket. He maintains that a decision of some kind must be given by the commissioners. He further said: "My position is that I will not agree to any compromise until Mr. Williams swallows some statements he has made about me, and makes a full apology for liberties he and his friends have taken with my name and reputation."

Following is the compromise ticket which will be agreed upon:

Governor—George F. Williams of Dedham.

Lieutenant governor—Christopher T. Callahan of Holyoke.

Secretary of the commonwealth—Joseph H. Potts of Lynn.

Treasurer—Thomas A. Watson of Braintree.

Auditor—Maurice P. Cavanaugh of Springfield.

Attorney general—John B. O'Donnell of Northampton.

Presidential electors-at-large—Ernest C. Marshall of Boston; Henry Winn of Malden.

Presidential electors by districts—First, Frank H. Gloss of Lee; Second, William M. E. Mellen of Chicopee; Third, Enoch Earle of Worcester; Fourth, Henry J. Jacquith of Wellesley; Fifth, Michael O'Mahoney of Lawrence; Sixth, James P. Dearborn of Haverhill; Seventh, Edward H. Newhall of Lynn; Eighth, John P. McCormick of Cambridge; Ninth, William J. Burke of Boston; Tenth, William S. McNary of Boston; Eleventh, William D. Leahy of Milford; Twelfth, Francis A. Hobart of Braintree; Thirteenth, Thomas J. Meany of New Bedford.

Mayor Strong Shut Off.

New York, Oct. 10.—Mayor Strong visited the East side last evening, to make a speech in favor of McKinley and gold, but after striving for 15 minutes to make himself heard, he gave up the effort. The meeting was held outside the rooms of the Swiss Republican club, which was organized for the purpose of getting the Swiss people of the East side to vote for McKinley and Hobart. There was to have been a banner raising of the club, and a mass meeting, at which it was announced that Mayor Strong and other Republicans would speak. Five hundred persons assembled, nearly all adherents of Bryan, hooting the speakers, asking awkward questions, and otherwise acting after the manner of the Yale students, who shut off Bryan at New Haven.

wo Parades at Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 10.0—Four years ago yesterday, the greatest parade the west had ever seen passed through the streets of Chicago, as a portion of the celebration of the dedication of the buildings of the Columbian exposition. That parade was, however, surpassed yesterday, by the march of the men who uphold the gold standard in questions of finance and in politics.

For five hours it swept the streets from curb to curb, well closed up and marching rapidly. Just in front of the building of the Union League club, Mark Hanna and various members of the committee reviewed the parade. From the Palmer House, General Palmer and General Buckner reviewed the parade. The total number of people who saw the parade is estimated 1,800,000.

The Democracy held possession of the streets last night, and it improved its opportunity to the utmost. After the marching of Republicans, the Democratic parade took place. The cold wind and the fatigues of the early part of the day had its effect on the number of spectators, and the night parade was not witnessed by the large crowds of the day, but cheers went up incessantly, and as about every other man in the line had possessed himself of a tin horn, the volume of noise was deafening. The parade was over 1½ hours in passing a given point.

A Word From Cleveland.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Secretary of Agriculture Morton spoke at the Auditorium last night, under the auspices of the Sound Money league. Secretary Morton read President Cleveland's letter of regret, which was as follows: "I am much interested in the work which the American Honest Money league has undertaken, and I would be glad to do anything I consistently could to aid its efforts. I regret, therefore, that I must decline your invitation to address the league on some date previous to the approaching election. Even if the pressure of official duty did not prevent, I should hardly deem it consistent with strict propriety to mingle actively in the pending campaign. While it is impossible that any of my fellow-citizens should have the least doubt as to my sentiments on the vital question which at this time absorbs so largely the attention of our people, the work of advancing sound financial ideas and the labor of enforcing the lessons of public and private honesty and morality, I feel must be prosecuted without such participation on my part, as you suggest. Wishing for the league the utmost success in its patriotic endeavor, I am, yours very sincerely, Grover Cleveland."

Rebel Yell In Canton.

Canton, O., Oct. 10.—Of all enthusiastic demonstrations since the St. Louis convention, Canton has never seen the like of yesterday. The "rebel yell" was heard for the first time on her streets. The visit of the old Confederate warriors from the Shenandoah Valley brought thousands of people to town. The 1800 Virginians were expected early in the morning. Train delays kept them on the road until 4:30 o'clock. Then they were met by the Union veterans of Canton, several hundred strong. Arm in arm with the old boys in Blue, the veterans in Gray were escorted to the Tabernacle, where the G. A. R. and the Woman's Relief corps served them dinner. From the Tabernacle to the McKinley home the streets were lined with expectant people. The bands played "Dixie," "America," and "Marching Through Georgia." The throngs of people on the way joined in the yells of the marchers as best they could. Major McKinley spoke from a small temporary reviewing stand. Major McKinley personally greeted the visitors at his home, standing on his porch while they filed past him.

To Fight Silver Wing.

Boston, Oct. 10.—The nominees of the Gold Standard Democrats, or the National Democratic party, will appear on the state ticket, the required number of signatures (1000) have been obtained to the nomination papers. The Cambridge list includes a large number of the faculty of Harvard college, including President Eliot, while among the Boston names are Nathan Matthews, Jr., John T. Wheelwright, Charles E. Stratton and others.

Gold Men Won.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 10.—The Harvard union held an unusually interesting debate last night, at which the extraordinary question of: "Resolved that the election of William Jennings Bryan will be for the best interests of the United States," was debated. The surprise of the evening was the warm arguments of a number of silver men on the floor. The debate was won by the negative side.

Monticello Club Goes Under.

New Haven, Oct. 10.—The Monticello club, Connecticut's Tammany, was obliged to close its doors last night, on account of financial difficulties. The club has elegant quarters on Temple street, but owes about $2000. Owing to the division among the members over a presidential ticket, it was impossible to raise the necessary funds to meet the obligations.

Tired of Weyler.

Habana, Oct. 10.—A telegram has been sent by the Spanish element of the Conservatives, asking for the removal of General Weyler, on the ground that his continuing in office means the sure loss of the island. The telegram further recites the fact that a large part of the Cuban element will be willing to accept home rule, if with it will be appointed another captain general. General Campos is willing and anxious to return to Cuba, but he will not come until he brings the home rule concession with him. An understanding has existed whereby President of the Cabinet Canovas will send Martinez Campos and the home rule concessions if there is a surrender of some of the insurgent forces in the field, sufficient to allow the government to state to the public that the revolution is weakening, and that in itself means the final end of the Cuban revolution.

Charges Not Sustained.

Albany, Oct. 10. — Governor Morton, yesterday, rendered a decision dismissing the charges against General Austin Lathrop, superintendent of prisons, thus disposing of a question which has been before the legislature and executive departments in one form or another for upwards of 1½ years. Governor Flower had had similar charges to deal with, and dismissed them. There was a long list of charges that the superintendent made money by unlawful dealings with contractors and prison officials, or was party to such transactions.

French Diplomacy Applauded.

London, Oct. 10.—An editorial in The Times, referring to the report that a convention of alliance has been signed by the czar and President Faure, says: It matters little whether the reports that an alliance is signed are true. For practical purposes the union of France and Russia is already as close as seals and parchment can make it. France has achieved a brilliant diplomatic victory, and has thrown off the chains which Bismarck hoped would bind her eternally, and has resumed her place in the community of European nations.

East Braintree Aroused!

[From the Braintree Observer.]

EAST BRAINTREE, Sept. 9.

The season ticket holders in East Braintree held an indignation meeting last Monday evening, and after some discussion adjourned to Thursday evening. The east part of the town gets very poor train accommodations, the train that would accommodate the largest number, do not stop and we have to go either to Braintree, or Weymouth, in order to take a train that goes by our station. We have asked the railroad people three time to give us as good accommodations as we have had for many years, until last spring; but as they have not seen fit to grant our request we now propose to go before the Railroad Commissioners.

The meeting Thursday evening organized by electing as President D. G. Doane; as Secretary and Treasurer John N. McDowell; and Executive Committee J. W. West, John V. Scollard and Wm. McGreggor.

The Executive Committee was given full powers and instructed to bring the matter before the Railroad Commissioners as soon as possible. Mr. Scollard has kindly offered to represent the petitioners before the Commissioners and the matter will be presented to them early next week.

Weymouth Heights people are in the same fix as East Braintree and last night Mr. W. B. Summers and another gentleman from Weymouth Heights were present. They propose to take the same action we did. There are just two stations on the Plymouth division of the N. Y., N. H. & H. where you cannot get into Boston between 7 30 and 8 A. M. and leave Boston between 5 30 and 6 30 P. M; and those stations are East Braintree and Weymouth Heights. A. B.

—Candidate Bryan says that the reason he is making a "starring" tour through the country is that the people have not money enough to go to see "the candidate" and so "the candidate" must go to see the people.

GENTLEMEN: I commenced taking P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, last Fall, for Erysipelas. My face was completely covered with the disease; I took a short course of P. P. P., and it soon disappeared. This Spring I became much debilitated and again took another course, and I am now in good condition. I consider P. P. Will say, anyone who cares to try P. P. P. will not be disappointed in its results, and I, therefore, cheerfully recommend it.

Before the Governor.

City Solicitor Blackmur will appeared before the Governor today and prefer charges against the officers of the Massachusetts Training Ship Enterprise and demand an investigation. He has been retained by the parents of a number of the cadets, who held a meeting yesterday.

Boston Presbytery.

The delegates from the Presbyterian church, Rev. Robert Westly Peach and Elder Alfred Bishop, returned Thursday evening from the fall meeting of Boston Presbytery, which was held at Antrim, N. H. There, the autumn foliage is at its height of color, and the beauty of the scenery, added to the charming hospitality of the people, made attendance upon this meeting doubly enjoyable. The congregation worships in a new edifice, which cost about $20,000. The pastor, Rev. Dr. Cochrane, has been settled over the church for nearly thirty years. He is the oldest settled pastor in this Presbytery, and a man of Apostolic character. The Presbytery decided against the proposed division and erection of a synod, which proposal was agitated at the spring meeting in the Quincy church. On Tuesday evening the retiring moderator, the Rev. Henry C. Fay, preached, and on Wednesday evening the pastor of the Quincy church. The new moderator is the Rev. Dr. Scott F. Hershey. There was a good attendance.

TRAINS WANTED.

Quincy Not to Submit to the Imposition.

Has a right to Insist on as Many Trains as Years Ago.

Not Particular About Expreses; Accommodations will Do.

The N. Y., N. H., & H. R. R. will probably hear from Quincy in a few days relative to a better train service between this city and Boston. It is possible that Brockton and the stations on the South Shore branch will cooperate, for they are far from being satisfied.

Quincy thought it was the worst treated on the whole line, but note the grievance of Brockton. The Enterprise says:

"After a careful perusal of the winter timetable which the New York, New Haven & Hartford Co. has prepared and and put in operation on its line on which Brockton is located one is inclined to think that the official who prepared the schedule and those who approved of it must have considered the city of Brockton to be a place about the size of West Bridgewater. Of one thing any resident of the city will be convinced after studying the timetable, and that is Brockton gets the poorest passenger service it has had for years, and not at all what it is entitled to."

Brockton is about three times as far from Boston as Quincy, and an investigation shows that she has only seven less trains each way than Quincy, and Brockton has three express trains to Boston where this city has but two.

Quincy should be entitled to as many trains as it has enjoyed for several years, and one would say that her increase of over 70 per cent. in population in ten years entitled her to at least 50 per cent. more. But instead of an increase over 32 there has been a reduction of just 25 per cent. to 24. For years there has been a 12 o'clock express from Boston, but that is only one of the many convenient trains which have been dropped.

The city should have these trains restored or it should have half hour service throughout the day. It is not particular whether the additional trains are express or accommodation or whether they run on just the time indicated, but to show what is wanted new trains have been inserted below in the regular schedule in a bold face type, and the consideration of the railroad officials is invited to the same, that they may better accommodate the people of a rapidly growing city.

Photos Wanted.

A New York newspaper association has written the police department requesting for publication a photograph of the "Mad Preacher" arrested in Quincy, and also one of the officer making the arrest. Officer Barry who made the arrest would make a fine picture, but Dave says he does not care about having his face illuminate the pages of the many illustrated police publications, yet says if they will send on $10 for him to have some photographs taken they may have one and the only way to get the so-called "Mad Preacher" is to take him at Dedham jail.

ORCUTT AND GEARY

Nominated by the Democrats for the Legislature.

The Fifth Norfolk Democratic Representative convention was held Friday evening at the Ward Room, City Hall. The convention was called for 8 o'clock, but at that hour the leaders did not appear to be ready, and it was 8 20 before William B. Orcutt, the chairman was ready for business.

After reading the call William T. Shea was elected temporary chairman and William Sampson secretary.

Messrs. F. F. Green, M. T. Sullivan, Dennis Ford, Thomas F. Hogan, W. B. Orcutt and E. J. McKeon were appointed a committee on credentials, and they reported 38 out of the 50 delegates present. David J. Roach moved the nomination of William B. Orcutt by acclamation. Edward Twitchell of Wollaston seconded the motion, saying "that he was a man well fitted for the position. One who stood by his principles, and possessed the triple combination of backbone, backbone and backbone."

Stephen B. Little then moved the nomination by acclamation of Michael B. Geary. He had known him from boyhood. He had represented Ward Four for two years in the City Council, and he had the respect of that body. He had always found him on the right side. He possessed the double combination of "ability and honesty."

Both of these motion prevailed, and William B. Orcutt and Michael B. Geary were declared nominated.

Mr. Orcutt was called upon, and said:—"If he had any selfish motives and cared for himself he would decline and wait for some other year when the prospects were brighter and success more assured, but he was willing to stand in the breach and do the best he could. If every man in the hall would carry out what had been begun many votes could be got. If we depend on public talk and the newspapers which are all against us we will not have success, but we must work among our neighbors. He had his ideal of a Representative. He should be a man of ability and strong common sense, acquainted with political history and the needs of the people. If we carry out what we have met here for, we shall elect Democrats all along the line. In closing Mr. Orcutt said "There was one thing more he wanted to say, and that was that just so sure as the sun rises and sets on November 31, just so sure will the American people elect as their next president, William J. Bryan."

The city committee were empowered to fill vacancies and the convention adjourned.

They All Come Back To

"There are fads in medicine as well as in other things," said a busy druggist, "but the most remarkable thing about Hood's Sarsaparilla is that customers who try other remedies all come back to Hood's, and this is why the enormous sales of this great medicine keep up and continue the whole year round, steady as a clock.

"Why is it?" "O, simply because Hood's Sarsaparilla has more real curative merit than any medicine I ever sold."

This is of daily occurrence in almost every drug store. Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured more sickness, and made more happiness through restoration to health than any other medicine.

Depositors Found That Cape Ann Savings Bank Was Sound.

Nothing but Sympathy For Marsh's Sad End.

Had Not Handled a Gun For Many Years Previous to His Suicide.

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 10.—With the closing of banking hours yesterday afternoon, the flurry over the Marsh case had subsided. At no time during the day was there any feeling of uncertainty over the Cape Ann Savings bank's condition, and as for financial assistance, this had been offered by other local banks and from the Third National of Boston. An instance of how quickly confidence was restored is shown by the statement of Daniel T. Babson, the former paying teller, and the newly elected treasurer, at the close of business, that the total cash payments and notices of withdrawal for the day were not as large as on many days under normal conditions.

The feeling is growing that the full amount of Mr. Marsh's misappropriations will not be known, for some of the sufferers say: "If anything is gone, George is welcome to it." Not a word of reproach is heard anywhere, and sympathy is repeatedly expressed for the sad ending of Mr. Marsh's life.

The B. N. Hough estate is probably intact, as it consisted principally of undeveloped property, and brought little revenue. The George H. Rogers estate foots up nearly $100,000, and Mrs. Sarah M. Johnson's account may be nearly $50,000.

Mr. Marsh was not a trustee of the Fuller Davis estate, as stated, but held the power of attorney from one of the two daughters. The securities of the estate will be taken from the vault for examination.

The Dr. C. H. Hildreth estate, the heaviest sefferers, has lost the bulk of its quick assets by hypothecation on Mr. Marsh's part. It is stated that from wealth and plenty, the family now have only their Church street home left. In the envelope left for Mr. Hildreth is the list of securities taken, and their disposition, with the date of being pledged. While it is hardly likely that the particulars in this instance will be known, no word of complaint is heard. Mr. Hildreth said that with his health and strength and profession, he hoped to regain his fortune.

It is now stated that Mr. Marsh was interested in 11 estates, the total value of which would be $500,000. At the bank, Mr. Marsh received a salary of $3000.

One of the coincidences brought to light by Mr. Marsh's tragic end, is the fact that he had a great horror of a gun. An intimate acquaintance, in explaining this, says: "Forty-five years ago he was gunning up in the oaks, with his brother and a messmate. George, the late treasurer, lifted his gun quickly to spot some game and fired. His brother, who was in front of him, fell dead, shot through the head. It was a terrible shock to Marsh, and for a long time it was thought then that he would become insane. He did not, and he became one of the keenest business men, but it is an old coincidence that he, too, should come to his death by a gunshot in the head, so many years after that accident in the woods. He never would touch one after that."

Highwayman Used a Pistol.

Palmer, Mass., Oct. 10.—Andrew Pinney, superintendent of the Palmer Carpet Manufacturing company, was yesterday afternoon held up by an unknown man, who shot him twice, inflicting serious wounds. Mr. Pinney was driving to the mill, some distance from the village, when a man sprang from the bushes and seized the bridle of the horse. He demanded Mr. Pinney's money, but was refused. Mr. Pinney struck the man and his horse with the whip, and started off at a lively gait. His assailant then fired several shots from a revolver and fled. Mr. Pinney was hit twice. The first shot took off the ends of two fingers and entered his right breast, hitting the edge of his lung. The second shot entered his left leg, near the knee. He will probably recover. A fire alarm was rung in, and crowds of citizens scoured the woods in search of the assailant, but no trace could be discovered. Contrary to the usual custom, the employes of the mill were paid off in the morning yesterday, instead of afternoon.

Death Came Quickly.

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 10.—A well-dressed young woman entered the office of Dr. C. M. Dodge here, yesterday afternoon, and called for medical treatment. Before her condition could be investigated she became alarmingly sick and died inside of three minutes. For several hours she remained unidentified, but finally she was recognized as a young married woman, living in Raymond. The husband was notified and drove to this city. He is Bert Meloon, a farmer. They had one child, aged about 1 year. The woman was in a delicate condition. An autopsy will be held to determine the cause of death, which so far is unexplained.

Studying American Ways.

Boston, Oct. 10.—The superior and divorce courts here had a distinguished visitor yesterday, in the person of Sir John Gorell Barnes, judge of the probate, divorce and admiralty division of the high court of justice of England. He occupied a seat on the bench beside Judge Fessenden in the third jury session of the superior court, at the trial of an action of tort for damages for personal injuries, and seemed pleased with the mode of procedure in our courts.

Parents Want an Investigation.

Boston, Oct. 10.—A strong effort is being made to induce Lieutenant Governor Wolcott to order an investigation of the treatment of the boys on the Massachusetts nautical training ship Enterprise, during her last cruise. A number of parents of the boys held a meeting, and have retained Paul R. Blackmur to represent them before Lieutenant Governor Wolcott, when charges will be made and an investigation demanded.

New Haven, Oct. 10.—M. B. Whitman, Harvard's crack tennis player, yesterday defeated I. A. Driscoll of Georgetown university, in three straight sets, thereby winning the championship of the 15th annual intercollegiate tournament, and gaining for Harvard the permanent possession of the $500 trophy stake, that has been contested for the past 15 years.

Murder Suspects Discharged.

Machias, Me., Oct. 10.—Lola T. Lola, John Stevens and Wallace Mitchell, three Indians, held for the alleged murder of Michael McMonagle, were discharged yesterday by Judge Strout. There was a lack of incriminating evidence.

Bicyclist Killed by a Train.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 10.—William H. Hayden, 50 years old, was riding a bicycle yesterday, and attempted to cross the track in front of a train. He was thrown about 200 feet, and was killed. Hayden was an ex-city councilman.

Accidentally Shot Himself.

Ashburnham, Mass., Oct. 10.—E. H. Lovell, proprietor of the Central House here, while out hunting yesterday, was fatally wounded by the accidental discharge of the gun he was carrying, the contents of which entered his abdomen.

EXTENDING THE BOYCOTT.

American Canned Beef Is Now Under the Ban of Germany.

Washington, Oct. 10. — According to unofficial, though trustworthy information received at the department of agriculture, the German government has followed up its prohibition of the importation of American dressed beef and live cattle into Germany by a new regulation, which practically shuts out American canned beef from the German markets. Canned beef was not included in the first proscription, and considerable quantities of it continued to be sent to the German ports. Recently, however, a new order was issued, requiring that all canned beef should be inspected. As compliance with this requirement means the opening of the cans containing the meat, the order is a practical inhibition.

The agricultural department has no information of any investigation on the part of the German government as to the presence of tuberculosis in American cattle, but Dr. Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry, says that if such an investigation should be set on foot it might mean that Germany was somewhat more disposed than she had been to consider the protests of this government against her treatment of our beef product. The matter has been the subject of a long correspondence conducted on behalf of this government by the state department, thus far without any apparent disposition on the part of Germany to yield.

Tramps Blamed For It.

Corning, Ia., Oct. 10.—Corning was visited yesterday by the most disastrous fire in its history. The origin was in Reynolds' elevator. The fire department was absolutely helpless; the waterworks were undergoing repairs. A high wind added to the calamity, and in a short time the flames completely wiped out the elevators surrounding a number of corn cribs and a number of grain cars, and two business blocks. When one car was consumed, the body of a man was found, with his head, arms and legs burned away. It was an open car, and how he could have been burned alive is a mystery. The prevailing theory is that he was murdered by tramps and the elevator fired to cover the crime. Some credit is also attached to the theory that the fire was started by robbers, who desired to pillage the city. Many homes were entered and robbed while the occupants were at the fire. The loss is over $200,000.

Exceptionally Good Work.

Washington, Oct. 10.—The navy department has just received reports of target practice made by the cruiser Raleigh while she was stationed on the Florida coast. They indicated the entire success of the percussion shell, adopted by the navy. The target fired at was the hull of a wrecked bark, at a distance of about 1½ miles. Nearly every shot struck the mark, and the shells burst within the two sides of the hull, just as they were calculated to do.

Waiting For the Kaiser.

London, Oct. 10.—The Paris correspondent of The Times reports that the czar and czarina have promised to accept the Duc D'Aumale's invitation to visit the castle of Chantilly when they revisit Paris in the spring. Now that the visit is ended, The Times's correspondent says, there is a feeling in some quarters that it only needs a similar visit from the Emperor of Germany to cement the European peace.

Two Deaths Resulted.

Sherbourne, Minn., Oct. 10.—A telegram was received by President Brown of the robbed bank here, saying that one of the robbers and murderers has been taken, dead, after a hard fight, 14 miles east of Elmore. The dead bandit had a roll of the stolen bills on his person. The marshal of Bancroft was killed in the fight.

Going to Mexico.

Washington, Oct. 10.—Assistant Surgeon General Charles Alden and Surgeon Calvin Dewitt have been detailed by Secretary Lamont as delegates to represent the United States army at the second pan-American medical congress, to be held in the City of Mexico, from Nov. 16 to 19 next.

Puritana Patients

Why They Take Puritana.

WHY THEY GET WELL.

The proof does it.

That is why people begin to take Puritana.

People find that their neighbors have tried it.

Their friends have tried it.

Men and women in every walk of life have tried it.

A man suffers.

Perhaps he has suffered for years.

He has tried many things.

They have all failed.

He reads a Puritana testimonial.

He reads another.

He sees new ones wherever he looks.

Some of the writers are in his own town.

Some in his own business.

Some he can see.

Some he can write to.

Some have been cured of his own ailment.

Some of other ailments.

All are grateful.

All are glad to tell suffering people how Puritana gave them relief.

They are approachable folks, and their voluntary testimonials count.

Some live in town.

Some in the country.

Some hold office.

Some vote.

PRIZE FORMULA OF Prof. Dixi Crosby, M.D., LL.D. DARTMOUTH COLLEGE

But all are honest and sincere.

That is why any one can prove for himself the genuineness of Puritana cures.

Puritana patients get well.

This is a fact.

There are reasons for it.

Puritana is the discovery of Prof. Dixi Crosby.

He was the greatest New Hampshire physician of his day.

He was at the head of the Dartmouth Medical College for a generation.

He used common sense, and found that disease or health came to the body through the stomach.

He scientifically compounded a stomach medicine from the harmless products of nature.

This is Puritana.

It makes the stomach right.

That is why it makes the health right.

With a sound stomach no one can help being well.

That is why Puritana patients get well.

Chemists say that Puritana is a good medicine.

They also say it is well made.

The materials are the purest and best that money can buy.

Druggists say it is a good medicine.

Their customers buy it and are more than satisfied with its effects.

What the people say about Puritana you have read before, and you will read again.

The thousands of Puritana cures are becoming better known every day.

The patients are real people.

The cures are real cures.

They can be proven in court.

They can be proven by any medical society.

They have been proven before the tribunal of Public Opinion.

Keith's New Theatre.

The coming week is the last one of the superb production of living pictures at Keith's. It has admittedly been the most beautiful, as it has been the most costly series of tableaux ever exhibited in this country, and if any there be who have so far neglected to see them, they should improve the opportunity offered during the next six days. The cinematographe has several imitators but no equal, and is the best machine for the purpose so far invented. The variety next week will include the celebrated comic acrobatic team of O'Brien and Havel, the best in its line in the country; Anna Myers and W. T. Carlton, operatic stars; Lillie Western, instrumental performer par excellance; Brydges and Little, comedy sketch; Balbarega, illusionist; Paulette, vocalist and dancer, and many others. The much talked of petite comedy company will be seen for the first time Monday, October 19, in "Cabman 93." Many boxes have already been bespoken for the event.

Castle Square Theatre.

The Castle Square Theatre managers could hardly ask for a more emphatic endorsement of their selection of attractions than has been given by the public this last week. For the coming week Genee's "Royal Middy" is announced. Augustine Daly bought the American rights to the work and brought it out in New York at his own theatre in spectacular style early in 1880. The scene of the operetta is laid in Lisbon, Spain, two centuries ago, and the plot concerns the adventures of the Parisian actress, Fanchette, who, having once enjoyed the friendship of Don Lamberto, secretly married to the Queen of Spain, comes to Lisbon to renew her acquaintance with him not knowing of his marriage. She arrives at Don Lamberto's residence just as he is expecting a visit from the Queen; so is disguised as a Midshipman. While Lamberto and the Queen are dining they are surprised by the entrance of Don Dominges, who has seen Fanchette enter, and finding only one lady present, supposes the lady to be his young wife. The confusion attendant upon this situation is the foundation upon which the librettist has built up a succession of most interesting and amusing scenes and incidents, all of which, terminate in the usual happy fashion. "The Chimes of Normandy" follows the "Royal Middy."

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Another Cadet's Story.

From the Braintree Observer.

The death of two young men of diphtheria contracted on the training ship Enterprise and their treatment while on board has caused much unfavorable comment. Cadet W. R. Frampton, who is now at home, in Braintree, gives us the following which cannot fail to interest our readers:—We left Boston Saturday, May 23d, and the following day most of the boys were sea sick. This however wore off in a couple of days and life looked brighter until June 4, when we struck a cyclone, which drove the bark many miles to the north, out of her course, nearly into the ice fields.

After the storm was over we ran to the southard until again on the course and everything was all right until Mount Pico was sighted, June 15. We dropped anchor about 8 o'clock when the boys had a pleasant experience with the Portugese who gathered around the ship for trade.

Here the boys also had an opportunity to go ashore and visit the city of Horta, climb the mountains, trade with the "bum boats," and go in bathing, the last of which was enjoyed about as much as any experience during the trip.

About June 20, we started for Queenstown, consuming twelve days, landing there July 2d. Here less liberty was given; but few, who had relatives in the vicinity, were given special leave.

July 4th was a big day. The ship was decorated with flags from stem to stern. The English vessels in the harbor also decorated and kept flags up until sunset, in honor of the American vessel. The First Lieut. of the Enterprise however, caused all the flags on his ship to be hauled down soon after noon; ostensibly because the wind blew, though it blew no harder for his ship than for the Englishman, and this act caused considerable unfavorable comment among the cadets. Blarney Castle was visited and some of the boys kissed Blarney stone. This harbor is a very charming spot, and the ship staid there a week, and made the run to Southampton, reaching there July 12.

All the cadets were given the privilege of going by rail to London, about 80 miles distant, but some preferred to go to Portsmouth, or the Isle of Wight. Ship remained at Southampton about two weeks.

It was intended to go from here to Antwerp, but owing to delay we went to Lisbon, where we stayed a week, and the most exciting thing we saw during the trip was the bull fights.

Leaving there we sailed four days and a half, arriving in Maderia about August 18. In this harbor the water is so clear that at the bottom and anchor can be seen in 108 feet of water. The streets of Funchal are paved with cobble stones, and worn smooth as glass by sleds, which are used exclusively for transportation.

The finest of grapes and other fruits were found here. The natives are a lazy, shiftless class, and do little work. They would hang around the ship and trade. They also found much amusement in diving for trinkets which the boys threw overboard.

On the 23, while off Hatteras we struck a circular cyclone which drove the vessel to the south,—about three days out of her course. It was at this time that Cadet Brown was lying in the sick bay in his hammock; the water from the hatchway over head drenching him from head to foot. He got a terrible shaking up, and it was in this place that Cadet Clare, who has since died, sat watching his dying companion; and in that cold wet place the young fellow contracted the disease that cost him his life. He was a young man of promise and stood well in his class and was a favorate with the cadets.

This storm lasted about a day and a half. Nothing of interest was noticed after this except the sight of a few whales, until we sighted Nantucket. Rounding the Cape the 28th of September, the ship came to anchor off Rowe's wharf about 8 o'clock the morning of the 29th.

Referring to food given the cadets during trip: Cadet Frampton says, that first Sunday after leaving Boston chicken was served but the boys were too sick to eat it. From that time on the food grew poorer, and less of it; and after leaving Maderia the potatoes gave out; butter gave out; no sugar, no milk, bread once a day, and only four small slices to each cadet; canned mutton and beef, old enough to vote, and crackers old enough to walk; and of these, as poor as they were, we could not get enough. An attempt was made to mix up lard with butter for the boys, but this they refused to eat. Cracker pudding served for desert; canned squash warmed up without seasoning; pea soup served nearly every noon, made from split peas that had been soaked in salt water. About every other day canned peaches were served; each cadet receiving about a quarter of a peach with a little of the liquid.

Some idea of the neatness of the mess cooks, or lack of neatness, may be formed by the fact that they are allowed one pail in which to serve coffee, soup, and whatever food may be cooked at the time; wash clothes in, carry off swill, besides using it to bathe themselves in.

The ship was kept perfectly clean but little was done for the comfort of the cadets.

The discipline was extremely strict and in some cases harsh methods were used to enforce their arbitrary rules.

In regard to the two boys, that died, Cadet Frampton says they were sacrificed Clare was my intimate friend and I know that he did not have proper care. Many times I gave him water and hustled to get the nurse to give him some attention. I helped put him in and out of his hammock. After he took to his hammock the docter was urged to visit him, but this he failed to do for twenty-four hours. It is the opinion of the cadets that proper food and care would have saved both Brown and Clare.

When the Enterprise passed quarantine the doctor on the Vigilent said to the captain of Enterprise:

All well on board, captain?

To which Captain Eaton replied, "All well now." Presumably claiming that the disease was tonsilitis.

It has been reported that the cadets were compelled to wash all over before going ashore; but this order after being given, was revoked, and as soon as the ship was cleaned the boys were allowed to depart for their homes.

Many of the cadets will not finish their term under any any such conditions as they have experienced during the past four months.

RISKED THEIR LIVES.

Two Gloucester Men Bravely Rescued the Alsatian's Crew.

Schooner Had Capsized Off Baker's Island.

Two Men Unconscious When Hauled Into Boat of Heroic Rescuers.

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 12.—Schooner Alsatian of and from Bath, Me., lumber laden, for Boston, capsized off Baker's island reef yesterday afternoon, and is a total loss. According to Captain Oliver the Alsatian left Bath Saturday morning. At 3 o'clock yesterday morning, when 12 miles northeast by east of Thatcher's island, the wind freshened and the sea increased so that the heavy swell shifted the deckload and opened the waterways.

The vessel soon filled and became unmanageable. Attempts were made to get into Rockport and Salem, but as the sea was breaking over the waterlogged craft, and the crew were lashed to the rigging, all that could be done was to let the schooner drift before the wind and sea.

She drifted near Thatcher's island ledges and nearly swamped, while the members of the crew were washed by the sea and rendered almost insensible. When near Baker's island ledges the schooner was struck by a sea that carried away the mainmast, capsized the vessel and threw the men overboard.

The men succeeded in grabbing a piece of wreckage that came from the deck load. In the meantime, a fishing boat had arrived here and reported seeing the vessel. Captain George L. Young of the steamer Helen May Butler was notified and immediately started to the assistance of the disabled vessel. Upon over taking the wrecked sailors, Captain Young and Steward Anderson manned a boat and put off to assist the now nearly exhausted men.

With great difficulty, and just as the men were sinking they were hauled into the boat. Two of the shipwrecked men were unconscious, but were soon restored to consciousness. Owing to the heavy storm that was raging, the rescue was a heroic one. Captain Young and his steward nearly sacrificed their own lives, as the boat nearly filled three times before the shipwrcked men were got on board the steamer.

The Alsatian measured 69 tons, was built in Georgetown, Me., in 1882, was manned by Captain J. R. Oliver consigned to W. R. Chester & Co., Boston.

Death of Dr. Wheeler.

Boston, Oct. 12.—Rev. Crosby H. Wheeler, D. D., a missionary of the American board, died at Auburndale yesterday. In his early life Dr. Wheeler was a pastor in Maine, but in 1857 he entered missionary service in Turkey, and was located at Harpoot for 39 years. He was the founder and the president of Euphrates college, and through this institution and in other ways he had wrought most successfully for the good of the Armenians. It was his desire to remain with and die among them, but protracted physical infirmities rendered his return to America in July last a necessity. He was at Harpoot during the massacres in that city in November last, and his house was then burned.

Deliberate Murder.

Clinton, Mass., Oct. 12.—Two Italians, employed on the Metropolitan water works at West Berlin, W. C. Difilippo and Francisco Forte, were sleeping together in an Italian boarding house Saturday night, when, about midnight, Difilippo jumped out of bed and deliberately shot his companion, and then fled, with nothing on but his night clothes. Other boarders in the house immediately procured a team, and the wounded man was placed in it, but before he reached the hospital he expired. The men were apparently on the best of terms when they retired for the night. A diligent search is being made through the woods for the murderer.

Robbers Had a Snap.

New Haven, Oct. 12.—Within the past few days thieves have been doing extensive pillaging at Cosy Beach, which is on the east shore, about six miles from here, and many of the 25 cottages have been broken into and ransacked, the thieves in a few cases even taking the furniture away. The cottagers employ a watchman to guard their property during the winter, but he does not come on duty until Nov. 1, as it is customary for some of the cottagers to be at the beach during October, but the recent cool weather forced them all away.

About Solis' Furs.

Boston, Oct. 12.—The somewhat mysterious disappearance of furs valued at $1145 and a diamond ring from the residence of Henry A. Solis, is thought to have been cleared by the arrest of Richard G. Chase, aged 21, a former employe of Mr. Solis. The furs were disposed of by Chase to several prominent people in the city, who paid fair prices for the garments, on the supposition, the buyers say, that they were being rightly sold by the young man.

Message From the Deep.

Nantucket, Mass., Oct. 12.—A bottle was picked up on the south side of the island by James C. McCleave, which contained the following message, written on the fly leaf of a book: "Sept. 16—We are off Nantucket 20 miles, and about to sink. Please notify my wife, Mrs. Mary Frazer of Gloucester. We will never reach shore alive. Goodby." It was signed by John C. Frazer, and there was nothing which indicated the name of the vesse'

Highwayman Got Left.

Palmer, Mass., Oct. 12.—An attempt was made to hold up and rob D. W. Fosket, owner of Fosket mill, Saturday night. Mr. Fosket had been to Springfield, and was driving to his house, just out of the village, when a man sprang from the bushes and attempted to stop the horse. Failing in this, he shot at Mr. Fosket, but did not hit him. Mr. Fosket returned the shot, without effect, and drove rapidly home.

Busy Firebug.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 12.—The people of Oxford are greatly alarmed over the presence of a fire bug, who set two fires yesterday, that cost one life, in addition to the property destroyed. He got in his work first about 1:25 in the morning, when the farmhouse occupied by William Troreau and his family, and Eli Duprey and his family, was entirely consumed, with all its contents, and Willie Duprey, 11 years old, was burned to death. The house was valued at about $4500. Last night, an unoccupied house on the Susan Crane place, about an eighth of a mile from the scene of the morning fire, was destroyed, with about five tons of hay, which were stored in it by Frank German, with whom the Troreaus and the Dupreys have taken shelter.

Work of Incendiary.

Amesbury, Mass., Oct. 12.—The central fire station at Merrimac had a narrow escape from destruction by fire Saturday evening, at the hands of an incendiary, the tower being saturated in several places with kerosene. The discovery was made in time to prevent serious conflagration. It is believed to have been the work of a gang who attempted to blow up the safe in the post-office on Friday night.

A Fireman's League.

Marblehead, Mass., Oct. 12.—Firemen from several places in Essex county met here yesterday and formed the Essex County Protective Firemen's league. Six handtubs and two active companies were represented. The organization is the outcome of considerable dissatisfaction over the alleged unfair advantages met with at many of the recent musters.

Suicide's Body Identified.

Medford, Mass., Oct. 12.—The body of the unknown woman, who committed suicide by drowning in the College hill reservoir, has been identified as that of Mrs. Mary Powers. Mrs. Powers was a widow, and resided with her father and brother at West Somerville. Nervous prostration is supposed to be the cause of the act. She leaves two children.

Freight Cars Jumped.

Northampton, Mass., Oct. 12.—Owing to the engine jumping a frog, as it is supposed, nine freight cars were derailed at the depot here last evening. Three tracks were blocked, and it took the wrecking train all night to clear them. No one was seriously injured. Damage about $2000.

Suspected of Stealing $3000.

Boston, Oct. 12.—Officers of this city arrived from Denver last night, having in charge Walter C. Leach, wanted in this city for the alleged embezzlement of $3000 from George B. Wilbur, a stock broker. Leach was formerly a clerk for Wilbur, but left his employ last spring.

A Cowardly Assault.

Boston, Oct. 12.—Pietro Falasci, an Italian, aged 32 years, while leisurely strolling along Webster place last evening, was stabbed in the back by an unknown man. The wound is not dangerous. Why the would-be assassin attacked Falasci is not known.

Deadly Diseases In Full Sway.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Dr. Burgess, sanitary inspector of the marine hospital service, at Habana, says that yellow fever continues to be epidemic there, and he is informed that it is so in most of the places where Spanish soldiers are found. During September there were 1034 deaths in Habana from the disease. Smallpox, instead of decreasing, increases daily, not only in Habana proper, but in the suburbs. The doctor expresses the fear that it will be many months before this scourge is over.

Brooks to be Sculptor.

Mayor Quincy has placed the commission for the proposed bronze statue of the late Col. Thomas Cass, Ninth Regiment, Massachusetts Volunteers, with Mr. Richard C. Brooks, of Quincy, who is now in Paris. This monument to be paid for from the Jonathan Phillips fund, is intended to replace the granite monument of Col. Cass, now in the Public Garden, Boston. It has been suggested that the new statue should be an equestrian statue, instead of a representation of a dismounted officer. The amount of unexpended balance available from the fund on Jan. 1 was $6604. It is thought that it may be possible to raise by public subscription a sufficient sum of money to pay for an equestrian statue.

Capsized.

Mr. H. B. Faxon and Mr. Irving Jones of Boston were capsized Sunday forenoon from the yacht Gnome, off Germantown point. Fortunately, kind friends were within reach who rendered them needed assistance and the young men finally brought the boat to her moorings after a number of hours' soaking, hard tugging with sails, etc., and extra hard pulling up from the point when they had finally righted her. The chicken sandwiches donated so hospitably will doubtless be remembered when the cold bath and hard work are forgotten.

Gross Neglect.

The hearing concerning the Enterprise before the Massachusetts Nautical Training School Commissioners on Saturday brought out about the same facts as have already been published in the LEDGER. The witnesses were John P. Clare, Joseph W. McGrath and Charles H. Clare of Quincy, William R. Frampton of Braintree, William Baker and Dr. Ruggles of Dorchester. Adjourned to Thursday.

Sudden Death.

Dr. William Gallagher, the new principal of Thayer academy at Braintree, met with a sudden and sad loss on Saturday, in the death of his wife at the Cambridge hospital where she had gone for treatment. FLAG RAISING.

Republicans the First to Put Out Old Glory.

McKinley & Hobart Battalion Makes Its First Appearance.

Speeches Were Made by Messrs. Shaw, Sears and Bigelow.

There was enough excitement in City Square Saturday night to please everybody and as the evening was all that could be desired, the attractions drew a large crowd. They began to arrive early and until after the flag raising the streets and sidewalks were lined with people.

The first event booked to start was the lantern parade of the Quincy Triangle wheelmen, but they were behind time and the tourchlight boys were the first to start.

The battalion formed on Granite street and promptly at 7.30 moved in the following order.

Marshal, Warren B. Munroe.

City Band.

Major,—Isaac M. Holt.
Adjutant,—Frank N. Benson.
Staff,—Henry P. Kittredge, George O. Whitman.

COMPANY B.

Capt.,—Plaf Peterson.
First Lieut.,—M. Gunderson.
Second Lieut.,—J. R. Johnson.

COMPANY A.

Capt.,—Faxon Billings.
First Lieut.,—Fred W. Jones.
Second Lieut.,—Henry McNally.
Sergeant.—H. Parker.

Barrouche, trimmed with flags and bunting containing Hon. John Shaw, President of the McKinley & Hobart club, Charles L. Hammond, chairman of Republican City committee, ex-councilman John P. Bigelow and Russell A. Sears, Esq.

The battalion made a fine appearance, marched well and was frequenty greeted with applause along the line of march.

The route was from Granite street to to Hancock street, to Adams street to residence of Hon. W. B. Rice, countermarch to Hancock street, to Washington street, to Elm street, to Hancock street, to City Square.

The greatest demonstration on the line line was on Elm street where colored lights were burned and fireworks set off by several residents. Mr. Sears, one of the speakers of the evening passed cigars to the torch bearers and was given three cheers.

When City Square was reached a halt was made in front of the Adams building and with patriotic music, fireworks and cheers the flag bearing the names of "McKinley & Hobart and Wolcott & Crane," was unfurled and suspended across the street.

While the flag was being unfurled the Quincy Club gave a display of fireworks, and fireworks were exploded all along the line of march.

After the cheering for the flag and candidates had subsided, there were brief remarks by Hon. John Shaw, Russell A. Sears, Esq., and ex-Councilman John P. Bigelow, at the conclusion of which there were more cheers and three rousers for Charles L. Hammond.

The line was then reformed and a march taken to Hancock hall, where refreshments were served.

Chairman Shaw

In his opening remarks said :

This is a glorious occasion : To raise a flag for McKinley and Hobart, and for Wolcott and Crane, is to glorify an unusually noble cause. To protect our whole people—to preserve our national honor, is our work.

To teach our dissenting friends is the business of our speakers tonight.

We are told that there is no ability on the other side. How could there be and be any other side ?

Can able men uphold impracticable and impossible politics ?

Our whole party more firmly united than ever before, assisted by many past opponents, approve of the sentiments expressed by this flag.

Here in our own city, where we have a great industry that needs the direct protection of our Republican policy, our ranks are full of able men glad to work under our banner of victory.

The future of our country is in the hands of our young men. We are glad to encourage them—we are proud of them.

I have the great pleasure of presenting to you that sterling young Republican

Russell A. Sears, Esq.

FELLOW CITIZENS: Every ceremony connected with our glorious flag is inspiring. The very sight of our National standard awakens within us sentiments which are often forgotten in the midst of our busy lives. The flag of our country which stands for so much is indeed a glorious example before us today. It stands for no section alone; it is the common idol of the prosperous and the poverty-stricken; it is a reminder to the old and the young of the grandeur of its past; the glory of its present and the hope of its future.

The Republican party of today stands for the same loyal and patriotic principles as our flag; for the advancement of liberty for our national honor and for the protection of our people.

To this time we have seen our flag triumphant in every struggle, and now having taken its place in the lead among the nations of the earth, shall we suffer it to be torn down and degraded from its eminence, not by dissension with foreign enemies, but among ourselves ? Shall we after having passed one hundred and twenty years of honorable business dealings with the commercial countries of the earth, now enter upon new transactions that will bring upon us the condemnation and distrust of the whole civilized world ?

Wherever on the face of the earth you find an American flag, there also will you find some one to respect it. Wherever among the trade centres of the world you find American and other merchants dealing in the commodities and productions of our country—there also will you find faith and confidence in the honor, integrity and credit of the United States.

There is no better test of principle that can be presented to you than our flag, and whichever of the great political parties shows the greater respect for the flag and all that it implies, that is the party whose lead you should follow. Today it is the party that stands for the honest payment of honest debts; for the noble principle that the courts as constituted by our forefathers should be upheld in dignity in the discharge of their sacred duties between all who seek their aid; for the grand principle of protection to the citizen and his property and for the fostering care of our country over our industries.

The road is straight and we follow that party under whose control our country has become the greatest nation in modern history. That party has chosen as its leader no untried statesman, no man who has sprung into prominence in a single hour, but one whose public attainments has proven to the country, that in his hands may we safely entrust the direction of a party that has accomplished so much. It is fit that his name should be appended to our colors, for it was never more fitting than that he who fought for and saved the flag should have the flag honor him. What better names could be inscribed upon our national standard than those of Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, Harrison and McKinley ? They honored their flag and so long as the stars and stripes shall endure they will honor them and their memories.

But, gentlemen, while our party is thus upon its honorable march, let us not listen to the voice of the tempter by the way side. His voice may be silvery, but his argument is weak. Think and study for yourselves, and in the end you will find that gold is heavier than silver ; that our system of law is founded upon broad and sound principles ; that the tariff policy of the Republican party, as practised and advocated by it, is productive of general success :—and it is upon these great issues that our party again seeks the suffrages and support of our citizens, that it may replace our country in that prosperous condition that we have enjoyed in the past, and which we devoutly hope we may again promote.

Ex-Councilman Bigelow

was the last speaker. He said:

Mr. President, Fellow Republicans of old historic (Granite) Quincy:

I salute old glory and the gallant standard bearers, McKinley & Hobart, who upon Nov. 3d will surely be elected by the votes of you, the thinking, business, laboring men of our glorious Republic. It is the same old fight commenced in 1884 against the same Free Trade theorists who captured the Democratic party of Jefferson and Jackson, under the issue of moral reform. Free Traders led by Williams, Quincy, Everett and Matthews, you see the hypocrisy then displayed. In 1888 we elected the Indiana soldier-statesman, Benjamin Harrison. Now, my fellow-citizens, how has the last four years of bond-issuing, debt-making, "Grover & Clover" suited you. Those "splendid times" promised, have been times the hardest ever experienced by wage earners, wage employers and business men. Blaine's prophecy in 1888 fully describes what you today realize, idle mills and manufactories, business and confidence at a complete stand-still. Let me say right here that Mr. Bryan, the Democratic nominee is a more ardent Free-Trader, pure and simple, than any of their leaders yet named. He has had his two years of free silver talk from the lakes to the gulf, unlimited free coinage and unlimited Free Trade are the hand-maids of destruction to all industries of our glorious Republic, and that is what Bryan stands for. On our side William McKinley, of Ohio, and Garrett Hobart, of New Jersey, stand for protection, reciprocity, sound finance and good times.

My fellow voters, only three short weeks more. By the sacred ballot you are to transfer the control of this government back to Republican hands who for thirty years gave prosperity unparalleled in all history. Eastern sentiment is already cyrstalized from Maine, who gave us those gifted statesmen Blaine and Reed, to Pennsylvania's western border solid for Major McKinley, Protection and sound finance. Stand on the far eastern coast of Maine on the Atlantic ocean, take our parallel latitude straight to Oregon and the electoral votes are just as sure for McKinley and Hobart as is the sun to rise and set on Nov. 3d, next. And those pivotal lake states, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, with their 97 votes, will certainly lick Bryan.

Gymnasium Opening.

This evening will witness the opening of the physical department of the Young Men's Christian association for the sixth season. During the past five years several hundred men and boys have found recreation and improved health through this agency. The classes will be held Monday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The boys' class will meet Wednesday afternoon at 4, and Saturday morning at 10 30.

PIGSKIN GAMES.

Both High School Elevens Played at the Park on Saturday.

There were two games of foot ball at Merry Mount Park Saturday that of the morning being between the second eleven of the Quincy High school and the Puritans, while the afternoon game was between the first eleven and the Weymouth High school.

At the morning game the High school met with defeat, not being able to score, but held the Puritans down to two touchdowns. The features of the game were the playing of Appleton of the High school team and Bonelli, Brett and Whittier of the Puritans.

The afternoon game was an interesting one as both the Quincy and Weymouth teams were about of a weight and played equally well. Two 15-minute halves were played and in the first half neither side was able to score.

In the second half it looked as though the result would be the same, but just before time was called Weymouth on the third down had three yards to gain. At the fourth down Weymouth claimed to have made its gain of three yards but the referee said they still had half a yard to gain. This caused a dispute, and Weymouth refusing to continue playing the game was given to Quincy by a score of 4 to 0.

At East Milton.

The East Milton Athletic association played a hot game of football at East Milton Saturday afternoon lining up against the team from the John Hancock Life Insurance Co. The visitors averaged some twenty-five pounds heavier than the Milton boys but the later outplayed them, and won the game by a score of 4 to 0.

The line up of the home team was as follows :

Brackett Hathaway, re; P. Babcock, ra; Kemp, rg; Elden, c; Homer, lg; Baker, lt; Stetson, le; Randall, gb; E. Babcock, rhb; Robertson, lhb; Walters, fb.

Milton Academy defeated Dean Academy 12 to 0.

A QUINCY MAN.

Hon. William N. Eaton Nominated Again for the Senate.

The First Norfolk Democratic Senatorial convention was held Saturday afternoon at the Ward room, City Hall, and convened at 3 30 o'clock.

James D. Grant, chairman of the Senatorial committee, called the convention to order and read the call, after which a temporary organization was made with Mr. Mr. Grant as chairman and W. J. Sampson as secretary.

A committee on credentials consisting of W. T. Shea of Quincy, John B. Whalen of Weymonth, J. H. Russell of Hyde Park, John V. Scollard of Braintree and Mr. Griffin of Canton, was appointed, and they reported 30 delegates present.

The temporary organization was made permanent.

A committee of five consisting of W. B. Orcutt of Quincy, Mr. Tileston of Milton, D. W. Murry of Hyde Park, John V. Scollard of Braintree and Mr. Griffin of Canton were appointed to retire and bring in the name of a candidate for Senator.

This committee presented the name of William N. Eaton of Quincy, and upon motion of Mr. Scollard he was nominated by acclamation.

John V. Scollard was reelected a member of the State Central Committee, and James D. Grant chairman of the First Norfolk Senatorial Committee.

The following resolution was passed: "Resolved: "That the First Norfolk Senatorial Convention hereby endorses the nominees and platform of the Chicago National Convention and pledges it its earnest and unqualified support."

A delegate at this point wanted to know whether Mr. Eaton endorsed the Chicago platform or not.

Mr. Scollard said that when examining the credentials taken up at Hamilton place he found one on the back of which was written, "I endorse the action of the Music hall convention, and Bryan, Sewall and Williams, William N. Eaton."

After authorizing the committee to fill vacancies the convention adjourned.

LANTERN PARADE.

Some Pretty Effects Saturday Night —The Prizes.

The lantern parade of the Quincy Triangle wheelmen Saturday was a success. Although there were other attraction quite a number participated.

The parade was to start at 7 o'clock but at that hour they were not ready, and it was nearly 8 o'clock before they were off. There were something like 40 wheelmen in line, many of whom had their wheels decorated very handsomely. One had a large circle suspended in which was a triangle with the letter "Q." Another had a canopy over the seat, while suspended in front was a long pole, upon which was suspended a goose. Still another wheel had a large frame built about on the front being a triangle, while in the back were the letters "Y. M. C. A." There was also another wheelman who carried a large triangle. All these were hung with lanterns and made a very pretty effect. There were others also carried many lanterns arranged in an attractive manner, and several carried flags and transparences.

The judges were: John Odam, C. L. Coe and George A. Sidelinger, and they awarded the prizes as follows:

Ellis claims he was on his way to the car from the factory when he met McAuliff who called him a dirty scab, that the two then clinched and fell into the street where they were separated by an officer who placed them under arrest. The court discharged Ellis upon both complaints, and fined McAuliff $10 for disturbing the peace.

NICHOLAS' PROPHECY

Seems to Set Lightly Upon Prince of Naples and His Betrothed.

Rome, Oct. 12.—A few days hence the wedding fetes that are expected to do so much for the Italian dynastic will begin. If the bride's father is to be believed, the future of Princess Helene is not to be tranquil. The last lines he addressed to his daughter on her betrothal were these: "All is not gold that glitters; be mindful of this, O, my daughter, and know that happiness has never chosen for her seat a throne. Under the kingly crown is the crown of thorns, and not even in fable can we find a happy king. Seek happiness in the graceful corner of thy home in work within thy human power, and obedient to divine command. Thy father, Nicholas."

The Italians, perhaps, are not speculating much on the bride's future happiness, but they are counting with all the enthusiasm of their southern nature on the pure Montenogrin blood to re-establish the physical splendors of the kings of the house of Savoy, whereof the Prince of Naples is an extremely unworthy specimen. With the exception of a few grumblers, the marriage gives satisfaction to everybody—king, pope and people. By the alliance, King Humbert expects to newly confirm the Italianity of Rome as capital of the kingdom, and for this reason he has directed that all the ceremonies shall occur in Rome.

There is little doubt but the young people are in love with each other. Princess Helene is a stately burnette, with coal black hair, flashing eyes, a superb figure, and a stature of nearly six feet. She was largely reared under the supervision of the dowager empress of Russia, and at one time was favorite of the Russian court for the position of czarina, now filled by Princess Alix of Hesse. The crown prince made his fiance's acquaintance at the coronation festivities of the czar, who, rumor asserts, was the matchmaker for both.

Whether happy or not, under the gloomy prophecy of Prince Nicholas, the material side of the future awaiting the young couple will be well lined. When parliament assembles a grant of half a million lire ($100,000) per annum will be made to the Prince of Naples, and a further sum to his bride.

Cornell Students Sued.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 12.—The Cornell chlorine poisoning case is to be reopened. This is the case in which Henrietta Jackson (colored) lost her life in February, 1894, through a prank of the sophomores, who forced chlorine gas into the room where the freshmen were banquetting, and adjoining rooms. The criminal investigation was discontinued because of lack of evidence. William Jackson, husband of the woman, and the administrator of her estate, has begun suit against Carl Dingens and Frederick Taylor for $5000, alleging that they were responsible for Mrs. Jackson's death.

Fixing Up Venezuelan Matter.

Washington, Oct. 12.—All of the members of the Venezuelan boundary commission were in attendance Saturday, when the body was called together for the first meeting in several months. The time was taken up in the presentation of reports by the various commissioners upon the results of their work upon the special branches of the inquiry confided to them. Professor Burr is expected to return to the United States about the end of the present month, and with the presentation of the material collected, it is hoped that the commission will be able to close up its researches, and proceed to the final stage of work.

Doctor Landed His Man.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—In the boxing room of the Chicago Athletic club, Dr. Melton B. Pine, a dentist, and Frederick Swift, a broker, both members of the club, fought to a finish Saturday afternoon, according to the Marquis of Queensberry rules. Pine won in the second round, knocking Swift out with a right-hander on the jaw that rendered him unconscious for 30 minutes. There has been considerabe rivalry between the men for some time, on the question of their prowess with the gloves, and four weeks ago a match was made between them for $1000 a side.

CAUSE OF HARD TIMES.

Archbishop Ireland Attributes It to the Free Silver Agitation.

Says Chicago Platform Contains Revolutionary Ideas.

Class Hatred and Angry Passion Leads to Naught But Misery.

St. Paul, Oct. 12.—In answer to a request, made by 20 leading citizens, including the editors of all the daily papers in St. Paul, Archbishop Ireland, last evening, gave to the public a statement, urging citizens to vote against the Chicago platform and candidates so overwhelmingly that they will not be heard of again in American politics.

"Bury this silver agitation out of sight," says the archbishop, "and one chief cause of hard times will be out of the way."

After coming out squarely for the candidate of the Republican national convention, Archbishop Ireland says: "The days of the Civil War excepted, at no time has so great peril threatened the country as that which is involved in the political campaign of today. The question of free and unlimited coinage of silver is put in the foreground. This question has its importance, but it is of a minor importance, in the presence of other questions which are brought in issue.

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND.

"The movement, which had its expression in the Chicago convention, and which now seeks by means of popular suffrage to enthrone itself in the capital of the nation, is, in its logical effect, rebellion against the United States. It is secession, the secession of 1861, which our soldiers believed they had consigned to eternal death at Appomattox, but which demands again recognition from the American people.

"The declaration in the Chicago platform has, and can, have no other meaning. 'We denounce arbitrary interference by federal authorities in local affairs as a violation of the constitution of the United States, and a crime against free institutions.'

"These words point to the act of Grover Cleveland sending United States troops to protect national property, and enforce national law during the Chicago riots in 1894. In those words there is the old secession doctrine that states are independent of the national government at Washington; there is the annulment of the Union; there is notice served upon the flag of America, that, outside the District of Columbia, it is without power of self-assertion or self-defense. The President of the United States is told that, to enforce national laws and protect national property, he cannot march his troops into any state without the authority of the governor of that state.

"The platform threatens the country with destruction of social order, with lawlessness and anarchy. The personification of law and of social order in America is in our hearts, and the promise of safety to our free institutions is the prompt obedience to those courts, and now the courts are to be shorn of their power, in favor of mobs, bent on rioting and the destruction of property. The palladium of American liberties is the United States supreme court. The platform intimates the intention to constitute the court by the popular election of the judges, by the shortening of their term of office, or otherwise, so as to make it insensible to the stern voice of law and responsive to the passing whims of political parties. Worse, to my mind, than all this, is the spirit of socialism that penetrates the whole movement which has issued from the convention at Chicago. It is the 'international' of Europe, now taking body in America.

"The war of class against class is upon us, the war of the poletariat against the property holder. Class hatred and angry passion never led to aught but general misery and suffering. The people of America must guard against misleading war cries, avoid giving any countenance to socialistic or anarchistic tendencies, and know that the first condition of prosperity to all classes is a peaceful commonwealth and assured social order."

The archbishop then makes an argument against free coinage of silver, and concludes by saying:

"I have come to look upon the present agitations as the greatest test of universal suffrage and popular sovereignty. Can the people defend the public honor and the institutions of the country at the polls as they have done on the field of battle? Can they be so calm and deliberate in their judgment, so careful to weigh all things in the scales of reason and to avoid all rash experiments, that they can be trusted with the settlement of grave social and political problems?"

The Canton Pilgrimages.

Canton, O., Oct. 12.—Major McKinley feels well after the record breaking week just closed. The major attended the morning service at the First Methodist church yesterday. In the afternoon he, accompanied by Mrs. McKinley, went for their usual drive. He also paid his accustomed daily visit to his mother, and then received a few visitors and read the papers, an occupation in which he particularly delights. Murat Halstead and ex-Congressman Finley of Baltimore were guests yesterday. They left in the afternoon. The crowd Saturday was the largest, the interests represented the most diversified, the program the most varied in this remarkable campaign. The citizens in general here are completely tired from it. There was scarcely a branch of trade that was not affected by the enormous crowd. Hotel and restaurant keepers and their employes were completely exhausted, and the city has not in many a day been so quiet as during yesterday's breathing spell. Captain A. T. Wimberly, Louisiana's member of the national committee, came to Canton when the demonstration was at its height, and remained until last evening. He was simply amazed at the scenes on the McKinley lawn, in which 10 states participated. "Never in my experience, or in my reading," said he, "have I seen such a demonstration. It is marvelous, and I can scarcely realize that you are having these calls from delegations every day." This week's program so far as arranged shows no cessation of the Canton pilgrimages.

Bryan's Movements.

St. Paul, Oct. 12.—Yesterday was the usual Sunday of rest for William J. Bryan. In the morning, in company with Mrs. Bryan, who joined the party yesterday, he attended services at the Central Presbyterian church, and listened to a sermon by Rev. L. W. Beattie. In the afternoon the candidate kept close to his room and rested. He had a few callers, among them being Ignatius Donnelly, Senator Squire, Senator Tillman and C. A. Towne, the free silver Republican and Democratic nominee for congress in the Duluth district. There will be no speaking by the nominee today until the evening, when he will address three audiences in Minneapolis. Tomorrow morning he will take the train for Duluth. The special car, which brought the party here, will be under the charge of National Committeeman Campau of Michigan. W. S. Cantrell of Illinois, who has been with Mr. Bryan since he left Chicago, left for home last night.

Socialistic Doctrine.

Boston, Oct. 12.—Thomas C. Brophy, in his letter to the Socialistic Labor party, accepting the nomination for governor, says that he endorses the national and state platforms, and unreservedly accepts the revolutionary proletarian socialism that the party alone stands for. The agents of the capitalist—governors and legislators—who attend to the political end of this concern, have been for the past few years strengthening the militia and spending vast sums in rearing armies all over the state with which they vainly hope to put down the rising tide of revolution. It is plain that the capitalist class, when beaten by the ballot, intend to resort to murder, as they have done before.

Republicans' Opponents.

Boston, Oct. 12.—When the board of election commissioners closed its work at 5 p. m. Saturday, four parties were represented by nomination papers, filed for state offices and presidential electors. Foremost among them were the papers of the Bryan-Sewall-Williams club, filed as a matter of precaution, and containing the list of candidates chosen at the Music hall convention. The other papers filed were those of the People's party for Bryan and Watson, the Socialistic Labor party, and the National Democracy.

Westward, Ho!

Boston, Oct. 12.—George F. Williams has accepted invitations from the committee on speakers of the Democratic national committee to speak in New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan, and from Chairman J. K. Jones for speeches on a route beginning at Cincinnati. Mr. Williams has placed himself at the disposal of the national committee, and in so doing has cancelled all his New England dates for a fortnight.

Watson Very Sick.

Atlanta, Oct. 12. Thomas E. Watson is quite sick at his home in Thomson, suffering from his throat and lungs. He is under the treatment of Dr. Harrison, his family physician. Ex-Banker Reed of Brunswick, chairman of the national Populist finance committee, is with him, but no other visitors are allowed.

Indians Fleeced by Gamblers.

Fayetteville, Ark., Oct. 12.—Much excitement prevails in the Indian Territory over the operations of gamblers, who are fleecing the simple-minded Indians. The quarterly payment of the Osage tribe was made on Tuesday, and hundreds of gamblers were present with all kinds of devices, from the shell game to the gold brick swindle. Two gamblers fleeced a crowd of full bloods, and their victims became enraged and drove them out of the settlement. The gamblers were overtaken at Turkey Creek and killed. Their names are not known.

Awaiting Interpretation.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Some months ago a Chinese laborer named Leng Fo Kim left California for China, and before sailing complied with all the prescribed regulations, except that of obtaining a certificate from the collector at San Francisco. There is no question as to his identity, or his right to return under the law, save in the particular of the certificate. This he applied for at the steamer dock, but it was then too late to issue the paper before the vessel sailed. The matter has been referred to the attorney general for his opinion.

A Slight Interruption.

Louisville, Oct. 12.—At Chaplain, during a political meeting, Joe Prather, aged 20 years, shot and killed William Keeling, aged 45. An old quarrel was at the bottom of the trouble, the men having had a shooting scrape a year ago. The tragedy occurred just as Congressman Lewis was mounting the stand to speak, in answer to State Senator Fulton. The affair disturbed the meeting for only a few minutes, Mr. Lewis resuming his speech as soon as the dead body was carried away.

Assassinated by an Indian.

Ardmore, I. T., Oct. 12.—Wyatt Williams, a former cattle king, was murdered on Main street at midnight Saturday by Budd Watkins, a half-blood Indian. The murderer was captured after a sensational chase and lodged in jail here. Williams was once among the largest and wealthiest stockmen in Texas.

Tynan Is Safe.

London, Oct. 12.—A Paris dispatch to The Morning Post says that M. Darlan, minister of justice, has decided to refuse to extradite P. J. P. Tynan, on the ground of proscriptive immunity.

WOMAN TO WOMAN.

Women are being taught by bitter experience that many physicians cannot successfully handle their peculiar ailments known as female diseases.

Doctors are willing and anxious to help them, but they are the wrong sex to work understandingly.

When the woman of to-day experiences such symptoms as backache, nervousness, lassitude, whites, irregular or painful menstruation, pains in groins, bearing-down sensation, palpitation, "all gone" feeling and blues, she at once takes Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, feeling sure of obtaining immediate relief.

Should her symptoms be new to her, she writes to a woman, Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., who promptly explains her case, and tells her free how to get well.

Indeed, so many women are now appealing to Mrs. Pinkham for advice, that a score of lady secretaries are kept constantly at work answering the great volume of correspondence which comes in every day. Each letter is answered carefully and accurately, as Mrs. Pinkham fully realizes that a life may depend upon her reply, and into many and many a home has she shed the rays of happiness.

THE TROPICAL TWISTER

Eased Up a Little Before Striking New England's Shores.

Mariners Heeded Weather Bureau's Warning.

Havoc Wrought Along South Atlantic and New Jersey Shores.

Boston, Oct. 13.—The hurricane which has threatened for the past two days has come, has spent its force and gone to work its ravages elsewhere. Boston has escaped with but little damage, and the shipping held to the harbor by the warning sent forth by the weather bureau, has escaped possible disaster. Coasters, both sailing vessels and steamers, have all come in from six to 12 hours overdue. A great surf has been stirred up by the gale, making grand and terrible scenes along the beaches, but the damage done along the north and south shore will not exceed a few thousand dollars.

Every point along the New England coast, from Newport to Eastport, reports practically the same condition, and the entire absence of any kind of shipping outside the harbors shows the confidence placed in the weather bureau's signals, and the precaution taken by incoming vessels in keeping well off shore until after the gale has subsided.

The highest wind velocity in this city was felt shortly before noon yesterday, when 50 miles an hour was recorded at the weather bureau. The absence of rain has been one of the noteworthy features of the present storm, for, notwithstanding the fact that the gale has blown steadily since midnght on Saturday, scarcely a drop fell until 9 o'clock last night. The rainfall has also been light on the southern New England coast, where the storm has been even more severe than in this city. At Block Island, where the wind reached a maximum of 80 miles an hour yesterday morning, only .06 of an inch of rain had fallen up to 8 o'clock last night.

This absence of thick weather, together with the timely warning of the storm's approach by the weather bureau, has no doubt been the means of saving many lives and a vast amount of property, for vessels, masters as well as owners, which were beyond the range of the hurricane signal were enabled to make port with comparative safety, unimpeded by the blinding rain, which usually accompanies northeast storms.

Those vessels which did arrive yesterday, and the fleet consisted of three steamers and four schooners, all reported a terrific sea running in the bay, while the roadsteads of the harbor are completely filled with stormbound craft.

The storm, assisted by a very high tide, was very destructive to small boats in the harbor, and to beach houses along shore. Fifteen yachts broke from their moorings off South Boston, and are high and dry on the marshes at Dorchester, while a number are sunk in various points in the upper bay. At Lynn, two fishing smacks off Swampscott foundered yesterday afternoon, two others were driven ashore and three were taken round into the cove without accident. The fishing schooner Acacia broke from her moorings and was only saved by hard work on the part of the lifeboat crew.

The fury of the gale was felt most severely along the South Atlantic and New Jersey coasts, and, besides doing an immense amount of damage, numerous wrecks are reported.

The pavilions and beach houses at Coney Island, Asbury Park, Long Branch and Atlantic City have been damaged thousands upon thousands of dollars.

Before reaching Boston the center of the hurricane had passed out to sea, so that the experience endured by the rest of the coast was averted here.

Reports from the weather bureau just before midnight yesterday stated that the hurricane was at that hour raging off the southern New England coast, the entire scope of the storm being from Atlantic City northward to Eastport. South of Atlantic City the winds are light and variable, while off Point Judith the gale reached its maximum force of 80 miles an hour.

The barometer had fallen on the coast and in the St. Lawrence valley, while it continued to the northeast of New England, and has risen from the Mississippi valley westward over the Rocky mountains. From the Mississippi valley westward yesterday the weather was fair, while light showers prevailed from the lake region and New England southward to Florida. It is slightly warmer in the Missouri valley and cooler in Ohio.

Salisbury Was Busy.

Washington, Oct. 13.—There is every indication that the administration hopes to be able by the time congress meets again to report a sensible advance in the negotiations concerning the Venezuelan boundary question. The correspondence has not progressed very much during the past summer, principally because Lord Salisbury was so busily engaged with pressing Eastern questions that he was unable to give the subject his personal attention.

Won't Play In England.

Baltimore, Oct. 13.—The Baltimore baseball team has abandoned further consideration of its contemplated trip to England. A cablegram was yesterday received from Ted Sullivan, saying: "No games, bad weather." As all details in connection with the projected tour had been left to him, this message gives quietus to the scheme to afford Englishmen an opportunity to see the game played by Orioles.

REVOLT SPREADING.

Insurgents In Philippine Islands Rapidly Increasing In Number.

Madrid, Oct. 13.—The government is getting ready to send more re-enforcements to the Philippine islands. As to the funds needed for the campaign, General Blanco has been instructed to raise them in the islands. Hence his decree confiscating the property of all suspected persons; and yet the Spanish constitution declares that "The penalty of confiscation shall never be imposed upon any person."

General Blanco's dispatch, asking whether re-enforcements now on their way to Manila are already drilled, is considered as proof that the situation is growing worse. The government is accused of concealing important news, and a feeling of uncertainty and pessimism prevails. El Imparcial says: Confusing and contradictory official telegrams cause the public to distrust the government's report. General Blanco's delay in answering the question as to how many soldiers he needs excites comment.

It is known that most of the soldiers from a battalion of natives which arrived at Manila from Jolo, joined the insurgents, and there is no longer doubt that the insurgents hold the cities and strategical positions in the province of Cavite. The government intends to send light artillery to dislodge them. It is said that 10,000 men will leave next month for Manila.

Time Not Ripe For Striking.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—The sailors of the United States have decided to take no part in the proposed international effort to secure an advance in wages, or to engage in an international strike. In submitting his official report to the organization, the secretary of the International union says: "The unanimous opinion of the executive board is that while heartily in favor of a world-wide federation, the first need is for federation among ourselves. The seamen must be better organized than at present. Moreover, the other maritime crafts must be thoroughly organized in their own ranks, and then federated nationally. When this is accomplished the question of international federation will be within the scope of national discussion."

Lynching In Prospect.

Fairmount, Minn., Oct. 13.—The second Sherburne bank robber is guarded by the militia here, grave fears of an attempt at lynching being entertained. The young desperado gives as his reason for not divulging his name that he has a praying mother and sister of very high connection and repute, and he will never allow them to stand the stigma of such a crime. He is the coolest man in Fairmount, although there is great danger of his dangling at the rope's end before long. The county officials called out 50 members of company D, and have them stationed inside the jail enclosure. A report was received from Sherburne that a mob was forming there to march on the jail here, but the officers declare they will not surrender their man.

Fall Carpets.

Just a seasonable word or two, to-day.

When you're buying, think about quality as well as price.

Remember that the words "Axminster," "Wilton," "Brussels," etc., can be made to cover a multitude of sins.

Remember, too, that our stock is far larger than that of any other Boston house, and that as nobody can possibly buy to better advantage than we can, it is reasonable to suppose that our ability to name very low selling figures is also unsurpassed.

We are combining high quality with moderation in price, this Fall, more effectively than ever before.

We ask for your patronage on this basis—the basis of "goods for the money."

Encouraging Signs.

While this might be considered an "off year" for evening educational work in the Young Men's Christian Association, owing to the hard times, causing many men to be thrown out of work and some to leave the city, also the excitement incidental to a Presidential election, the enrollment Monday evening would indicate that the young men appreciate the opportunities afforded them and propose to take advantage of them. Seven new members joined and the total class enrollment was thirty-six. The number of individuals was twenty, showing that nearly all took more than one class.

This evening the classes in monumental designing and lettering and vocal music will organize. Mr. Beattie will have charge of the former. A new department this year will be the use of a text book on lettering "Daniel's Mechanical and Free Hand Lettering." Mr. T. B. Pollard will be the instructor of the male chorus.

The orchestra, which organized last Saturday evening with a dozen or more members, will meet again on Thursday evening.

The classes in clay modeling and steam engineering will meet Wednesday evening.

Notwithstanding the storm, there was a fair attendance at the gymnasium, some new faces being noticeable. Dr. Johnson will begin the physical examinations Thursday evening.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock the boys' gymnasium class will meet for the first time.

THE ROUND TABLE.

As Increased Attendance at the Training School.

Rev. Alfred Noon Discssues "Temperance" and Answers Questions.

Mr. Delcevare King Conducts the Lesson on the Bible.

The growing interest in the Training School for Christian Service was shown by the number who attended the third session of the school held Monday evening in the Bethany Congregational church. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather the chapel was well filled, many attending for the first time.

The lesson, on the subject "The Bible; its Contents and Theme," was ably conducted by Mr. Delcevare King. After speaking of the books of the Bible, their divisions, subject and authorship, Mr. King spoke of the necessity of unity in Bible study. Wherever you examine a rope in the British navy you will find a blood-red thread running its entire length, so in the Bible the blood of Christ is the theme from beginning to end.

The pastor explained that the remaining exercise of the evening was to be a "Round Table" and that it differed from a lecture in that every one was allowed to interrupt the speaker at any time with questions; he then introduced as the one who was the best posted on the subject of temperance of any man in the State, the Rev. Alfred Noon of Boston.

Mr. Noon said that there was great danger that, in our attack upon intemperance, we should overlook the primal principles upon which the work should be conducted. There is a strong temptation to adopt a temporizing method. A great hurrah is made between the time of the State and municipal elections, but we hear very little of the temperance work except at election time. No license is not the only issue in the fight for temperance.

Some motives for temperance work we can not endorse, and such motives we ought always to condemn. A campaign conducted through spite, and an agitation which comes from personal ambition, do not accomplish much. Selfishness too is sometimes behind temperance effort.

The best kind of a person to conduct a temperance campaign is a total abstainer. We do not want blear-eyed people who stagger when they walk for leaders in this work. The best workers are those who have always been free from the toils of liquor.

Among the elements for a successful temperance work emulation is a motive well worth considering. Many cities are watching Quincy and are trying to get as good results as are obtained here. We have not enough municipal pride here in Massachusetts in this as well as in some other respects. If fifty-one per cent. of all the voters of Quincy voted "No" last year, as compared with fifty-three per cent. in Salem, it is wholly proper for Quincy to wake up a little and try to get ahead of Salem.

Thrift is a motive that is gaining ground faster than any other in this State and throughout the world. A great advantage is gained if it can be understood that it does not pay to have liquor sold in a community. The money question is the one the people are going to consider.

The ethical purpose to do that which is right is a motive that should be behind all our temperance work. More religious zeal is needed. To believe and work for the principles of temperance because of a desire to save men is the highest motive. The chief answer to those who uphold the use of liquor because of isolated passages in the Bible apparently endorsing its use is that the whole trend of the teaching of God's word is the other way. In the Bible the wine which intoxicates is always condemned, and it is declared that no drunkard shall enter the Kingdom of Heaven.

For suggestions as to methods of work there were given the school bill, i, e, thorough instruction of the child in school and in this instruction the ethical side should be made prominent. The pencil, having reference to voting, we should know how people are going to vote and before election a thorough canvass should be made. Use the rostrum, the sermon, everything to catch the ear. Use the press in every way available, and the press is almost always responsive; and I am glad to say that the press of this city does not stop to ask how many dollars they are going to get before supporting the temperance cause. Use the carriage; know where no-license voters are and bring them in if necessary. Use the badge. I suppose Mr. Faxon would say use the billy; I mean those who are custodians of the peace of the city, and say to them that they are expected to enforce the law. Use the buttonhole; the proper kind of lobbying is to talk with your representatives and insist that there shall be no backward step; that they shall not forget their constituents when they are deliberating on the laws which are to be passed.

In answer to questions that were asked Mr. Noon said that the law must be enforced to keep a place no license. Stopping the creation of an appetite is infinitely better and safer than stopping an appetite once formed. General apathy is one of the great causes for lack of progress; the chief remedy lies in the education of the children. There is to be a grand finale to this work, some day, by and by; our principles are sure to triumph.

That Tired Feeling

Makes you seem "all broken up," without life, ambition, energy or appetite. It is often the forerunner of serious illness, or the accompaniment of nervous troubles. TWO MEN RESCUED.

In a Small Yacht All Night During Gale.

Nearly Every Boat Off Wollaston Beach Damaged.

Loss Also at Adams Shore and Quincy Point.

The greatest gale in the memory of the present generation has been blowing from the northeast for the past three days. It is a West India hurricane with all the accompaniments of wind, rain and driving mist. It was first noted off the Florida coast on Friday. It gradually crept north and on Sunday the hurricane signals were displayed all along the New England coast.

On Monday forenoon the gale attained its height in this vicinity, a maximum velocity of 52 miles an hour being recorded. At Block island 80 miles was recorded.

At the Wollaston Beach the wind and waves raised havoc with the yachts moored off there and the bulkhead. It was seen Sunday that if the wind held from its present quarter for another day that but few boats would ride out the storm. On Monday afternoon, as the gale blew with unabated force the yachts began to drag and break from their moorings.

The first to go was Mr. Alfred T. Barstow's sloop Starlight, which broke away from her moorings at one o'clock and piled up on the beach at the right of the yacht club house.

Then came Joe Vaughan's sloop, Eva, she beached on the Atlantic shore. Then in quick succession came John S. Todd's cat boat '98; John Stewart's jib and mainsail Gipsy; M. W. Frouland's Elsie; Cleaves' cat boat Stranger; and Burgess' cat boat the Burgess.

The Squantum yacht club's float was badly damaged.

The bulkhead was undermined, heavy planks were smashed off and the whole structure was buried beneath hundreds of cart loads of sea-weed.

A Rough Experience.

The storm came very near ending disastrously for Frank Freeman and George Leonard. They went out to the Enigma Saturday night to look after her and remained aboard all night. Sunday the wind was too strong for them to land and A. Barstow made several unsuccessful attempts to reach them from the shore. Monday the rescuers again attempted to reach the unfortunate men and were successful but only after nearly two hours hard rowing on the part of A. Barstow, John Ball and Thomas Griffin. They put out in a dory and finally were enabled to run along side of the Enigma. Messrs. Freeman and Leonard were found to be almost exhausted for want of food and from their constant watching, the only thing they had to eat from Saturday night being half a loaf of bread. The two men said they suffered considerably and that the waves were constantly breaking over them so that they were thoroughly soaked and had not aid come to them as it did they must have perished.

At Houghs Neck.

Monday afternoon the yacht Beatrice, which was moored off Houghs Neck, broke away and was being driven ashore when Mr. Cavanagh with others put out and getting aboard sailed her up the river. Before they were able to get aboard, however, she fouled another boat and tore her jib, but otherwise was not damaged.

At the foot of the hill near Palmer street the water came over the road and in some cases the water was nearly up to the steps of the electric cars.

At Adams' beach the bluff was washed away about four feet and the gunning stand was badly damaged.

At Quincy Point.

The tide at Quincy Point Monday was the highest for a number of years and the water came over the street on the Weymouth side of the bridge. The old steamboat wharf was damaged somewhat being lifted up and thrown out of shape. At one time it looked as though the Monatiquot house would be flooded and the occupants were kept busy banking it up with seaweed to keep the water out.

A Boston dispatch of the gale will be found on the first page.

THE FIGHT IN ILLINOIS

Promises to Be the Most Sensational Feature of the Campaign.

Both Sides Will Wage a Battle to a Finish.

Hundreds of Oratorical Stars Will Work as They Never Worked Before.

Washington, Oct. 13. — The evidence continues to accumulate that National Chairman Jones and Candidate Bryan have picked out the territory in the middle west which they hope to carry, and that they are arranging for the fight which they will make at the last moment. The Republicans have detected the Democratic move, and will be with them in the same territory when the wind-up takes place.

Candidate Bryan's tour of the last few weeks was the first intimation of the Democratic plan. That plan is, as intimated some time ago, to give up the east, to let the south and west take care of itself, and concentrate the fight in the states of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Minnesota.

The way the Democratic managers are said to have argued it out was that Bryan should visit the Dakotas and Iowa while in the west. It was supposed his visit would save the Dakotas. They further argued that all the other western states were safe for the ticket. They figured that all the states west of the Mississippi, except Iowa, and all the southern states, or practically all of them, would be with them, and leave them short not a great many votes. They would leave Ohio, Wisconsin and Iowa, and devote themselves to the hope of carrying the four states mentioned. Any two of these states, they figured, together with the south and west, would give them a bare majority in the electoral college.

It is not known whether the managers figured on carrying Maryland in this deal, but if they did, their own followers here say they counted on nothing. It is not known whether the Bryan Democratic managers counted on Delaware or West Virginia, but if they did they were rosy, it is said, in their hopes and views.

There is reason to believe that the Democratic managers have figured about this way: Votes sure for Bryan, 192. This includes a solid south, with the exception of Maryland, Delaware and West Virginia, and a solid west, or everything west of the Mississippi, except Iowa. Bryan would then lack 32 votes of having a bare majority. Illinois and Indiana would give the required majority, and seven over, to make up for any unexpected loss of a small state. Michigan and Illinois would bring the same result, with one less vote, Illinois and Minnesota, even, would give Bryan a majority, and one over.

In any case, the Democratic managers have made up their minds that they must have Illinois, and one other middle western state. They have information, it is said, which leads them to think they have Indiana. The fight, if they believe this, will, as all straws point, be for Illinois. Bryan, Altgeld, Tillman, Teller and a host of other silver orators are to be turned loose in Illinois the last week, and the Democrats are going to try to carry the state by storm. They will desert nearly every other state.

From New York is the story that the Republicans see this move of the Democrats, and will go them one better. Hundreds of Republican speakers of all parts of the country have been ordered to center in Illinois. In that state, then, the orators of the two parties will clash during the last two weeks. It is estimated that 3000 or 4000 meetings will be held in Illinois from now until the campaign is over, and over half of them will be in the city of Chicago. The Democrats believe that Illinois, outside of Chicago, is with them, and all they need is to carry Chicago.

Mr. Bryan's trip through Iowa may have been with the idea that he has a chance to carry that state, but it is surmised that he merely wanted to give that impression to the Republicans, so as to force them to throw money and speakers into the state, while the Democrats were concentrating elsewhere.

Without Illinois, silver men here see no hope for Bryan, and the belief is strong that Jones, Bryan and Altgeld have come to the same conclusion.

Bryan's Northwestern Tour.

Minneapolis, Oct. 13.—William J. Bryan came from St. Paul to her sister city yesterday afternoon, and Minneapolis received him with enthusiasm. He spoke to four big meetings last night in these places: Exposition hall, Bridge square, on the banks of the Mississippi river, just outside the hall; Lyceum theater, to an audience of women; and Yale place, a public square in the city. Mr. Bryan rested in St. Paul all the morning. He stayed in his rooms at the hotel until after luncheon, when he held an informal reception in the parlors. Exposition hall has a seating capacity of 8300. Every seat was occupied last night, and there was a standing army of many more lined around the walls, and choking the aisles. The hall was profusely decorated. Ex-Mayor Winston presided over this meeting. After the demonstration of welcome to the candidate had subsided, he introduced E. C. Marchard, who, on behalf of "A large part of the laboring class of Minneapolis," presented to Mr. Bryan an inkstand, made, so the speaker said, of gold and silver, at a ratio of 16 to 1. This brought another outburst of applause, as Mr. Bryan stepped to the front of the stage to begin his speech. When the night's speech-making was ended, Mr. Bryan and his party retired to their private car, preferring to spend the night there, rather than be disturbed early this morning by the departure for Duluth.

Watson' Letter Waits.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Senator Butler, chairman of the Populist national convention, has arrived here, to attend the conference of the Populist committeemen. This meeting probably will deal with the question of fusion between Democrats and Populists on the electoral ticket. There has been some criticism in certain quarters of the course of the Populist committee in the matter of fusion, especially in the states of Colorado and Kansas, in which states Mr. Watson receives no recognition. There may be an effort to secure a change in those states, so as to give Watson representation. It is probable that Mr. Butler will make a full explanation of his course to the committee, with the view to securing its endorsement, and that an effort will be made to have the committee agree upon an address to the country. It is believed here that Mr. Watson's letter, in regard to the vice presidential nomination, will not be published until the result of the conference is known.

Confident of Success.

New York, Oct. 13.—After a conference of the entire executive committee, the following statement was given out at the national Republican headquarters yesterday:

"The election of McKinley and Hobart is an accomplished and assured fact. They will receive 270 electoral votes. Bryan will receive 110, and there are six states, having 67 electoral votes, which are doubtful, but the probabilities all point to the fact that these 67 votes will go into the Republican column, and be added to the 270 now assured for McKinley and Hobart. This is the status today. We have the election and will hold it. Our present effort in the west is to this end only. The opposition have abandoned the east."

Canes For McKinley.

Canton, O., Oct. 13.—The Pennsylvania visitors, to the number of about 600, arrived on a special train of 11 coaches yesterday. The rain came down very hard as the Pennsylvanians arrived. All out-door demonstrations were therefore abandoned, and the visitors were escorted to the Tabernacle. Ex-Congressman Lawrence presented Major McKinley with a gold-mounted cane, made from the wood of a door of the house in which James G. Blaine was born, the gift of the Republican club of Fayette city. Another cane made of glass, the gift of the glassworkers of Belle Vernon, was also presented to the candidate.

Jones Pleads For Fusion.

Jackson, Miss., Oct. 13.—The editor of The Clarion-Ledger has received two telegrams from James K. Jones, chairman of the National Democratic executive committee, advising fusion in Mississippi between the Democrats and Populists on the electoral ticket, saying that he believes that fusion, such as was had in Arkansas, where the Democrats got five electors and the Populists three, would tend to greatly strengthen Bryan in the close western states. The dispatches have been referred to the chairman of the state committee.

Gold Railroad Men's Day.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Saturday, Oct. 24, is to be used all over the country by the Railway Men's Gold Standard clubs as a day of celebrating and parade. Great preparations have been going on for some time in Illinois, and the railway employes from all over the state will rally at Chicago. The national Republican committee has given its support, and the central committees of all states have been asked to co-operate with the railway men.

Lost on Corrected Time.

The sail off for Burkhardt cups took place Saturday, at 2.40 P. M. over course 1 with a wholesail breeze from the east. The Magnolia led over the line 32 seconds after the gun, followed by the Payomet 32 seconds later with a better windward position which enabled her to round the first buoy ahead by two minutes, and a reach to second buoy in Bass Point cove increased her lead slightly, but on the run home the Magnolia picked up fast, her spinaker drawing well, which gave her a great advantage over the Payomet whose spinaker was torn badly while setting. The Payomet crossed the line 59 seconds ahead of the Magnolia, but as she allows the Magnolia 1 minute 4 seconds, she lost the race by 5 seconds on corrected time.

This gives the Magnolia two legs in this year's series. Had the Payomet won she would have taken the cup in the first class for she won two legs in last year's series, the conditions being that a boat must win two consecutive years to become final owner of the cup which is a $50 affair offered by Com. Burkhardt.

In the second class a sail off was necessary to determine a winner but as the Burgess was the only boat to start in that class a decision could not be reached. She sailed over the course however, and had the satisfaction of making the best time over the course by any boat this season.

The following is the summary.

FIRST CLASS.

R. A. Visitation at Wollaston.

Although the weather was somewhat boisterous, about thirty members turned out Monday evening to extend a cordial greeting to I. W. Cotten of Franklin Council, Cambridge, who is the new deputy of John Adams Council at Wollaston. The business meeting was held early in order to devote the entire evening to the reception of the deputy, the discussion of R. A. matters, and to pay strict attention to the good things provided by the entertainment committee, composed of Bros. White, Colgan and Jameson. Instructive and encouraging remarks were made by the deputy followed by members of John Adams Council. The deputy stated that over 17000 members had been added to the order since Jan. '96. Truly a remarkable growth all things considered. John Adams council added another banner evening to their list; the members bidding the deputy good night at the 10.15 train.

MADE SURE OF DEATH.

Cold Blooded Murder of Irving Smith In a New Hampshire Town.

Walter Hunt, His Slayer, Then Commits Suicide.

Had Been Drinking, and Double Crime Was Probably Prompted by Jealousy.

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 13.—A dispatch from Plainfield says that the murder of Irving Smith by Walter Hunt, at that place yesterday, was attended by circumstances of unusual brutality. Hunt approached Smith, picked a quarrel, and after a few words, shot him down.

So close was the murderer to his victim that the charge of shot tore a hole through his chest. Hunt then reloaded his gun, and again fired, placing the muzzle of the weapon almost against Smith's head, and blowing away a part of the skull. Still another shot was fired into the body before the murderer fled. When people from the nearest house reached the place, Smith's clothing was on fire.

Hunt is said to have threatened repeatedly to kill Smith, of whom he was madly jealous. Lately he has been drinking heavily, and yesterday morning he was under the influence of liquor. His record was bad, and he had served a term in jail for incendiarism.

The double tragedy has aroused the quiet community beyond all description. Both young men were so well known—the murderer, of late, not favorably, but Smith was well liked—that the tragedy falls heavily upon their friends. It was quite probable that jealousy on Hunt's part, and a bitterness growing out of recent happenings in the village, culminated in the bloody deed.

About a year ago Hunt returned to the village, after a year's absence, and, according to current reports in the village, suspected, and had some trouble with Smith over the latter's attentions to Mrs. Hunt, alleging an undue friendship on his part. Some time later Hunt's farm buildings were burned, and Hunt was taken into custody on suspicion of incendiarism, but later was discharged, on the ground of lack of evidence.

At that time the local authorities assured the county solicitor that Hunt would leave the vicinity. Of late Hunt had been seen intoxicated, and undoubtedly it was while under the influence of liquor that he shot and killed Smith, as the latter figured in the charge of incendiarism brought against the former. Yesterday, Hunt went into the field where Smith was working, and after a few words shot and killed him. It is presumed that the men quarreled, Hunt having gone into Smith's presence with that end in view.

As soon as word got abroad of the shooting, Sheriff Boyd and Coroner Holt of Claremont were telegraphed for, and a body of citizens started out to catch Hunt, who had disappeared. A little later Hunt's body was found, for, fearing capture, he had shot himself. He lived a short time only.

Pa Has a Gun With H'm

Pittsfield, Me., Oct. 13.—Addie Hamilton, a 15-year-old school girl of this town, has eloped with George Foster, a laboring man, 30 years of age. Foster, who is unmarried, has been attentive to the Hamilton girl for some time, although against the wishes of her parents. The couple were missed Saturday, and an officer started in pursuit. He traced them to Burnham, and found they had taken the train for Belfast. Since then no trace of them has been discovered. The girl's father, who has a revolver with him, and Deputy Sheriff Smith are looking for the runaways.

Great Barrington's Blaze.

Great Barrington, Mass., Oct. 13.—This town was visited last night by the greatest conflagration in its history. The fire broke out about 10:30 o'clock, and destroyed the major part of the business section of the town. The fire started in the Kennedy hotel annex, and spread rapidly to the adjoining buildings. The fire department responded promptly, but the fire had gained such headway, and the heat was so intense, that they were driven from the street, and could only fight the flames from the rear. No estimate of the loss can be given at this hour.

Creditors Wouldn't Wait.

Middletown, Conn., Oct. 13.—By the assignment of E. F. Bigelow of Portland, Me., a printer, several newspapers have been compelled to suspend. The creditors of Mr. Bigelow refused to consent to his continuance in business, and the following papers, which were printed in his establishment, are compelled to suspend: The Middletown Tribune, the Middlesex County Record, the Wesleyan College Argus, and the Colchester Advocate. Of these The Tribune is a daily, the others weekly.

Operatives Satisfied.

Newmarket, N. H., Oct. 13.—The Newmarket Manufacturing company yesterday reduced the pay of its operatives 10 per cent. Last August the company advanced wages 10 per cent, but were unable to continue paying the advance and reduced wages, in preference to shutting down the mills. The help have accepted the cutdown cheerfully. Excepting a period, 13 years ago, when they ran four days a week, these mills have never been closed, and have paid cash to their help every week.

Not Contested.

Boston, Oct. 13.—The libel for divorce, brought by Mrs. Alexene L. Hadlock against her husband, Harvey D. Hadlock, the lawyer, was heard by Chief Justice Mason yesterday. The ground upon which the legal separation is asked for is alleged infidelity, and testimony was introduced to prove the charge. Mr. Hadlock did not contest the case. The court reserved its decision.

A $35,000 Fire.

Epping, N. H., Oct. 13.—The business of this town suffered severely last night, by the destruction, by fire, of several large blocks in the center of the business thoroughfare, leading to the depot. The loss is estimated at $35,000. Emma Jordan's brick block was the last building the flames reached, and by this time the little hand tub of the town was assisted in its work by a Manchester steamer, which arrived shortly before 11 o'clock.

Embezzlement Charged.

Boston, Oct. 13.—Peter F. Barr, a real estate broker, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging him with embezzlement of a note for $300, the property of Wilton E. Drake. The note was given to Barr for discount, but before it matured Drake sought to take it up. It was consequently discounted by Barr, who, it is claimed, placed the proceeds in his pocket.

Bullet In His Back.

Providence, Oct. 13.—Howard Fuller, a clerk in the Third National bank, was closing up his work in the bank yesterday, and touched a revolver, which lies under the cashier's desk, with the intention of putting it away. The weapon was discharged, and it was lying in such a position that the ball entered Fuller's back. His condition is critical.

Held For Boston Officers.

Boston, Oct. 13.—The chief of police of Claremont, N. H., telegraphs that Dr. Noyes J. Weeks is under arrest in that town, on the charge of obtaining a fur cape from Orville A. Jenkins of this city by false pretenses, and for giving a check for the cape which was proved to be worthless.

Clubmen In a Bad Scrape.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Chief of Police Badenock has taken a hand in the Chicago Athletic club prize fight matter. Two detectives were put to work on the case yesterday, and a determined effort will be made to get the necessary evidence to convict the principals, Dr. Milton B. Pine and Fred W. Swift. The police say they will not be content with punishing the participants alone, but will make an effort to take into custody the referee, seconds, timekeepers and spectators, in fact everybody connected with the affair.

In Reply to Gould.

London, Oct. 13.—The council of the Yacht Racing association met yesterday and replied to Howard Gould, with reference to his protest against the manner in which his sloop yacht Niagara was inspected by a committee of the association, without his knowledge or consent. The reply states, in substance, that the Y. R. A. does not think an apology is called for. It fails to see that discourtesy was misplaced by its representatives in their inspection of the Niagara's water tanks. The other points it refuses to discuss.

Mutineers Captured.

Norfolk, Oct. 13.—Trouble arose on the bark Tilley Vandeer Hudson, which had put into Hampton Roads for shelter, yesterday, and Captain Wilson shot one of the crew, S. A. Wilkins of Chester, Pa. Wilkins then, assisted by two other seamen, James Beckham and George Baker, took three revolvers from the captain. A signal of mutiny brought up a tug, which carried the news to the United States battleship Massachusetts. A force of sailors then boarded the Hudson and arrested the men, who are now jailed at Norfolk on a charge of mutiny.

Shot Two and Himself.

St. Louis, Oct. 13. — Philip Zimmer, aged 24, attempted to kill his sister, shot his sweetheart, Celia Veitz, in the abdomen, and then put a bullet through his own heart at the Veitz girl's home yesterday. It is thought that Miss Veitz cannot live long. Before the shooting, Zimmer asked her to marry him and leave the city, but she refused to do so.

Warning to Deposed Sultan.

Berlin, Oct. 13.—A semi-official note issued here states that should Seyyid Khalid, the deposed Sultan of Zanzibar, who was taken on a German warship to German East Africa, intrigue to obtain the throne of Zanzibar, Germany will expel him from her territory.

When a man gets his blood and nerves in perfect order, he shuts the door against disease and death. Germs have no effect on a perfectly healthy body. It is when the body is weak and the blood impure that disease germs lodge and develop. A man may get well and keep well by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is the one reliable cure for all pulmonary complaints. Its effect upon throat, lungs and bronchial tubes is immediate and pronounced. It is a wonderful blood purifier. It works upon the blood first. It stimulates the action of all the digestive organs, promotes assimilation and makes nutrition perfect. It contains elements that work directly on the nerves, giving them steadiness and strength. It is for this reason highly recommended to those suffering from brain fag, overwork and loss of sleep. Thousands of people have testified to the wonderful benefits received from this great medicine. Among them, Mrs. Ella Howell, of Derby, Perry Co., Ind., who writes:

"I was so weak I could not walk across the room without assistance. I took Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and his 'Favorite Prescription' and one bottle of the 'Pleasant Pellets.' I began to improve very fast after the use of a few bottles. The physicians who attended me said I had 'dropsy,' and that my disease was leading into pulmonary consumption. I had quite a cough, and the home physician gave me up to die. I thank God that my cure is permanent. I do not feel any symptoms of my old disease. I cannot praise Dr. Pierce and his remedies too highly. The medicines come the nearest to 'raising the dead' of any that I have ever known about. They are worth their weight in gold."

THE STARTING POINT of almost all diseases is in the digestive organs. Constipation leads to more diseases than any other one cause. It is not looked upon as a serious thing, but it is. It means that poisonous, effete matter, that should be excreted, is retained in the body, and some portions of it must, of course, be reabsorbed by the blood. It is thus carried all over the body, and has its effect in producing headaches, biliousness, sour stomach, foul breath, heart-burn, flatulence, palpitation of the heart, and many other serious symptoms. It can be quickly and permanently cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. A little vial contains forty "Pellets." At druggists.

LOST CHILD IS FOUND.

Esther Doherty Had Journeyed to Maine With "Mary E. Christ."

Claims That the Child Is Her Own Daughter.

Indications That the Abductress Is Mentally Unsound.

Boston, Oct. 14.—Nine-year-old Esther Doherty, who had been missing from her home at 2 Foster place, was restored to her mother in the office of the superintendent of police at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Present at the time besides the superintendent were Deputy Pierce, Chief Inspector Watts and Inspectors Barry and McGarr, the latter having brought the child and her abductress from Eliot, Me.

The woman in whose possession Esther was found gave her name as Mary E. Christ, 36 years of age, and claims to reside in Roxbury, Me. She maintains that the little one is her own child, and that she had simply left it in the care of Mrs. Doherty.

One week ago today, when Esther disappeared, the case was reported to the police, and to Inspector McGarr the case was assigned. Little by little new threads of evidence were gathered, and the child and her abductors were traced from a boarding house in Mayo place, where they had stopped Wednesday evening, to Malden, thence to Salem, and still on again to Newburyport. At Hampton Falls it was found that the woman had purchased a ticket for Portsmouth, where they arrived at 12:30 p. m., Monday.

Leaving the station the pair followed the railroad track for some distance, and were later seen in a handcar, which, propelled by sturdy section hands, was making quick time toward Eliot.

Inspector McGarr and James English, who knew Esther well, arrived at Portsmouth Monday evening, and early yesterday morning, with Police Officer Hurley of Portsmouth, took the early train for Eliot, where it was found that the woman and little one had passed the night at the house of Eben Simpson, a section hand.

In answer to a knock the girl came to the door, and was immediately recognized by Mr. English. She pretended not to know him, and said that her name was Mary Elizabeth Christ, and that her mother was within. Going within, the officers questioned the woman, who stoutly maintained that the girl was her daughter, and that they were on their way to Rumford, Me.

The two were then taken to Portsmouth, and at the police station there were separated, whereupon the child admitted that her right name was Esther Doherty. The woman said that she was married 24 years ago to Rev. James T. Christ, who, she claimed, was rector of the German Catholic church at the corner of Shawmut avenue and Cobb street, in this city.

On the arrival of Inspector McGarr in this city, word had been sent to have the mother of the child come to headquarters. She was ushered into the superintendent's room, together with another woman. Mrs. Doherty, the moment she saw her little Esther, grabbed the child in her arms and began kissing her, at the same time bursting out in sobs.

"Is this your child?" said Superintendent Eldridge, pointing to Esther.

"Yes, indeed, it's Esther."

"But this woman says that is her child," added the superindendent.

At this statement the excited mother made a rush at the woman, but the officers interfered.

All this time Mary E. Christ sat perfectly cool, and simply reiterated her statement that the child was hers. Esther, however, threw her arms around Mrs. Doherty's neck.

Mrs. Doherty asked Esther what she had done with the $13, which, it is said, she stole from the bureau drawer. Esther burst out crying, and said that she did not take the money.

At 6 o'clock mother and child departed for home, while the woman prisoner was removed to the Tombs. She will be examined in regard to her mental condition. It is thought that the woman hails from New York, and that she formerly was confined in an asylum.

A reporter visited the parochial residence of the German Catholic church on Cobb street, last evening, and there learned that no such person as the Rev. James Christ was stationed there. It was said the woman must be insane.

Temperance Women Meet.

Pittsfield, Mass., Oct. 14. — The 23d annual convention of the Massachusetts Woman's Christian Temperance Union convened in the Methodist church yesterday afternoon. The convention was opened by Mrs. Susan S. Fessenden, and Mrs. Harriet E. Todd conducted the devotional service. The committees were then appointed. Mrs. Ruth R. Baker of Cambridge read her first annual report, as secretary, and Amelia H. Wood, the treasurer, also reported. The report of the superintendents were made, and all showed very gratifying results. It was voted to receive 50 Armenians into Massachusetts, and Miss Willard was cabled to that effect. The report of the executive committee was read by Mrs. Rice. In the evening, Rev. Dr. John Thompson gave the address of welcome, and Mrs. Mary H. Hunt responded. An address was made by Rev. Wilbur F. Crafts, who gave an address on "Nineteenth Century Progress and Problems."

Needs to Be Investigated.

Taunton, Mass., Oct. 14.—The death on Sunday, of Harry White, 5 years old, from the effects of a blow in the head dealt the child, it is alleged, by Herbert Boyd, has been called to the attention of the police, and steps have already been taken toward prosecuting Boyd on a serious charge, possibly of manslaughter. The latter is at present serving a 30-day sentence in jail for an assault on Mr. White, the father of the child, who attempted to protect his son from Boyd.

New Hampshire Endeavorers Meet.

Portsmouth, N. H., Oct. 14.—The 11th annual convention of the New Hampshire Christian Endeavor unions opened yesterday, with nearly 500 delegates in attendance. The convention will continue three days. The opening event was the reception to visiting delegates, and later the assignments of delegates to the various homes, which had been thrown open for their entertainment. The afternoon closed with a prayer meeting. A song service opened the evening exercises, followed by a devotional meeting. Addresses of welcome were given in behalf of the Portsmouth local union and the churches, and suitable responses were made. Later in the evening an address on the mission of Christian Endeavor was given. Many of the business houses and private residences are decorated, out of courtesy to the Endeavorers.

Church Folks Wrangled.

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 14. — The semi-annual session of the Andover conference of Congregational churches at Dracut, yesterday, developed into a lively affair, the chief cause of excitement being on the question of the admission of the delegates representing the First Congregational church of Lowell and those representing the First (Trinitarian) Congregational church of the same place. These are the churches concerned in the controversy over the pastorate of Rev. George F. Kenngott. After a long and bitter wrangle it was voted to admit both to seats in the day's conference.

Immense Lime Blast.

Rockland, Me., Oct. 14.—At Long Cove quarry yesterday, an immense quantity of powder and 32 dynamite cartridges were used at a lime explosion, these being placed in waterproof chambers, 64 feet beneath the surface of the quarry ledge. Two chambers were about 50 feet apart. This powerful charge was fired by means of an electric battery, and instantly, with the pressing of a button, the immense mass of rock rose 100 feet in the air and fell back in fragments. The projectors say that nearly 1,000,000 casks were loosened. The blast was witnessed at a safe distance by hundreds of people.

Handled Live Wire.

Derby, Conn., Oct. 14.—Chief of Police Arnold was badly shocked by a live electric light wire yesterday. The wire was dangling in the way of traffic, and the chief undertook to remove it. He was thrown to the ground, and his hands were badly burned. Two men, who ran to his assistance, were severely shocked. The fall caused the chief to sever his tongue.

Nine Hours a Day.

Waltham, Mass., Oct. 14.—The American Waltham Watch company has posted a notice announcing that on and after Friday next the factory will run 54 hours a week, instead of on half time. Two thousand hands are benefited.

Thought to Be a Highwayman.

Palmer, Mass., Oct. 14. — Patrick W. Lynch, aged 20, was arrested last night, charged with committing the assault on Andrew Pinney last Friday. He was held under $1500 bonds for a hearing Oct. 20.

Lynchers Convicted.

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 14.—Samuel Williams and William Wood, farmers of Washington county, have been found guilty of murder, and sentenced to life imprisonment for participation in the recent lynching of a man named Chambliss, charged with murder. John Hollinghead turned state's evidence, and implicated about 25 persons prominent in the county. Some of them are in jail, others out on bond, and some have fled. These are the first convictions of the kind ever found in Alabama.

Wicked Khalifa's Proposition.

Berlin, Oct. 14.—Reports have been received from Tripoli that the khalifa has asked the Sultans of Wadai, Baghirmi, Bornu, Sokata and Gando to support him in repelling the British advance in the Soudan, or otherwise the Christians will conquer all of the Mahometan states of Africa. The khalifa also suggests to these sultans that they attack the European settlements of the Benue and the Niger.

Great Success.

Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Kendall returned early in the week from their annual three weeks' hunting trip in Maine and Canada, where they met with their usual success; there being eleven deer, a bear and a bull moose all in camp at one time, as a result of the first week's hunting by the party of which they were members.

The moose and the buck bearing the finest antlers were both shot by ladies, who proved themselves at least the equals of their sterner companions in handling their rifles.

WITHAM---WHITMAN.

A Grand Wedding at Wollaston Last Evening.

The Bride Growned in Duchess Satin Trimmed with Lace.

Parents of Bride and Groom Assist at the Reception.

One of the prettiest house weddings of the season was that of Miss Anna Gertrude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert T. Whitman, and Mr. Robert Browning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jason G. Witham, which took place at the residence of the bride's parents on Grand View avenue, Wollaston, on Tuesday evening at half after seven o'clock, in the presence of the relatives and immediate friends of the contracting parties.

As the bridal party entered the drawing room, Mendelssohn's Wedding march was played by Miss Eugenia Maynard Hatch. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edward A. Robinson, pastor of the Wollaston Congregational society. The bride wore a very becoming gown of duchess satin, en train, trimmed with white chiffon and honiton lace, over the whole being thrown a veil of white tulle caught up with orange blossoms. She carried in her hand a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Miss R. Adelaide Witham, the maid of honor and sister of the groom, wore a beautiful gown of blue silk, with pink satin and chiffon garniture.

The bridemaids, Miss Tina Maria King, of Wollaston, and Miss Grace Libbey, of Hopkinton, wore dresses of white organdie muslin with pink ribbons and carried bouquets of pink roses.

The guests were ushered by Mr. Herbert A. Albee, Mr. Walter F. Jennings and Mr. Arthur T. Brasee, of Wollaston, and Mr. Irving R. Jones, of Boston.

After the marriage ceremony, a largely attended reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Witham were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Whitman and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Witham.

The interior of the house was tastefully decorated with autumn leaves.

After a short wedding trip to New Hampshire Mr. and Mrs. Witham will reside on Lincoln avenue, Wollaston.

Enterprise Investigation.

Mr. James P. Clare is finding it up hill work to get an investigation of the affairs existing on the Enterprise during her last cruise, as the Commissioners appear not to want an investigation. Mr. Clare, however, is determined that one shall be held and that all the evidence possible may be obtained he has sent the following letter to the parents of the cadets who were on the last cruise:

The undersigned, James P. Clare, of 12 Edison street, Quincy, asks you to communicate with his attorney, Paul R. Blackmur, of 10 Tremont street, Boston, before Thursday noon, Oct. 15, as to any facts in your possession or the possession of your sons concerning the quality and quantity of food, or the character of the medical attendance furnished to the cadets while on board the "Enterprise."

This communication is sent you simply for the purpose of getting at the true facts of the state of affairs said to exist on board the ship for the benefit of the parents of cadets or would-be cadets and the public at large. And inasmuch as the Commissioners themselves have refused to make the investigation on their own account, the undersigned is obliged to get at the facts as best he can at his own expense.

The hearing takes place Thursday afternoon at 2 P. M. and Mr. Blackmur should see the cadets willing to testify before then.

Engineering Course.

The course of lectures to be opened for engineers and firemen this evening under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association, affords an opportunity for an important class in the community which is presented in very few cities. The fact that so many lives are entrusted daily to one man in our schools where steam is employed for heating alone makes it of interest to a large part of the population.

Manufacturers realize that the profits in their business depend a great deal upon the cost of power. Let a careless man have charge of a plant and by waste of fuel or abuse of the boiler or engines, hundreds of dollars will be lost annually. If every engineer and fireman in the city, and there are about 150, would attend this course, it would mean the saving of thousands of dollars during the year.

This effort of the Association to help this class of workmen ought to be more thoroughly appreciated by the community. It is only an illustration of the many ways it is constantly endeavoring to adapt its work to all conditions and classes of men, for the benefit of the community at large.

Eight Straight Strikes.

George Peverly again beat the Quincy record for big pin bowling on Tuesday evening at Costello's alleys. His first eight balls were all strikes. This beats his other record by 9 and is but 12 less than the Massachusetts record of 279 by Mr. Fratus of Atlantic.

A FEW FIGURES.

Which Show Progress (?) in Railroad Service.

The Quincy Station Has Fewer Trains Than Ten Years Ago.

And the Population of the City Has Doubled in That Time.

Because of the very stormy night the meeting of the Board of Trade for Tuesday evening was abandoned. This was unfortunate as it was proposed to consider the new timetable on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., which many believe to be an injustice to Quincy.

A gentleman who was present furnishes the LEDGER with the following summary of Quincy trains both inward and outward, it being necessary to go back about fifteen years to find a time when Quincy had as few trains as at the present time:

*An experiment which was abandoned.

The injustice of the train service is apparent, when one observes what Quincy has had in the past, and again when the rapid growth in population is considered.

In 1895 Quincy had 64 trains; today it has but 48.

In 1875, with a population of but 9,155, Quincy had 43 trains, while now with a population of 22,000 we have just 48.

In 1875 there were 22 inward trains. This gave 2 between 6 and 7 A. M. as at present, 4 between 7 and 8 where there are now but 3, 2 between 8 and 9 where there are now 3, and 2 between 9 and 10 where there is now but one. Summarized there are but 9 now between 6 and 10 where there were 10 in 1875.

In 1875 there were 21 outward trains, which included the 12 M. a very popular train. It gave us 2 between 5 and 6 where now we have 3 counting the one at 5. It gave us 3 between 6 and 7 as at present, a total of 5 between 5 and 7 where now there are only 6.

With the exception of July, 1891, Quincy has not had so few trains since 1884 as at present, if we except the experiment of the summer of 1891 which caused such a howl that it was continued but a few weeks.

The reduction from a year ago is over 20 per cent. And there are also 20 per cent. less trains than in the winter of 1888-9, or 1889-90, or 1890-1. Only 48 trains where Quincy has had as high as 64. The average number since 1884 has been between 56 and 57.

The Village Blacksmith.

Every boy who was brought up in the country remembers as vividly as any scene of his childhood, the village blacksmith and how when father sent him to get the horse shod in the winter he could mount a nail keg on top of the forge and thaw out his frozen boots. Speaking of blacksmiths reminds us that Wollaston has one that is equalled by few for good honest work and square dealing. His name is David Brown and those who patronize him make no mistake.

Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses actual and unequalled curative power and therefore it has true merit. When you buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, and take it according to directions, to purify your blood, or cure any of the many blood diseases, you are morally certain to receive benefit. The power to cure is there. You are not trying an experiment. Several of the stores in City Square have put in grapophones and it is only necessary to drop a nickel in the slot to hear them shout.

There is a look about the new Kincaide block that makes it appear more like a city store than any yet erected in this city. Let the good work go on.

The McKinley & Hobart battalion has received an invitation to participate in the parade at East Milton Thursday night and will meet at headquarters at 6.30.

The plank walk around the new bank building was a necessity during the storm, but it was dangerous to travel. Everybody does not like to walk a spring board.

The hod carriers at the new Savings bank building should be made to keep off the plank walk that people who desire to pass may not have to step in the mud.

Badger Bros. will cut the proposed monument in honor of the soldiers of the civil war for Sudbury. It will be 17 feet high and surmounted by a granite statue.

Rev. Wm. Henry Brooks, D. D., Secretary of the Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts, and wife, are guests at the Greenleaf, arriving from Pittsfield Tuesday evening.

Mr. William A. Coffin has moved to lay from No. 7 Spear street to Franklin street. The tenement he has occupied is not let, and any small family in want of a good house in the centre of Quincy will find this very convenient. For particulars apply at the LEDGER office.

It is refreshing to see young blood in men past middle life. Our esteemed citizen, Mr. Elbridge Clapp, was out chopping a felled tree one morning this week. His head of heavy grey hair made us think he may be getting on towards old age.

Miss S. E. Brassill, formerly of this city, is busy at her profession. Besides two days a week in Cambridge, her October engagements include Clinton, Shelburne Falls, Littleton, N. H., Brockton, Southbridge, Athol, Worcestor Co. Convention, Middlesex Co. Convention, Boston and Concord, N. H.

Two of the new streets on President's Hill have been renamed and the names are an improvement and more in keeping with the history of the place. Whalley road has been changed to President's road and Dixwell avenue to Congress avenue. Now Goffe street should be changed to something more euphonious and appropriate as there seems to be no good reason for perpetrating the names of English regicides in this "City of Presidents."

GALE HAS SUBSIDED.

New England Particularly Fortunate In Escaping Its Fury.

Sad Havoc Wrought Along New Jersey's Shore.

Coney Island and Other Famous Resorts Practically Wrecked.

Boston, Oct. 14.—The tropical hurricane is practically over in this section, after 65 hours of gale and rain, and the weather, for the first time since Saturday, shows signs of clearing. The rain yesterday, while not at any time heavy, was continuous, and over an inch fell up to 8 o'clock last night. The destruction caused by the storm has been, fortunately, with the exception of the schooner Alsatian, confined to yachts in the various harbors and frail summer structures along the coast, and, so far as reported, there has been no loss of life.

Dispatches from New York, however, state that the great storm of '96 has not yet been relegated to the annals of the past. The story has not half been told. No one has so far been able to estimate the damage wrought by the wind and the waves, nor to say how far-reaching was the fury of the gale. But as far as the eye can see, from any point along the shores of Long Island, along the Jersey coast, over the highland, wherever one may turn, there are the evidences that a hurricane has been passing through that section of the country.

Thousands spent yesterday at the beaches, to view the work of destruction, and to look upon the piles of twisted rafters, broken piles, up-turned pavilions, overthrown cottages and the ruins of resorts of amusement, that in former days were the pride of those who have made the beach their summer home. Handsome lawns have been torn up like plowed fields, and when the storm was at its height, the huge structures themselves, in many places, were threatened by the waves. At Brighton Beach and at Manhattan, at Edgemere, at Far Rockaway, and at other points along the sea line, the fast incoming waters swept under the very foundations of the buildings, and more than once they shook and shivered under the terrific pounding of the seas. One hotel did go down. That was the Brunswick, at Sea Isle City, the finest structure of its kind in that section. How many smaller buildings were caught up by the wind and wrecked, or inundated, is up to the present unknown. It is certain, however, that the number is large, if for no other reason than the reports that have already come in to the effect that in some sections, whole districts, on the coast, were clean-swept of the frame buildings that for years have served for every purpose, from a bath house to a home.

Nor was it along the coast alone that the fury of the gale manifested itself. Jersey City was in places practically inundated. Boats were a valuable acquisition yesterday, both for purposes of removal and for purposes of locomotion. The railroads in that section of New Jersey, which are unfortunate enough to be located close to the shore, were sufferers to the extent of suspending business for a period, and many of the smaller towns in that state had to be content with a lonesome existence, which in some instances continues, for all traffic in and out of those places were stopped.

Householders at Asbury Park and Long Branch, for the summer visitors had long since taken their departure, gathered to watch the fury of the seas, wonder-stricken and amazed at the greatness of the waters, for while the watchers at Asbury were gazing, the famous board walk, the New Era monument and a thousand and one beauties and attractions of the magnificent watering place were swept away, and those who stood by the beach at the Branch looked upon a destruction just as dire.

But Coney Island was the greatest sufferer. One may not now stroll through the walks fronting the beach, but he may climb wearily over the masses of ruins that mark the old paths, or stand afar and view the wrecked pavilions and water chutes and ice slides. The beer gardens that stood upon the shore, and the bath houses and floats, from the farthermost corner of Manhattan to way beyond the end of the Bowery at West Brighton, a point that marks the end of a long line of amusement places, all have fallen. Seidl's concert hall, at Brighton, is among them. The ruins of two walls are all that mark the huge structure which crashed in under the force of water hurled against it. It is believed that several hundred thousands would not cover the value of the places thus destroyed.

Yesterday the tide was higher than anybody had ever before remembered it to be. It only needed this to complete the devastation along the beaches. The seas simply swept over the adjoining districts, hundreds of feet beyond what had long ago been fixed as the line of safety. As a result dwellings were flooded, and some of them are not yet safe from collapse.

If the authorities at Washington would make a survey of the coast from Sandy Hook to Cape May, as it is at present, they would find many errors in the carefully marked maps they now possess. Not only have new bays been formed, but the old shoals and bars in many places have been pounded away.

An Elevator Fatality.

Columbus, O., Oct. 14. — Mrs. John Harris, colored, was killed yesterday in an elevator. She fainted and fell on the floor of the elevator as it was ascending. Her arm was caught by a slightly projecting ledge of a floor, and her head was so moved as to be caught by a similar ledge at the next floor.

An Angry Woman's Awful Deed.

Brussels, Oct. 14.—A Spanish woman, named Francoise Blanc, poured vitriol on the face and body of her sleeping lover, a Frenchman, named Bonnaffet, and then tried to poison herself. Bonnaffet is dying from the effects of the vitriol. Both of them were recently from America.

Another Row In South Africa.

London, Oct. 14.—A dispatch to The Daily Telegraph says that it is reported that a crisis is imminent at Cape Town, involving the resignation of the premier of Cape Colony, Sir James Sivewright.

SHIPWRECKED MARINERS

Rescued Just as Death Was About to Relieve Their Sufferings.

Philadelphia, Oct. 14.—The British steamer Evelyn, Captain Horner, from Huelva, Spain, anchored in Delaware river last evening, having on board the almost lifeless bodies of nine seamen, the crew of the Norwegian bark Lovise, who were picked up at sea, after being adrift without food or water, for nine days. Their condition, when received, was a most pitiable one, and so faint had they become that it was necessary to tie lines to them, and haul their attenuated and trembling forms on board the steamship.

The particulars of the terrible suffering of the men are meagre, as they are still too weak to talk much. The Lovise, in command of Captain Anderson, left Mobile Aug. 17, for Rosacaro, with a full cargo of lumber. She experienced, in September, hurricanes, and was badly disabled. Her condition became so bad that all hands had to leave her in two small boats, and until the Evelyn hove in sight they had not seen a vessel for nine days. They could not have lasted another night. Under the treatment received since on board the Evelyn, the unfortunate men are recovering, but their condition is still precarious.

The Lovise was an old style craft, and when the seas washed her cargo, the rails were carried away, and decks were wrenched open in many places, allowing the water to flow freely into her hold. At times she was completely at the mercy of the sea, and it was impossible for the crew to remain on deck. For days they clung to the sunken fabric. Finally the condition of the vessel became so that the crew could no longer remain on her, so they put off in the remaining two small boats, hardly expecting that they would ever see land. Their struggles were desperate. Days of anxiety and suffering soon told on the unfortunate men, three of whom lost their minds. They raved, and finally sank into absolute exhaustion. When the Evelyn hove in sight, the poor fellows lay, helpless in the bottom of the boat. They were too weak to realize that their rescue had been effected. The Lovise was owned in Christiana, by M. Langaard & Co., and was formerly a British bark.

Bad Gang Disposed Of.

Vinita, I. T., Oct. 14.—The notorious Green gang of desperadoes was given a hard blow yesterday by United States Marshal Samuel Rutherford and his men. Bill and Edward Green were killed, Arthur Green, the youngest brother, was shot and captured, and Milton Barker was also taken into custody. Sunday, Marshal Rutherford learned that the Greens and their band had planned to rob the postoffice and railway station at Oolagah and hold up the passenger train, due there early yesterday morning. The officers managed to intercept the outlaws, and succeeded in getting the three Green brothers late Monday night at a crossing on the Verdigris river.

Guayaquil People Destitute.

New York, Oct. 14.—An appeal for subscriptions is being made for the 30,000 people rendered homeless and destitute by fire, on the night of Oct. 5, in the city of Guayaquil, Ecuador. More than half the city was burned on that occasion, and the most important business houses and public institutions were completely destroyed. The loss, it is claimed, aggregates nearly $50,000,000. Guayaquil is the commercial center of Ecuador, and has large business interests with the United States, and prompt and efficient relief is urgently needed. Money may be contributed through Joseph A. Scrymsery, 37 Wall street, New York city.

Clearing Miss Elliot.

New York, Oct. 14.—The following cable message from Nat Goodwin, dated Sydney, N. S. W., has been received here: "Just received press notices in which my name is mentioned in connection with Miss Maxine Elliot. Cruel injustice has been done her. We have never contemplated matrimony, our relations being purely business ones. She was engaged by Mr. Appleton, my manager, as leading support in my company. That she should figure as corespondent in my divorce suit is an outrage, and I request the American press to vindicate the lady from all accusations brought to bear."

Vet ran Hanged Himself.

Washington, Oct. 14. — Department clerks, on their way to work from Woodside, Md., about 10 miles from town, yesterday, discovered the dead body of Captain Simon Kane, a former member of the Seventeenth Wisconsin volunteers, suspended from a limb of a tree that had been blown over in the recent storm. Captain Kane sought to enter the home at Hampdon, Va. It is believed he feared his application might not be successful, and therefore committed suicide.

Crazed by Love.

Niagara Falls, Oct. 14.—It now seems almost certain that the mysterious suicide, who ended his life so tragically Monday by jumping over the parapet at Prospect Point into the water, was A. J. Barton of Oil City, Pa. A letter written by Barton indicates that he had been made crazy by the rejection of his advances to a young girl of this city.

Perhaps He Played Whist.

The Overseer of the Poor tackled a skunk somewhere in his rounds last night or today and when he appeared at his desk at City Hall there was a commotion. The young lady clerks do not object to the presence of the official but they did strongly object to the odor which he distributed free gratis about the rooms. Mr. Bass, however, is a stayer and was mute to all their entreaties to get out.

Finding that he would not get out they left him alone to enjoy himself and at last accounts were holding a conference to see whether the Chief of Police should not be called upon to eject him.

A WHACK AT WATSON.

Populist Leaders Opposed to the Middle-of-the-Road Schemes.

Appeal to Party to Support Joint Ticket.

The Usual Harsh Words For "Gold Bugs" and Republicans In General.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—The following manifesto was issued last night by the executive committee of the Populist party:

To the People's Party Voters of the United States:

Your national committee indulged the hope that the patriotic action of the People's party, in national convention, in subordinating the interests of the party to the success of the vital issues involved in this campaign, would be met by equally unselfish devotion to a common interest on the part of the Democratic party, and that all the friends of silver could present a solid front against the minions of greed by supporting one ticket, the truly co-operative ticket, Bryan and Watson. But in this hope being disappointed, there were but two courses left, one of which must be adopted.

First—To run a straight Bryan and Watson electoral ticket in every state which, on account of the failure of the Democratic party to support this ticket, would have effected the same result in this campaign that would have followed the nomination of a straight Populist ticket at St. Louis, namely, the election of McKinley and the triumph of the gold standard.

It is true that the Democratic party would be responsible, even to a greater extent than ourselves, for such a result, but to permit evil to triumph on such grounds would convict us, as well as them, of a lack of patriotism and narrow partisanship, that would deserve the forfeit to us of the confidence of the American people.

The other course left open to your committee that was consistent with the action of the convention in nominating Mr. Bryan, was to do everything in its power to unite the voters of the country against McKinley, and to overcome the obstacles and embarrassments, which, if the Democratic party had put the cause first and party second, we would not have encountered. This could only be accomplished by arranging for a division of the electoral vote in every state possible, securing so many electors for Bryan and Watson, and conceding so many to Bryan and Sewall.

At the opening of the campaign, this, under the circumstances, seemed the wisest course for your committee, and it is clearer today than ever that it was the only safe and wise course, if our votes were to be cast and made effective for the relief of an oppressed and outraged people. Following this policy, your committee has arranged electoral tickets in three-fourths of the states, and will do all in its power to make the same arrangement in all of the states.

By perfecting this arrangement, every sincere opponent of the gold standard giving loyal support to these joint electoral tickets, the People's party will not only secure in the electoral college for Bryan and Watson several times as many votes as we could have possibly secured by making a straight fight, but we will secure the defeat of McKinley and the gold standard. By this arrangement we can unite a large majority of the voters of America on our joint electoral tickets—therefore the only hope of the money power and trusts is to divide and conquer us.

The Republican managers and their gold Democratic allies realize this, and are putting forth every effort to accomplish this end. They have had their emissaries on hand everywhere, trying to prevent joint electoral tickets from being arranged—failing in this they try to find Populists and Silver Democrats who can be induced, on one pretext or another, to rebel against the joint electoral tickets. They either have secured, or will secure, the services of every man that money can command, to breed dissensions and divisions. The danger lies in the possibility of a certain portion of the rank and file of the People's party being misled by so-called leaders, who for reasons best known to themselves, or for want of reason, are advising voters to rebel against the joint electoral tickets and put up separate electoral tickets, or to withhold their support from the joint electoral tickets.

Some of the Democrats of the revenue stripe, who are not weaned from the fleshpots of Egypt, but are sticklers for regularity, and are nominally supporting Mr. Bryan, while secretly and in every underhanded way are trying to accomplish his defeat, are advising against the joint electoral tickets, and failing in this they advise Democrats to scratch People's party electors, and already a few so-called Populist leaders are advising the rank and file of our party to strike back by refusing to support the Democratic electors on the joint electoral tickets. This is a trap set by the gold bugs, who are rejoicing that a few honest men have fallen into it. These reports today are the only ones that buoy up the hopes of the Republican managers, and the Democrats and Populists, who are thus engaged, are doing just what the gold men most desire. Therefore, we appeal to every Populist who may have been misled by such mistaken or false pleas of pretended loyalty to the People's party into refusing support to such joint electoral tickets, to stop and consider the results of such conduct, and refuse to be influenced by either misguided or corrupt men.

There are but two sides in the conflict that is being waged in this country today. On the one side are the allied hosts of monopolies, the money power, great trusts and every corporation, who seek the enactment of laws to benefit them and impoverish the people. On the other side are the farmers, laborers, merchants and all others who produce wealth and bear the burden of taxation. The one represents the wealth and powerful classes, who want the control of the government to plunder the people. The other represents the people, contending for equality before the law and the rights of man. Between these two there is no middle ground.

The one and only hope of the Republican party to win in this campaign and force the gold standard upon the country is the corrupt use of an unlimited supply of money for bribery, corruption and intimidation. The patriotic action of the People's party in fixing and forming these joint electoral tickets has shattered that hope. Already they are alarmed at the impotency of a boodle campaign, when all of the great moral forces of the people are solidly united in defense of American institutions. The revulsion of the American people against this boodle campaign, during the last 10 days, has so united them that victory is now assured.

The People's party made this revolution possible. Let everyone do his duty and fail not. Let our boast be that we are American citizens, and that American citizens are more than partisans. This done, the cohorts of domestic and foreign greed will be driven from our legislative councils and the domination of American institutions; this done, and the betrayed republic will be redeemed and the American prosperity restored. The men and the party that achieved such grand and patriotic results in this crisis will be the men and the party of the future. It has been left for the People's party and the Silver Republicans to make the party sacrifice, and to do the patriotic work necessary to accomplish the result. The People's party must do it. Therefore the People's party will be the party of the future. The American people will recognize it as the party that saved the day when their interests were at stake; the American people will rally around its banner as the party to contend against the enemy of good government in the future. Every man to his post and the victory is won.

The members of the committee admitted, after the meeting, that this statement is in the nature of a rebuke to Thomas E. Watson, who has been calling on all Populists to keep in the middle of the road, without paying attention to either of the other parties.

Early in the afternoon, Senator Marion Butler said that Mr. Watson would remain on the ticket, and that his removal had not been discussed. A different story was given out after the meeting, when it was said that Mr. Watson had been the chief subject under discussion during the day. The manifesto follows:

Crawford Repents.

St. Louis, Oct. 14.—Dougald Crawford, the big dry goods merchant, who discharged a dozen of his men last Saturday because they announced their intention to vote for Bryan and Sewall, in a public letter says he will take the men back. In part, he says: "I have invited all the men to return to my store, and to occupy their former several positions, without prejudice as regards to future, and without loss of salary since they left my employ. A man in anger often makes mistakes, but I do not believe he loses any of his manhood by admitting his error. I desire every man in my employ to vote as he pleases, but I believe every man who carefully studies the existing conditions should vote for McKinley. To allow all of my employes to vote as they please, and have ample time to do so, I have decided to close the store of Crawford & Co. at 1 p. m. on Nov. 3.

Gives Bryan a Big Lead.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Chairman Jones, of the Democratic national committee, gave out a statement last night, characterizing as absurd the figures showing the probable result of the election, given by Senator Quay. Chairman Jones states that in all the states classed by Senator Quay as doubtful, a complete and harmonious fusion between the Democrats, Populists and Silver Republicans exists, rendering them certain for Bryan. For the same reason, he classes as doubtful the states of Iowa, Ohio and Wisconsin, and claims for Bryan the electoral votes of Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota and West Virginia, all of which were claimed for McKinley by Mr. Quay. The table given out by Chairman Jones gives 81 votes as certain for McKinley, 279 for Bryan, and 87 as doubtful.

College Boys Are Interested.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 14.—The Sound Money Campaign club of Harvard college has sent a communication to all New England colleges, reviewing the mass meeting of Harvard students last week, in the interest of "sound principles of finance and to assist in the complete overthrow of Bryanism," and appending endorsement of the movement from the Republican and National Democratic state committee, with the request that co-operation may be secured. In appealing for the endorsement of other colleges, the communication asks for assistance in uniting intercollegiate organizations, to the end that a monster parade and mass meeting may be held in Boston, to be the largest in college history.

Still Unsettled.

Boston, Oct. 14.—The ballot law commissioners lost no time in trying to straighten out the Democratic ticket tangle yesterday. All attempts to obtain a compromise having failed, the representatives of the Faneuil hall and Music hall Democracy appeared before the commission, submitted their evidence in behalf of the respective conventions, and prepared for the arguments which will be heard later. It is probable that the time will be limited to three hours, and will be divided between counsel. A conference was held last night, after the evidence was in and the hearing had been adjourned, in order that matters might be simplified for the presentation of arguments.

Made Many Speeches.

Duluth, Oct. 14.—The private car "Idler," bearing William J. Bryan and his party, arrived here last night. The day's campaigning tour covered the route from Minneapolis to Duluth, and at nearly every station along the line, Mr. Bryan spoke to good crowds. He was then driven to the Lyceum theater, in this city, where he addressed a meeting of women. Thence he proceeded to the car barn, which was packed with laboring men of Duluth. Here Mr. Bryan was presented with an elegant silver ink bottle.

Talked on Tariff.

Canton, O., Oct. 14.—A delegation of about 300 voters from the Lehigh Valley district of Pennsylvania arrived here at 10 o'clock yesterday. Owing to the continued inclement weather, the party was escorted to the Tabernacle. Sandusky county sent 1000 of its inhabitants to call on Major McKinley in the afternoon. Among those who accompanied the delegation was Scott Hayes, son of the late President Hayes. Mr. McKinley confined his remarks to both delegations to the tariff question.

Entertained by Dr. Everett.

Nashville, Oct. 14.—Palmer and Buckner, who were to have spoken in this city last night, did not reach here until midnight, the delay being caused by a wreck on the Louisville and Nashville railroad. A large audience had assembled at the Opera House, and was addressed by Dr. William Everett of Massachusetts, who spoke for the National Democratic ticket and platform.

Duel on the Tapis.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 14.—It is stated here that State Senator C. J. Bronston and J. D. Carroll, ex-chairman of the Democratic state central committee, are on the verge of a duel. The trouble grew out of the late Frankfort convention, when Carroll caused Bronston's defeat, by throwing his strength to E. E. Settle.

Tynan Coming Home.

New York, Oct. 14.—Mrs. P. J. Tynan received a cablegram from her husband yesterday afternoon, which said: "Am released. Hope to greet you in New York next week."

HER HAPPY DAY.

A Charming Story of Medicine and Marriage.

Two Open Letters From a Chicago Girl —How Happiness Came to Her.

Among the tens of thousands of women who apply to Mrs. Pinkham for advice and are cured, are many who wish the facts in their cases made public, but do not give permission to publish their names for reasons as obvious as in the following, and no name is ever published without the writer's authority; this is a bond of faith which Mrs. Pinkham has never broken.

Chicago, Jan. 5th, '95.

My dear Mrs. Pinkham:—A friend of mine, Mrs. ——, wants me to write you, because she says: "you did her so much good." I am desperate. Am nineteen years of age, tall, and weighed 138 pounds a year ago. I am now a mere skeleton. From your little book I think my trouble is profuse menstruation. My symptoms are * * * * etc.

Our doctor (my uncle) tells father that I am in consumption, and wants to take me to Florida. Please help me! Tell me what to do, and tell me quickly. I am engaged to be married in September. Shall I live to see the day? * * * * LUCY E. W.

Chicago, June 16th, '95.

My dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

This is a happy day. I am well and gaining weight daily, but shall continue the treatment and Vegetable Compound during the summer, as you suggest. Uncle knows nothing about what you have done for me, because it would make things very unpleasant in the family. I would like to give you a testimonial to publish, but rather would not allow it. * * * * I shall be married in September, and as we go to Boston, will call upon you. How can I prove my gratitude? * * * * LUCY E. W.

Just such cases as the above leak out in women's circles, and that is why the confidence of the women of America is bestowed upon Mrs. Pinkham.

Why are not physicians more candid with women when suffering from such ailments?

Women want the truth, and if they cannot get it from their doctor, will seek it elsewhere.

IN HEART OF BOSTON.

Moonshiners' Establishment Found Running In Full Blast.

Occupied Whole of a Four-Story Building.

Clever Scheming by Police to Effect the Capture of Operators.

Boston, Oct. 15.—One of the biggest "moonshine" establishments ever operated in this city was raided late yesterday afternoon by the officers of station 6. Right in the full light of day, and in a district where honest industries flourish, this illicit still has been operated with all the boldness of the storied "moonshine" of old Kentucky, but upon a plan so extensive as to be almost beyond belief.

It was under surveillance by the officers of station 6 for about two weeks, but so cleverly was the business carried on, and so difficult was it to surprise the law-breakers, that only the most skillful kind of police work on the part of Captain Hoffman was responsible for the success of the raid.

Two men are under arrest as having had connection with the distillery. They were arrested upon the premises, and gave their names as George Brown and Thomas Dooner.

The various departments of the distillery occupied the whole of a four-story brick building, situated upon the wharf property at 394 First street.

The place is an ideal one for such an establishment. The entrance to the building itself is some distance back from the street, and during the daytime the only traffic on the street is of a teaming nature, so that but few inquisitive persons were apt to be around during the day. During the night the place is ugly and dismal looking, and one which few persons would care to approach alone, under the cover of darkness.

Over the entrance to the building is an unpretentious black and white sign, "H. Hinckel, Gums, Dyestuffs, etc." The gum and dyestuff business was the one ostensibly carried on in the building.

A report was made to Captain Hoffman about two weeks ago about the suspicious character of the business carried on, and further investigation and a close watch upon the part of the officers especially detailed, soon convinced the police that a big distillery was being worked in the building.

Yesterday afternoon, Captain Hoffman, in disguise, with a couple of officers, visited the building, while a squad of five officers awaited in the immediate vicinity. It had been learned by the police that there was some trouble with the water meter in the house, and Captain Hoffman went there as a "water inspector," with a lantern in his hand. It was some minutes before he gained admittance, as the inmates were very cautious, but he finally obtained entrance into the outer office. He explained his object "to test the water meters," to Dooner, who came down stairs, and as soon as he opened the heavy wooden door leading into the interior of the building, Captain Hoffman speedily secured him and placed him under arrest.

Then the police proceeded to explore the building, which evidently did not contain anybody else. In the rear of the office, on the first floor, were discovered a couple of good-sized vats for receiving the liquor while in a state of fermentation, which had not yet been set up, but were all ready to put in place. This part of the building was evidently used for a storeroom, and in it were stored a number of bales containing some unknown substance, presumably shellac.

A narrow flight of winding, wooden stairs led to the second floor, which was also used as a storeroom, and contained a number of barrels of molasses and a few other articles.

Another flight of dark stairs led to the third floor, and it was here that the ingenuity of the operators displayed itself in the contrivances for resisting entrance until some of the evidences of the work being done had been gotten out of the way, and those within had been given a chance to escape through the roof.

An inch steampipe commanded this stairway like a Gatling gun, and the government officers said that if an approach was discovered in time, the steam would be turned on full force, and so blind and scorch the attacking party as to make it waste a good deal of time. The door at the head of the stairs was made of heavy 2½-inch pine board, heavily girded on the inside with strong iron ribs. The hinges were of thin iron, with one-inch bolts. Needless to say that, had the police not taken the place by stratagem, they would have had no easy task in forcing their way by this "barricade."

On the third floor was more molasses, tables for grain, and steampipes and a heater.

On the fourth, and top floor was located the main part of the still, with immense vats for fermentation, spirit tubs, condensers, a heater and every other appliance of a big distillery. In the left-hand corner was the heater, which was in full blast. Connected with this were two big copper condensers, through which the spirits passed after leaving the fermentation vats, to be conveyed to the two tubs for the reception of the finished spirits.

Both of these vats have a capacity of hundreds of gallons, and when discovered were partially full. On this floor were situated the four immense fermenting tubs, each one capable of containing many hundreds of gallons. One of them was so large as to astonish the United States officers, who came to the spot on being notified. Two of the vats were full to their greatest capacity.

Yale Defeats Williams.

New Haven, Oct. 15.—Williams came to New Haven yesterday, expecting to score against the Yale team, but the blue had an easy victory by the score of 22-0 in two 20-minute halves. The game was a contest between fullbacks, and Yale had a tremendous advantage in Hinckey, who outpunted Draper, Williams' fullback, fully 25 yards every time. In team play and in interference, Williams excelled Yale. Yale's only strong places were on the ends.

Sequel to Divorce Case.

Boston, Oct. 15.—In the office of the clerk of the United States court, yesterday, Lawyer D. F. Kimball, in behalf of Christine Hekking, filed a declaration praying action of the court on question of ordering the payment, by Henry Pfaff, Jr., of $25,000, with interest from April, 1893, to the petitioner. The declaration states that a divorce was granted the plaintiff in the circuit court in South Dakota, and she was permitted to resume her maiden name in April, 1893. Subsequently her petition was amended by a claim for means of subsistence, and she was allowed $25,000, with interest from April, 1893, which, she claims, has not been paid. In pursuance of the claim, plaintiff's property has been attached for $50,000.

Boston, Oct. 15.—Most of the lodges in the state were represented here yesterday at the annual session of the grand lodge of Massachusetts Knights and Ladies of Honor. The subordinate lodges have received for dues and initiations $12,232.16; paid for expenses, $9889.05; received from assessments, $35,822.25; paid supreme lodge, $34,794.90. The grand lodge finances show: Received during the year, $3187.02; paid for expense, $3162.91, including $1412.75 for supreme lodge tax; balance, Oct. 1, 1896, $354.23.

Boston, Oct. 15.—A serious shooting affair occurred yesterday in the colored quarter near Park square. Hannah White, colored, 37 years old, was shot three times in the head by Grant Stewart, colored, aged 26, and so far as is known, for no provocation whatever. Stewart then turned the weapon against himself and fired into his mouth. The bullet came out near his left ear, and did so little damage that he was not sent to the hospital after his arrest. The woman lies at the hospital in a rather precarious condition.

The Train Service.

The Brockton Enterprise says, "It is not going to be an easy matter to induce the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. to make any change in the present service, especially in the way of putting on additional trains, and the Enterprise wants to warn the committees who may be chosen later to wait upon the management, that they want to prepare their case before they go and know just what they want and ask for it plainly. They will find it necessary to stick closely to their text, for they will be met by gentlemen who are good smooth talkers, and who will present their side of the case in such a way that unless the committee is warned it will find itself agreeing with the representatives of the road, and then there will be little chance to accomplish what is desired."

The situation is different at Quincy than at Brockton. It not being necessary to run additional trains for Quincy but only to make stops. In fact some of the present trains might be taken off if the expresses stopped. The inward express about 6 33 A. M. would, if it stopped, get the young man in town at 6.45 in time to report for duty before 7 o'clock. The expresses at 7.17, 8.04 and 8.17 would be appreciated and might provide car accommodations. The express from Brockton which passes about 9.35 would be a great accommodation to those completing their business at the East Norfolk district court just too late for the 9.12.

The expresses are wanted not solely to accommodate Quincy people going to Boston, but to allow people from stations south to come to Quincy without change.

But most of all Quincy wants restored the 12 M. outward and the 11 P. M. theatre trains. The outward express at 5.45 P. M. would be appreciated.

Frequent passengers on the trains should not wait for the City Council and Board of Trade, but have an indignation meeting as in 1891, which resulted in the overthrow of a similar timetable then.

—Now while we are speaking of taxes how much do you think the Milton selectmen valued "Arion" the famous stallion at Forbes' stables and which cost him something like $125,000? Now how much? $50,000? BENEFITS LEGION.

Easier to be Sober than to go to Boston.

Quincy Reaps Full Blessing from Absence of Saloon.

John O. Hall Writes on Law Enforcement in this City.

In the current issue of "The Temperance Cause" is the following communication from the pen of John O. Hall, the City Auditor, on the enforcement of the liquor laws in Quincy, which is a fair statement of facts:

The benefits which have followed the exclusion of the liquor business from Quincy are legion. More money earned, more money in the home, more money for the storekeeper, more money kept in the town. More and better work done here. More happiness in the family. Men more respected and more respectable. The city quieter and safer for old and young. Why, just think how long it is since there was a drunken brawl in Quincy!

Doubtless there is liquor drunk in Quincy, but it has to be drunk in the family or slyly in some secluded place.

Now men can walk our streets without the open and frequent allurement of the liquor saloons. Desiring to escape temptation, they have abundant help in the absence of an opportunity to procure liquor. It is certainly a preventive to drinking habits when one must go to the neighboring city for the dram instead of being able to satisfy the craving within a five or ten minute walk to some saloon.

The claim is made that money is spent by the citizens of Quincy in Boston, which, if the saloon were here, would be spent in our city. This I do not think can be shown to be the fact. Landlord and storekeeper, mechanic and trader, are in my opinion better supplied with money, and that money is spent in our city, because it is easier to be sober and very inconvenient to go to Boston to get intoxicated. There will always be some in every community who would sacrifice the public welfare for their individual profit, and it is therefore necessary to see that the will of the people is carried out. The enforcement of the expressed wish of the people must be carefully attended to so that we can get the benefit of freedom from the dram shop; but with the law as faithfully enforced as it is here in Quincy we reap the full blessings which can be derived from the absence of the open saloon.

Some places have gone from no-license to license and back again to no-license, but I am sure that any community who will give a no-license condition the fair trial of a rigid enforcement of the law will forever continue the policy of not having the rum shop in its midst.

The drinking of intoxicating liquors is especially dangerous to the American people because of the intense push and activity of our life. Ambition and the chase for wealth, position, and fame are more than stimulant enough for the most slothful, and our national life demands that every community should have as little to do with the saloon as possible. If every dollar that is invested in the rum business and its auxiliaries could be diverted into legitimate business enterprises, the growth and prosperity of this country would be wonderful beyond expression.

With every argument in favor of abstinence from the use of intoxicants and against the use of all kinds of liquors, why will intelligent and cultivated people lend their influence to foster and encourage a traffic that is a curse and a drawback to our prosperity?

The bowling teams which Costello will put into the Boston league the coming season have organized and are getting in trim for the games which will open next week. The big team is made up of George O. The teams will try the drop, gutters and 12 inch spots for the first time this evening.

TISDALE—NEWCOMB.

Home Wedding of Popular Young People of East Milton.

In response to invitations sent out by Mr. John B. Newcomb of East Milton over a hundred relatives and friends gathered at his home on Wednesday evening to witness the marriage of his daughter Addie Louise to Mr. George A. Tisdale, of East Milton, formerly of Leominster.

Owing to the illness of the bride the ceremony was very quietly solemnized upstairs by Rev. George M. Bodge of Leominster, and she received her friends reclining on a couch. Her gown was of white satin, bodice of embroidered chiffon with pearl trimming and the shower bouquet was of white chrysanthemums.

Gordon Kendrick, a nephew of the bride was her little page and Bessie Kendrick, the bride's neice, was maid of honor. Her gown was white silk muslin over pink silk and she carried a basket of flowers. Mr. J. Bertram Newcomb, brother of the bride, was best man and Miss Etta M. Prescott of Quincy was bridesmaid. She wore a satin striped pink taffeta silk with girdle and trimmings of white satin and silver and carried a shower bouquet of white pinks and maiden-hair ferns. The ushers were Mr. Jesse B. Baxter and Mr. Charles E. Eaton and their boutonniers were held in place by scarf pins in the shape of gold crescents set with pearls, gifts from the groom.

The house was beautifully decorated with autumn flowers and foliage. One fireplace was banked with green vines and red salvia blossoms, another with canna foliage and hardy hydrangea blossoms; the chandeliers, stairway and doors were twined with green vines and red berries, and potted plants, palms and fancy lamps made the rooms very attractive.

Owing to the illness of the bride the wedding trip was given up until latter. Mr. and Mrs. Tisdale will be at home after the first of November.

EIGHTEEN TO NOTHING.

The Q. H. S. Eleven Weak on the Rush Line and are Beaten.

The Quincy High school played the Emanuels of Boston at Merry Mount park Wednesday afternoon and as a whole the game was poorly played by both teams. Quincys still remain weak at the line although they have been improved some, and if they hope to win any of the games scheduled they must strengthen it. Quincys best play was done by the backs, and had they been supported better the result would have been different. The best plays of the home team were the running and tackle by Ripley. Appleton and Magnuson also showed up well.

Two 20-minute halves were played. In the first half the visitors securing two touchdowns and one in the second, goals being kicked from each; but it is only fair to say that while Quincys were shut out entirely the touchdowns of the Emanuels were the results of flukes of their own team. The Emanuels made their gains by mass play at tackle which Quincys were unable to stop.

The affirmative was taken by Miss Barry and Miss Bemis.

The negative by Miss Duffield and Miss Gill.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

Mr. Rufus Littlefield, formerly of this city, died in Waltham on Sunday.

Mr. Charles H. Brigham of Wollaston made a flying trip down East this week.

We have scarcely had one whole day of pleasant weather since October came in.

A new street from Hancock street is being built through the estate of the late Aaron Russell.

A stone street crossing is being built across Hancock street near the High school building.

D. H. Fitzpatrick of Stoughton has been nominated as senator from the second Norfolk district.

W. T. Burns the monumental designer is in Philadelphia making a special design for a large mausoleum for parties at that place.

A brick sidewalk is being built in front of the new Kincaide block on Hancock street.

Tickets for the benefit to be tendered to Officer Michael Canavan, Nov. 6, are selling very rapidly, already something like 500 having been sold.

The recent rains and warm weather have made the lawns, at the Thomas Crane Public Library, look green and more beautiful than for several months.

The annual sale of the Guilds of Christ Church will be on the afternoon and evening of Nov. 11th, followed by a theatrical entertainment on Thursday evening.

The McKinley & Hobart battalion of Quincy will go to East Milton tonight and parade with the battalion from that place, after which there will be a rally at Ellsworth hall.

The members of Quincy Council, No. 96, propose to be up and doing this fall and winter, and many good entertainments will be given. The first will be on next Tuesday evening and will consist of a card party with entertainment. A collation will be served.

The annual harvest concert of the Wollaston Unitarian Sunday School will be held in the church tomorrow evening, at six o'clock. Mrs. Clara B. Beatley, the very successful superintendent of the Church of the Disciples' Sunday School in Boston, will speak to the children.

There is considerable complaint at Wollaston over the poor light which the incandescent lamps are giving. In some cases the lamps have been burnt out for nearly two weeks, notably the lamp at the corner of Brooks and Taylor streets. It seems as through the Electric Light Company should at least replace the burnt out lamps more promptly.

Shawmut Spring Water.

How many people realize the importance of drinking only pure water in large quantities in order to keep in absolutely good health? When we consider that two-thirds of the human body is in the form of water, and that in order to supply the losses from exc etion and evaporation it is necessary to drink from one-half to one gallon of water daily; it is of the utmost importance that it should be of the very best quality, perfectly free from the slightest trace of organic matter.

The Shawmut Spring Water stands second to none as a pure drinking water. Hundreds of families are using it every day. It is an important factor in maintaining health, building up and restoring the organs of digestion to healthy action. Cures Rheumatic, Kidney and Bladder troubles, when drugs have proved useless.

Send your order for a 5-gallon sample package. If you don't like it, it costs you nothing. Drink it and you will be satisfied of its purity.

How Food is Adulterated.

The lectures of a special popular significance were delivered today at the "Home Congress" of the World's Food Fair; one was read by Baroness Rose Posse upon the "Hygienic Care of School children," written by the late Baron Posse, and the other by H. W. Wiley, Chemist U. S. Department of Agriculture upon "The Adulteration of Food." Mr. Wiley pointed out the fact that though the National Paddock Pure Food Bill has done some good, it is limited in scope, and largely inoperative in enforcement; and the laws in some of the states against impure food, do not sufficiently protect the citizens. Massachusetts has the best State Laws against the adulteration of food and drink. Illinois, Iowa, Maine, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Wisconsin are the only other States having such laws.

The following statement by Mr. Wiley indicates the extent of adulteration: Glucose, it appears, is the greatest of all adulterants. It is used for making cheap candy, sugars, jellies and syrups. Applesauce is pumpkin boiled in cider. It is said that cheap confectionary and liquors are the articles most injuriously adulterated. Candy commonly contains much fusel oil and other poisons. Strawberry ice-cream—a plate of it—often contains almost more fusel oil than five glasses of poor whiskey. It is colored with red aniline dye.

Licorice drops are usually made out of candy factory sweepings. Wine is frequently nothing but water with a percentage of crude alcohol from grain or the refuse of beet-refineries colored with burnt sugar, flavored with oil-of-cognac, and given an agreeable woody taste with a little catechu. When one buys tea for $1 a pound, one is very likely to pay $2 a pound because one-half the quantity is currant leaves. Grated horse-radish is sometime composed of turnip. Flour is frequently weighed with soap-stone. Sweetened water sharpened with citric and tartaric acids and flavored with the oil of orange-skin, makes orange cider. Real honey can be distingnished under the microscope by the pollen-grains it contains. They have wonderfully beautiful forms, and the very flowers from which the honey was obtained can be identified by the various exquisite shapes of these fructifying germs. Mr. Wiley stated also that while the adulteration of our foods and drugs is certainly bad, it is much exaggerated; nevertheless the perpetrators of this crime should "be compelled to endure the penalty of their misdeeds."

Other lectures were deliverd upon child-guidance by the guidance by Sarah G. Farwell, Minneapolis, Minn., and Mrs. Sarah Tyson Rorer of Philadelphia upon "Therapeutics of Diet."

OVER 4000 VOTERS.

But There Are 89 More Children in Our Schools than Voters.

The pupils in our public schools continue to lead the voters of the city a pretty race. At the recent report of the school enrollment there were 4091 pupils. Today's report of the Board of Registrars shows 4002 voters.

The increase since last November has been 243 and for the first time Quincy has over 4000 voters.

The largest gain is in Wollaston ward which is 65 larger than in November last year; this puts Ward Five ahead of Ward Two.

The Centre ward is second in gain with 57, and the total gain of the Ward Four precincts is 54. Ward Three gained 47, Ward Two 13, and Ward Six but 7.

Here is the summary of the voters on the lists at the last two elections, also of the preliminary lists this year, and the number who will be entitled to vote Nov. 3:

Political Potpourri.

Hon. William N. Eaton of this city, who was nominated at the First Norfolk Senatorial convention held in Quincy last Saturday, has declined to be a candidate for the office and tomorrow will file with the Secretary of State the official declination duly sworn to as required by law. Mr. Eaton gives no reason for declining to become a candidate other than that he does not desire the office. The Senatorial committee, who are empowered to fill any vacancy that might occur, will place the name of John V. Scollard of Braintree upon the official ballot for Senator.

The second district Councillor convention of the Democrats nominated J. J. Cantwell of Brookline.

No names were presented at the Democratic County convention at Dedham, Wednesday, for Clerk of Courts, but on an informal ballot Erastus Worthington of Dedham had 10; Peter Daly of Canton 22, and D. W. Murray of Hyde Park 30. On the formal ballot, Worthington had 5; Daly 23 and Murray 39. G. K. Clarke of Needham was the unanimous choice for special commissioner, and, as stated in Wednesday's LEDGER, Charles Sanderson for county commissioner.

The National and Congressional committees have issued a very handy document of over 400 pages called the "Republican Campaign Text Book." It furnishes information on all the National issues, which are admirably indexed. One can turn at a glance to the different phases of the currency issue or the tariff, the National debt or appropriations, the vote of any State or Congressional district, facts about exports, imports, labor, wheat, wool or the Presidential candidates, etc., etc.

The registrars added 79 new names to the voting lists Wednesday and restored 23 making the total number now on the voting lists 4002; an increase of 243 over November, 1895.

Hon. John F. Merrill is on the Nominating Committee of the Massachusetts Republican club.

It is said nomination papers will be filed today for William L. Chase, as an independent Republican candidate for Congress in this district.

Tourist Surprised.

Mr. Michael J. O'Hara was surprised and pleased by his associates Wednesday evening, being the recipient of a complimentary banquet and a testimonial. Mr. O'Hara recently went to England and his friend, Mr. John Keenan was bound that suitable notice be taken of his return. The plan worked well and quietly, and when the returned tourist found himself bearded in his lair he was taken bodily to Grand Army hall but only to find himself truly in the house of his friends. He knew not upon entering, the reason of the gathering, but was apprised of its significance when a few minutes after the banquet had commenced he was presented with a handsome combination book-case and desk. Equal to almost any occasion, Michael was for the nonce dumbfounded, and his tongue refused to express the sentiment of the heart. But the guests appreciated his dilemma, and roused him from his reverie by three rousing cheers.

An oyster supper was served by Nash at 8.30, and from that time on all obeyed the injunction: Eat, drink and be merry. Songs were given by Messrs. John Phelan, John Daley, John Bradley, Edward Welsh, Michael White, John Keenan and last but not least, Galen V. Bowditch. Stump speeches and other diversions whiled the hours away and when the gathering dispersed shortly after midnight, the assurance was given the committee that all had had a grand good time.

Window shades made to order in our own work rooms. Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

—Brookline has a Town Hall costing some $380,000 instead of the $100,000 originally contemplated, and it does not compare in excellence with the court house at Dedham, the cost of which was less; but no one condemns the town authorities of Brookline for extravagance and mismanagement. — Dedham Transcript.

The stovepipe hat appeared during the war between king and parliament in England, and has scarcely changed its form from that time to the present.

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

Three Men Killed and Two Wounded Because of One Man's Rashness.

Columbus, Ga., Oct. 15.—Three men are dead and two seriously injured as a result of a sensational tragedy, which occurred yesterday. J. A. White was the cause of the whole trouble. White and his 19-year-old son murdered, in cold blood, two policemen, and wounded two other men, who were in the party attempting to arrest them. The murdered officers are Richard M. Adams and William Jackson. White was formerly a policeman, but for several years has been in the shoe business. Yesterday he became involved in a quarrel in a barroom, and Adams and Jackson served him with a summons to answer to a charge of disorderly conduct. This maddened White, who made threats against the officers. He went home, got his Winchester, and was joined by his son, who was also armed. They went to a barroom, and going out from there encountered the officers.

"I told you to get ready, and if you are not ready, you ought to be," White called out as he opened fire on Officers Adams and Jackson. Adams fell at the first shot, then Jackson fell, begging the Whites to stop shooting. The father stood over him, firing into his prostrate body. The news of the affair created intense excitement. Policeman Roberts went to White's house, knocked, was asked in, and as he stepped inside was fatally wounded by a ball from White's gun. The entire police force, armed with Winchesters, and augmented by the presence of a large number of armed citizens, went to arrest the Whites. The son had taken no part in the last shooting, but had fired at both Adams and Jackson. The Whites' home was surrounded and demands made for surrender. The reply was a shot, which wounded a boy in the crowd. Then six officers went to the house and broke down the doors. As they sprang in, White fired, wounding Sergeant Pickett, at the same time White was shot. He attempted to break through, but a dozen bullets were put through his body. Henry, the son, escaped to the Alabama side of the river. A posse with bloodhounds is on his trail.

Sorry to Lose Him.

New York, Oct. 15.—Many prominent Catholic clergymen and laymen were at the reception given by the Catholic club last night, in anticipation of Cardinal Satolli's departure. The cardinal arrived at 9 o'clock. When the guests had arranged themselves in a deep circle about the dias, President Dalley read an address, expressing the general regret of the community at the approaching departure of the cardinal from America. The cardinal bowed, and in response said that within the last few days it had been his great pleasure to receive from every side expressions of the strongest affection and devotion, and expressed the high esteem and kindly feelings that he entertained for American institutions and the admiration he felt for the Catholic church of this country. A general reception followed.

Disposed of at Last.

Buluwayo, Oct. 15.—Cecil Rhodes, Earl Grey and other officials have held a final conference with the Matabele chiefs. Mr. Rhodes announced to them that after yielding up their arms, and those of their number that had been guilty of murdering whites, the Matabeles must locate themselves in specified districts of the country. The principal chiefs would be held responsible, and would receive monthly salaries from the British Chartered South Africa company. The chiefs all agreed to this proposition, and it is considered that the whole Matabele trouble is now at an end.

Thousand Delegates Present.

Washington, Oct. 15.—The 11th annual encampment of the National Union Veterans' legion began here yesterday, with about 1000 delegates and as many more members of the order present as visitors. The encampment was called to order by Commander James, and was welcomed to the city by District Commissioner Ross. The annual reports of the officers of organization were read.

Buffalo Bank Goes Under.

Buffalo, Oct. 15.—Early this morning, the directors of the Bank of Commerce, one of the leading financial institutions in this city, announced that, owing to heavy withdrawals upon the bank, they were compelled to suspend business and place their affairs in the hands of the banking department for examination. Nothing can be learned as to assets and liabilities.

MAGUIRE'S HOT SHOT.

Says Williams' Eloquence but Blights the Cause He Advocates.

Speaks of His "Reckless Gang of Guerillas."

Acceptance of His Judgment Will Meet With Dire Disaster.

Boston, Oct. 15.—The following remarkable editorial is from advanced sheets of The Republic of Oct. 15, Hon. Patrick Maguire's paper. It may be taken as the carefully prepared statement of the Democratic leaders of Boston on the candidacy of George F. Williams and the present national campaign. The editorial makes some extraordinary charges. Williams is accused of disrupting his party, of weakening, instead of strengthening Mr. Bryan's candidacy, and of practically causing the campaign in the state to go by default. Probably no Democratic paper has repudiated a candidate along the lines taken by The Republic in the history of the state, and the editorial is regarded by those who read it as a notice upon Mr. Williams that he will not receive the strength of his party's vote, and the readers also declare that it offers encouragement to Democrats to scratch their ticket. Here is the editorial in full:

The real friends of Candidate Bryan may well view with serious apprehension the exploitation, in the debatable west, of Hon. George Fred Williams' peculiar talents as a politician. Wherever Mr. Williams has spoken or performed in the east, the effect of his eloquence and of his attempts at management has been as blighting to the cause he advocated as the exhalations of the upas tree. In only one respect has he been a success. He has succeeded admirably in alienating from Mr. Bryan and from himself the support of hundreds, if not thousands, of Democrats who would have gladly contributed to the success of a campaign in Massachusetts.

The hearings before the ballot commissioners to determine whether the men who burglarized Music hall were the Democratic party, or a mob, disclosed the true character of Mr. Williams' following. They also laid bare for public inspection the real purposes of the reckless gang of guerillas, who are trying to capture the party organization for the purpose of wrecking it. Decent and self-respecting Democrats are brazenly asked to sanction and approve as an orderly assemblage of their party in convention a miscellaneous crowd of idlers in Hamilton place, some of whom made speeches from the roofs of buildings, while others hoisted bundles of alleged credentials into Music hall by ropes.

The Democratic party, being the party of the people, believes in the equality of all men before the law; it believes in the rule of the majority, in the ascertainment of that majority and in the determination of its will by orderly and constitutional methods.

Mr. Williams casts a doubt upon the sincerity of his Democracy when he leads excited men to break the law, to invade the rights of private property, and to set up mob rule as a substitute for the time-honored precedents of the party. If the riotous and disorderly crowds that held Music hall by force and swarmed over the skylights, fire escapes and roofs of that and other buildings on Sept. 26 can be converted into a deliberative assembly, and if their frenzied utterances and reckless ravings can be accepted as the voice of a party convention, then the organization of the Democratic party ceases to exist, and chaos takes the place of order.

For all the scandal that has been laid bare through the hearings at the state house during the week, Mr. Williams is responsible. He brings with him to the west as his certificate of Democracy the record of his doings as a party leader If that record were known to the people of that section his reception would not be as warm as he has been led to expect it to be. He has disrupted the party in Massachusetts; he has disgusted self-respecting Democrats; he has taken as his lieutenants men whose chief claim to notoriety has been their constant and flagitious betrayal of the Democratic party. He has made it impossible to run a campaign in the state this year, and therefore he has seriously injured the cause of Mr. Bryan. We sincerely hope, for the credit of the party, that he will not be invited to sit at the council board in Chicago. Any party or committee that would accept his judgment would meet with dire disaster.

Severs Old Ties.

Concord, N. H., Oct. 15.—Colonel Thomas Cogswell, pension agent of New Hampshire and Vermont, captain of the Fifteenth New Hampshire G. A. R., Democratic nominee for governor of the state in 1887, colonel on Governor Weston's staff, and a member of the national committee of the Union Veterans Patriotic league, has written a letter in response to an invitation to be present at a meeting of the league, held in this city. He says that he was unable to be present at that meeting, and in presenting his regrets, takes opportunity to give his views on the political situation at home and throughout the country. He says that since his majority he has been allied with the Democratic party, and received many honors from its hands, but he cannot bring himself to believe that the platform enunciated at Chicago is Democratic, and that at the November election he proposes to cast his ballot for McKinley.

A Four Days' Campaign.

Watersmeet, Mich., Oct. 15.—Candidate Bryan's special train traveled from Duluth through Minnesota yesterday, and resumed its progress at 8 o'clock The sun shone brightly and the weather was clear. When the train reached Ironwood, the candidate opened up his four days of Michigan campaigning. The assemblage in the square where Mr. Bryan spoke numbered 2500. From there the train moved to Bessemer. A crowd of about the same proportion as that at Ironwood was gathered about the platform from which Mr. Bryan spoke. He made one of his short talks about free coinage, taking no new line of argument. The train then pulled out for Watersmeet. Speeches were also made at Escanaba and other stations.

McKinley's Callers.

Canton, O., Oct. 15.—Twelve carloads of Republicans from MacDonald, Pa., came to Canton on a special train yesterday. They were the first callers this week to be received at McKinley's residence. Major McKinley, who was on the porch to receive the delegation, saw Barnum's parade go by. Earlier in the day a committee representing the circus attaches presented Major McKinley with a handsome silk flag. The chief interest centered about the call of a delegation of old folks from Cleveland and other northeastern Ohio cities. There was no one under three-score and ten in the delegation, and a number of elderly women accompanied it.

Chicago Will Go For McKinley.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Independent opinion is that the heavy registration in Chicago means that McKinley is certain to carry the state of Illinois. The Democrats have always admitted that Chicago would be close, and that possibly McKinley would carry the city by a small majority, but they have contended that the country vote would be large enough to overcome the plurality in the city. The first day of registration, Tuesday, shows 293,182 votes registered against 270,499 registered in two days at the previous election. This indicates a total registration of 400,000, which is favorable to the Republicans. Of these, politicians estimate that 350,000 votes will be cast.

Music Hall Men Losing Heart.

Boston, Oct. 15.—The ballot law commission have rendered no decision in the controversy between the contending factions of the Democratic party of the state. The Faneuil hall adherents, however, are so sanguine of a favorable outcome that they have filed no nomination papers, while the Music hall supporters have placed a full ticket in the hands of the secretary of state, by means of nomination papers. It is anticipated that the decision of the commission will be handed down in a few days, as it will be necessary to have the full state ballots in type at least 10 days before election.

No Love For Uncle Sam.

London, Oct. 15.—Augustus W. L. Hemming, governor of British Guiana, arrived at Plymouth yesterday, on board the steamer Don, from Colon. In an interview, Governor Hemming said that the Venezuelan dispute was entirely in the hands of the home government, and it was impossible to predict the outcome, but it was unlikely that anything serious would occur. The feeling in the colony, he said, was distinctly British A very strong feeling had been aroused he said, by the intervention of the United States. Venezuela itself was not a very terrible foe. The future of British Guiana, he said, was bright. Gold was abundant in various parts besides the disputed district, and there was a good opening for prospectors. The country only wanted exploring.

A Daring Holdup.

Ogden, Utah, Oct. 15.—The Union Pacific fast mail, due here at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, was held up by three masked men a half mile east of Uintah Two of the robbers clambered over the engine tender and compelled the engineer to stop the train. The robbers immediately made an attempt to force the express safe with dynamite, but the charge failed to explode. In the meatime the engineer started to run. He escaped a fusillade of bullets, and made his way to this city. The robbers then went to the mail car. While they were sorting the registered packages the conductor cut the engine loose from the train, opened the throttle and started for Ogden. Several large posses of men have started on the trail of the robbers.

Of Interest to Business Men.

Cincinnati, Oct. 15.—E. L. Harper of the Fidelity National bank, borrowed $300,000 from the Chemical National bank of New York city, March 2, 1887, to place in the bank. He made the loan on his own responsibility, and did not consult the bank trustees. When the bank failed the Chemical entered suit against Receiver Armstrong to recover the $300,000, with interest. Armstrong fought the suit, because the trustees had not authorized the loan. The complaint alleged that they were doing business with an accredited officer of the bank, and made the loan in good faith, and had no means of knowing his misdoings. In the United States circuit court yesterday, J. G. Sage decreed for the complainants and gave judgment for the amount, with interest.

Murdered by a Lunatic.

New York, Oct. 15.—At the Manhattan state hospital on Ward's island, Theodore Meyers, the chief baker of the institution, was murdered yesterday, by Albert Durant, an inmate. Meyers was struck on the head with an ax. The blade crushed into the skull, severed the right ear, and almost split the unfortunate man's head in half. Durant was not regarded as dangerous, and was ordered to help the cooks. He had been chopping wood, and wanted to quit work. He was told to continue at the work, and Meyers stood by to see him do it. They quarreled, and as Meyers turned his back to leave, the crazy man cut him down with the ax.

More Help For Cubans.

Atlanta, Oct. 15.—August Pacetti of this city received a letter yesterday morning from Cuba, saying that the filibustering steamer Dauntless had arrived and landed on the south coast of Cuba, with men and ammunition. The letter stated that the Dauntless met a schooner in mid-ocean, which had on board 253 men and ammunition and arms that had been loaded at some other point on the coast. When the Dauntless came up the entire cargo was transferred to her, and they were safely landed, after a perilous voyage.

Bank Robbers Identified.

Rock Rapids, Ia., Oct. 15.—The Sherburne bank robbers, it has been definitely settled, are none other than Lou and Hans Kellihan, well known boys in this city. News of the discovery fell like a thunderbolt. Their parents, who are respectable people, are prostrated by the announcement. Both boys were born and raised here. The boys left here two weeks ago, presumably to visit relatives. The reading of dime novels is believed to have been the cause of the crime.

A Cincinnati Tragedy.

Cincinnati, Oct. 15.—A sensational murder and suicide occurred last night at the house of Nellie Rentz. The circumstances indicate that the two victims agreed to end their troubles and their lives together. The suicides were Dr. Harry Sollars of Cripple Creek, Colo., and Cleo Russell, an inmate of the house, 19 years old. No one saw the shooting. On the table lay a check for $500 for funeral expenses.

Wouldn't Go West.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Dr. John B. Hamilton, the United States marine hospital surgeon, stationed at Chicago, has wired his resignation to President Cleveland. Some time ago, Dr. Hamilton was ordered to the marine hospital at San Francisco. He objected to being transferred, and made an official protest, which was overruled.

Hopelessly lost to happiness is the woman who neglects the health of the most important and delicate organs of her body. If she is weak and sick and nervous, she cannot be cheerful and amiable; she cannot make her home pleasant for herself, or for her husband, or for her children. Health is the thing most worth having in all the world. It is the thing that makes all other good things good, and yet four out of five women are sick and weak and make no real effort to get well. Every one of them can be well, if she wants to. Women go on for years suffering in silence, and then some day they find out about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—and they take it and get well. It is a positive specific for all weakness and disease of the female organs. Thousands of women have testified to this fact. Among them Mrs. Maud Pearce, of Stoutsville, Fairfield Co., Ohio, who writes:

"Please accept my thanks for the good your medicines have done me. I truly believe that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription saved my life. It is a sure and certain cure for 'female troubles.' I am having perfect health. I am stout and can do all my housework. Nothing did me any good until I heard of you. Now I am well at last by taking your medicines. My good health pleases me and pleases my husband. He wants me to give you his good wishes. Every invalid lady should take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery.'"

Headache, heart-burn, sour stomach, foul taste in the mouth, biliousness, pimples, and palpitation of the heart are all caused by constipation, and constipation is cured positively and permanently by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. They never gripe and are perfectly natural and easy in their action. Druggists sell them.

STILL ANOTHER STILL

Unearthed by Police and Revenue Officers at the Hub.

Evidence That Big Business Was Carried On.

Suspicion That a Syndicate Has Been Carrying on Nefarious Work.

Boston, Oct. 16.—Officers of station 14, with Internal Revenue Officers Donovan and Hughes, yesterday seized an illicit still at 302 North Beacon street Brighton. Eight copper stills and four large vats were confiscated.

The place was supposed to be owned by George H. Brown, alias W. H. Blair, alis John Lake, who was arrested Tuesday for running a still in South Boston, and who yesterday was held in $5000 by United States Commissioner Fiske.

The place was an ideal one for conducting an illicit still. The building was formerly occupied by the Hollis Wool company, and was supposed to have been vacant for four years.

Beside the factory was a pond, and it is supposed that all the refuse that is likely to give the odor by which a distillery is known was thrown into the lake, thereby destroying all evidences.

At 6 o'clock last evening United States Marshal Waters put Frank Keen as keeper in the Beacon street illicit distillery. A sharp watch is being kept upon John Barron, who had been using the lower floor for the purpose of washing wool. He denies any knowledge of the unlawful business that was being conducted in the building. In response to questions put him by the officers, he stated that the only one whom he knew connected with the business was a man named Carter. For over a year Barron has been washing wool, and paying a rental of $50 a month for the use of the building.

Last June Barron says that he was approached by Carter, who told him that he would pay his (Barron's) rent, and furnish him with coal and power for the use of the rest of the building. Carter's business, so Barron says, it was stated, would not interfere in any way with his (Barron's) work, hence he jumped at the offer.

Carter was to have the use of the rest of the building, if he so desired. Barron stated that he got through his work at 6 oclock in the evening, and attended to his own affairs.

Last night, when Marshal Waters demanded the keys from Barron, the latter replied that he did not have any keys to the building. Finally, after the marshal threatened to lock him up, Barron produced two keys.

An inspection of the interior of the building showed that in the large condenser in the rear of the building on the lower floor probably 200 gallons of rum were lying in an unfermented state. All the vats, eight in number, which were at the top of the building, were connected with the big condenser by an elaborate system of pipage.

One of the vats was lying on the floor in the center of the room, and tools were strewn about the floor, which showed that some repairs were being made.

The rooms where the vats and condensers were kept had doors that were made of oak on heavy hinges, the wood being covered with iron braces and very secure, so that a raiding party would have great difficulty in obtaining an entrance.

Directly in front of the building are two houses, the old building being some distance from the street. Barron resides in the nearer of the two, and as the gate where the illicit whisky was supposed to have been carted out is at the farther end of the building, the occupants of the one house would have no opportunity to see what was going on at night, owing to the darkness and distance.

It is thought that Carter is the agent of a syndicate that has been carrying on this kind of business for some time past.

SHOT WIFE AND HIMSELF.

Jealousy, Rum and Bad Temper Led to Double Tragedy In Maine.

Bangor, Me., Oct. 16.—It cannot be learned that Captain William Clark, who shot and killed his wife, Lillian, and then fatally shot himself, at their home in Hampden, had any sufficient cause for such a deed. It was due to insane jealousy and a bad temper, inflamed by liquor. They had not lived happily for many years, and recently Mrs. Clark began divorce proceedings. This angered her husband still more, and when, after successful efforts to make his wife abandon her application for divorce, he came home from sea Wednesday night, he was in such a state of rage that wife and children fled to a neighbor's house.

Yesterday forenoon they all went home again, and at noon Clark called his wife from the dinner table into the sitting room and shot her, then shooting himself. Mrs. Clark died instantly, and Clark cannot recover. Clark was a well-known mariner, and has lately commanded the schooner Ira Laffrinier. He was 38 years old. Mrs. Clark was 36 years old, and was greatly respected by all who knew her.

Sued by Trainer.

New Bedford, Mass., Oct. 16.—John F. Payne of Lexington, Ky., who has been behind the 2-year-old colt, Jupe, owned by David A. Snell of this city, is in this city, and he has had an attachment placed on Snell's entire string of horses, alleging a breach of contract on Snell's part. Payne claims to have handled Jupe absolutely since February, 1896, and supposed he was to take charge of Snell's horses until February next. He claims that on arriving here he found that Snell had discharged him. Snell's string includes nine fast horses. Snell has refused an offer of $17,000 for Jupe.

A Stinging Editorial.

Concord, N. H., Oct. 16.—In making editorial comment upon the dropping of Governor Busiel from the Concord and Montreal railroad directorate, Senator Chandler says in The Monitor: "Every person and every newspaper which favors the Milford and Manchester road, or any electric railroad is to be destroyed, due notices to this effect having been, and are being freely served upon men and newspapers. The state officers, the national officers and members of the state house and senate, are to be owned or controlled by railroads. For that purpose conventions and caucuses throughout the state are now being packed. This is present railroad tactics. What do unbought people think of it? The whipping of Busiel is like that which used to come from the slave driver's lash. It tortured one negro to terrify others in the chain gang, and to make them sneaking and servile slaves. Possibly some time the Boston and Maine railroad managers may realize that they are overdoing their political tyranny. Possibly sometime people may arouse themselves sufficiently to take a hand in the fight.

Not Many New Members.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 16.—Mechanics' hall was well filled at the opening session of the state convention of the Christian Endeavor societies. The secretary's report did not show numerical growth. The number of societies in the state association is 882, of which 695 have made reports. These show an active membership of 28,382, and an associate membership of 9507, making a total of 37,889. This gives an average of 54 members for each society, and an estimated membership for the 882 societies as 47,987. Only 121 junior societies have been reported by district secretaries, showing a membership of 11,340. The 695 societies, from which figures are at hand, report 517 missionary committees. They have contributed $6590 for home missions, $6635.54 for foreign missions, a total of $13,026.04. This gives the amount of 34 1-3 cents per member contributed for missionary purposes. For missionary purposes, other than the above, $2398.98 has been contributed, and for all other benevolences, $10,707.39.

Big Influx of Herring.

Provincetown, Mass., Oct. 16.—An immense body of herring struck in shore here yesterday, estimated at thousands of barrels. At high water the space between the two long wharves was packed with fish close up to the beach, so that fish could be dipped up with a net by anyone standing on the shore. Sloop Nancy took 200 barrels at one haul, and the dorymen got from 75 to 100 barrels with a copule of common nets. The cold storage plant and vessels, and also the canning factories, have stopped taking the fish, as they were coming in faster than they could be handled.

Skipped With Funds.

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 16. — It has just leaked out that John Lavoie, an assistant superintendent of the local branch of the John Hancock Life Insurance company, has defaulted. He disappeared Monday night, and the following day, Superintendent Pitcher received a telegram, dated at Montreal, and purporting to come from Lavoie, which read as follows: "How do you like it, George?" Lavoie disappeared the night the safe in the office in the Metropolitan Life Insurance company was cracked.

A Serious Charge.

Quincy, Mass., Oct. 16.—Irving Bates, T. F. Holbrook, Eli Eddy and William Stetson were arraigned in court here yesterday, charged with poisoning water in the Great pond at Randolph. It is alleged that they placed paris green in the water, and thereby endangered human life. Several ducks and geese were found dead near the pond. The hearing was continued until Oct. 24.

The reports of the secretary and treas- were read showing the chapter to be in excellent financial condition.

D. D. G. H. Priest, John O. Hall, being present he with the assistance of Grand Captain of the Host, Elihu T. Spear, installed the officers in a very able and pleasant manner. Ex-Comp. Hall is always very impressive in the installation service. Every officer was present to assume his station, a fact that speaks well for the interest in capitular masonry in this chapter.

After the service of installation was over D. D. G. H. P., John O. Hall, called upon M. E. H. P., Charles W. Nourse, and presented him with a beautiful Past High Priest's jewel as a token from the companions of their appreciation of him as a companion and a Mason.

Masonic Visitation.

The annual visitations to Rural lodge, F. & A. M., are the red letter events in the annals of Masonry, and upwards of 200 members and visitors assembled at Masonic hall Thursday evening to greet Rt. Wor. Ernest W. Calkins, district deputy grand master of the 24th Masonic district. He was accompanied by a large suite of past masters. The officers of Rural lodge worked the M. M. degree in a very satisfactory manner, receiving the praise of the visitors. The Corinthian quartette assisted in the ceremony. Rural provided a grand banquet for the visiting brethern.

Commercial School Tonight.

Prof. C. H. Condy, of Burdett Business College, will open the commercial classes in the Young Men's Christian Association at 7 o'clock this evening. This will prove a great boon to many young men as in former years it has been necessary to go to Boston to secure this instruction under a regular instructor. Then again the low cost of the Quincy classes will be very acceptable during these hard times. One of the best text books to be found, Williams & Rogers Introductory Book-keeping will be used.

☞ Carpets taken up, cleansed, relaid or refitted by competent men. Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

☞ A phaeton buggy will be sold at auction on Saturday afternoon at 4 30, at F. F. Crane's store. Also, an express wagon.

MILTON IN LINE.

Candidate Barrows Opens His Campaign There.

A Torchlight Parade and General Illumination.

Messrs. Murray, Conlon, and Cobb Among the Speakers.

The East Milton Republicans fired their opening campaign gun Thursday night wtth a torchlight procession and grand rally at Ellsworth hall. Nearly every house and all the business houses in the village were illuminated in honor of the occasion, and so general was the illumination that no doubt exists as to where the village stands on the present political situation. If there were any Democrats they kept very quiet.

The torchlight battalions formed on Adams street and at 8 o'clock they moved in the following order:

Deputy Supt. of Police McDermitt and squad of officers
West Quincy Band
Major John Graham and staff
Drum Corps
Milton McKinley & Hobart battalion
Two companies, 100 torches
Drum Corps
Major Isaac M. Holt and staff
Quincy McKinley & Hobart battalion
Two companies, 100 torches
Drum Corps
Major Strangman and staff
Dorchester Lower Mills battalion
60 torches
Milton Mounted battalion
35 torches.

The route of the procession was as follows: Adams street to residence of H. E. Sheldon, countermarch to Mechanics street, to Granite avenue, to Pierce street, to Adams street, to Washington street, to Brackett street, to Granite place, to Adams street, to depot.

While the procession was marching Ellsworth hall began to fill up, and at 8 45 when the speaking commenced the hall was completely filled and many were unable to obtain admittance.

The hall was very prettily trimmed with flags and bunting, and in the gallery were many ladies.

REV. S. J. BARROWS.

John Graham called the meeting to order and introduced John C. Cobb, candidate for Presidential elector, as presiding officer, who made a few remarks and introduced the several speakers, who were Samuel J. Barrows, candidate for Congress, M. J. Murray and P. J. Conlon.

After speaking in Ellsworth hall the several speakers addressed an overflow meeting in front of the headquarters of the Abraham Lincoln club in Rugby block. This hall was very prettily decorated the entire front being covered with bunting and lanterns. Here the visiting battalions were given a collation at the close of the parade.

Quantities of red fire were burned all along the line of the procession and considerable enthusiasm was shown by the citizens.

☞ Read the notice of Mr. Crane's auction on Saturday afternoon. The buggy and express wagon will be sold sharp at 4.30.

Surprised.

Mr. George A. Wardwell of Taylor street, Wollaston, was agreeably surprised on Saturday evening by about fifty of his friends and shopmates, who gathered at his residence to celebrate his twenty-sixth birthday. During the evening Mr. Wardwell was presented on behalf of his many friends with a handsome oak Morris chair, which was a complete surprise to him, but, nevertheless, was received in a fitting manner. His friends, not wishing him to carry off all the honors, presented his estimable wife with an elegant banquet lamp. Ice cream and cake was served during the evening and whist and other games were enjoyed until a late hour, when the members of the company departed for their homes, wishing Mr. Wardwell many happy returns of the day.

☞ A nice cherry set at auction on Saturday afternoon. Ask F. F. Crane about it.

HARVEST FESTIVAL.

A Two Days' Attraction by the Universalist Ladies.

The second and last night of the harvest festival at the Universalist church had a very large attendance. Supper was served at 6.30 and as the reputation of these suppers has gone far and wide the ladies in charge did not want for customers. When supper was announced the seats at the table were quickly filled and one of the best of suppers was served.

Those in charge of this department were Mrs. Frank Hobart, Mrs. C. B. Tilton, Mrs. W. A. Winslow, Mrs. C. H. Penniman, Mrs. W. S. Parker, Mrs. Holton. Those in charge Wednesday evening were: Mrs. Elisha Hobart, Mrs. Bradbury, Mrs. Sprague, Miss Coburn, Miss Addie Holton, Miss Cora Hobart, Mrs. James Dunn.

After supper and while waiting for the entertainment, ample opportunity was afforded to inspect the articles on the several tables which were arranged on the left of the vestry. The first was the vegetable table where there was an abundance of squash, cabbage, onions and farm produce. These were in charge of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Merritt, Miss Alice Newcomb, Miss Florence Holton,

Next was the confectionery table which was in charge of Mrs. Richard Newcomb and Miss Florence Newcomb.

Then came the apron and fancy table which was in charge of Mrs. Berry, Mrs. Richard Pierce, Miss Georgie Hobart.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wales were also there and served quantities of their delicious ice cream.

At 8 o'clock came the entertainment which was very pleasing and consisted of piano solos, recitations, tableaux, charades etc., the full programme being as follows:

Piano introduction,—Mr. Frank Craig.
Thanksgiving,—Tableaux and reading.
What shall the harvest be?—Charade and quartette accompaniment.
Little Boy Blue,—Tableaux and song.
Piano solo,—Mr. Frank Craig.
The Seasons,—Sketch.
Bringing in the Sheaves,—Charade and chorus.
Recitation,—"The Woman of Mumble's Head, Miss Sturgess.

Enterprise Hearing.

Mr. J. P. Clare and his attorney, City Solicitor Blackmur, did not obtain much satisfaction at the hearing given by the Nautical Training School Commission, on Thursday, their side of the case being closed before they could put in all of their evidence.

Cadets Ballsdon and Mayo gave corroborative testimony as to the treatment of cadets on board the Enterprise, as to poor food, and not enough even of that, of neglect on the part of Surgeon Orcutt to attend sick cadets, and the custom of compelling the cadets to go about in their bare feet.

Cross-examination brought out that there may have been food enough, but witnesses did not see it, and that the doctor might have visited the sick bay regularly, but he was not observed by witnesses.

Attorney Babson, for Dr. Orcutt, in opening his case stated that he would produce evidence tending to show that the charges were unfounded and that Dr. Orcutt had given the boys the best of care and also that they had had enough to eat of good wholesome food.

The sensational report of the Herald relative to Mr. Blackmur is termed misleading and a fabrication by Capt. Eaton today.

Contrary to report Mr. Blackmur is at the hearing today. In cross examination of the doctor the captain said he had seen the doctor under the influence of stimulants.

It was also brought out today that the nurse had never before followed that profession, and was entirely inexperienced.

Rare Musical Treat.

For the week of Oct. 19th to Oct. 24, the famous 7th Regiment Band of New York under the leadership of Walter B. Rogers, the greatest cornetist of the age, will render their choicest selections at the World's Food Fair every afternoon and evening. This band has been secured at enormous expense, and for 25 cents music lovers can listen to concerts well worth four times that figure. The New York Herald of Sept. 21, 1896, says:

"Sixty thousand persons, who formed one of the largest crowds that has ever gathered in Central Park, thronged around the Mall yesterday afternoon to hear the 7th Regiment Band. If these concerts are continued next year the Park Commissioners will have to make more room, for the Mall did not hold half of the crowd. The police were obliged to open lawns to the public that had always been restricted, and the surrounding knolls were packed solidly with humanity.

In that throng were women with hats like flower gardens, tailor made girls, girls who work for tailors, nurse maids, street car conductors, bankers, hod-carriers, merchants and clerks. It was a variegated crowd, yet every man, woman and child was there for the purpose of enjoying the music. For two hours they moved up and down and showed no signs of weariness when the notes of the national anthem told of the concert's close.

MILTON.

Capt. E. D. Wadsworth is not at all nervous over his chances of election as Norfolk County Commissioner. He visited Walnut Hill, Thursday, and carried off the second member's prize with a score of 34, at the annual shoot of the National Lancers.

World's Food Fair.

Today's lecture at the World's Food Fair were delivered by Dr. J. W. Seaver of Yale college, Mrs. Sarah Tyson Rorer of Philadelphia, and Geo. H. Thomas, A. M., M. D. Mrs. Rorer continued the subject of "Therapeutics of Diet." Dr. Seaver gave an interesting account of his experiments with nicotine upon Yale athletes. His general conclusion was that nicotine in tobacco is harmful. Dr. Thomas' lecture was upon "Fresh Air and Sunlight." After showing how oxygen is carried to the various organs and tissues of the body by the red corpuscles of the blood and that this oxygen is furnished to the blood by the lungs, he made it plain how the blood also carries the waste products and the carbonic acid gas away from the tissues, to be given off by the lungs and skin to the air. Respiration occurs about eighteen times a minute. It is important that day and night we have fresh air. It is wrong to suppose that night air in unwholesome; in the city, it is purer than day air. In regard to sunlight, he said that it possesses three distinct properties; light, heat and chemical force. The chemical force of sunlight is but little understood, but it is this which separates the oxygen from the carbon in carbonic acid gas. Plants, for example, by sunlight, obtain carbon from the waste products of animals and gives oxygen to animals. Thus plant and animals reciprocally live. Sunlight aids all the functions of the body and destroys the power of bacteria to produce disease in plants or animals. Hence bed-cloth, rugs, carpets, etc., should frequently be exposed to sunlight. Sunlight plays a great part in æsthetics, furnishing all the beautiful colors.

The newsboys and bootblacks attend the fair in the evening, on the invitation of the management, in order to arouse interest in next Sunday evening's concert at the Boston Theatre, in behalf of the fund to establish a home in the city. St. Augustine's band at South Boston volunteered its services for the evening.

The National Uadertaker's Association, which is holding its session in Boston, received for the ladies in attendance the free courtesy of the fair. Their headquarters were near the gravestones' exhibit.

RUN DOWN AT LAST.

Arrest of Ex-Banker Coles, Wanted For Alleged Embezzlement.

Philadelphia, Oct. 16.—Adolphus C. Coles, a former New York banker, was arrested in this city yesterday, on the charge of being a fugitive from justice, and also that of grand larceny. Coles and Leonard Morrello were formerly in the banking business at 211 Canal street, New York. The bank failed on Dec. 24, 1894, and shortly afterward Coles disappeared, his partner alleges, with about $100,000, which he took from the bank. Coles' arrest was brought about by Morrello. While walking about town yesterday, the latter saw Coles. He sent two Italians to the detective department and Coles was taken into custody. Later, when he was confronted by Morrello, he admitted his identity as the former New York banker. Morrello, who is now a laborer, says that before the flight of Coles he was worth $100,000.

According to Morrello's story, Coles and himself were engaged in the banking business for nearly two years. Business was done principally with Italians. Deposits were received from individuals and from bankers. Everything went well until Dec. 24, 1894, when Coles is said to have fled, with all the money he could lay his hands on. The banking firm failed, and Morrello says the fall of the Morrello & Coles company brought with it the failure of a number of Italian bankers in the eastern part of the country.

Coles acknowledged that he failed for $18,000, and that he left New York suddenly, but denies the charge that he stole from his partner. He says that Morrello's tale is much exaggerated. Coles was arraigned, and signified his willingness to go to New York without the formality of requisition papers, but the magistrate told him that the law would not allow such a proceeding.

Diamond Match Pool Settled.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—At last there is an end of the Diamond match pool business, so far as the Stock Exchange committees are concerned. The special committee has submitted the following report: As a sub-committee, appointed by your committee, Sept. 28, 1896, this committee begs leave to report as follows: After numerous intervals and endless consultations, we find that the matter is so complicated, and that there are so many requirements by all parties interested, that in our judgment it is impossible for us to accomplish anything. We, therefore, beg to be discharged. The committee was discharged, as requested.

A Crazy Man's Awful Deed.

Centerville, Mo., Oct. 16.—A triple tragedy occurred yesterday near Ellington. John Imboden, with an ax, brained his sister, about 15 years of age, his brother, older, who was sick in bed, and a very old man, named Jacob Wilhelm. Two younger sisters escaped to their father, who was at work in a cornfield. They gave the alarm, fearing to return to the house. When the citizens and constable collected and returned, Imboden was in the yard, where two of his victims lay, with the bloody ax in his hand. The officers had to threaten to shoot him before he would surrender. It is supposed that Imboden's mind is deranged.

Accident Resulted Fatally.

Bangor, Me., Oct. 16.—E. E. Wilson, a Portland grocer, was brought to Bangor yesterday, from Bancroft, with a gunshot wound in his arm, and taken to the Eastern Maine general hospital. The arm was amputated. Wilson never recovered from the operation, and died last night. Wilson was in a carriage, while a friend, A. E. Marks, got out to take a picture. Wilson reached to hold Marks' gun, and in doing so let his own, a shotgun, slip from his hands. It struck so as to discharge both barrels, the contents entering his arm.

Prescott Re-elected.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Oct. 16.—At yesterday's session of the International Typographical union, the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: President, W. P. Prescott of Toronto, re-elected; secretary treasurer, John W. Bramwood of Denver; first vice president, Theodore Perry, Nashville; second vice president, George W. Williams, Boston; third vice president, Hugo Miller, Indianapolis, re-elected. Syracuse was chosen as the place of meeting in 1898.

Makes Four Dead.

Columbus, Ga., Oct. 16. — Policeman Roberts, who was mortally wounded in the tragedy Wednesday afternoon, in which James White and two policemen were killed, died yesterday. Henry White, son of James White, who escaped while his father was barricaded in his home, was captured yesterday, and secretly removed from the county jail to prevent lynching.

DEPEW IS SURE OF IT.

Declares That McKinley's Election Is a Foregone Conclusion.

Counts on Inroads In the Solid South.

Republicans Will Carry All Eastern and Most of the Granger States.

Boston, Oct. 16. — Dr. Chauncey M. Depew passed last evening in a box at the Tremont theater, laughing at Frank Daniels in "The Wizard of the Nile" and turning political prophet for the reporters between the acts. With him in the box was his son, Chauncey M. Depew, Jr., and his niece, Miss Anna Depew Paulding. He had run up to see his son, who is attending St. Paul's school at Concord, N. H., and missing the afternoon train was obliged to stop over in Boston until midnight. This simple explanation should, he said to a reporter whom he had received with suave affability, be sufficient to rob his visit of any implication of political significance.

Then Mr. Depew proceeded to dispose of the coming election in general by saying that McKinley would carry the country by the most sweeping and tremendous vote ever cast for a presidential candidate, and in particular, by claiming about every state in the Union for his candidate. The votes which he conceded to Bryan in the political pudding were not worth hunting for.

"Yes," Mr. Depew said, after the reporter had opened with a leading question, "I have very decided ideas on the present political situation. The situation is just this: Every state east of Chicago will go for McKinley, and so will every one of the granger states, Kansas excepted. I include Nebraska. Of the mountain states, the two Dakotas and Wyoming are safe for McKinley. On the Pacific coast, Oregon and Washington are safe, but California is in doubt.

"Then take the old solid south. West Virginia and Kentucky are for McKinley, and we have a lively fighting chance in Virginia, Tennessee and Texas. Now just make a list of these states and verify my prediction in a few weeks."

"How about New York?" the reporter questioned.

"New York? We will carry it by 250,000 for McKinley."

"And the state ticket?"

"It will not run behind."

Returning to the general situation, Mr. Depew continued in the same optimistic strain: "The country will go for McKinley by the most phenomenal majority ever piled up for any candidate. The business men of the country are all for him in every city of the west. They are afraid of this spell of temporary panic, which even Bryan himself admits will occur during the time of transition from a gold to a silver basis."

Mr. Depew emphatically denied the charge that a large percentage of the workingmen taking part in the demonstrations for McKinley were doing so for what there was in it, but were at heart Bryan men, intending to vote for him at the election. They were McKinley men at heart, he maintained. He instanced the railway men of the country, including those connected with railways in any capacity, as an example. There were, he said, about 8,500,000 of them, and he was willing to guarantee that 8,000,000 of them were for McKinley, and not because they had been intimidated by, or were afraid of their employers, either. The agitation against government by injunction wouldn't affect them a particle.

Tacking to the currency question the reporter asked Mr. Depew if the Republicans had dropped the discussion of bimetallism.

"Yes; it's plain gold now," was the answer.

"What about the plank in the platform on the subject?"

"We cannot have bimetallism except by international agreement, and I don't regard that as possible. There has never been any five years when gold and silver have maintained the same relative value."

"Then you don't regard international bimetallism as a possibility?"

"No; I know that no agreement will ever be brought about. England, Germany, and France, too, for that matter, will never consent to it."

Touching on the reasons for England's financial pre-eminence among the nations, Mr. Depew said that the prime factor in it was the fact that drafts drawn on London were payable in gold. The same thing should be true of New York, and if it were, there was no reason why it could not take the leading place among financial centers.

WILL WATSON WITHDRAW?

Populist Committee's Visit to Candidate Expected to Settle the Matter.

Atlanta, Oct. 16.—The proposed conference between a sub-committee of the Populist national executive committee, headed by Senator Butler, and Thomas Watson, Populist vice presidential nominee, is expected to develop a political sensation. It is generally believed in inside circles here that the visit of the committee will result in a formal request for Mr. Watson to withdraw. There are numerous rumors of official positions to be tendered Mr. Watson in case he withdraws and the Democratic party is successful at the November election. The stories of the promised positions range all the way down from a cabinet portfolio; but no one claims to have definite information as to just what, if anything, will be promised. There is grave doubt expressed, however, that Mr. Watson will promise to withdraw. It is freely stated that the Populist manifesto was by no means pleasing to the vice presidential candidate, and the committee's haste in notifying him of the intended visit is said to have been the result of a fear that he would take precipitate action before the conference could be held. That fear was set at rest, however, by a message which Mr. Watson sent to Chairman Washburn yesterday, expressing willingness to see the committee.

It is believed that the candidate's letter of acceptance will not be published until after the coming conference, although he was expected to have given it to the press last night. What the outcome of the committee's visit will be is altogether guesswork; but there is a growing impression that Mr. Watson will take more kindly to the alleged suggestion of withdrawal than he would have done at an earlier date in the campaign. There has been some dispute as to whether the conference should be held at Atlanta or Thomson, but it is thought Atlanta has been decided upon.

A Greeting From Neighbors.

Canton, O., Oct. 16.—Secretary Osborne of the Republican national committee witnessed the demonstration in Canton yesterday. He spoke most confidently of the outlook. While there were large parties from New York and Pennsylvania, the most surprising event of the day was the informal call of the working people of Canton. They came in thousands from the 125 factories, large and small, in this city. They came, many of them, with their wives and children and babies. They filled broad North Market street, a half mile from Public square, to Louis avenue, at the McKinley home. They crowded over the fences from the street and sidewalks, into the doors, yards and lawns of other houses. They carried banners inscribed: "Open the mills," "Our money is good enough; what we want is work," "We want McKinley and work." There was an unusual tremor in Major McKinley's voice when he arose to respond to the sentiments of the venerable spokesmen from local factories, who addressed him. Addresses were made by Edward Jones, a factory watchman, and John Grouse, a wood worker.

Jekyll and Hyde Comparisons.

Grand Rapids, Oct. 16.—William J. Bryan, last night, addressed in this city, one of the largest audiences he has yet spoken to during the campaign. There were three meetings arranged for, one at Campau square, one at Powers' Opera House, where he addressed the women of Grand Rapids, and the other at Lockerby hall. At the first meeting he spoke to as large a crowd as could wedge itself in at the junction of the four streets, and it is safe to say that not one-fourth of those present could hear him. When he spoke to the ladies in the opera house, the place was filled with feminine humanity. The last address of the evening, that in Lockerby hall, was delivered before an audience, the size of which was limited to the space inside the walls. The address made at Campau square was a short one, and in it there were no new features, while the speech to the women was not the principal one in regard to size, Mr. Bryan made it of especial interest in his arraignment of Republican leaders. He put Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll, Murat Halstead, ex-President Harrison and Secretary of the Treasury John G. Carlisle in the same category as Stevenson's Jekyll and Hyde. His denunciation of them was scathing.

Pope May Be Heard From.

London, Oct. 16.—The Daily News publishes the following dispatch from Rome: The Vatican, although in favor of Mr. McKinley, disapproves of Archbishop Ireland's letter, because it openly mixes religion and politics, which the Vatican desires to keep separate in the United States. It is feared that the letter will displease the eastern and southern Irish Bryanist Catholics. It is probable that instructions will be sent to Mgr. Martinelli, the papal delegate, concerning the attitude of the Catholic clergy.

Bounced by Populists.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 16.—The Populist state executive committee, at a meeting at Calero yesterday, passed resolutions expelling Captain Reuben F. Kolb, twice Populist candidate for governor of Alabama, and Colonel P. G. Bowman, formerly state Populist chairman, from membership in the committee, because of their action in abandoning Watson and supporting Sewall and the Silver Democratic congressional candidates. They were denounced as being unworthy of confidence.

Becoming Frequent.

Galena, Ills., Oct. 16.—Late yesterday afternoon two men entered Chris Baur's saloon and ordered the inmates to hold up their hands. Joseph Baur, who was in charge, was fatally shot. The robbers rifled the cash drawer and then beat a retreat, exchanging a fusilade with a pursuing posse. They crossed the river from the business district in a skiff, and overtaking a delivery wagon, threw the driver from his seat and escaped. Sheriff Parker and a large posse are in pursuit.

Petrel at Work Again.

Erie, Pa., Oct. 16.—The Canadian revenue cutter Petrel, yesterday stopped the tug Goodell, and after Captain Sweet had been warned not to fish in Canadian waters, he was allowed to go. Captain Dash, on hearing the news that the Petrel was patrolling about, at once steamed to where his nets were and got near enough just in time to see his nets being confiscated. He dared not protest, for fear of having his tug confiscated.

Rape Fiend Lynched.

Atlanta, Oct. 16.—Miss Bianche Gray was walking to her sister's, in the northern part of Paulding county, when a negro, slipping behind her, assaulted her in a horrible manner. The negro, Henry Milner, was soon caught and taken to Griffin, where a crowd took him to a grove, and hanged, and then shot him to death. A placard was attached to his dead person: "Thus we defend our women from outrage."

Stealings May Reach $200,000.

Juneau, Wis., Oct. 16.—A letter from W. T. Rambusch, who disappeared last week, was received by his wife yesterday, making a full confession of his financial irregularities, which are supposed to aggregate $200,000. The letter was dated at Philadelphia. The letter contained the assertion that Rambusch contemplated taking his own life.

Steamer's Bottom Gone.

St. John's, N. F., Oct. 16.—The British steamer Palestrina, ballast laden, from Liverpool for Baltimore, ran ashore yesterday in a thick fog on the southern side of the Bay of Bulls. Half the ship's bottom is out, and she will break amidships if the sea increases. All the crew were saved.

A Pitiful Case.

Indianapolis, Oct. 16.—Rev. John W. Milam, recently pastor of the Madison Avenue M. E. church, and his wife, Ida, were both declared insane, yesterday, by a commission. Milam is 41 years of age, and his wife 40. Milam has been a hard student, and his wife an invalid.

THE TURN OF LIFE.

The Most Critical Period in the Life of a Woman.

Experience of Mrs. Kelly, of Patchogue, Long Island.

There is no period in woman's earthly career which she approaches with so much anxiety as the "change of life." Yet during the past twenty years women have learned much from a woman.

It is safe to say that women who prepare themselves for the eventful period, pass through it much easier than in the past.

There is but one course to pursue to subdue the nervous complications, and prepare the system for the change. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be used.

It is well for those approaching this time, to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She has the experience of years to aid her in advising. She will charge you nothing.

She helped this woman, who says:—"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in my family ten years, with the best results. Some time ago my daughter had catarrh of the womb, and it entirely cured her. I was approaching the "change of life," and was in a deplorable condition. My womb had fallen, and the bearing-down pains and backache were terrible, and kidneys affected

"I began taking the Compound, and my pains ceased. I consider it the strong bridge between sickness and health, and recommend it to everybody I meet who needs it."—Mrs. L. Kelly, Patchogue, L. I.

Swedish Fair.

There was a large attendance Friday night at the fair in Plummer's hall, which is being held by the ladies of the Swedish Lutheran church, and many of the articles on the tables met with a ready sale. The entertainment consisted of an address by Rev. John T. Johnson of Worcester, and a piano and cornet duet by Mrs. Eckman and Mr. John Johnson.

—There will be held in Washington in February next a national congress of mothers. It is proposed to have the congress consider all subjects which relate to the home, especially those bearing upon the better and broader moral and physical as well as mental training of the young. Of special importance will be the subject of the means of developing in children characteristics which will elevate and ennoble them, and thus assist in overcoming the conditions which now prompt crime and make necessary the maintenance of jails, workhouses and reformatories.

—Sweating apples is not a necessary process. They should simply be put into the cellar, cool, say, in the morning after a cool night.

75 DELEGATES.

The Republican Municipal Convention Will be Larger.

The basis of representation to the Republican municipal convention will be the same this year as in 1895, one for every 25 votes cast for the Republican candidate for Governor in the preceding year.

The rumor that it might be based on the vote for the Republican candidate for Mayor in 1895 has no foundation in fact. Mr. Hammond's friends are in a majority in the Republican City Committee and might adopt this basis if they were disposed, but Mr. Hammond himself says he would not sanction any such advantage. He is in the contest and proposes that his friends shall make a square and open bid for the nomination, and that if everything is fair on the part of other candidates he will like a true Republican abide by the action of the convention.

The vote of the wards of the city for Governor Greenhalge is given below, also the number of delegates this year and last year:

	Vote. 1895.	Delegates. 1896.	Delegates. 1895.
Ward One,	363	15	16
Ward Two,	263	11	10
Ward Three,	396	16	15
Ward Four,	274	11	11
Ward Five,	333	14	13
Ward Six,	196	8	7
The city,	1822	75	72

It will be observed that Ward One has lost one, its vote of 1895 being 25 smaller than in 1894, although it gave Greenhalge a larger majority.

Wards Two, Three, Five and Six gain one each, while Ward Four has the same number.

Last year with a full convention 37 votes were necessary for a choice, and this year 38 will be required.

Braintree Old Folks.

Wednesday, October 14, was anything but pleasant as far as the weather was concerned but it was the day set for the old folks' rally at the South Congregational church, Braintree, and many were present to enjoy the event. Dinner was served at noon to which seventy-five sat down, after which a short time was devoted to social intercourse before the afternoon exercises took place. The entertainment committee consisted of Mrs. A. R. French, Mrs. R. M. Sanborn and Mrs. John Arnold.

The reception committee, Deacon Whitman, Deacon Rogers, Mrs. Lizzie Thompson, Mrs. H. B. Whitman, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Dyer and Mrs. A. S. Pennock.

Carriage committee, Mr. Elisha Thayer, Mr. B. F. Dyer and Mr. Azel R. French.

Among those present were:

Mr. Daniel Harrington, who is 93 years old.
Mr. Ludovicus Holbrook,
Mrs. Hannah D. Holbrook,
Mrs. Goss of Milford, N. H.,
Mrs. Mary L. Hollis,

Mrs. Eveline Matthews,
Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dyer,
Mrs. C. D. Hunt of Fairhaven.

Social Dance.

The Nonpareil Social club of Brewer's corner held its first social dance of the season at Hancock hall Friday evening and a very enjoyable affair it proved to be to the seventy-five or more couples who danced to the music of Hanson's orchestra from 8 till 2 A. M., when the waltz "Home, Sweet Home" reminded the tired dancers that it was time to turn their faces toward home.

P. A. Lane, president of the club had charge of the floor, with A. J. McCormack as assistant and F. X. Dufour, B. S. Smith and F. W. Jones as aids.

This club now numbers thirty-two members and is in a prosperous condition.

Universalist Church.

The anniversary of the Young People's Christian alliance will be celebrated Nov. 11th. Young People's societies of the neighboring Universalist churches will be present. Exercises in the church will precede a social hour and collation in the vestry.

The last Sunday in October will be observed as Rally day. The minister asks every person, young or old who has any interest in the welfare of this church to make special effort to be present. Remember the date, Oct. 25th.

—Business failures in the country the past three months show a lamentable increase over last year. The failures in New England the past nine months numbered 1365, with liabilities $16,578,868; assets $7,275,191.

AT SEA.

Shall we, the storm tossed sailors, weep
For those who may not sail again
Or wisely envy them and keep
Our pity for the living men?

Beyond the weary waste of sea,
Beyond the wider waste of death,
I strain my gaze and cry to thee,
Whose still heart never answereth.

Oh, brother, is thy coral bed
So sweet thou wilt not hear my speech?
This hand, methinks, if I were dead,
To thy dear hand would strive to reach.

I would not, if God gave us choice
For each to bear the other's part
That mine should be the silent voice,
And thine the silent, aching heart.

Ah, well for any voyage done,
Whate'er its end or port or reef.
Better the voyage ne'er begun,
For all ships sail the sea of grief.
—James Jeffrey Roche in Angelus Magazine.

A LUNATIC BALL.

As this story traveled in a roundabout way it may have been elaborated and built up before it came to hand, but the facts, as nearly as they can be learned, are about as follows:

Mr. Melton, a young man interested in the lumber trade, traveled on a suburban train one Friday night to attend the weekly dance at the asylum for the insane.

Mr. Melton is constantly longing for "experiences." He would rather look at an opium joint than a donation party and would rather go slumming than attend a Sunday school picnic. The ball at the insane asylum appealed to his love for the picturesque. Lowry, the politician, had promised to take him out, and Melton had not allowed him to forget the promise.

Lowry came aboard the train at one of the stations on the way out, and the two were warmly welcomed when they arrived at the asylum, for this Lowry was a companionable man of considerable influence.

As Melton stood in the doorway of the ballroom and glanced at the rows of well behaved and rather abashed people against the wall he could hardly believe that he was so different from the others. He reflected that if he were to arise some morning and tell the other boarders that he was the emperor of China and had more money than he could use he might become one of this company.

Except that many of them were pale and melancholy and a few of them were heavy eyed, intent on studying the floor, the assemblage would have compared favorably with any chance gathering of respectable, everyday people.

He knew, of course, that the violent patients or those totally demented were not allowed at the ball. The company was made up of convalescents or those whose vision was merely twisted so that they could not see things in their proper relation. Some of the younger men had attired themselves with particular care and wore buttonhole bouquets. Many of the women, too, bore the outward signs of gayety. Melton was rather disappointed. He had wanted to witness something "uncanny."

"I want you to dance this evening," said Superintendent Lucas, standing at his elbow. "One trouble with the visitors is that they stand around and stare at the patients as if they were a lot of freaks. Now, these people are not dangerous. You needn't believe everything they tell you, but if you mix up with them and are friendly you'll find them very easy to get along with. Come on, and I'll introduce you to some of them."

The little orchestra was tuning up, and a patient who had been installed as floor manager was giving a correct imitation of a sane man who had been thrown under the same trying responsibility.

Melton had attended many evening parties, but he felt a new embarrassment as he passed along a line of demure women patients and bowed to each of them in turn. He shook hands with several of the men and then backed up to the wall to watch the opening. The superintendent, standing beside him, said:

"Oh, by the way, you must meet Miss Caldwell."

He beckoned to a young woman who was talking to the leader of the orchestra, and as she came across the room Melton whistled to himself and said:

"Here's a case of blighted love, and she's not over 20."

"Miss Caldwell, I want to present Mr. Melton," said the superintendent. "He's rather bashful in company, but perhaps you can entertain him. Now I'll go and look after Lowry."

Melton found himself staring at a very pretty girl, who returned his gaze in a half frightened manner.

His head buzzed, and he never before was so much in want of a topic. How was he to begin a conversation with a young woman who might fancy him to be the prince who had come to rescue her from the tower?

"Do you dance?" he asked in a sudden desperation.

She gave a start, and he imagined that she shrank back a little.

"I'd rather not," said she timidly.

"Well, then, let's sit over here in the corner and watch the others."

They found an out of the way place, and Melton, who had recovered a little, remembered the instructions given him by the superintendent.

"These dances are very pleasant little affairs," said he. "They seem to be attended by an agreeable lot of people."

"I think it's a good idea to have them," said she. "You know most of these people, of course?"

"I've met a number of them," he replied.

"You like Mr. Lucas, don't you?"

"Very well indeed; nice fellow."

"He didn't tell you, did he, that I was a cousin of his?"

Mr. Melton began to suspect the nature of her delusion. He resolved to be diplomatic.

"Oh, yes, I knew that," he said. "So you're a cousin of Mr. Lucas?"

"Yes, I'm here visiting him. I've been here about two weeks. Mrs. Lucas is so good to all the—people here, isn't she?"

"Yes, indeed. She's very considerate."

Melton now understood the situation. This girl did not know that she was in an asylum. They had told her that she was a visitor.

"It's a nice place to come for a visit," said he. "I came out here with a friend of mine, a gentleman named Lowry. I live in Chicago."

"Oh, yes. Well, I'm sure you'll like it out here."

"I'm sorry I can't stay longer. I'm going back to town tonight on the late train."

"Going away tonight?"

"Yes, I have to go to Milwaukee in the morning."

"Why do you have to go there?"

"I'm going up to see about a deal in lumber. I may buy some hardwood lumber up there."

"How much?" she asked.

"Well, she's inquisitive enough," thought he, but he was tolerant and answered, "Oh, perhaps 1,000,000 feet."

"Oh, 1,000,000 feet! Won't that be nice? I hope you'll get it."

Melton was rather amused at her interest in his affairs. He began to question her.

"Will you remain here long?" he asked.

"No, I'm going to leave in a few days and go to New York. I have an uncle there, and I expect to take a trip with him on a yacht."

Melton repressed a smile at the references to the "uncle" and the "yacht." He resolved to investigate further. He had heard that patients were always willing to talk of their delusions.

"I notice that you are wearing an engagement ring," said he. "So you are to be married, are you?"

For a moment she appeared startled and then she laughed heartily.

"I'm engaged to one of the nicest fellows in the world," said she. "You're not jealous, are you?"

This was more than Melton had bargained for. He had been impelled by the curiosity of the student, but he was not enough of a ghoul to have fun with the delusions of an unfortunate girl. He had detected the maniacal tone in her laugh.

"Oh, no," said he hastily. "I congratulate you."

She laughed again.

"If I remain here, I'll have her violent," thought he. So he excused himself and hurried over to rejoin Lowry.

As they rode to the city on the late train Melton told Lowry that the most interesting patient he had met was a girl who thought she was only a visitor at the asylum, and who expected to go to New York and ride on a yacht, and who, saddest of all, wore an engagement ring and really believed she was soon to be married to some nice young man who existed only in her disordered brain.

No longer ago than last week Melton was at luncheon in a quiet restaurant. He looked up from the bill of fare and saw at the next table—the asylum girl.

She was radiantly attired and was chatting gayly with an elderly woman.

"By George, she's cured," said Melton to himself. "I wonder if she remembers anything that happened. If she does remember, it will be mighty embarrassing if she happens to recognize me."

Then he asked himself whether it would be proper to speak to her in case she recognized him. He knew the society rule as to ballroom introductions, but he had never learned what was good form in the case of asylum introductions. If he spoke to her, he would have to refer to their former meeting. That would be painful to both of them.

Suddenly the pretty girl looked toward him and gave a startled "Oh!" and then blushed furiously. He was recognized. He simply stared at the bill of fare to hide his confusion.

The voice of Superintendent Lucas aroused him.

"This is Mr. Melton, isn't it? Come over here. I want to tell you a story."

"No, no," exclaimed the young woman.

But Mr. Lucas, who had come into the restaurant to keep his appointment with the women, seized Melton by the arm and led him over to the other table.

"Mary," said he to the elderly woman, "this is Mr. Melton, who came out with Lowry that night. Melton, I'm going to tell you this. You've met Miss Caldwell."

The girl's face was one fiery blush, and she seemed ready to cry.

"Well, sir," said the superintendent without pity, "she met me that evening you were out there and told me that the most interesting patient she had met was that Mr. Melton. She said you seemed to be all right until you started to talk about lumber."

"I'll never speak to you again," said Miss Caldwell decisively.

"And, by the way," continued Mr. Lucas, "she says you asked her if she was engaged."

"Really I must apologize," said Melton, a great light breaking in upon him. "I wouldn't have talked that way only I thought—well, you didn't say—I supposed she was one"—

"What!" exclaimed the girl.

Mr. Lucas roared and poor Melton collapsed. Then there was a general understanding. They insisted that he take luncheon with them, and he did so, devoting the entire time to a labored explanation.—Chicago Record.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 18. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Are we doing our best?—Math. v, 13-16; xxv, 14-30. (A meeting to consider the committee work of the society.)

This is a very practical and appropriate Christian Endeavor topic. No better could have been selected for the opening meeting of a vigorous fall and winter campaign. The meeting should be arranged so as to give each committee, as a committee, a part on the programme.

To do our best we must have the best ideal before us and earnestly strive to reach it. Therefore we could do nothing better perhaps than suggest some of the characteristis of an ideal committee, no matter what the character of its work may be.

1. An ideal committee must have an ideal chairman. The importance of having the best chairmen possible has been often emphasized. It cannot be too often emphasized. The most important duty of a new speaker of the house of representatives is the selection of the chairmen of the various committees. Upon the ability and fidelity of the chairman the success of every committee very largely depends.

2. An ideal committee must have ideal members. A good leader is the first necessity. Good followers are the second. To do his best a good leader needs good followers. Napoleon's great success depended no more upon his own brilliant abilities than it did upon the unswerving fidelity and loyalty of his private soldiers. Every member of a committee should feel his personal responsibility for the success of the work of the committee. A committee can only do its best when each member of it does his best.

3. An ideal committee should have a definite aim before it. It will not do to change the methods of work every month. One good line of policy should be laid out and should be vigorously followed. Singleness of purpose is one of the greatest necessities to success in any line of work.

4. An ideal committee should be a working committee. The society is the church at work. Success crowns great labor, and to have success we must work. A committee will not run itself. Each member must be actively engaged in the work.

5. An ideal committee will not neglect monthly meetings and written monthly reports. These meetings and reports keep all informed. Information keeps up interest, and personal interest insures success.

Bible Readings.—Deut. vi, 4-12; Neh. iv, 1-9; Ps. xxv, 1-10; xxvii, 1; lxxxix, 1-7; xcii, 1-5; Mal. iii, 8-12; Math. v, 13-16; xxviii, 19, 20; Acts ii, 41-47; Rom. xii, 1, 2; Gal. vi, 9; Phil. iii, 7-15; Col. iii, 16, 17; Heb. xii, 1, 2.

To Whom Honor Is Due.

There is a story of a man who won many souls to Christ, and was proud of it. One night it was disclosed to him that none of the honor would be given to him on the last day. It was a dream. He eagerly asked the angel upon whom the honor would fall. The angel replied, "The deaf old man who sits on the pulpit stairs and prays for you is the means of blessing." May God multiply the number of such helpers. We will cheerfully accord them the best seat in the pulpit rather than on the stairs.—Selected.

Christ's Sympathy.

Alone? Ah, no; not alone. Human sympathy is imperfect. Friendship has its limitations, but it is a truth as incomprehensible as the divine love itself that in the hour of our need the fullness of Christ's strength is perfected. There are angles and recesses in our heart that Jesus alone can fill. No understanding but His can reach the utmost depths of our grief. His sympathy is perfect. This is tribulation's boon—in our sorrow we learn to know Christ.—William T. Ellis.

Christian Endeavor Extension.

Many of the churches that are now without Christian Endeavor societies would gladly welcome the movement to their midst could they be given to understand the true character and purpose of the society and could they receive some assistance in organization from Christian Endeavor workers. Here is a proper field of missionary effort for even the humblest Christian Endeavorer.—Golden Rule.

Good For Young People.

Speaking of Christian Endeavor activity in municipal reforms, that able Baptist newspaper, The Standard, says: "Provided they enter this field with discretion and under wise direction, we know of no public service which is more appropriate for Christian young people."

In the Czar's Domain.

Pastor Blecher writes to us from Germany that inquiries have come to him from Russia concerning the Christian Endeavor society, and he is hopeful that ere long the influence of Christian Endeavor will be felt in the land of the czars.—Exchange.

Points to Ponder.

A president should criticise chiefly by his example.

Pray, pray, pray! Pray yet again for the great convention.

Warm socials and cold prayer meetings indicate lukewarm spirituality.

The first step toward uselessness is taken when a worker becomes egotistical.

Your society has blossomed bountifully and beautifully. Now what of the fruit?

The Christian Endeavor pledge binds your gifts to the altar of your denomination.

The pledge's "whatever" takes from the Christian Endeavorer the right to do as he pleases.

Take Christ with you to your business and He will go with you to the prayer meeting.

PLAN A MONTE CARLO

CHICAGO MEN MAY IMITATE EUROPE'S FAMOUS RESORT.

Said to Be Negotiating to Purchase Mackinac Island From the Government—The Place Is Full of Historical Interest and Would Attract Immense Crowds.

Alexander D. Hannah and David Hogg wish to purchase Mackinac island from the United States government. They are members of the Chicago firm of Hannah & Hogg and both are now at their cottages on the island. Reports in Chicago, confirmed by the numerous rumors this summer that they were contemplating a deal of this nature, are to the effect that they had made arrangements to secure entire control of the island and make it the greatest pleasure resort in the country. They are wealthy men and could easily do what it is believed they intend to if Uncle Sam gives his consent.

As liquor dealers they always have been caterers to the pleasure seeking public in Chicago and with great success. Mackinac island offers to them a greater field than anything they have attempted, and that they will secure the beauty spot, if the government is willing, none of their friends in Chicago doubts.

Their reported plans contemplate the construction on the island of a casino somewhat similar to the one at Monte Carlo.

Drinking and bathing places constructed on an elaborate scale will be had and all of the beauty spots of the island utilized to provide enjoyable retreats for wealthy Chicagoans who seek northern waters every summer. Detroit people would be attracted as well to such a resort, and Duluth and other northwestern cities would contribute their quota of gayety seekers.

The money of the two merchants is to be utilized in making the old fort, the National park, the Devil's Kitchen, Sugar Loaf, Arch rock, Skull cave and Fairy arch far more attractive than they are now, and that is saying a good deal. Music, the fascinations of gaming, the finest bathing and water sport, historic scenery and absence of all legal control save that of the government, would make Mackinac what all who have ever enjoyed Monte Carlo might wish it to be.

The old fort on the island has long been abandoned by the government, and the sale of the ground now would in no sense be a loss to it. The success near Chicago of water resorts like Windsor Park Beach, St. Joe and Manhattan Beach and the proposed establishment by the owners of the Christopher Columbus of a pier and casino midway between Chicago and Milwaukee are reasons why Messrs. Hannah & Hogg have cast their eyes longingly on fair Mackinac.

By steamer the island is less than 24 hours from Chicago. The northern ride by water is a delightful one. The island itself is charming. Lying as it does almost at the joining of Lakes Michigan, Superior and Huron, its location as a big watering resort is unsurpassed. The island was originally devoted to purposes of war, and in every part of it Americans, Indians and the English have contested for supremacy. Mystic Indian traditions invest the spot with romantic interest. Evidences of the desperate battle of 1814 are still plainly visible. Two hundred feet above the village of Mackinac stands the old fort, with its stone walls and blockhouses. The climate is delightful at least nine months of the year.

For what sum the government would dispose of the island or lease it is not known, but the proposed investment of the two Chicagoans will represent, if made, $500,000. Their local representatives and friends more or less intimate with their plans believe that they will make an effort to secure control of the island and open there next summer the largest and finest casino on this continent.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Names and Trades.

That men bearing certain Christian names are found in large numbers in particular trades is undoubtedly true, but it isn't easy to prove it. However, some of the visitors in Canton on the day the Tippecanoe club went there noticed a peculiar incident that went far to establish the foregoing theory. A feature of the parade was the turnout of butchers, who presented a fine appearance.

Just as they turned a corner into Tuscarawas street a young fellow on the sidewalk shouted:

"Hello, Louie."

Instantly 20 or more sturdy butchers turned ther heads quickly to see who was calling and hastily answered in chorus:

"Hello!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Mrs. Six No. 6.

Mrs. Grace Six, who claims to be the sixth living wife of Allen Six, well known in southwest Missouri and southeast Kansas, arrived at Fort Scott, Kan., the other day after a drive of 33 miles and caused the arrest of her husband on the charge of bigamy. He was found in hiding and was secretly taken from jail and driven to Girard to prevent his release by legal proceedings. Three women living at Pond Creek, O. T.; one at Frontenac, Kan., and one at Walker, Mo., all claiming to be his wives, are interested in the prosecution. They say he has four other wives, two of whom live in Michigan. Mrs. Six No. 6 attached his jewelry and trunks and his carriage team. She followed him to Girard to prosecute him.

A VISIT TO GEORGIA

Washburn and Reed Want to Have a Talk With Tom Watson.

No Bribe Offered the Latter to Secure Silence.

Denial of Stories of Friction With Leaders of Democrat c Party.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—George F. Washburn, chairman of the Chicago branch of the Populist national campaign committee, and H. W. Reed, the committeeman from the state of Georgia, and the personal friends of Mr. Watson, left for the home of Mr. Watson last night. Mr. Washburn had with him the letter of Mr. Watson, accepting the nomination of the Populist party for the vice presidency. The letter will not, in all probability, be made public until after these men have had their interview with Mr. Watson.

It is said on the best of authority that the actual object of the visit to Mr. Watson is the desire to have a talk with him over the general situation, and to explain to him several matters in the conduct of the campaign from the Populist standpoint that have not met with the approval of the nominee for the vice presidency. There will be no effort made to get Mr. Watson to consent to the removal of his name from the ticket in favor of Mr. Sewall.

In reply to the statement that Mr Washburn had been called to account by Chairman Jones of the Democratic committee, and Chairman Butler of the Populist committee, because of his persistency in demanding the substitution of Mr. Watson for Mr. Sewall on the national ticket, Mr. Washburn said: "This is just as willful and malicous a lie as the statement that our executive committee submitted its report to Chairman Jones before issuing it to the public, or that Senator Jones had authorized our committee to make any overtures in the way of a cabinet position, or otherwise, to Mr. Watson, to secure his silence.

"From the beginning of the campaign to the present time, I have aggressively and fearlessly insisted upon the recognition and the rights of our candidate, Mr Watson, and of the interests of the People's party, and shall continue to do so until the end of the campaign.

"The statement that there has been any friction with our Washington headquarters, or with Senator Jones, is also an infamous lie. My position has been fully understood and respected, and, notwithstanding my advocacy of Mr. Watson's rights, my line of action has been in perfect harmony with Senator Butler and our committee, and while I have, at all times passed our rights vigorously upon Senator Jones, there has at no time since my arrival here been an unpleasant word between us, or a single misunderstanding.

"Mr. Washburn what have you to say in regard to the telegram this morning from Mr. Watson to Mr. Steinberger of Kansas, stating that the Middle-of-the Road Populists had been sold out, and that their party had been made a foot mat for Democratic politicians?"

"I do not believe that Mr. Watson said this, or sent such a telegram. If it be true, he probably had reference to the state to which the telegram was sent, because in that state the Democrats endorsed the Populist state ticket, and the Populist legislative candidates, who are to elect a Populist senator. This was done in exchange for a straight Bryan and Sewall electoral ticket, with the understanding that all the electors should vote for the vice presidential candidate receiving the highest number of electors outside of that state."

Political Talk to Reform Club.

Boston, Oct. 17.—The Massachusetts Reform club held a meeting last night, with speakers of national reputation as guests. Ex-Secretary of the Treasury Fairchild was the principal speaker, and made a strong address in behalf of the gold standard. He defended the administration of President Cleveland, and his denunciations of the Populistic attack, in connection with the president's course at the time of the Chicago riots, were received with great applause. Mr. Fairchild expressed a great hopefulness and confidence regarding the situation, and the outcome of the election. President Eliot of Harvard followed Mr. Fairchild. He said the legislation of our country, with regard to the currency, has resulted inevitably in a great confusion of the mind of the people concerning the nature of a dollar. "It seems to me," he said, "that this is by far the most instructive campaign which has taken place within my memory, looking at it simply as an opportunity, a means of enlightening the people, of bringing home to them new facts, new information, and, more than that, of training them in reasoning, teaching them not only to observe the fact, to select the fact which is valuable, but to infer from that fact justly, rightly to a wise conclusion."

A Record Breaker.

Lansing, Oct. 17.—Michigan outdid itself yesterday, in welcoming William J. Bryan, and the nominee returned the compliment by breaking campaign records. He spoke to 23 meetings, beginning at 7 o'clock in the morning at Muskegon, and ending at Lansing close to midnight. Most of the candidate's hearers yesterday belonged to the farming class, and at nearly every town the vehicles which had carried them in lined the side streets. Mrs. Bryan accompanied her husband to every platform from which he spoke, and when his addresses were made from the rear of the car, she stood by his side. Floral tributes were literally showered upon her, and one end of the private car was nearly filled with the fragrant offerings. At many stations she gratified the crowds by distributing posies from the rear of the car.

Visitors From Afar.

Canton, O., Oct. 17. — Among Major McKinley's visitors yesterday was a party coming from the northern peninsula of Michigan. They were on the way two whole days, having started from Calumet, Houghton and vicinity Wednesday. The party was small, and made no formal demonstration, but called at the house, where they had a friendly visit with Major McKinley.

Sticks to Gold Ticket.

New York, Oct. 17.—Among the passengers on the Lucania last night, was William R. Grace. Before his departure for Europe, Mr. Grace declared in favor of a Gold Democratic ticket. His mind has not changed. "I am for the National Democratic ticket," said Mr. Grace. "There is no other course for me to pursue. I shall not take any particularly active part in the campaign, nor do I think that I will make any speeches."

Hearty Greeting to Soldiers.

Exnia, O., Oct. 17.—Ten thousand people were in Exnia yesterday, and a monster procession from all parts of the county paraded the streets, as a greeting to the soldier speakers, Generals Alger, Sickles, Sigel, Corporal Tanner and General Howard. They spoke from a stand in the middle of the crossing of the two main streets of the town. It was the largest meeting since Blaine was here in 1876.

Reed Laid Up.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Thomas B. Reed is in Chicago with a sore throat. It may be a week before he can resume work on the stump. He reached Fort Wayne Thursday, and spoke that night. When he got up yesterday he was unable to speak above a whisper. Failing to improve during the day, he cancelled engagements at Cambridge and Peru, and came to Chicago to consult a physician.

Fraud is Charged.

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 17.—The United States court here has appointed J. A. McCauley receiver for the Bay State Gas company. The receiver was applied for by a bill in equity brought by William Buchanan of New York, against the corporation. Buchanan is a tobacco merchant, and senior member of the firm of Buchanan & Lyall. He holds $100,000 of the total issue of $2,000,000 income bonds made by the company, in May, 1889. The case was presented to the court on Wednesday. The bill is brought in behalf of Buchanan and all other bondholders who may join in it. In brief, it sets up the failure of the company since May, 1893, to pay the interest upon these income bonds, charges this default to the illegal and fraudulent disposition of the company's assets, asks that the defendant be ordered to pay the back interest; and also asks that receivers be appointed to preserve the assets of the defendant from further misappropriations.

To Avenge His Daughter.

Norwood, Mass., Oct. 17.—John Drummey, employed at Smith's tannery, assaulted and tried to kill Cornelius Hurley, employed at Winslow's tannery, yesterday afternoon. Drummey drove over to Winslow's tannery and called Hurley into the office. He said to Hurley: "You are my victim," then fired a shot at him, but the ball did not hit him. He then grabbed Hurley, hit his head against the glass door and pounded him severely. Drummey then jumped into his carriage, drove town town and gave himself up to the police. Drummey bears a good character, and has been employed in Smith's tannery 14 years. He alleges that Hurley has been unduly intimate with his daughter. Hurley is 35 years old, and has lately been married. Drummey's daughter is 15 years old.

Professor Whiting's Will.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 17.—The will of the late Professor Harold Whiting was filed for probate yesterday, and among the bequests is one of $20,000 to the Regents university of California, the income to be used for the physical department. Professor Whiting, with his wife, four children and three servants, all went down, with 180 others, on the ill-fated Colima, which was wrecked off the Mexican coast, May 27, 1895. The Whitings were on their way to Boston, after an absence of six years on the Pacific coast, and the will is dated Berkley, Alameda county, Cal., in 1894.

A Needless Scare.

Willimantic, Conn., Oct. 17.—Bank Commissioner Edward R. Doyle of Hartford, in relation to the state of affairs in the Willimantic Savings institute, says: "The depositors in this bank have become somewhat nervous at reports which have been circulated in regard to its stability, and a run has been made upon the ready cash. The directors thought it best to take advantage of the four months' law, and that has been done. I believe the bank to be perfectly sound. There is no defalcation, and the assets exceed the liabilities."

Freight Wreck in Connecticut.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 17.—As the 5:40 p. m., Naugatuck division freight train was crossing the interlocking switches going into the yard, the engine jumped a frog and was thrown from the rails, tore its way along the ties for nearly 200 feet. Six cars were derailed. The latter were speedily placed on the rails, but the engine, which was thrown at nearly right angles with the track, had to be literally torn to pieces before it could be removed. Nobody was hurt.

The Wages of Sin.

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 17.—The coroner's jury in the sensational death of Mrs. Carrie Meloon, which occurred in Dr. C. M. Dodge's office, Oct. 8, has rendered a verdict that the woman died of an embolism of the heart, and that she had also recently submitted to a criminal operation. No attempt is made to determine who performed the operation.

Chicago Exchange to Reopen.

Chicago, Oct. 71.—The Chicago Stock Exchange will reopen Nov. 5. This decision was reached at a meeting of the committee in charge yesterday. The exchange has been closed since Aug. 4 on account of the failure of the Moore Bros., and the resulting complications in which Diamond Match and New York Biscuit stocks were involved.

Death of Wife Murderer.

Bangor, Me., Oct. 7.—Captain William Clark of the schooner Ira Laffarier, who killed his wife, Lillian N. Clark, at their home in Hampden on Thursday afternoon, is dead. He did not regain consciousness after he shot himself. It was decided, in view of the plain circumstances of the case, not to hold an inquest.

Atlanta Bank Fails.

Atlanta, Oct. 17.—The Merchants' bank closed its doors yesterday and posted a notice of assignment. The failure of the bank, which is a state institution, was due to a persistent fight made by outsiders on President J. H. Porter. The president says that depositors will get every dollar back.

Europa's Cargo on Fire.

London, Oct. 17.—The German steamer Europa, from Antwerp for New York, previously reported as having put into Plymouth on Oct. 10 in a leaky condition and with her cargo shifted, has met with further disaster at Plymouth, her cargo having caught fire and been damaged to the extent of several thousand pounds.

TYNAN HAD A MISSION.

Says It Was Accomplished Before His Arrest Occurred.

Is Unconditionally Released From French Prison.

Not Concerned In Plot Against Czar, but Believes In Dynamite.

Boulogne-Sur-Mer, Oct. 16.—P. J. Tynan, whose extradition to England was refused by the French government, is a free man. He was unconditionally released from prison last evening. There is no question of expulsion from French territory or surveillance. He will go to Paris today, and will sail for New York from Cherbourg by the next steamer, with two American friends.

P. P. J. TYNAN.

When he came out of the prison, he was looking healthy. He was apparently none the worse for his 33 days' detention; in fact, he said that he had had a fairly good time, the officials having treated him with every consideration.

Tynan sent two cablegrams, one to his wife at Audubon Park, telling her of his release, the other to William Lyman, treasurer of the Irish National league of America.

To an American correspondent, Tynan said: "Whatever the nature of my mission to Europe was, it has been more successful than I anticipated. I look forward to the establishment in the near future of an independent Irish republic. The object of my visit was not what was attributed to it by the press. There was never any idea of a plot against the czar, and there was never an idea of doing any injury to the Queen of Great Britain, poor old lady. That's an absurdity. We Irishmen have nothing to do with things of that sort. We are honorable in our warfare. As for the czar, I would myself stand between him and danger, as I would between danger and my own son.

"Exactly what the nature of my mission was I cannot say, but I may tell you this. I am no believer in the anarchistic ideas of the general destruction of persons and property. If you are the father of a family, as I am, you can rest easy that no harm could ever come to any one of your children from any act of mine. I wouldn't hurt a hair of a dog in the street.

"I believe in dynamite as a weapon of war, and we Irish Nationalists are at war with Great Britain.

"The Irish people in America proved their union in Chicago last October, when I was a delegate to the convention there, by establishing an Irish National alliance, a public organization for the establishment of an Irish republic.

"The object of alliance is plainly stated, and it means to attain that object, it is equally plainly stated, by force. I include dynamite and every other method of warfare in force, just as the United States government includes the Zalisky gun.

"Talking of dynamite, the first use of it known in history was the blowing up by the English of the Basuto chief, Aoecichinis, in a cave, when 10,000 men, women and babies were blown to atoms."

A Cold-Hearted Villian.

Upper Marlboro, Md., Oct. 16.—James Smith, the murderer of Margaret Drown, admitted his guilt in open court yesterday, and after evidence had been given in compliance with the law governing cases in which capital punishment may be inflicted, was sentenced to be hanged. The brutal slayer and traducer of an innocent girl manifested not the slightest emotion at any time, and recounted the circumstances of the crime with the utmost unconcern.

Slow Sailing.

Boston, Oct. 16.—The banana steamer Brookline, from Jamaica, arrived yesterday, after a hard tussle with the recent hurricane. The Brookline followed the storm all the way up from Florida, encountering its southern edge a number of times. During the trip the safety valve of the starboard engine blew off, and the ballast water tanks sprung aleak. From Sunday afternoon until Tuesday noon the steamer only made 29 miles.

Lasted but Four Rounds.

Waterbury, Conn., Oct. 16.—A prize fight, in which the principals were Louis Webster, known as the "East Norwalk cyclone," and Mike Hughes of New York, was pulled off in a barn on the outskirts of Waterbury last night. The bout was to be 10 rounds, for $250, but a cross hook blow on the jaw in the fourth round knocked Hughes out. The men fought at catch weights.

For Self-Protection.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—The Butter, Egg and Poultry association is the name of a new organization formed here yesterday, to protect the dealer from the commission men. It was stated that there was no assurance that shippers would get market-quoted prices, because the commission men made no efforts to protect the shippers, and left them practically at the mercy of the buyers.

Diplomats Out In Force.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Yesterday was diplomatic day at the department of state, and for the first time in nearly seven months the diplomats were out in force. Among those who saw Secretary Olney were the French and German ambassadors, the Russian, Spanish and Venezuelan ministers, and representatives of Denmark, Guatemala and Honduras.

A WHITEWASH.

Adams Academy Beaten by Its Old Rival, Thayer Academy.

The two rivals, Thayer Academy and Adams Academy, met at Merry Mount park Friday afternoon and played a somewhat one sided game of football. Adams did the Thayer boys at the dual games but when it came to football Adams was not in it at all. Thayer was much the heavier of the two teams and this with their superior interference made victory easy, although Adams held them well in the first half.

Two twenty-minutes halves were played. In the first half Adams kicked off and Thayer made steady gains and would have scored early but for the fine tackling of Taylor. It lacked but three minutes of the end of the first half when Arnold carried the ball over the line for the first touchdown for Thayer but failed to kick a goal. Half time was called with the ball in Adams territory. Score, 4 to 0.

Thayer kicked off in the second half and a poor pass allowed Thayer to make a touch down inside of three minutes. A goal was kicked, and the score was 10 to 0. Repeated long runs by Waite, Arnold and Hayden made it possible for Thayer to secure three more touchdowns before time was called, and goals being kicked, the final score was 28 to 0.

Political Potpourri.

Ex-Mayor Fairbanks, who presided at the meeting of the Metropolitan club last evening said in his opening speech that he had been in the wheat business himself and knew something about the true reason for the fall in the price of that commodity. He said it was merely a question of supply and demand. We had been raising recently an unusually large amount of wheat. The farmers had been told that if we had free silver the price of wheat would go up. This had all been dispelled recently when the price of wheat had advanced greatly, while the price of silver had been going down steadily. The price of oats, wheat and corn was governed by the laws of nature. It was a question of large or small crops. (Applause.)

The Hyde Park representative district has a democratic Independent candidate—John Mc Kenna.

It looks as if Judge Flint might have a walkover in this senatorial district, for John V. Scollard of Braintree has declined the Democratic nomination first given to Hon. W. N. Eaton of Quincy, and it is too late to fill the vacancy.

The nomination papers of Erastus Worthington for clerk of courts contained 500 names, 308 more than required by law.

Boston and Maine Excursions.

The Boston and Maine railroad inaugurates today a series of Boston excursions from New Hampshire towns, which in the past have proved very popular, allowing people to make an annual pilgrimage to "The Hub" for a small sum. They will be run from different points every day until Nov. 1, and the Food fair and other Boston amusements will profit.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Mr. Beattie has been in New York state this week, but will return in time to begin with his classes Tuesday evening. The classes will not be so over-crowded as in past years, owing to so many men leaving the city and others desiring to take commercial and other studies. Owing to the smaller number and the news casts secured, there is no doubt that the quality of work will surpass that of other years.

The attendance at the orchestral rehearsals during the past two weeks has been excellent. Director Chase has been unable to meet with the men on account of an accident, but hopes to be on hand next week.

The Quincy Association considers itself fortunate in securing the services of Prof. Condy, as the Boston Association made an effort to secure him after he had been engaged by the local Association.

The gymnasium classes have been held regularly this week, both for men and boys. The attendance was fair.

The Sloyd school at Wollaston will open one week from Monday in the room adjoining V. J. Emery's store, near the depot. The room is a great improvement over the crowded quarters of last year, and additional benches can be put in if necessary.

Herr Buechler the well-known lecturer and instructor in sacred song will conduct the song service Sunday at 3.30. Prof. Buechler has a national reputation, having been connected with some of the leading musical organizations of the country. He is a graduate of the conservatory of music of both Berlin and Munich. He takes the best known hymns and gets more music out of an ordinary audience than nearly any man living. The service will be held in the gymnasium and will be open to all men and boys.

The annual meeting and election of officers will be held Wednesday, Oct. 21, at 8 o'clock. A full attendance of members is desired.

The Late Mrs. Bunker.

A writer in the Nantucket Inquirer and Mirror has the following tribute to the mother of Mrs. L. W. Wood of this city:

"In the death of Mrs. Bunker a great loss is felt by all who came under her mild and gentle influence. Possessed of a warm, loving and sympathetic heart, her ear was ever open to the calls of charity, and her hands to relieve the wants of the needy and suffering. She was truly a ministering angel to all with whom she came in contact. Possessed of natural buoyant spirits, she shed a kindly light all around, ever soothing, ever encouraging with kind and cheering words to make others happy. A most devoted and affectionate mother and grandmother, fondly cherished and almost adored by her two children, warmly attached to her brother and sisters, who deeply mourn their loss. A devoted christian, ever trying to please her Saviour, to whom in her early youth she gave her heart. Her memory will long be cherished by her many friends, who, while they mourn their loss, will hope to meet her in that better land where partings are unknwn and sickness and sorrow never come."

All the Election News.

In these days, just before the Presidential election, the interest of all readers centres in the news of the participants in the great contest. The throngs visiting Gov. McKinley at Canton, the speeches of Mr. Bryan, the universal rallies—all these command special attention from everyone, and the paper which gives the best political news is the one generally sought. The Boston Journal's admirable news service is unequaled, and all the latest and most complete information from the political field is to be found in its columns. On the morning after election look out for the Boston Journal's complete report. It will be the best in New England.

—It is announced that the tax rate for the village of Ridgefield Park for the year 1896 will be $6.55 on $100 assessment, or $65.50 on $1,000. This is looked upon as ruinous, as many small property-owners will be unable to meet the assessment.

—The demand from abroad for American wheat, is without precedent. It is due principally to the failure of the Russian, Indian and Argentine crops.

—John W. Corcoran says he will retire from politics right away, just as soon as the present Democratic muddle is ended. He has had enough.

—People who say they never saw such weather before really mean that they don't remember that they ever did.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

Sensational Journalism and Notorious Actresses—Two Canine Stars. Theater Hat War.

[Special Correspondence.]

One very objectionable feature of the sensational newspapers in New York is the attractive manner in which vice is painted. When the Barrison sisters, who were expelled from Germany because they were too depraved for the Teuton's taste, arrived in this city recently, a sensational morning paper devoted over four columns of pictures and type to a description of the notorious quintet. They were described as the "beautiful, bad little Barrisons," as the "bad and beautiful sisters" and as the "five naughty Barrisons." Lona, the eldest, "wore a neat little gray tailor made gown and a queer little English pork pie hat, and she had rows and rows of joggling dandelion curls hanging about her chubby, serious little face. She looked for all the world like a very small, very naughty kitten. Inga looked exactly like an impudent little Skye terrier, and Olga looked like a prim little down east boarding school girl, with a wicked eye."

Anything in print more vicious or depraving than the exploiting and lionizing of five women notorious on two continents for their wickedness cannot be well imagined.

Another Case In Point.

Equally disgusting was the manner in which the newspapers treated a woman who came here from France for the purpose of singing vulgar songs which would not be tolerated even in New York if they were translated into English. One paper had its star man interview her, and an entire page was given up to the result, which was maudlin in its idiocy and repulsive in its suggestiveness. The "lady," it was explained with great gusto by the scribe, had no time to dress and appeared in her nightclothes, with only a light wrapper thrown over them.

And this is metropolitan journalism!

In the Marlborough hotel the other evening an amusing scene was presented by the collision between Brownie, a dog owned by John R. Rodgers—ex-husband of Minnie Palmer—and another animal belonging to a well known theatrical "angel." Trained stage dogs are the thing just now, and, while one small poodle plays the piano at Koster & Bial's and another does acrobatic acts at Hammerstein's, Brownie elevates the stage in "Miss Brown." Brownie is a collie, with long hair and dignified bearing and on this occasion was patiently awaiting his master's pleasure in the Marlborough bar. Then came the "angel" with a typical heavy villain of 44 caliber at his heels in the ugly shape of a bulldog. The latter was "at liberty," which in theatrical parlance means looking for an engagement. He found one. In about two seconds the two dogs were rolling over the floor and presenting to the nonexpert an apparition of 16 tails, a dozen or more legs and not less than 40 distinct yowls.

Then Came the Tug of War.

Both owners and the entire crowd, re-enforced from Broadway, at once climbed over the footlights and took a hand in the play. A self appointed stage manager undertook to separate the heavy villain from his supposed victim, when it was found that the educated collie had the bulldog by the cheek and the latter had the collie by the fore leg. A blow from a cane leveled at the dogs hit a man on the nose and caused his gore to mingle with the crimson of the dogs that sprinkled the marble floor. A tug of war was formed, and the question whether a few coattails or the dogs would come apart first was soon decided in favor of the latter, the cheek of the bulldog parting company with the rest of his anatomy. Then a policeman came in and arrested a man who had nothing whatever to do with the show, having just came in for a drink.

Doom of the Theater Hat.

The theater hat appears to be doomed. Everybody says so, and what everybody says must be so. The nuisance, all theater goers admit, has become almost intolerable here, and war has been declared against it by many of the managers of houses. This season's hat is really enough to provoke a riot. And did you ever notice that the big hat and most gorgeous plumes are invariably in the front rows—in the most conspicuous part of the house, where the view is to be more easily and generally obstructed? Another thing worthy of scientific investigation—the theater hat comes mostly with the baldheaded man. I have been making some observations recently. They seem to flock together by some correlation. Much has been said of bald heads in the front row. It has been set down as one of the crimes of old age, and as having direct reference to pretty girls, shapely figures and stage diaphaneity. But is this really deserved? My own impression is that many baldheaded and otherwise excellent gentlemen are dragged to the front rows by the theater hat. The theater hat comes to be seen, and where better can it be seen than in the front, where nothing else can be seen at the same time? As the baldheaded man is attached to the hat he is necessarily forced into the front rows, where he becomes an object of invidious distinction.

The Coming Opera Season.

This is the time of the year when the wily press agent of the Metropolitan Opera House sends out his announcements to the effect that "the coming season of grand opera will be the most brilliant this city has ever seen." The press agent is all right. He is paid to do that sort of thing, and a little exaggeration is expected of him. As a matter of cold, hard fact, however, the coming season will not be the most "brilliant" we have had by a long chalk. Lasalle is to be the principal baritone where we had Maurel, the incomparable, last year and the year before. There will be other faces missing too.

Change of Time.

The Brockton street railway company has changed its running time between Brockton and Holbrook to once an hour, and the change has caused no small amount of unfavorable comment. Cars now leave the Holbrook terminus for Brockton at 6 10 6.20, 7 10, A. M. and every hour until 10.10 P. M. and on Sundays 8.10 A. M. and hourly till 10.10 P. M.

Superintendent Weeks of the Braintree street railway company regrets the change but he is bound to give Braintree as good accommodations as possible and he will probably run cars once an hour from Quincy to connect at Holbrook and a half hour later a car from Quincy to Randolph. This will give Braintree people the half hour service the same as now, and two routes to Brockton, instead of one; though the Randolph route is about two miles farther.

The travelling public does not take kindly to changes unless they are in the line of progress, and the people of Braintree, so far as we can learn, appreciate the efforts made by Mr. Weeks in the line of prompt and accommodating service.—Braintree Observer.

—The Massachusetts Ploughman says that apples handled in damp weather are more liable to rot afterwards. They should be sorted on a bright, dry day. After stowing, keep out the light as completely as possible. Apples keep best and retain best flavor in a dark, cool and fairly moist cellar. Ventilate the cellar on cool nights, and thus keep the temperature low.

—The Milford Journal says "Nothing but death can stop John L. Bates of East Boston from being the next speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives." We hope he will be more honorable and just in his ruling than Speaker Meyer was last year. Such men as Meyer should not be allowed in prominent public places.

—The people of Dorchester who do not like whiskey-selling in their vicinity, says the Boston Record, are making a vigorous fight in the police board against transferring saloons into the Dorchester neighborhood after once declining to do so. Gen. Martin seems to sympathize heartily with Dorchester, and most decent people do, too, we fancy.

Speaking in Public.

To the Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Elocution is the art of expressing thoughts clearly and forcibly in pure, simple language. Oratory is the art of making eloquent and elegant speeches. Success in the former may be attained by study and practice alone, but in the latter, using the term "oratory" in its highest sense there must be, in addition, an inherent genius, that is a natural aptitude.

The ability to arise in public and speak with clearness and self-possession is in itself a rare and priceless accomplishment. As Higginson says, in a country like ours, where each man is to do his part in conducting the government, and where so much of his influence must proceed from meeting his fellow citizens face to face and holding his own among them, there is no part of his training more important than public speaking. Many a man, to whom age and experience have brought wisdom and common sense has remained seated and silent through fear of "stage fright," though conscious that his opinion would be of the utmost value and graciously received. The manner is just as important as the matter in public speaking, and akwardness in speech and bearing are inevitable without training.

It is the writer's opinion that the study of public speaking does not receive proper attention in the schools, and that there should be systematic and thorough drilling in composing and delivering speeches and addresses. Debating is perhaps the best method of training public speakers, for here the incentive of personal encounter is present to stimulate the mind, rouse the feeling and "break the ice."

No progress can be made by a parrot-like repetition of some one else's speeches. This is not speaking but acting. Gestures should not be taught but something, in addition to be learned. They must be prompted by the thoughts and emotions of the speaker to be easy, natural and effective. Some "guides" treat gestures like garments to be "tried on" before using. They put in marginal directions for their use, such as "Here sob violently," or "Emit a tear, if possible."

It is obvious that such a process is valueless. The first step is to conquer nervousness, acquire self possession, bring out the feelings and moods and train the voice. Study of language, its arrangement and derivation and all the other steps should be taught. Above all develop the individuality of the scholar.

Very truly,
OBSERVER.

—"It cost the shoe manufacturers of the United States hundreds of thousands of dollars yearly," remarked a member of one of Brockton's firm to the representative of the Boot and Shoe Recorder, "to replace the half worn shoes which retailers return. When I make this statement I am speaking a fact which is recognized and at the same time deplored by every manufacturer who sells to the retail trade."

WHY THE CUBANS WIN

REMARKABLE ARTICLE BY A SPANISH MILITARY CRITIC.

He Tells Spain That Success Has Thus Far Been With the Cubans, and That They Certainly Will Win if Spain Keeps on Without a Plan, Energy or Knowledge.

It is little wonder that the Cubans are not alarmed at the extraordinary increase of the Spanish army on the island. Gonzalo Reparez, a military writer of renown, seems to share the Cuban view as to the probable effect of the new Spanish military expedition to Cuba. In a remarkable article, over his signature, published in the Madrid Heraldo on Aug. 26, he says:

"I cannot refrain from speaking when I see the enemy take the offensive in all parts of the island—in the neighborhood of Bayamo, at the very doors of Havana, on the trocha, and, finally, at Bahia Honda, which is the basis for our military operations, on the northern coast of Pinar del Rio province. Ever since the beginning of the campaign the insurgents have taken the lead as far as strategy is concerned. When they have wished to attack, they have attacked. When they have wished to fight, they have fought. They made collections of arms when we did not even think there was going to be a war. They have abundant supplies of food for the maintenance of their army. They invaded the western districts gradually, and in every case just a little before our own expeditions were sent to the island, so that when each fresh expedition reached Cuba the theater of the war was already enlarged, and the new soldiers could not improve the situation.

"Last spring, when the whole island was already covered with insurgents, they feigned a retreat toward Santa Clara, and we answered their movement by thoughtlessly spreading our troops throughout the western provinces, thus permitting them freely to carry out their second invasion.

"The enemy will have done, before the 40,000 men who are now embarking land in Cuba, what they deem necessary in order to protect themselves. If they think we contemplate a concentration of troops in Pinar del Rio they will become active in the east and in Santa Clara, so as to force us to send a great part of the new expedition to those districts. Thus we have to face this dilemma. If we do as they wish, we shall not be able to break Maceo down, and if we neglect Santiago de Cuba and Santa Clara, we may have to suffer misfortune there.

"Such as the war is now 40,000 men amount to nothing. For this reason I said a few months ago that 100,000 should be sent at once.

"The insurgents are most active now in the east. They are masters at Sierra Maestra and in the hills which extend toward the road from Bayamo to Ventas de Casanova. It is there that the inhabitants of the now deserted valley towns have gone to live. There the insurgents have their hospitals, their cattle and their ammunition. Guira and Bueycito, our two advanced posts, are simply a source of trouble to us, because we are obliged to send there a convoy every 8 or 15 days. Bueycito is totally useless. There is nothing to be protected there, and I do not know that one of our columns has ever left it to look for the enemy.

"Although his military talents are limited, the insurgent leader Rabi understands how to act. He makes a sally from El Cacao or from some other infernal lurking place in the intricacies of the mountain, attacks a convoy, gathers in cattle or captures other plunder. The news gets to Bayamo when it is too late to stop the raid. A column is then made up to leave on the next day and annihilate Rabi. But he, having accomplished his purpose, returns to his hiding place. Our soldiers finally appear on the scene, but Rabi has already taken to the woods, leaving 80 or 100 men on the nearest hills to skirmish for an hour with our vanguard. Suddenly the handful of insurgents takes to flight. The Spanish commander thinks he has done nobly, orders the column back to Bayamo, and a few days later we hear in Spain that there has been in eastern Cuba a big fight which lasted six hours, that we had four wounded, that the enemy's losses must have been very heavy and that they fled like cowards. The people here imagine that what was really only a little skirmish was a real battle and a brilliant victory for our army. They anxiously wait to hear of the results of the victory. They wait in vain, for nothing more is said about it, but our people do not lose faith and are again hopeful.

"Things in Santa Clara are the same as in the east. We remember how Colonel Oliver was moving continually from Seborucal to Remedios and from Remedios to Seborucal to keep the insurgents at bay. So much marching tired him to death, and the insurgents became masters of the field and of the communications between Remedios and the capital of the province.

"At Najasa, Camaguey, Maximo Gomez had his headquarters during the first war, and there he has them now, and he is not molested. It was there that he organized last year the winter campaign and prepared for the invasion of the western provinces, and there he has lately been making all sorts of preparations to meet our new re-enforcements. It would not be surprising if he should beat us, as he is working in his own field, while we have to send to Cuba men, money and everything from Spain.

"He is beginning to move again. Let us move also, well and quickly. We are going to enter upon the decisive turn of the war, and if we do not take advantage of experience's severe lessons, if we keep on without a plan, without energy and without knowledge of what the enemy really is, we shall never win."

SAVED FROM THE SURGEON'S KNIFE

P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, Saves a Man From Becoming a Cripple.

Mr. Asa Ammons, a well-known citizen of Jacksonville, Florida, was afflicted by a terrible ulcer. Medical skill seemed unavailing in stopping the ravages of the terrible disease. The leg was swollen and intensely painful, as the ulcer had eaten its way down to the very bone. All medicines and treatments having failed to effect a cure, the doctors said the leg must come off. Just when it seemed that Mr. Ammons would become a disabled and a crippled man, he tried P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and the result was wonderful.

P. P. P. SAVES HIS LEG.

"Jacksonville, Fla., July 1, 1895.—Two years ago I had the worst ulcer on my leg I ever saw. It had eaten down to the bone, and my whole leg below my knee, and my foot was swollen and inflamed. The bone was swollen and painful, and discharged a most offensive matter. My physicians said I had necrosis of the bone, and my leg would have to come off. At this stage I commenced to take P. P. P. and to bathe my leg with hot castile soap suds. It began to improve at once and healed rapidly, and is to-day a sound and useful leg.

"I think P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, is all a man could ask for as a blood purifier, as I have known it to cure so meterrible cases of blood poisoning in a remarkably short time.

CUBAN INDEPENDENCE

Will Be Recognized by President Cleveland In a Short Time.

His Mind Fully Made Up In That Direction.

Spain Will Be Given Three Months In Which to Crush Rebellion.

Washington, Oct. 17.—If Spain does not end the war in Cuba within less than three months the insurgents will receive a Christmas present from the United States in the form of a virtual recognition of their independence. It can be further stated that President Cleveland does not expect that Spain will end the war during the present year by the tactics now employed, and that he is fully convinced that the grave duty will devolve upon him of taking a vigorous stand in this matter.

A high official of the administration said yesterday that action by the president may be looked for by the first of the year. This official said that the president had long realized that this administration could not shift the responsibility of intervention in the interests of humanity and the commerce of the world. The president has patiently borne with Spain, notwithstanding serious damage to American interests, observing the strictest neutrality, largely for the sake of giving the Spanish government reasonable time to demonstrate its ability to crush the rebellion, and at the same time to avoid burdening the administration with too many foreign complications at one time.

The reports he has received from Consul General Lee and other sources have practically convinced him that Spain will never be able to end the war without acknowledging the freedom of Cuba. There are many grave phases of the question yet to be considered before the administration has finally matured a plan of action. It may be stated, however, that when the president does act it will not be in the mere form of the recognition of the belligerency of the insurgents. He will go further than that. He will intervene in a manner that will be equivalent to a recognition of the independence of the island.

The intervention will come in the form of a memorandum to the Spanish government, which will certainly not be delayed longer than the first of the year, in which the president will take a stand even more vigorous than that taken by President Grant in the celebrated note which led to the close of the 10 years' war by concessions by Spain to Cuba.

The president is satisfied that no further promise of home rule or another project short of complete independence will satisfy those who are struggling for freedom. The Cuban question can never be definitely settled until the Spanish yoke is completely removed and a stable government is established in the island, which will have the moral support of the United States. The president is opposed to any scheme or suggestion which tends in the direction of annexation.

It has been suggested that the president will stave off action on the Cuban problem, because of a reluctance to do anything which might hamper the next administration, but it can be reliably stated that he has no such view in mind at present. He is fully aware that with the existing situation in Cuba it rests upon him. With a policy once defined, his past record shows that he will not be deterred from putting it into effect on account of the approach of the end of his administration. Nor is he apt to be deterred by any uncertainty as to how Spain may receive the intervention of the United States.

As indicated by recent cable messages from Spain, the Spanish government realizes that it will be impossible to crush out the insurrection with the financial and military resources available, and though a show might be made of resisting intervention by the United States alone, or in conjunction with other powers, it is believed here that the Spanish ministry would secretly welcome the opportunity that this would afford of backing out of Cuba with some slight show of grace.

The above statement, as to the president's attitude and plans in regard to Cuba, are not based on speculations. They were the result of a long interview with the high official referred to. This gentleman is thoroughly conversant with the whole subject, and is a man whose statements in regard to public affairs can always be implicitly relied upon.

Spaniards Didn't Get Him.

Habana, Oct. 17. — Another international incident occurred in the harbor here yesterday. The police attempted to arrest, on board the Ward line steamship Vigilancia, Captain McIntosh, a passenger, who was on his way from New York to Mexico. The man's name was Angel Fernandez. He was born in Spain, but claimed to be a Mexican citizen. Captain McIntosh refused to deliver the man up, and the police ordered the Vigilancia to be detained. Thereupon Captain McIntosh consulted with General Fitzhugh Lee, the United States consul general, and soon afterward the Vigilancia was allowed to sail, with Fernandez on board, to Mexico.

A Dangerous Coast.

St. John's, N. F., Oct. 17. — Another wreck occurred near here yesterday, the British steamer Abbeymore, Captain Swop, from Shields, Oct. 6, for Baltimore, in ballast, going ashore on Renews rock in a dense fog. She is a total wreck, but the crew is safe. This is the second wreck within 20 miles in two days, the Palestrina having gone ashore Thursday at Bay of Bulls. The recent hurricane on the Atlantic coast is believed to have driven these ships out of their course.

Paid Dearly For It.

New York, Oct. 17.—"Spike" Sullivan of Boston and Dan McBride of the East side boxed 15 hard rounds before the Broadway club last night. Sullivan seemed to be the better man, but the fight was declared a draw.

A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

Seven Men and a Girl on a Schooner Barely Saved From Death.

Boston, Oct. 17.—Among the passengers on the steamer Gate City from Savannah, yesterday, were Captain A. P. Smith, his 15-year-old daughter, Edith, and six seamen of the wrecked schooner Lelia Smith of Machias, Me., who were rescued by the crew of the Gate City at the risk of their lives. Captain Smith's story of the experience of the shipwrecked men is one of the most thrilling. He loaded a cargo of 255,000 feet of hard pine lumber at Wilmington, N. C., and sailed, on Sept. 26, for Beverly, where the cargo was consigned. Owing to adverse winds, he anchored at Southport until Oct. 1, and then put to sea, with the wind strong from the northeast and the sea quite rough. Bad weather was continuous, but without mishap to the vessel until Saturday, Oct. 10, when in the vicinity of Fire island a fresh northeaster was run into. Captain Smith says he tacked off shore, and at 10 p. m. ordered the vessel double reefed. The gale steadily increased, until it became a hurricane at midnight, when the vessel sprung aleak.

It was impossible to keep the water down with the vessel's pump, and at 2 p. m. that day, the lashings holding the deckload were cut, in order to ease the vessel. Part of the deckload was swept back on board the vessel, and the remainder was dashed up against the side of the schooner by the heavy seas. At 8 o'clock that night the vessel was full of water, and standing on her beam ends.

Captain Smith then lashed his daughter, Edith, to the quarter rail, and soon after the crew and himself, for their own safety, lashed themselves to the same rail. For the next 36 hours they all suffered fearful hardships, being without food or water, and only partially clothed. The weather was bitterly cold, and the waves repeatedly drenched them all. Just about the time they expected the vessel to capsize, the steamer Gate City hove to and lowered away a boat, manned by Chief Officer Howlett and five seamen. The waves were running at a fearful height, and the work of rescue was attended with great difficulty.

A Three Days' Convention.

Boston, Oct. 17.—The 62d annual convention of the Delta Upsilon fraternity will be held with the Tufts chapter of Tufts college, in this city, on Oct. 21, 22, and 23. On Oct. 21 a reception will be tendered the delegates at the Quincy House, at 8 o'clock p. m., by G. F. Andrews (Brown '92) and others. The order of exercises is as follows: Oct. 22, business session at 9 a. m.; also at 2 p. m.; public exercises at 7:30 p. m., and reception at 9:30 p. m. Oct. 23, business session at 9 a. m.; tally-ho ride through the Boston park system and suburbs at 2 p. m.; at 8 p. m. there will be a theater party, and the convention will conclude with a banquet at the Hotel Brunswick at 11 p. m. All graduates and undergraduates are invited to attend all of the above exercises.

Wanted In Kansas City.

Boston, Oct. 17.—Edward E. Wilson, a member of the produce firm of Johnson & Wilson, was arrested yesterday, charged with the larceny of $10,000 worth of property in Kansas City. The arrest was made on an indictment warrant and requisition papers signed by the governor of Missouri. Wilson has a brother in Kansas City, Emmit H. Wilson, who is also in the produce business. It is alleged that E. H. Wilson purchased about $10,000 worth of goods from 24 Kansas City firms. He agreed to pay for these goods on the following Monday. Then, it is charged, he shipped all the goods to his brother, in Boston, and before the day of payment arrived he assigned. The courts were appealed to, and 11 indictments were returned against both brothers.

Robbers Left No Clew.

New Bedford, Mass., Oct. 17.—Diamonds valued at $5000 and other jewels are missing from the residence of Mrs. Edward C. Jones on County street. Burglars got into the house last night while the family was dining, and after ransacking in a pretty thorough manner the upper rooms, escaped without leaving a clew. Mrs. Jones has offered a $500 reward for the recovery of the jewels.

Many Would-Be Seamen.

Boston, Oct. 17.—Twenty-eight applicants for admission as cadets upon the nautical training ship Enterprise were examined yesterday. If the boys should all pass the requirements, the nautical training board may have a serious problem on their hand to accommodate the next year's completement upon the ship. She will have more than 100 cadets of all grades to start the year with.

TERRELL'S GOOD WORK

Shown by a Concession From Turkey Regarding Armenians.

"Discretionary Power" of the Porte Abandoned.

Emigration of Families of Naturalized Armenians Will Now Be Permitted.

Washington, Oct. 17.—Secretary Olney is in receipt of a telegraphic dispatch from the United States minister at Constantinople, to the effect that he has at last obtained telegraphic orders from the Turkish government to permit the departure for the United States, with safe conduct, to the seaports, of all the native Armenian women and children whose husbands and fathers are in the United States of America. The subject is one that has been before the porte, and for which gratifying result credit must be given to Mr. Terrell, who has pushed the matter with conspicuous tact, as well as indefatigable zeal.

On Jan. 16 last the United States senate adopted a resolution directing the secretary of state, "if consistent with the public interests," to inform the senate whether naturalized citizens of the United States, of Armenian birth, were allowed to visit their families in Turkey, and whether United States passports held by them were recognized by the Turkish government. Also, whether the families of such naturalized Armenians resident in Turkey were permitted to leave that country to visit the United States, or, in brief, whether naturalized citizens of the United States, of Armenian birth, had the same protection and rights as subjects of Great Britain, France, Germany and Russia, the powers that signed the Berlin treaty.

This resolution was called out by numerous complaints received from missionary organizations in Boston and elsewhere.

It was in part answered on Jan. 23 last by President Cleveland, who transmitted to the senate a report of Secretary Olney, stating the difficulties which surrounded the question of extending the protection of our naturalization laws to persons alien by birth, who had never been within the jurisdiction of the United States, but Secretary Olney added that the Turkish government had on several occasions permitted the emigration of the wives and children of Turkish subjects who had come to the United States, and here acquired citizenship, leaving their families behind them, and that the good offices of the United States minister had been uniformly exerted to assist the emigration of such persons, but that the Turkish government had asserted a "discretionary power" to refuse to permit the emigration of families of naturalized Armenians under certain conditions.

According to the dispatch received from Mr. Terrell, the exercise of this "discretionary power" has been abandoned by the Turkish government.

Big Flurry In Wheat.

San Francisco, Oct. 17.—Yesterday's session of the San Francisco Produce Exchange was the liveliest seen in many a day. The greatest excitement prevailed, and the bidding was extremely spirited. May and December wheat each closed 6¾ points higher than Thursday, reaching the highest figures quoted for three years. The majority of call-board men were "long" on wheat, and enthusiastically confident of continued advance in prices. At the close of the noon session, December wheat was quoted at 141⅛, and May at 144¼. At the afternoon session there was a drop, the market closing for December at 140; May, 142⅞.

Arctic Explorers to Organize.

Philadelphia, Oct. 17.—A meeting of prominent Arctic explorers, residing in this city, was held here last night, and the first steps in the organization of a club were taken. Among those present were Amos Bonsall, a survivor of the Kane expedition; Drs. Benjamin Sharp and Hughes, of the Peary expedition of 1891; Dr. Cook of the '92 expedition, and Samuel J. Entrekin, who was second in command of the expeditions of '93 and '94. It is proposed to make the club a social one, with a limited membership. No explorer will be eligible except those who have penetrated beyond the Arctic circle.

Died to Death.

Marlboro, Mass., Oct. 17.—J. R. McDonald, a shoemaker, about 36 years of age, was found dead in bed at his boarding place yesterday. Shortly afterward Michael Cahill gave himself up to the police, stating that while fooling with McDonald Thursday night, Cahill accidentally cut McDonald, but the wound did not seem serious. Cahill states that there was no quarrel between him and McDonald, and that no ill-feeling was apparent when they separated. Medical Examiner Adams decided that McDonald died from a knife wound, bleeding to death.

Troops Protect Railway.

Bombay, Oct. 17.—Further outrages have been perpetrated by the Afghan tribe of Marris, on the Quetta railway, in Beluchistan. A party of gangmen at work have been murdered, and the telegraph cut. A detachment of the Bombay infantry, which proceeded to the scene by a special train, was fired upon. The stations between Harnal and Barkach are occupied by troops, and the line is patrolled.

Inspected Soldier's Home.

Rutland, Vt., Oct. 17.—Governor Grout, Lieutenant Governor Fiske, Adjutant General Peck, W. H. Webb and the joint committee of the legislature arrived here in Colonel Webb's private car from Bennington yesterday, to inspect the old Soldiers' home. The committee was much pleased with the condition in which they found the home.

A $400,000 Present.

Vienna, Oct. 17.—The czar and czarina ordered their wedding gift for the Princess Helena, upon her marriage to the Prince of Naples, in Paris. It is a diamond ornament, and will cost 2,000,000 francs (about $400,000).

Millionaire Bannigan Very Sick.

Providence, Oct. 17.—Joseph Bannigan, the millionaire, who has been identified with rubber interests, is seriously sick at his home in this city. Fears are entertained that he will not recover.

BOOM SOON COMING.

Business Improvement Only Delayed by Ante Election Excitement.

New York, Oct. 17.—Bradstreet's says: While the volume of general trade has not increased materially, new conditions are favorable to an early improvement. Notwithstanding, many interior merchants prefer to wait until after election before placing orders, and others are willing to order subject to cancellation should the movement for free silver be successful. Sentiment at larger business centers regards the success of the campaign for the gold standard as assured. In some instances, merchants are discounting that view of the situation by placing orders. Features of the business week are the continued advance in price and strength of wheat, and the maintenance of a large volume of wheat exports notably to India and Australia. While wool is no higher, holders have sold enough to render them indifferent to immediate business, and are holding stocks for full figures. While new orders for iron and steel products are not being placed freely, they would be if makers would accept current quotations for 1899 delivery.

Cotton goods continue in unsatisfactory demand. Mills are running on full time, but stock tends to increase again, as jobbers and other wholesalers are slow to pay the advance asked while having lower priced stocks on hand. Depression in woolen goods continues marked the mills running being on part time or on samples.

Prices continue the upward tendency of several weeks past, shoes, leather, southern pig iron, wheat, wheat flour, canned goods, India corn, oats, pork, coffee and print cloths being higher, petroleum lower, and cotton, anthracite coal, lumber, sugar and various finished products of iron and steel unchanged.

Out of 34 articles, products, etc., for which prices were higher on Oct. 1 than on July 1, 16 are food staples, in addition to which are cotton, wool, hemp, flax, sheetings, pig iron, tin plates, coal, petroleum, rubber and tobacco. The inference is drawn from the indicated tendency of prices to advance that low water mark has been reached, and that whether the tide of trade is to continue to rise depends very largely upon ourselves.

Speculative interests in the New York stock market show a general disposition to curtail engagements pending the election. This has resulted in both covering of "shorts" and scattered liquidation of "long" holdings, the latter predominating. Bears have taken advantage of the latter fact to depress prices, and the market is narrow and utterly professional. The most unsettling factor is the hardening of the money market, due to the disposition of financial interests and the general public to strengthen their position. Large gold engagements are announced, nearly $8,000,000 having been taken in London this week for shipment hither.

As Many Would Wish It.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—A special to The Times-Herald from Washington says: If Spain does not end the war in Cuba within three months the insurgents will receive from the United States virtual recognition of their independence. It can be further stated on authority that the president does not expect that Spain will end the war with the tactics now employed during the present year, and that he is fully convinced that the duty will devote upon him of taking a vigorous stand in this matter. A high official of the administration said last night that action by the president may be looked for by the first of the year.

Bank President Arrested.

Hot Springs, Ark., Oct. 17.—Colonel Edward Hogaboom, president of the defunct City Savings bank, which failed last April, now occupies quarters in the county jail. He was indicted by the grand jury on three counts, charging embezzlement. The failure of the City Savings bank was a complete crash. The assets to offset liabilities amounted to nearly $300,000, consisting principally of Colonel Hogaboom's personal notes.

Crazed by Love.

Toronto, Oct. 17.—A. W. Clemens, 25 years old, sprang over the railing of the Second Rosedale ravine bridge yesterday, and, dashing down 100 feet, was instantly killed. Clements left a note, saying: "I die for love, and entertain no ill-will to anyone." Clemens has been under treatment for some time for nervous prostration, and his family were consulting as to the advisability of placing him in a lunatic asylum.

The dreamer finds himself at the edge of a cliff. He stumbles, falls, and grasps frantically at a rope, which breaks uselessly, letting him fall straight down the precipice. He awakes with a start and a struggle. If he has a little spot of superstition in him, he tries to figure out the meaning of the dream. If he is not superstitious, he looks for the cause, finds it in indigestion and nervousness, and then heeds the real meaning. It is a good thing to believe in dreams, but to believe in them in the right way. A bad dream is a warning. It is a sign that all is not right in the dreamer's body. It means that his digestion is out of order; and that means that his blood is not receiving sufficient nourishment; and that has its effect on the nerves; and the nerves on the brain. Imperfect digestion means imperfect nutrition. It means that the strength and food that ought to go into the blood from the digestive organs—that should go to build the tissues that waste every day—is being perverted and is doing no good. It means that there will be loss of solid, strengthful flesh; that the nerves will be uncovered just that much; that debility will ensue; and that the man's body is ready for the reception of disease-germs. That is the real meaning of the man's dreams, and such dreams should always be taken to mean that the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is urgent and imperative, if health would be preserved. The "Discovery" is a certain cure for indigestion, dyspepsia and liver complaint.

When constipation is present, it is frequently necessary to supplement the "Discovery" by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. They greatly facilitate the action of the "Golden Medical Discovery," by ridding the system of poisonous, effete matter, increasing the activity of the lower bowels so that the impure matter forced out of the blood by the "Golden Medical Discovery" may find quick egress. Both the "Golden Medical Discovery" and the "Pellets" may be obtained at any drug store. Complete information concerning them may be had by addressing the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Puritana Patients

Why They Take Puritana.

WHY THEY GET WELL.

The proof does it.

That is why people begin to take Puritana.

People find that their neighbors have tried it.

Their friends have tried it.

Men and women in every walk of life have tried it.

A man suffers.

Perhaps he has suffered for years.

He has tried many things.

They have all failed.

He reads a Puritana testimonial.

He reads another.

He sees new ones wherever he looks.

Some of the writers are in his own town.

Some in his own business.

Some he can see.

Some he can write to.

Some have been cured of his own ailment.

Some of other ailments.

All are grateful.

All are glad to tell suffering people how Puritana gave them relief.

They are approachable folks, and their voluntary testimonials count.

Some live in town.

Some in the country.

Some hold office.

Some vote.

PRIZE FORMULA OF Prof. Dixi Crosby, M.D., LL.D. DARTMOUTH COLLEGE

But all are honest and sincere.

That is why any one can prove for himself the genuineness of Puritana cures.

Puritana patients get well.

This is a fact.

There are reasons for it.

Puritana is the discovery of Prof. Dixi Crosby.

He was the greatest New Hampshire physician of his day.

He was at the head of the Dartmouth Medical College for a generation.

He used common sense, and found that disease or health came to the body through the stomach.

He scientifically compounded a stomach medicine from the harmless products of nature.

This is Puritana.

It makes the stomach right.

That is why it makes the health right.

With a sound stomach no one can help being well.

That is why Puritana patients get well.

Chemists say that Puritana is a good medicine.

They also say it is well made.

The materials are the purest and best that money can buy.

Druggists say it is a good medicine.

Their customers buy it and are more than satisfied with its effects.

What the people say about Puritana you have read before, and you will read again.

The thousands of Puritana cures are becoming better known every day.

The patients are real people.

The cures are real cures.

They can be proven in court.

They can be proven by any medical society.

They have been proven before the tribunal of Public Opinion.

A Subject Race.

They knew not whence the tyrant came—
They did not even know his name—
Yet he compelled them, one and all,
To bow in bondage to his thrall
And from their lips allegiance wrung,
Although a stranger to their tongue.

Whilst he was wrapped in royal state
Their hours of toil were long and late.
No moment could they call their own
Within the precincts of the throne,
And when they dreamed their work was o'er
He only made them slave the more.

Although the conquering king was he
Of people who had once been free,
No word of praise or promise fell
From him his subjects served so well,
And none of those who crowned him lord
Received a shadow of reward.

Obedience to his behest
Destroyed their peace, disturbed their rest,
Yet when his drowsy eyes grew dim
No mortal dared to waken him.
They stole about with stealthy tread.
"The baby is asleep," they said.

Patriotism.

To love one's country—to desire
For her the best of all that heaven can give;
Peace to her borders, freedom's deathless fire,
Just laws, and all that makes it good to live
To love, and, loving, translate
Love into efforts, such as wait
Upon the heart's best passions and declare
What deeds alone are able to express—
Self sacrificing deeds, not words of air—
The longing for a people's happiness.

Unchanging man, in every varying clime,

BIENNIAL ELECTIONS.

Why Massachusetts Should Adopt the Amendments.

The undersigned, Citizens of Massachusetts, respectfully address this appeal to their fellow citizens, in behalf of the Amendments to our Constitution, providing for Biennial Elections of State officers and members of the Legislature, recently approved by the Legislature of 1896, and which will come before our voters for aproval at the approaching November election.

First Article of Amendment: Shall the proposed amendment to the Constitution establishing biennial elections of state officers be approved and ratified?

Second Article of Amendment: Shall the proposed amendment to the Constitution establishing biennial elections of members of the general court be approved and ratified?

These Amendments provide, that, beginning with the election of 1898, all future state elections shall occur every two years instead of annually, and that all of our State Executive officers, as well as members of the Legislature, shall serve for two years. The Legislature, however, will meet annually, as at present.

This important measure of reform in the administration of our State affairs has been before our people for consideration for twenty years. It has been strongly urged for adoption by several of our esteemed governors, viz: Rice, Talbot, Claflin, Ames, Robinson, Brackett and Greenhalge. It has received the hearty support of thousands of our citizens, irrespective of party affiliations; its merits have been commended by substantially the entire public press of the State, and in the exercise of their duties, as legislators, it has received, after proper consideration, the support and votes of nearly three thousand Legislative representatives of the people.

The history of the movement for less frequent elections in the various States of the Union shows that it has not been regarded as a party question, but has been adopted by the several States, independent of party consideration, as an eminently wise measure of reform in the conducting of State affairs, and it has received the joint support of all classes of their citizens, who have believed that such a change would be, not only, in the highest and best sense, in the interest of the administration of their public affairs upon more economical principles, but in the interest also of wiser and more intelligent, because better-considered, legislation.

At the present time, forty-three of the forty-five States have adopted the system of Biennial, or less frequent, elecelections. Forty of these States discuss State and National issues in the same canvass, and it has proved so satisfactory that in no State of the Union has there been a movement to adopt, or return to annual elections.

The testimony of the highest officials and prominent citizens of the several states is substantially unanimous in its favor, as shown by its practical working, its economical results, its beneficial influence on legislation, and the measure of satisfaction with which the change is regarded by their people.

It has also been shown that such a change has not weakened, as has been claimed, the interest of citizens in public affairs, or affected their participation in political campaigns. On the contrary, it has enhanced their interest and activity, and, in many of the States, has brought out a much larger vote, relatively, than is cast in our own State.

In our own State, since the organization of our present government, we have conducted a State and national canvass together every two years, to the satisfaction of our people, and without any movement to separate them. And in the years 1874, 1882 and 1892 elected a Democratic governor on State issues, and a Republican delegation to congress and in 1892 presidential electors, on national issues.

Believing, therefore, that the adoption of Biennial Elections of our State officials would prove a wise and beneficial change in the administration of our State affairs, that our people will gladly welcome the relief from the turmoil, excitement and expense of an annual State political canvass, that it will not only not impair, but will help to improve, the character of our legislation, and the general efficiency of our State government, as shown in the experience of nearly every State in the Union, we urgently appeal to all our citizens to unite in a common effort, in behalf of these amendments, in order that they may be adopted, and become the established policy of our honored Commonwealth:

PEOPLE OF THE DAY.

Abraham Cahan, the author of "Yekl, a Tale of New York's Ghetto," is a Russian Jew who has had an interesting and varied career, and who might well be expected to tell us something new and strange. He is 36 years old and has been in this country but a few years. He was born in the town of Wilna, Lithuanian Russia, and had become a teacher in one of the government schools there, when he was forced to quit the country because he was suspected of complicity with a nihilistic plot. The suspicion was well founded, so he fled to America, arriving in New York with a small amount of money, no friends and no knowledge of the language. His struggles with poverty and our language on the east side of the great metropolis gave him material for the novel which has set the critics talking.

Mr. Whitney's Bride.

Mrs. William C. Whitney, the bride of the ex-secretary of the navy, has, as Mrs. Arthur Randolph, for a number of years been a prominent figure in the select social circles of New York, Washington and London. She is the daughter of Dr. May, a once prominent New

MRS. WILLIAM C. WHITNEY.

York physician, who will long be remembered as the man who identified Wilkes Booth, the assassin of Abraham Lincoln. While being educated in Germany she met Captain Arthur Randolph, a dashing officer of the "Queen's Own" hussars. He followed her to America and they were married. Captain Randolph resigned his commission and settled down to enjoy the fashionable society of New York. He died about ten years ago of heart disease. Mrs. Randolph met Mr. and Mrs. Whitney in Washington before the latter's death, which occurred in February, 1893, and was on intimate terms of friendship with the family.

Novelist Barrie.

J. M. Barrie, the author of those widely popular novels of Scotch life, "The Little Minister" and "A Window In Thrums," who is just now paying his first visit to America, is a slender, boyish looking man of 36, whose grave, shy demeanor indicates correctly that he has a horror of publicity and a dread of society lion hunters. He has come over to see our country and the people who have bought his books and read them with so much appreciation. Mr. Barrie was born in the little Scotch weaving town of Kirriemuir, which he has immortalized under the name of Thrums in his most popular book. He began writing as a reporter, after graduating from the Edinburgh university, but he soon discovered that he had more taste and talent for producing fiction, and that it would pay vastly better.

J. M. BARRIE.

Shakespeare's Dollar.

It is not generally known that the word "dollar" appears in Shakespeare's works, being used in "Measure for Measure," written in 1603, in act 1, scene 2, "To three thousand dollars a year;" in "Macbeth," written in 1606, act 1, scene 2, where burial is refused to Sweno's men until "Ten thousand dollars to our general use" have been paid.

THE NORFOLK County Gazette of last week says:—

"The friends of county clerk Erastus Worthington were greatly disappointed over his defeat in the county convention Wednesday, and they attached much of the blame to the influences of the county commissioners, although it must be confessed that much of the opposition was in operation before the State House investigation was held. It is understood that Mr. Worthington will be a candidate on nomination papers. Mr. Cook, who received the nomination, is a lawyer of good ability and his friends say that he has all the qualifications for the position."

Castle Square Theatre.

The revival of "The Chimes of Normandy" as the attraction at the Castle Square Theatre the coming week is sure to give satisfaction to the vast public that have come to look upon the productions at this house as a regular source of enjoyment. The opera has maintained its popularity with American audiences for nearly twenty years. The record of the opera is singularly alike on both sides of the Atlantic, Paris did not tire of it for three successive years, and the entire repertoire of opera comique productions in this country has had none more successful with the public than this has proven. Its comedy scenes and situations are amusing, its romantic story affords ample opportunities for good acting, and Planquette's tuneful numbers delight all lovers of good music. Following "The Chimes of Normandy" a production of "The Pirates of Penzance" will be given on Monday, Oct. 26th.

Keith's New Theatre.

There are so many good things offered in next week's bill at Keith's that it is difficult to enumerate any special features. The great troupe of performing elephants that has been amusing New Yorker for dearly two years past, will in all probability excite as much interest as anything, as they are declared to be the most wonderful animal actors ever seen in America, and away ahead of those which were at Keith's last winter. The new comedy company will also secure a share of attention, as the clever people engaged in it are not only artists of distinction but are popular socially. The first piece will be "Cabman 93," a rollicking English farce-comedy. In the variety proper is Herr Techow's educated cats; Ezra Kendall, the ding of monologue entertainers; Panzer Brothers, the greatest head balancers who have ever visited this country; John W. Gibbons, tenor soloist; Bertha Boardman Elton, girl cornetist, and a dozen others.

—Massachusetts has annual elections. She still leads the nation in wise legislation. Not one per cent. of her yearly legislation is drawn from other states; but the others draw freely from her. With such a record she can well afford to continue a system given by the fathers, that has worked well, and which has not been improved upon by other states, judging by results.—Stoughton Record

—The election of McKinley means a restoration of confidence and business prosperity. The Somerville Journal says, the erection of the proposed Colson building, opposite the Central-hill park, would begin at once if the election of McKinley was assured. ALL IN THE FAMILY.

Irene Morton was a living example of the aphorism that life is made up of strange contradictions.

She was a lovely little creature, and her admirers were legion, but she treated them so impartially that not one could say, "I am the favorite."

Perhaps she was the most cordial and friendly toward two brothers of the name of Hayes, who lived in the next villa to that rented by her father on the bank of the Thames.

And they? Is it necessary to say that they loved her—Athol with a frank, outspoken admiration patent to all; Chetwynd with the heart's deep, silent adoration shown in actions, not words?

A strong attachment existed between the brothers Chetwynd regarding Athol, who was ten years his junior, with an almost paternal love and care, and Athol looking up to Chetwynd with well nigh filial respect and confidence.

They rode out with her; they took her on the river; they played croquet with her in the summer evenings and billiards and bagatelle in the winter.

The young lady had always a laughing word or merry sally wherewith to greet Athol, while for Chetwynd she had only a shy smile and blush and a grave word or two.

Influenced by these signs, he believed Athol was Irene's most favored suitor, and he generously and unselfishly determined to bury his love deeper than ever in his heart, to stifle it if necessary, so that Athol might never discover he had a rival in his brother.

At any rate, Athol should speak first, and then—

One day he saw Athol, after spending a longer time than usual over his toilet, go out quickly and turn at their neighbor's gate, and he knew the hour had come.

He went and threw himself on the bench under the old oak on the lawn and battled with his pain.

"How should he bear with his life when all the hope had gone out of it?" he asked himself, and he indulged in a long reverie as to what he should do when Athol and Irene were married.

He had gone as far as this when suddenly he heard a door closed, and a moment after rapid footsteps went past him to the boathouse.

"Athol," he cried, "are you coming for a row?" But no answer came back.

Chetwynd sat down near him and waited for the confidence which he knew would be presently given.

"It is all over, Chetwynd."

"What is, Athol?"

"The fool's paradise I've been living in so long. Irene does not care for me."

"Has she refused you, old fellow?"

"Yes, point blank; looks upon me as a brother. As if that were a consolation!" he muttered almost sulkily.

"Never say die, old man! It is only a girl's 'No.' She'll say 'Yes' if you ask her again."

"Not Irene. She means what she says—always."

"Shall I try what my influence can do?"

What it cost him to say this none ever knew.

Athol grasped his hand and thanked him for the offer.

That very evening he sought her presence and pleaded for Athol. She was in the garden reading when he called. "Longfellow," she said in answer to his query. He broke the ice at once.

"Irene, have you got no other answer for poor Athol? Could you not bid him hope?"

"Oh, I am sorry! I never thought he cared"—

"What is the obstacle, Irene? Is it his want of fortune? If you accept him, he shall have two-thirds of the income we derive from the business. The remainder will be sufficient for me, for I shall never marry."

"Neither shall I," she answered, but he took no heed of the words, though he heard them distinctly.

"Think what it is for Athol to have his hopes blighted—his life a blank—without you!" And so he went on to intercede for him so eloquently that Irene's eyes glistened, and she almost wished she could reply favorably.

"Tell him I am very sorry, but it is impossible. I have no heart to give him."

A sudden fear took possession of him.

"Being already given away—is that it, Irene?"

Her eyes were cast down until their long lashes rested on the soft cheeks, where a hot blush glowed and the tiny hands were clasped and unclasped nervously. At length, with an effort and a pretty pout, she spoke.

"That's an unfair question, Mr. Hayes. I shall reply with another. You are, I presume, conversant with the author?" and she held up the book she had been reading.

"Fairly so. Why?"

"Because you plead so well for others that I am tempted to answer with Priscilla"—here she rose and her voice grew very tremulous: "Why don't you speak for yourself, Chetwynd?"—New York Press.

How an Elephant Sleeps.

One of the most erroneous of the many queer ideas which the layman has on questions of natural history is the one respecting the elephant's mode of sleeping. Even the old school of naturalists declared that the elephant had never been known to sleep except in a standing position. Of late, however, say within the past century, it has been learned that the error came about by persons studying the habits of such beasts as had not been long in captivity. Such animals, when undergoing the process of domestication, have been known to stand for 12, 18 or even 24 months without once lying down to sleep. This is regarded as a want of confidence in their keeper, coupled with a longing desire for liberty. When elephants are at perfect ease and reconciled to their fate, they will lie down on their sides and sleep as all other beasts do.—St. Louis Republic.

CHARGES OF "FRAUD."

Breach In the Bay State Democracy Is Further Widened.

Manifesto Issued by the Williams Faction.

Ballot Commission Decided That Faneuil Hall Meeting Was Legal.

Boston, Oct. 19.—The meeting of the Democratic state committee Saturday afternoon ended in a row, almost in a free fight. N. G. Robinson, the secretary of the committee, smarting under charges of fraud and indecent conduct, attempted to assault Tim Coakley. He was prevented from getting at Coakley by members of the committee, who pulled him off. Dan Coakley spit in George T. McLaughlin's face, and this exhibition of Democratic pleasantry caused such a rumpus that half the members were engaged in trying to prevent the other half from assaulting one another. The crisis was reached on a motion to adjourn, which, being carried by the anti-Williams people, made the friends of the Dedham statesman frantic with rage. It was then that the attempts at personal annihilation began.

Additional interest was added to the outbreak by a manifesto, which was issued Saturday night by the Bryan-Sewall-Williams club. The document is a lengthy one, and bristles with charges against the state committee. The manifesto begins as follows:

"We, the undersigned, on behalf of a majority of the Democratic state committee, issue this formal protest against the fraudulent methods by which the chairman and secretary of that committee nullified at today's meeting the will of that majority. At this meeting, by reason of the resignation of 16 gold bolters, the attendance showed an undoubted majority for Bryan-Williams and the Chicago platform. And this, too, in spite of the fact that the secretary sent out notices of the meeting to the anti-Bryan machine members of Boston three days ago, while the out-of-town members, whose loyalty to Democracy is beyond reach of the corrupting influences of the Quincy machine, were not notified until last night."

The manifesto then goes on to relate of the delay in calling the meeting to order, and of the appointment of a committee to induce the chairman to begin business. The document then proceeds to explain why John O'Gara of Spencer and Mr. Davenport of Greenfield were refused permission to vote, it being alleged that the chairman refused to recognize any protest. The alleged refusal of Secretary Robinson, during the rollcall, to call the name of Thomas W. Brophy of Gloucester until that gentleman insisted that his vote be recorded, is also commented upon.

In conclusion, the statement reads: "In view of the situation, which is made apparent by the above recital of facts, the majority of the members of the Democratic state committee notify our constituents that we are unable to carry out their will by conducting a campaign through the instrumentality of the committee designed by the Democracy for that purpose, and that the work of the campaign must necessarily be prosecuted through some agency other than that of a committee which is controlled through fraudulent methods by a minority hostile to Bryan, Williams and the Chicago platform."

The state ballot law commissioners, Saturday afternoon, gave a decision against George F. Williams and his followers, and declared the state convention held in Faneuil hall, by the regular state organization of the Democratic party, as the legal one. The nominees of the Faneuil hall convention will accordingly be placed on the official ballot. Although Mr. Williams was against the state committee, the convention held by the latter placed him on the head of the ticket, and the decision will not affect his name on the ballot, unless he withdraws.

In fact, the nominees of both the conventions held by Williams' followers, at Music hall, and the one at Faneuil hall, named the same ticket, with one or two exceptions, so that the contest before the commission was solely for the control of the state organization. The seizure of Music hall, the evening before the convention, was the cause of the regulars going to Faneuil hall. Both factions, of course, claimed that their convention was the legal one. The ballot law commission did not make public its full decision, so that as yet, Williams' men have not decided what they will do. Williams is campaigning for Bryan in the west, and has not yet been heard from.

Ready For Occupancy.

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 19.—The magnificent new church of the Sacred Heart, in this city, was dedicated yesterday, by Right Rev. Thomas D. Beaven, bishop of the diocese of Springfield. He was assisted by Rev. P. B. Phelan of Holyoke and P. D. Stone of Chicopee, as deacons of honor. A procession of priests preceded the bishop around the outer walls of the church, which was sprinkled with holy water by the bishop. At the outer door, the bishop invoked the blessing of the holy ghost. After circling the outside the procession, which was headed by a number of children of the sodalities, entered the church, and while the bishop knelt at the foot of the altar the Litany of the Saints was chanted by the clergy. The service of dedication closed with a short prayer by the bishop. Following the dedication came the solemn pontifical mass. In the evening pontifical vespers was celebrated. The church is one of the finest in New England, and the pastor, Rev. Thomas Smythe, hopes in a very short time to have it entirely free from debt. It has been building about 10 years, being started by the late Rev. J. J. McDermott, first pastor of the parish.

An Unfortunate Affair.

Marlboro, Mass., Oct. 19.—At a hearing before Judge Johnson, on the affair wherein J. R. McDonald lost his life, Daniel Cahill was arraigned and pleaded not guilty. Cahill was held in $2000 for the superior court.

The Bicycle Race.

The five mile handicap road bicycle race of R. E. Jones at Wollaston Saturday afternoon drew a large crowd of boys and a few men. The course was from the starting point on Newport avenue to Adams, Hancock, Washington and South streets, Quincy avenue, Hancock and Adams to starting point on Newport avenue.

There were about thirty entries, the majority of whom were on hand early, although it was nearly 4 o'clock before the race was started. Twenty-two riders started, of whom sixteen finished.

At the conclusion of the race Jones, the manager, left with the time figures saying that he did not have time to figure out the result then but would later, when he would give them out. He, however, failed to keep his promise and therefore the winners are not known except to him. The first prize and also the time prize however were won by Urkhardt, one of the scratch men.

MASSACHUSETTS BENEFIT.

Comments on the Resignation of Treasurer Corthell of Wollaston.

In regard to the resignation of Mr. Wendall G. Corthell of Wollaston, as Treasurer of the Massachusetts Benefit Life Association, the Journal finds that Mr. Corthell virtually retired from the position about the middle of September. At least, it is stated that a receipt signed by Mr. Cole on the 26th of that month bears the signature of Mr. Samuel T. Elliott as Treasurer, while on the first of September Mr. Corthell was acting in his capacity as Treasurer.

From those who are conversant with the situation and the affairs of the Massachusetts Benefit Life Association it is learned that Mr. Corthell, for a number of years, has not been in the active discharge of the duties of his office, other than to append his signature when required.

The details were cared for by Mr. Litchfield and his son, the latter, it is understood, performing the more active duties of the Treasurer. Mr. Elliott has been the Comptroller of the Life Association.

Mr. Corthell has been the Treasurer of the Massachusetts Benefit Life Association for ten years or more.

During the first four or five years of his service he was cognizant of the acts at issue in the petition, asking for an investigation of the conduct of the Board of Directors. During the balance of his term, it is stated that his health prevented his giving the close attention to the affairs of the association in his capacity as Treasurer which he had given in the beginning. A friend of Mr. Corthell stated that he was considerably harassed at first by the increase of payments on account of the grippe, and later on by the revelations made concerning the management of the company. It was to relieve him in part of the burden of his office that the younger Litchfield took up the performance of its more active duties. Mr. Corthell continuing to hold the office as the nominal head.

There is to be an investigation by direction of the Governor into the statements preferred against those who have controlled the management of the affairs of the association, which have been published very fully, and with the substance of which the public is familiar.

It is said that Mr. Corthell proposes to go to Europe to seek rest and the restoration of his health by a tour abroad. While his absence will not prevent the investigation from proceeding, there is no doubt, it is declared, that it would trouble those conducting it because of his departure, and a friend of Mr. Corthell said yesterday:

"I do not think that Mr. Corthell should be made to bear the burden which does not belong to him, by any inference from or construction that may be placed upon, his absense at a time when the affairs of the association, during his service as treasurer, are pending investigation.

"The inquiry will go on. There is no doubt of that, and in my opinion much might be avoided, possibly, if Mr. Corthell were here to refute it, as he might be able to do. Whereas, if he is not here, one cannot forecast what might be said, however unjustly.

"Mr. Corthell is in no manner responsible for the condition in which the association finds itself. Though his name appeared on the paper which has been published by the press I believe him to have been entirely honest, and certainly he has not profited to any great extent by his connection with the association.

"He was perfectly familiar with the proceedings of the first four or five years of the association's existence, which cover the time of the proceedings to be considered in this investigation, and he may be able to explain a great deal, which if he were not here would lead, perhaps, to improper inferences from the erroneous construction liable to be put upon his absence. He ought not to suffer from them.

"While not entitled to the credit if all is found to be right, possibly from the fact that for the past few years he has been Treasurer, as has been intimated, more in name than by actual performance. Neither does the burden belong to him if it may be found that a wrong has been committed. Therefore he ought to be here."

Mike Anderson was fined $7 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Daniel Cronin was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy and was placed on probation for one month.

Political Potpourri.

An exchange intimates that Hon. William N. Eaton resigned the Senatorial nomination on account of his probable candidacy for the mayoralty in the forthcoming municipal election.

W. G. A. Pattee of this city is chairman of Erastus Worthington non-partisan campaign committee. With him on the committee are associated Hon. Edwin V. Mitchell, Medfield; George W. Wiggin, Franklin; Hon. J. White Belcher, Randolph; Henry B. Endicott, Dedham; Dr. John W. Chase, Dedham; Charles A. Williams, Brookline; John D. Emmons, Walpole.

The number of delegates to the Republican municipal convention will be 74, not 75 as reported. A mistake was made in the Ward Five figuring, Wollaston being entitled to 13 as last year instead of 14. With a full convention 38 votes will still be necessary for a choice.

The Williams followers in the Democratic State Committee headed by John V. Scollard of Braintree have issued a protest against the actions of the committee, which they allege to be fraudulent.

There seems to have been some confusion about the date of the grand Republican rally in this city, but the time is tomorrow night, Oct. 20, at Hancock hall. The McKinley & Hobart battalion will escort the speakers, Governor Wolcott, Curtis Guild, Jr., and others. Hon. John Shaw will preside.

The McKinley & Hobart battalion has received invitations from representative T. H. Newcomb and John R. Graham to visit them some evening this week.

Milton Republicans will have a torchlight parade and flag raising at the Lower Mills, Tuesday evening. There will be no speaking.

Children of the Other Half.

Prof. Wm. I. Hull, Ph. D., of Swathmore College, Swathmore, Pa., delivered a most instructive illustrated lecture at the Food Fair today upon "The Children of the Other Half; their houses, their lives, their perils, the helping hands held out to them." After speaking briefly of the flocking of people into cities, he said that 70 per cent. of New York's population live in a very small fraction of its area and 56 per cent. in its tenement houses proper; that 62 per cent of the tenement inhabitants are foreign born and 93 per cent, are of foreign parentage; that 76 per cent. of the workingmen and 97 per cent. of the working women, receive in wages less than $10 per week.

He described the "double deckers," often covering as much as 93 per cent. of the lots, and the rear tenements surrounded on all sides by higher buildings and reached through a narrow alley or cellar, which has brought the death rate up to 75 per thousand, as against 22 per thousand in the city at large. Cut off from light and air, these rear tenements are exceptionally fatal to the children, their death rate in them being 203 per thousand.

The rear tenements and the double-deckers together have made some parts of New York the most densely populated in the world, one district having 986 persons to every one of its 32 acres, as against 453 per acre in Boston's most crowded quarter. After referring to the life, work, and play of children upon the streets, and the perils that beset them in lodging houses, saloons and prisons, he described all the work that is being done for these poor children by the hospitals, aid-societies, summer-charities, ocean-excursions, and sea-side homes.

Over ten thousand people attended the fair on Saturday. Nearly 5,000 silver souvenir spoons have been given away thus far.

Death of T. J. Callahan.

Mr. Timothy J. Callahan died early this morning at his father's residence on South Walnut street, of consumption. Mr. Callahan had been confined to the house since early summer, and his friends did not expect that he would be able to successfully battle against the powerful disease. Timothy was well-known in this city and in Boston, and was always a favorite among his companions. He was employed by T. A. Bresnahan, a Boston shoe machinery manufacturer, and by his industry and application to business he worked up to the foremanship of the factory. His labors stopped about a year ago by advice of his physician, who sent him to St. Louis, Mo. But the change did not benefit him perceptibly, and he returned to his Quincy home. The funeral will probably be held from St. John's church on Wednesday morning.

Religious Meetings.

Beginning this evening religious meetings will be held at different places in the city, as follows:

Monday, 7.30, Marshall P. Nye's, Coddington street.

Tuesday, 7.30, Mrs. James Burke's, Washington street.

Wednesday, 7.30, Mrs. James Newcomb's, Hancock street.

Thursday, 4.00, Mrs. Holton's, 22 Chestnut street.

Friday, 7.30, Universalist church.

Rev. C. S. Nickerson will be in charge. The meetings will be unsectarian. All who desire to attend will be welcome.

Wednesday Evening Bible Readings.

Rev. Morton W. Plummer of Boston will continue his Bible reading at the Calvary Baptist church, Franklin street, on Wednesday at 7 30 P. M. The subject will be announced later, and a very cordial invitation is extended to every one desirous of knowing more of the deep truths and beauty of God's Word as brought to them by one who prizes it above all else and makes this his life's work. All those who have heard Mr. Plummer know his ability in this study.

Boston Belles.

The entertainment at Hancock hall, Saturday night, by the "Boston Belles'" Minstrel and Vaudeville Co., under the management of Burton & Bassic drew a fair sized audience, including the usual number of boys who occupied a prominent place in the gallery and lost no opportunity to guy some of the numbers on the programme which certainly deserved all the guying that was given.

There were some redeeming features in the programme such as the work of La More, the contortionist, and Gosacio Grenache the expert cane spinner, and the singing of the young ladies which with proper accompaniment would have been fair, but as a whole it was not the kind of an entertainment the public in general can appreciate and unless the managers in the future present a better bill than that of Saturday night they will not receive the patronage of the amusement public.

Greenleaf Street.

No bit of Quincy has more perfect loveliness than Greenleaf street just now. Leaving Hancock this street has distant views in every direction, as it is on a higher level, but it is the place itself that at the lower portion is a bit of wonderland in intricacy of foliage and blended tints. Near the entrance from Hancock street, on the left is a pond, upon whose waters ducks sail. The houses along that side set back from the road, have almost uniformly no fences and with neat square lawns in front, gain an air of dignity and repose. Soon maples in soft shades of yellow come, and further down on the right, the deep green of evergreen treesmakes a contrast in color. Barker's swamp is a tangle of beauty of color and form. By and by a pleasant country lane starts and leads to nowhere, until the whole net work of various trees in many colored robes meet and mingle, so that the farther landscape is only guessed at, until one sees in the distance glimpses of our blue bay.

Manly Retraction.

To the Editors of the Daily Ledger:

In the discussion on the silver question between Mr. Tupper and "Joseph," the words "disreputable portion, etc." were attributed to Mr. Tupper. Upon examination of that gentleman's articles "Joseph" finds that the words were never used, or further, any words that would convey an equivalent meaning. "Joseph," therefore, apologizes to Mr. Tupper for his statement and retracts all parts of his article or articles that in any way placed Mr. Tupper in a wrong role. Though this retraction is somewhat tardy it is none the less sincere, and it is hoped that Mr. Tupper will accept it in the spirit in which it is extended.

Respectfully yours,
"JOSEPH."

Church Music.

Prof. P. H. Buechler, the German lecturer on sacred music, spoke at the Bethany Congregational church Sunday evening on "The Christian uses of the musical art." Prof. Buechler has a pleasing personality which with his culture and his wonderful knowledge of music, keeps the attention of the audience. He believes music comes from the soul and that one cannot sing a hymn unless he comprehend its meaning. He believes both in choir and congregational singing, but is opposed to non-Christians being hired to sing. He said it reminded him of the professional mourners who are hired in France. The more they are paid the louder they mourn. The talk was spiced with illustrations which made it exceedingly interesting as well as instructive.

Can't

This is the complaint of thousands at this season. They have no appetite; food Eat does not relish. They need the toning up of the stomach and digestive organs, which a course of Hood's Sarsaparilla will give them. It also purifies and enriches the blood, cures that distress after eating and internal misery only a dyspeptic can know, creates an appetite, overcomes that tired feeling and builds up and sustains the whole physical system. It so promptly and efficiently relieves dyspeptic symptoms and cures nervous headaches, that it seems to have almost "a magic touch."

Harvest Concert.

The annual Harvest Concert of the Wollaston Unitarian Sunday school was held at the church on Sunday evening at six o'clock. There was a large attendance. The edifice was tastifully decorated with autumn leaves. The principal feature of the festival was the address to the school by Mrs. Clara B. Beattey, the superintendant of the Sunday school of the Church of the Disciples.

Superintendent Page also spoke interestingly to the children.

There were recitations and readings by Winnifred White, Helen Josselyn, Molly Brown, Ernestine Litchfield and Miss Eugenia Hatch.

The music which was exceptionally well rendered, was by a picked quartette consisting of Miss Isadore C. Lull, Miss Zannetta Sprague, Miss Lulu Phelan and Miss Luella Jordan, assisted by the school.

Miss Phelan also sang in excellent taste a solo.

HELD UP WHOLE TOWN.

Half a Dozen Masked Bandits Had Their Own Way at Carney.

Raided Stores and Made Hotel Guests Disgorge.

Preliminary Precautions Allowed Them to Make Good Their Escape.

Guthrie, O. T., Oct. 19.—Further particulars have been received here of the raid on the little town of Carney, about 20 miles east of here, Saturday night. About 9 o'clock, six masked, and heavily armed outlaws, supposed to have been headed by the notorious "Dynamite Dick," one of the associates of the Daltons and Bill Doolan, rode into the place, and literally "held up" the town. Carney is a town of about 300 people. The robbers entered the village from the north with a great show of firearms. Two of the outlaws entered the store of B. Fouts and compelled him and his son to open the safe. After securing about $800 from them they bound both the father and son, threw them upon horses and carried them both about two miles out of town, where they tied them to a tree. In the meantime the rest of the gang had entered the postoffice, but, failing to secure anything of value, they raided the hotel, compelling the proprietor and several traveling men, who were stopping there, to turn over their money, watches and jewlery. Several smaller stores were also raided.

Before entering Carney, the outlaws had taken the precaution to cut the telephone wires leading to Chandler, so that there might be no chance of a failure. During the raid the bandits kept up a fusilade of bullets in all directions, terrorizing the inhabitants, so that very little effort was made to resist the raiders.

It was some time after the bandits had left before order could be restored, and an organized pursuit began. Finally, after considerable delay, about 100 armed men began the chase. The pursuers were divided into three bands, and went in different directions. The bandits have not yet been overtaken.

A band of four men, believed to have been members of the gang that raided Carney, appeared at Mulhall yesterday morning, held up a livery stable keeper, and compelled him to supply them with a relay of fresh horses. News was also received at the United States marshal's office that two men, supposed to have been members of the gang, had stopped at a farmhouse about 15 miles northeast of here and demanded food. Several United States marshals, headed by Deputy Concord, are in pursuit.

Cripp ed Paris Reaches Port.

Southampton, Oct. 19.—The American line steamship Paris, Captain Watkins, from New York, Oct. 7, reached her dock in this city yesterday. She reports that at 9 o'clock a. m. on Oct. 8, while going at a moderate rate of speed and in calm weather, her starboard tailshaft broke. An examination showed that the propeller had been jammed and broken. The shaft was secured and the ship proceeded with one engine. There was not the slightest uneasiness among the passengers over the turn of affairs, and the officers were all perfectly cool.

Honored by Belgian King.

City of Mexico, Oct. 19.—An event, marking the close of a great historic episode, occurred yesterday, when the Belgian minister, in the name of his majesty, Leopold II, king of the Belgians, bestowed on President Diaz the grand cordon of the military order of Leopold, as a mark of the honorable regard in which the President of Mexico is held in Belgium. The bestowal of the order upon the president of the republic is an indication that the Maxmillian episode is now definitely closed.

Killed Father and Himself.

Somerville, N. Y., Oct. 19.—Orrin Kinnie, a well-known farmer of this place, was yesterday found by his wife hanging in a barn over the dead body of his father, Daniel Kinnie, whom he had killed with an ax. It is thought that he first attempted to take his own life by cutting his throat, and that his father interfered to prevent. Kinnie had manifested symptoms of insanity. He was 45 years old, and his father 71. Both were respected citizens.

Went to the Bottom.

Sturgeon Bay, Wis., Oct. 19.—Steamer Australsia was burned on Lake Michigan, and now lies at the bottom of White Fish bay. The steamer was valued at $60,000. She caught fire about 11 o'clock Saturday night, when in sight of land. Full steam was put on and an effort made to beach the vessel. At last shoal water was reached, just as the lifesaving crew arrived at the vessel, and rescued the officers and men.

A Repentant Defaulter.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 19. — Sheriff Barnes of Park county, Ohio, has arrived here to take back G. W. Legg, the defaulting treasurer of that county. Two days before Legg's term of office expired, he disappeared, leaving a deficit of $15,000. Legg was much overcome when caught, and said he had been in torment ever since he left Ohio.

Germany's Eyes on China.

London, Oct. 19.—A Berlin dispatch to The Times says that the usually well-informed Schlesische Zeitung reports that the German government meditates sending a mission to endeavor to secure a tract of territory on the east coast of China, to enable Germany to share in the industrial and commercial development of China.

Assassinated by Burglars.

Berlin, Oct. 19.—Councillor Levy, one of the best known of Berlin lawyers, was yesterday morning stabbed to death in his bed by two burglars, and his wife was so badly injured that she was sent to a hospital. The murderers escaped.

Merit Recognized.

Nuremburg, Oct. 19.—The judges of the international chess tournament, held in this city in July and August, awarded a special prize to Pillsbury, for having played the most brilliant game of the tournament against Lasker.

A Lynching Probable.

Welch, W. Va., Oct. 19.—James Bell and Hiram Day were waylaid by James Hager near here. Bell was shot to death, and Day is fatally injured. A posse is in pursuit of Hager. He may be lynched

SIR EDWARD EXPLAINS.

Although Not In a Manner Quite Satisfactory to the London Times.

London, Oct. 19.—Sir Edward Clarke writes to The Times this morning regarding the criticisms of his speech, contesting the justice of the British claims in the Venezuela case. Sir Edward says that he did not suggest that the Venezuelan question was being used by either party in the United States as a factor in the presidential election. "The object of my speech," he says, "was to point to the dangers of delaying a settlement until after the election. I quoted a passage from the Venezuelan cause, alleging a falsification of the maps, but expressing my disbelief in the truth of these accusations, for the purpose of showing the serious elements of danger, if the question comes to be a matter of hot controversy between the United States and England."

The Times says, editorially, of the above: Sir Edward Clarke's letter is an inadequate answer. He showed a curious ignorance of the elements of the controvresy when he attempted to talk of it several months ago. It is lamentable that a man who has been a law officer of the crown should lay himself open to reproof in such a manner.

Bullet In His Stomach.

New York, Oct. 19. — Walter Louis Lenau, who married the widow of Colonel John A. Cockerill, shot himself yesterday, at his home at Englewood, N. J. According to Mrs. Lenau, the shooting was unintentional. Mr. Lenau has made no statement regarding the affair. The surgeons in attendance hold out little encouragement for his recovery. Doctors who were summoned found Mr. Lenau on a bed, where he had been put by his wife and a servant. A bullet from a 38 caliber revolver had entered the stomach. The surgeons unsuccessfully probed for the ball. Mr. Lenau rallied a little an hour after the shooting and expressed the desire to live. He is 27 years old, his wife is 40. His marriage with Mrs. Cockerill, on June 11, two months after the death of Colonel Cockerill, at Cairo, was unexpected by their friends.

Wonders of Alaska.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 19.—Professor J. L. Dyche of Kansas has returned from Alaska, on the City of Topeka. Professor Dyche went to Cook's inlet in search of natural history specimens. He ascended to the source of the Knick river with an organized expedition. The native boatman, stripped naked, with ropes, pulled the boat up the turbulent river. Professor Dyche secured specimens of a mountain sheep, 12 immense moose heads, caribou, sea otter, birds and other small animals. On July 17 Professor Dyche saw eight inches of snow fall, and on Aug. 11, six inches fall. He saw three smoking mountains, and experienced a severe earthquake. He found large coal ledges, but the coal was so soft that it could be whittled with a knife.

What Corbett Says.

Montreal, Oct. 19.—James J. Corbett arrived in the city yesterday with his theatrical company. He said that his coming fight with Fitzsimmons would positively be his last. "I will never again enter the ring," he added, "after I have satisfied the sporting world and Fitzsimmons that I can whip him in short order." In speaking of a fight with Sharkey, Corbett stid that it was nothing but an advertising scheme, and that as soon as he found out that he could get a fight on with Fitzsimmons he dropped the sailor at once.

Big Strike In Prospect.

Columbus, O., Oct. 19. — President Ratchford and Secretary Lewis of the Ohio Miners' union, yesterday, partially completed the count of the vote of the miners of the state on the proposition for a reduction to 45 cents in the mining rate. The vote represented over 20,000 miners, and the proposition is defeated by about 6 to 1. President Ratchford said that the natural result would be a strike, but he hoped this may be averted.

NEURALGIA

He is now Cured, and He Thanks God and P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, For It.

Mr. George Briggs, of Moore, Okla., suffered almost indescribable torment for three long years. Neuralgia held him captive. The right side of his face was so badly affected that the slightest touch would cause the unfortunate man intense agony. For several weeks he could open his mouth just wide enough to be fed with liquid nourishment, and in this manner life was sustained. Read the following extract from his letter: "Truth is stranger than Fiction."

NEURALGIA, CATARRH AND RHEUMATISM COMPLETELY CURED.

George Briggs, of Moore, Oklahoma, writes that P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, cured him of catarrh, facial neuralgia and rheumatism, after three years of intense suffering. The pain lay in his cheek bone and temple, down the right side of his face, along his upper lip, and from the slightest touch he suffered agonies for weeks at a time. Could only open his mouth wide enough to admit a teaspoon, and any acid in his food would put him in torture. He had a consultation of the best physicians in Texas, but all to no purpose.

Catarrh and rheumatism were also causing him much trouble, until he tried P. P. P. He says he is well and will swear that there are no cases of neuralgia, catarrh and rheumatism, no matter how chronic or how old the cases ar , that P. P. P. will not make a total cure of.

Mr. Briggs winds up his testimony by saying he thanks God and our medicine, P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, for the great cure.

Kidney troubles, if neglected, bring about serious and painful and very often fatal results. P. P. P. removes the irregularities, and cures the diseased parts.

Dyspepsia and indigestion, skin and blood diseases, can be speedily removed by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

Ladies, take P. P. P. and rid your face of pimples, blotches, freckles, yellow or muddy skin, wrinkles and vulgar redness.

CHICAGO THE CENTRE.

Political Storm Reaches an Intensity Never Before Experienced.

Campaign Flags Displayed by Thousands.

The Postal Card Election Shows Great Gains For the Gold Standard.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—When Mr. Bryan reaches Chicago for the last time before election, he will find the city in a state of political activity such as he has not seen since his nomination. The growth of enthusiasm and political interest here during the two weeks past, and more especially during the last week, is unprecedented, and to what extent it will increase from now until election day only time can tell. All classes here, the rich and poor alike, are aroused to a tension where men from all walks of life have entered into the campaign work in numbers that are astonishing, and a condition of affairs is the result that has heretofore been unknown in the great western metropolis. Both parties are exerting their utmost power. Not only has the enthusiasm and interest increased to a wonderful extent in this city, but reports show that the same state of affairs exists throughout the state. Business and everything else in Chicago has sunk into insignificance when compared with the great political war that is being waged. The people of Chicago and the whole of Illinois are awake to the fact that the eyes of the nation are upon them, and, being in the recognized center of the political struggle, every one interested in either party is striving to make the election a success for the cause he represents.

When the silver candidate arrives here he will see a great change, and a scene of activity unequaled anywhere in the country, with the possible exception of Canton, O., the home of Major McKinley.

Both parties still claim the city, although, unless all signs fail, the silver men are steadily falling behind, while the gold party is as steadily gaining. Over three weeks ago the Republicans claimed Cook county by 100,000, while the silver party claimed it by the same majority for Bryan. Now the gold party claims the city for McKinley by a majority that will go considerably over the 100,000 mark, while Bryan's followers will name no figure, although they still claim the city for their candidate. The silver party expects to do much effective work here yet with a long list of prominent speakers.

Thousands of campaign flags meet the eye in every direction, and a glance down any of the business thoroughfares of the down town district sets one to wondering if he is not in a locality just decorated in honor of some big national parade. Nearly all of this immense display of bunting is in honor of the gold standard. Every flag has an inscription, "Sound money and prosperity" being the predominating motto, while others bear the names of political clubs and organizations. Business men on all the main streets have publicly announced their loyalty to their cause by suspending from their office windows the Stars and Stripes, a movement that spread rapidly when once started.

For the past 10 days one of the principal topics discussed at headquarters is the Chicago Record's postal card election, which is considered by business men and politicians throughtout the country one of the greatest newspaper enterprises of the day. Its authenticity is doubted by but few men, who have to have some excuse to offer for the failure of the Bryan vote to reach anywhere near that of his opponent.

"In my opinion," said Major Dick, Mr. Hanna's private secretary, "it will bring out a representative vote and give the people an idea of the result of the election in the districts that will be covered by The Record's postal cards. While it probably will not be quite accurate as a legal poll, it will be a good thing to get the information before the public, upon which it will undoubtedly have a good effect."

Sunday at Canton.

Canton, O., Oct. 19.—Major McKinley shows no signs of fatigue from his great week's work, and is apparently as strong and robust as when the campaign opened. He was up early yesterday morning, and went to church, with a number of guests. He entertained company the greater part of the day, and last evening found him in the best of spirits, and equal to another week of hard work, which the announcements assure him. The campaigning party of generals and veterans were Major McKinley's guests yesterday. The special train arrived early in the morning, and the party was at the McKinley home in time to go to morning service at the major's church, the First Methodist. This party spent the afternoon at the McKinley home. The veterans held a meeting here at 7:30 o'clock this morning, and at 8:30 started on their eastern and northern trip, through Ohio.

The mails and the telegraph still bring communications concerning delegations to visit Major McKinley, and the prospects are for a week very much the same as the one which closed Saturday night. Saturday is again the favorite day, but there is something for every day of the week. Announcements are now made as late as Oct. 31, and there are but two days between now and then which have not one or more delegations announced. Illinois day will furnish, from present prospects, one of the most notable demonstrations of the campaign. Announcement has already been made of 18 special trains coming from all parts of the state, and the committee in charge says that twice that number are partially arranged for. Colonel W. P. Rend, a lifelong Democrat, is to be chief marshal of the parade, and General Fitzsimmons his chief of staff. A carload of matched black horses will be brought by the visitors for the use of the marshal and his staff.

A Talk to Newsboys.

Detroit, Oct. 19.—It was one of his characteristic Sabbaths that William J. Bryan spent in this city. Yesterday morning, accompanied by his wife, he attended the Westminster Presbyterian church and listened to a sermon by Rev. J. N. Patterson. Afterward the nominee and his wife held an informal, and unexpected reception, from the aisle near the pew they occupied. Nearly every person inside the edifice shook hands with them, and a few started a faint ripple of applause. In the afternoon the nominee rested, and at 6 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Bryan and John W. Tomlinson of Alabama dined with Mr. and Mrs. George W. Moore, at the latter's home. Although it had not been publicly announced, it had been arranged that Mr. Bryan should address the weekly meeting of the Detroit Newsboys association last night. The meeting was prolonged beyond the usual hour, waiting for the speaker to appear, but was finally dismissed. After most of the audience had passed out, the carriage bearing Mr. Bryan arrived, and the crowd rushed back into the hall, cheering Mr. Bryan enthusiastically. Mr. Bryan made a short, simple address to the newsboys, advising them as to the great value of character in all life affairs, and of respecting the rights of others. At the conclusion of his remarks, the hall rang with the boys' assurance that Bryan was "all right." Mr. Bryan looked greatly refreshed by his Sunday rest. His special train left for Ohio at 9 o'clock today.

Politics In a Pulpit.

Brookline, Mass., Oct. 19.—Rev. Ruen Thomas, one of the leading Congregational ministers in New England, preached a sermon yesterday on Archbishop Ireland's recent political letter. Dr. Thomas said: "It is impossible to cover our eyes to the immense influence for good or for evil, for unity or division, which the Roman Catholic church is capable of exercising upon the civil life of this nation. One of its most influential prelates has broken away from reserve, and spoken in words which cannot be understood as to the meaning of the present struggle. I think that there have been no words in the present crisis which stand for so much. Those of us ministers who have not dared to say anything, or have been afraid lest we should say too much, have been outdistanced in courage by one of the foremost representatives in this country of the most ultra-conservative church in the world.

Serious Clash Possible.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The Democratic silver managers declare no permit is necessary for their parade on Oct. 31, and hence they are determined to parade without one. A decision to this effect was reached by the managers after hearing legal opinion on the point involved. Chief of Police Badeneoch does not show any sign of receding from the position he took on Friday, when the Democratic leaders asked him to give their parade preference over the McKinley workingmen's clubs parade, announced for the same night, Oct. 31. "I do not intend that any parade shall take place without a permit," he said. "It is plain on the face of it that in the present excited state of the public mind, two parades cannot go over the same ground, with a brief space between them, and leave us safe in the consciousness that trouble will not result."

A Campaign "Flag Day."

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Chairman Hanna of the Republican national committee believes in the efficacy of the display of the Stars and Stripes, and has suggested that "on Saturday, Oct. 31, all who intend to vote on Nov. 3 for the preservation of our national honor, for sound money and the advancement of our people's interests and general prosperity, display the national colors at their homes, their places of business, or wherever they may be seen, in order that voters whose hearts are for their country may be strengthened in their purpose, and those who are undetermined may the more patriotically and intelligently conclude how best to perform their duty as citizens."

Williams' Message.

Boston, Oct. 19.—Linwood S. Pratt, private secretary to G. F. Williams, received the following message over the telephone from Mr. Williams, who was in Indianapolis. Mr. Williams says: "Ohio is as safe for Bryan as Georgia. We will carry the whole of the middle west. It is conceded that the Republican campaign has fallen down, with the exception of the money end of it, and that there is no hope among those best informed among the Republicans of carrying any of those states, except as a direct result of the use of money on election day."

Back to First Love.

Boston, Oct. 19.—United States District Attorney Sherman Hoar states that he will vote for McKinley and Hobart, as well as Roger Wolcott for governor. He criticizes the state committee for bowing down to Williams, and says that among his own people he proposes to work for the cause of national honesty. Mr. Hoar, 12 years ago, bolted the nomination of Blaine, and since then has been a Democrat, being elected a member of congress by that party.

No Politics In the Order.

Washington, Oct. 19.—National officers of the Union Veteran legion deny that they passed resolutions endorsing McKinley and Hobart. They said that politics was forbidden in the organization, and deprecated the fact that members of the order had given information that the Republican candidates had been endorsed.

Shut Out.

Providence, Oct. 19.—According to law, a political party is obliged to file nomination papers, bearing 500 signatures, before it can be recognized. The national Prohibition party in this state has not done this, although its presidential electors and congressional candidates had been nominated.

Small Business.

Boston, Oct. 19.—One of the Republican weekly society papers, in an editorial, states that one of the leading dry goods firms of the city has discharged six small cash girls because their fathers intend to vote for Bryan and Sewall.

Clover Leaf Boycotted.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—The Joint Traffic association has declared a joint boycott against the Clover Leaf, and all roads in the association have been ordered to cease all business with it after Oct. 22. The reason for the boycott is declared to be the action of the Clover Leaf in cutting rates, and giving sleeping car and chair car privileges to the holder of second-class tickets.

BACKACHE.

A Very Significant Indication of Organic Derangement.

The back, "the mainspring of woman's organism," quickly calls attention to trouble by aching. It tells with other symptoms, such as nervousness, headache, pains in loins, and weight in lower part of body, blues and "all gone" feeling, that nature requires assistance, and at once. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for twenty years has been the one and only effective remedy in such cases. It speedily removes the cause and effectually restores the organs to a healthy and normal condition. Mrs. Pinkham cheerfully answers all letters from ailing women who require advice, without charge. Thousands of cases like this are recorded.

"I have taken one-half dozen bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has relieved me from all pain. I cannot tell you the agony I endured for years; pains in my back (Oh, the backache was dreadful!) and bearing-down pains in the abdomen extending down into my limbs; headache and nausea, and very painful menstruations. I had grown very thin, a mere shadow of my former self. Now I am without a single pain and am gaining in flesh rapidly."—MATTIE GLENN, 1561 Dudley St., Cincinnati.

EXPOSURE TO X RAYS

Has a Serious Effect on the Body If Practiced Too Often.

Flesh Becomes Poisoned by Atoms of Platinum.

Experimenter Newcomb Relates His Experience With the Wonderful Light.

Salem, Mass., Oct. 20.—George L. Newcomb, who, during the past half year has been experimenting with the X-ray, and whose success has been equal to that of any who have used the curious light, asserts that he has been obliged to renounce further investigation into the phenomena, out of consideration for his own health. Recently, Mr. Newcomb noticed that after an exposure, unpleasant sensations were experienced, particularly in the right hand, which was most frequently submitted to the ray. At first the symptoms were much the same as of ivy, dogwood or other vegetable poisoning, the sensation being one of itching, burning and smarting. The skin turned a dark purplish brown, and a burning sensation increased with each successive exposure to the mysterious agent.

Finally the pain became unbearable under the rays, and he desisted from further experiments for a while. The skin peeled from the entire back of the right hand and fingers, while every particular minute hair upon his hand fell out. The nails of the fingers of that hand turned purple and lost life, and gave indication of falling off. Meantime, Mr. Newcomb had given up his experiments, and the member rapidly regained its former appearance, new skin slowly taking the place of that which had peeled off, and new finger nails beginning to replace those which had been killed by the X-rays, pushing the dead ones away from the bottom and filling in behind them exactly as when a nail is killed by a blow.

No sooner had the hand commenced to feel like itself than Mr. Newcomb attempted to conduct another experiment for some friends. With the first turning on of the current, and the appearance of the peculiar light in the tube, the sensations returned, and in less than three minutes he was obliged to shut off the power.

Mr. Newcomb accounts for the effect by an original theory. The light is diffused through an aluminum window in the glass tube, being reflected upon the point of experiment by a platinum disk. It is Mr. Newcomb's theory that infinitesimal particles of this platinum are projected with incredible force upon the flesh beneath, and penetrating the tissues, produce the symptons of poisoning, as he related to a reporter. How minute these particles must be may be understood when it is conceived that they must go through the plate of aluminum as though it were a sieve.

"I dislike to give up my experiments," said Mr. Newcomb, "but I have convinced myself, by repeated trials, that the effect of the ray on my hand is very injurious. My nails are gone already, you see, and I feared for the bones of the hand next. I do not think that a single exposure for a short space of time, such as is necessary for locating a bullet or detecting a broken or misplaced bone, could be in the least harmful to the most delicate system."

Tried to Kill Himself.

Hartford, Oct. 20.—Leroy Smith, claiming to belong in Springfield, Mass., who was arrested yesterday for attempting to pass, at the United States hotel, a forged check for $42, attempted suicide last night by taking poison in his cell He was found in an unconscious condition by Officer Farrel, who arrested him and it required hard work by two physicians before he was resuscitated. After his arrest, Smith tried to swallow some blank checks in his possession. The police think they have secured a noted forger.

Enfield's Big Fire.

Enfield, Mass., Oct. 20.—This town was visited yesterday by the most destructive fire in its history. The business section of the town was completely wiped out, and property was destroyed entailing a loss of $25,000. A strong west wind fanned the flames, and the firemen were powerless to check the progress of the flames. Aid was asked from surrounding towns, and a steamer was sent from Athol, which did effective work. Many buildings, which caught fire from sparks were saved.

Vicious Youngster Imprisoned.

Providence, Oct. 20.—Willie Davis, 13 years old, who has been called the "Jesse Pomeroy of Rhode Island," was found guilty yesterday afternoon of assault with a dangerous weapon upon Willis Chase. The assault took place last August. The Davis boy stole his father's razor, and going to the Chase tenement in the absence of the Chase boy's mother, slashed the lad across the neck with the razor. He was sentenced to the reform school during his minority.

Snatched the Boy's Bundle.

Boston, Oct. 20.—Thomas Rafferty aged 15, employed by A. She was picked up yesterday about 60 miles southeast of Cape Henry by the British steamship Benridge. Captain Warr reports that every day since the storm he has passed quantities of wreckage. He never saw so much wreckage before in his life. The schooner J. J. Moore, Captain Chadwick, from New London, Conn., to Norfolk, arrived with her jibboom and foretopmast gone.

Brooke, an Englishman, whose place is near Tonkwa, and who is considered wealthy They called Brooke to the door and commanded him to hold up his hands, their apparent purpose being robbery. Brooke replied with bullets from his revolver, and shot two of his victims dead, and wounded the third. The two uninjured outlaws hurried away, carrying their wounded companion. The dead men have not been identified.

Fall Carpets.

Just a seasonable word or two, to-day.

When you're buying, think about quality as well as price.

Remember that the words "Axminster," "Wilton," "Brussels," etc., can be made to cover a multitude of sins.

Remember, too, that our stock is far larger than that of any other Boston house, and that as nobody can possibly buy to better advantage than we can, it is reasonable to suppose that our ability to name very low selling figures is also unsurpassed.

We are combining high quality with moderation in price, this Fall, more effectively than ever before.

We ask for your patronage on this basis—the basis of "goods for the money."

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

A six-page LEDGER tomorrow.

Mr. Powers is reported as better today.

Mrs. William Davenport has moved from Crescent street to Quincy centre.

The city department is at work widening and straightening Buckley street.

Mr. E. H. Doble and Dr. E. E. Doble have gone to Solan and Wilmington, Me.

The next rally of the City Council will be on the eve of the Presidential election.

Another regulation alley is being put in at Costello's alley which will make five alleys in all.

The regular trips on the Houghs Neck line of the electrics have been discontinued but special cars will be run.

Mrs. Annie E. Faxon has gone to Fitchburg to spend a week with her son, John G. Faxon, and to see her new grandson.

A number of marble headstones have been received at Mt. Wollaston cemetery from the government for unmarked graves of veterans.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Witham of Wollaston are passing their honeymoon at Mr. E. H. Brock's country place at Fitzwilliam, N. H.

S. Henry Barnicoat has returned home after an absence of four months in Scotland where he went for his health. He is now very much better and says he feels like a new man.

Mr. James Collins of South street is to be removed to the Quincy hospital for treatment. This step was taken by advice of the family physician, Dr. Sheahan.

The old steamer Metropolitan, which has been at Nut island having her machinery taken out, was burned Monday night about 8.30 and made a brilliant illumination.

Philip McGrath, who has been sick for some weeks with typhoid fever, has so far recovered that he is able to sit up, but it will be some time yet before he gets out of doors.

Houghs Neck is almost deserted, but some work is being done. The play house floated down from Boston is located beside the bowling alley, and the Casino on the opposite side of the street has been cut in half, and made over into tenements.

The Republicans seem to have some anxiety for Adams street residents for they always include that street in the route for the parade. Why not invade Wards Three and Four a little? They will find the people more responsive.

The association candle pin contest will open at Costello's alleys, Wednesday evening, between the Quincys and Jamesons of Somerville. Friday evening the big pin contest will open when the Quincys will go to Somerville and bowl the Jameson big pin team.

The prizes for the hospital fete rifle shoot have been shot off at the Duck's Nest and awarded as follows: First prize, pair of Rice & Hutchins shoes, to P. A. Nelson; second prize, briar wood pipe, to J. B. Keyes; third prize, box of cigars, to William T. Spargo.

The latch string of the John Quincy Adams house belonging to the Quincy Historical society, was not hanging out Monday as in olden times and the genial librarian even carried his hospitality so far as to personally tack handsome newspaper over all the windows so that none of the contents of the house should be desecrated by outside eyes.

Mrs. William Lee of Brookline, honorary state regent of the Daughters of the Revolution who has been ill for a long time, was able to attend the reception given by the local chapter yesterday afternoon at the old John Adams house. The Quincy ladies were delighted to meet her again and she was much pleased with the prosperity of the young chapter.

The Committee on Streets on order granting the Quincy & Boston street railway a turnout on Washington street near North street, reported an amendment changing the kind of rail to a grooved rail and providing for the paving of said turnout and main track at that point. Amendments adopted and order passed to be ordained under suspension of rules.

The Committee on Public Buildings to whom was referred the order relative to the remodeling of the old Central Fire station for a police station, reported that it was not inexpedient to do so. Upon motion of Councilman Rideout the report was laid on the table.

The Committee on Finance to whom was referred the communication relative to increase in Miscellaneous City appropriation, reported no legislation necessary, as the amount allowed Mrs. La Piere should have been charged to extension of Hall place and not Miscellaneous City expenses. Accepted.

The Committee on Streets reported leave to withdraw on petition of the New England Telephone Co. for location of poles. Accepted.

Third Hill Sale.

The Committee on Finance, on order for sale of land on Third hill, reported a resolution that the Commonwealth take so much land on Third hill as shown on plan of the Metropolitan water works for a reservoir, paying the City of Quincy $5,000, provided that Quincy be allowed full access to the land for recreation and that Quincy is admitted to the Metropolitan water district for a nominal consideration. The order took its second reading and the rules were suspended.

Councilman Rice thought more than $5,000 should be paid. The city should not sell for $5,000 what cost $8,000. He moved to amend by substituting $8,000.

Councilman Claflin said the general opinion was that we were not practically selling anything. The State would improve the place and land would be better in their hands. The State thought it unjust to maintain a road which was for our use. The amendment would defeat the sale, and if the land were seized we would not get as much.

Councilman Pinkham opposed the amendment. The land is nominally a playground. The street was not. The State will make the spot more beautiful and the city would be better off.

Councilman Badger said if we charged too much we would lose the reservoir.

Councilman Nickerson said the city would make a mistake if it allowed the State to build a reservoir in any other place.

Councilman Rice. We do not know what kind of a reservoir will be built.

Councilman Sprague said the city had spent $8,000 with interest and he could not see the value of the street if it leads to land we do not own.

Councilman Claflin said there were several conditions and we may lose the reservoir entirely. If the State did not get the land it would put a pipe near by with a one day's supply, but with the reservoir we should have several days' supply. For these reasons if we tried to get too much we may lose all.

Councilman Badger asked if this reservoir was not to supply Quincy and Milton.

Councilman Pinkham replied that the understanding was to supply this district which included Quincy and Milton and possibly Hyde Park and part of Dorchester. If they take the land by eminent domain they will not take the street.

Councilman Sprague. We are only asking them to pay what we have have paid out. We are not grabbing for anything.

Councilman Little thought the city would make a mistake if it raised the price to $8,000. Quincy will be the looser by it.

Councilman Hayden asked if Quincy was obliged to buy other land for a playground with the money received.

Councilman Claflin said it was the impression that the money raised would go back into the treasury and the city would have the additional advantage of the money and the playground beautified at the State's expense. In order to appropriate the money received for another playground the Council would have to pass an order. It would not revert to the Park Commissioners.

Councilman Pinkham thought council had nothing to do with the money now.

The amendment of Councilman Rice was voted down and the order passed to be ordained, Councilman Rice and Sprague voting in the negative, and 19 in the affirmative.

Those Turnouts.

The Committee on Ordinances reported the order granting a temporary location of turnouts on Hancock street (those put in during the summer) to be properly engrossed. Laid on table.

Later Councilman Lamb offered an order for a hearing on a petition for the above turnouts that the grant might be legal.

The nomination of Arthur S. Barnes as a weigher was confirmed.

The Commissioner asked the Council to approve his action in granting a new location of poles on Hancock street, near the new Kincaide block. Referred.

Sewer Appropriation.

Councilman Geary called for a report on the sewer order.

Chairman Claflin said the Finance Committee had laid it upon the table because of the condition of the money market. The committee asked for further time.

Councilman Geary doubted the advisability of granting the request. Did not see what effect the election could have. There was a demand for a sewer.

Councilman Anderson advocated delay because bonds could not be floated on favorable terms.

Further time was granted.

Election Orders.

Councilman Anderson offered the regular order for the Presidential and State election of Nov. 3. Passed.

Also an order for polling places at the Municipal election of Dec. 1. Passed.

The license of H. W. Coburn was transferred.

Adjourned at 8.35.

INTERESTING LECTURE.

Rev. Dr. Vosberg Tells of His Recent Trip to Palestine.

The largest attendance thus far was noted at the session of the Training school for Christian service held Monday evening. The lesson on "Biblical Geography" was conducted by Supt. E. W. Branch in the form of a chalk talk. The location of Bible lands was shown as well as the relation of Palestine to the various countries of antiquity.

The lecture by Rev. I. S. Vosberg, D D., of Boston, was on the subject "Palestine, Past and Present." Dr. Vosberg, in his characteristic manner told of his recent trip through Palestine, arriving at Joppa in such a storm as to recall the experience of Jonah, passing through the plain of Sharon, which in its floral loveliness is unsurpassed, and where one member of the party picked thirty-two different varieties of flowers without moving. Then on to Jerusalem, scenes in which he vividly described.

Then a trip to Bethlehem visiting the tomb of Rachel, David's well, and the Church of the Nativity. A side trip to the Dead Sea was made, and of a bath in its waters, Dr. Vosberg said it was the most delightful sensation he ever experienced, the novelty of walking in the water without the possibility of sinking, and with no living thing swimming in the deep waters below to disturb nervous people, was an experience to be remembered.

The Mount of Temptation was described as being a barren, dreary, lonely, dessert, stony waste; the perpetual habitation of the wild beasts of the Judean wilderness; there it was that our Lord was tempted.

Passing through Samaria a stop was made at Jacob's well, now about 80 feet deep, though formerly much deeper, and at this well, and here alone in all Palestine, one can say and be absolutely certain of the fact, that Jesus stood right here.

At Gerezim and Ebal a trial was made and it was found that words could be heard from one to the other with surprising distinctness. After a visit to the Sea of Galilee they returned home passing through the land of the unspeakable Turk.

The lesson and lecture next week will be on the subject "Beginnings," and will be conducted by the Rev. James Gray, D. D, of Boston, whose wife it will be remembered conducted the interesting series of Bible lessons in this place last winter.

Much interest was manifested in the opening sermon of the series on orthodoxy and heresy by the Rev. Robert Westly Peach in the Presbyterian church Sunday evening. The preacher in his closing words on "Heretical Doctrine and Orthodox Life" said that many people who hold heretical views live orthodox lives—patterned after that of the Saviour and full of deeds to the glory of God. In such cases there is a mental bias against or inability to comprehend the great truths of God's word as systematized by the well-nigh unanimous highest thought of Christians throughout the centuries; but "with the heart man believeth unto righteousness." On the other hand, many who "hold fast the form of sound words," live lives full of deeds which bear witness against their profession of faith. This side of the matter will be taken up next Sunday evening, in the second of the series.

HISTORIC HOME.

Adams Chapter, D. R., Receive at President's Birthplace

On the Anniversary of the Birth of John Adams.

New Headquarters of the Daughters Has Many Antiquities.

About two hundred ladies, nearly all Daughters of the Revolution from Massachusetts Chapters, with a few invited guests, responded to the invitation of the Adams Chapter of Quincy Monday afternoon, to go to the old homestead, at the foot of Penn's hill, to informally inaugurate their possession of the old historic mansion which was the birthplace of John Adams.

After an unusually long northeast storm, a brilliant October day came, and the large south room in which the guests were received by the Regent, Mrs. N. V. Titus and introduced to the eldest representatives of the Adams family the venerable Miss Elizabeth and Mr. Isaac Hull, grand children of old President John Adams, was flooded with sunshine that streamed over the plains as we have always known the land on the south of the estate.

Mr. and Miss Adams sat before the south window in the sunshine and, opposite a blazing fire upon the hearth. Over the mantel blue and buff the colors of the Daughters of the Revolution were artistically draped within a panel. Thanks are due Mrs. W. E. Simmons, Mrs. A. H. Gilson and Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard for this pleasing effect, as well as for the disposal of flags on the various rooms and a pennant that was hung horizontally around the outside of the house.

Miss Sarah Hunt of Salem, acting regent of the State Society, and Mrs. Leslie C. Wead, treasurer of the State Society, received with Mrs. Titus and members of Adams Chapter ushered the guests. There were representative ladies from all parts of the State, and one from Des Moines, Iowa, and two from Pennsylvania.

A book for registration of names was given by Mrs. Redman of Atlantic, an active member of the chapter. This was handsomely bound and lettered in gilt. Mrs. A. H. Gilson loaned an interesting book containing beautiful colored portraits of the first six presidents.

Above in one front room Mrs. Lewis Bass presided over most interesting relics, articles sent by the family. A scarlet mantle of heavy cloth, which used to envelop the President's form on horseback, was one of many things of interest. Opposite, separated from the people by a flag, was the cradle in which the infant President was rocked. Many generations of juveniles have found shelter in it since his day. Over this cradle was a placard with the inscription

JOHN ADAMS
Born October 19, 1734
Died July 4, 1826

The height of the walls of the chambers was a surprise to all, and one wonders why in the days when we supposed ceilings were low, so much height was used. Was it to accommodate high posted bed-steads?

In the back kitchen, or long room, a table was set with delicious sandwiches, cakes, chocolate and tea. Mrs. H. M. Faxon presided over the chocolate, and Miss Belle Nightingale over the tea.

Another table was spread in the east corner front room. Mrs. Frank Brewer presiding at the chocolate urn and Miss Emily C. Wilde over the tea. The candle sticks and many of the dishes used on both tables were more than a hundred years old.

Miss Elizabeth Adams brought a sponge cake, baked by an old recipe in the pan used by Mrs. Abigail Adams. The pan and recipe Miss Adams has presented to the Quincy Chapter.

Mrs. William H. Ruddick, Mrs. Bullard, Miss Hattie Pierce, Miss Harriet Phillips, Miss Mary Nightingale, Miss Miriam Houghton and other members of the chapter assisted at the tables. The young ladies all wore light waists and were much admired by all.

Mr. I. Hull Adams was born in this old house in the same room in which his grandfather, President John Adams, was born, but his parents since resided in the home on Elm street, which has long been known as the Judge Adams place, and in which he and his sister still live.

Many souvenir gifts were received from visiting chapters, the idea originating with the Andover chapter. The local chapter much appreciates the pretty additions to their house furnishings.

By courtsey of Rev. C. F. Bancroft, D D., the life of Judge Phillips was donated.

Miss Rebecca Fairbanks of Dedham, brought over a table cloth with the American eagle shield and olive branch woven in the linen. This was made in Ireland in Revolutionary times and has been used on the return of the 4th of July by the family ever since. Miss Fairbanks has invited the ladies of the chapter to be her guests next Monday at Dedham.

The Adams family was further represented by Hon. Charles Francis Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Adams, Hon. Charles F. Adams, 2d, our mayor, and Miss Abigail, daughter of the late Hon. John Quincy Adams and sister to our mayor.

Mr. J. Myles Standish, of Boston, a direct descendant of Capt. Myles Standish, was present as were Lieut. Downs of the National Sailors' Home (a kinsman of Mr. I. Hull Adams) Capt. Redman, of Atlantic, and Mr. Henry H. Faxon; these being the only other gentlemen present.

Mr. Titus was as usual a kind and courteous host, representing with Mrs. Titus, the Chapter.

Among the guests besides those already mentioned were: Mrs. William Lee of Boston, honorary state regent, Mrs. P. O. M. Edson of Roxbury regent of the Mary Warren Chapter, Miss Edson, Mrs. M. P. Clough of Lynn, regent of the Third Plantation Chapter, Mrs. S. J. Marland of Andover, regent of Phœbe Phillips, Foxcroft Chapter, Miss Emma Foster of the state society council, Mrs. Geo. C. Bossom of Reading, Miss Elizabeth Potter Gould of Boston, Mrs. Judge Choate of Boston, Mrs. Richard C. Humphreys of Dorchester, Mrs. Susan Boyd of Portland, Miss Ellen J. Abbott, Miss Geddings, Mrs. John C. Sears, Miss Helen Marland, Mrs. Frank E. Gleason all of Andover, Mrs. E. B. Wilson of Everett, and over a hundred more from all over the state.

After the guests were introduced and had wandered over the old house, they went to the summit of Penn's hill to visit the cairn erected by the Chapter to the memory of Abigail Adams on the 17th of June last.

Altogether the reception was a happy success and one that reflects much credit upon all to whom the details were entrusted.

A breath of the past seemed borne upon the fresh air that swept so freely around the spot sacred to all whose hearts respond to what is truly inspiring and uplifting.

In this house the "letters of Mrs. John Adams" were mostly written. These are to New England women, as well as to others to whom they are familiar, like folklore.

It is not only John Adams who was so tenderly remembered, but his dear helpmeet and noble wife Abigail Adams.

Back Among Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Barnicoat of South Quincy were pleasantly surprised and entertained by a visit from numerous friends on Monday evening. The occasion was to celebrate their return from a four months' visit to their old home in England, where they had gone with their family in pursuit of both pleasure and health.

As a token of regard and esteem the visitors presented the hosts with a handsome dinner set. The presentation speech was neatly made by Mr. Fred Turner, and suitably replied to by the recipients.

After a turkey supper had been served with "all fixings," the party were entertained with selections sung by the Quincy Quartette and much appreciated, also by songs from Messrs. Sam Tutten, Fred Turner, Ed Glover, William Warmington and by the Chief of Fire Department Peter J. Williams, and violin solos by Mr. McQuinn.

Dancing was indulged in until a late hour and the party separated in the early morning, much pleased with the pleasant time they had enjoyed, and with many good wishes on the part of the visitors for the good health and prosperity of Mr. and Mrs. Barnicoat.

THE GREAT ASSASSIN.

Gladstone Declares That He Triumphs For the Moment Only.

London, Oct. 20.—St. James' hall was packed with an audience of 2600 people last night, a large proportion of whom were women, to take part in the demonstration of protest against the Armenian massacres. Nearly 7000 people applied for admission to the hall.

The bishop of Rochester presided over the meeting instead of the Duke of Westminster, who wrote regretting that poor health compelled him to be absent.

Intense enthusiasm was manifested by those present, especially over the reading of a letter from Mr. Gladstone. In this letter, Mr. Gladstone expressed the hope that the meeting would worthily crown the Armenian meetings of the past two months, which, he said, were without a parallel during his political life.

The great object, Mr. Gladstone said further, was to strengthen Lord Salisbury's hands and to stop the series of massacres which was probably still unfinished, and to provide against their renewal. As he believed that Lord Salisbury would use his powerful position for the best, personally he objected in the strongest manner to abridging Lord Salisbury's discretion by laying down this or that as things which he ought not to do. It was a cold paradox, without the support of reason or history, to say that the enforcement of treaty rights to stop systematic massacres, together with effective security against Great Britain's abusing them for selfish purposes, would provoke the hostilities of one or more of the powers. To advertise beforehand in the ears of the great assassin that Great Britain's action would cut down what the most backward of the six powers think to be sufficient, would be the abandonment of duty and prudence, and would be to doom the national movement to disappointment. The concert of Europe, Mr. Gladstone wrote, was valuable and important, but such an announcement would be certain to be followed by its failure.

Mr. Gladstone's letter concluded as follows: "I have here special opportunities of knowing of what material the sultan, with all his seeming obstinacy, is made. From deplorable and disgraceful causes, he triumphs for the moment, but for the moment only. In the face of civilized mankind he has recorded the final condemnation, first and foremost of himself, but next and no less effectively those who have been his willing, brutal and sanguinary tools."

The meeting unanimously adopted resolutions expressing abhorrence of the Armenian massacres and support of the British government in its efforts to stop them; appealing to the powers to cooperate with that object, and asking all nations and creeds to assist in the succor of the helpless and starving Armenians.

London, Oct. 20. — A dispatch from Paris says that an Armenian correspondent sends information that a terrible massacre occurred at Van, in Armenia, on Oct. 2. No details are given.

Three Friends Sloped Away.

Savannah, Oct. 20.—The United States revenue cutter Morrill has arrived here, having abandoned her chase of the schooner Three Friends. Somewhere off Charleston, Sunday night, the Three Friends gave the Morrill the slip. Yesterday the cutter realized that the Three Friends had gotten away, and came up to coal. It is known that the Three Friends carried off with her Petty Officer Newman, who had been put aboard the filibuster by the Morrill. The Morrill has been shadowing the Three Friends ever since she left Jacksonville last Thursday.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 10. — Steamer Three Friends, after running away from the Morrill, came into the river early yesterday afternoon, and tied up at the wharf at Fort George. As soon as the news was received here that she had crossed the bar the revenue cutter Boutwell went down to keep an eye on it.

Speculators Got Scared.

London, Oct. 20.—The financial article in The Times says: The report of the cable advices from America, giving the prices of wheat, caused a scene almost of consternation on the Exchange, such as is not usually seen, except in war times. A large business was done, California selling at 36s. a quarter. Maize and barley were also in brisk demand. The rise appears to be due to the sales of American wheat for India, which frightened the speculators a good deal. Cautious observers think that the rise of 5s. a quarter for the week fully discounts the effect of the abnormal Indian demand.

The Bay State Receivership.

Philadelphia, Oct. 20.—Dwight Branan and J. A. McCaulley, the receivers in Delaware of the Bay State Gas company, made application yesterday, through Attorneys Johnson and Carson, to Judge Dallas, in the United States circuit court, for the appointment of a receiver for the Bay State Gas company of New Jersey. Judge Dallas appointed George H. Yeaman of Madison, N. J., temporary receiver. Tuesday, Oct. 27, was fixed for a hearing at Trenton as to whether the appointment of Mr. Yeaman shall be made permanent.

Reserve Holds Its Ground.

Washington, Oct. 20.—The gold reserve is holding its ground remarkably under the pressure of anxiety regarding the result of the election. The withdrawals at New York yesterday were only $285,500, of which $32,400 was in jewellers' bars, and the entire losses at all subtreasuries by the redemption of government paper for the latest day reported by mail from each were only $378,805. The net reserve at the close of business was $121,787,261.

Political Corruption.

Washington, Oct. 20.—The president has removed Postmaster John H. Levis at Black River Falls, Wis., and appointed David Thomson as his successor. In a recent political discussion it was asserted that Levis paid a large sum of money to a local newspaper to support his candidacy for the office, and a subsequent investigation, the department claims, has substantiated these charges.

SAVED HIS WIFE.

Remarkable Result of an Advertisement.

Death Was Near When Mr. Peck Read It.

He Was With the Bridgeport Brass Co.

M. M. Peck is a Bridgeport man, living for many years on East Main street, and who for eight years was in the employ of the Bridgeport Brass company. He writes:

"About five years ago we lost a child while my wife was approaching confinement and in her delicate state the shock brought on nervous prostration. My wife has never been the same since. The nerves of the stomach being affected caused what doctors called nervous dyspepsia. Her suffering was awful. Why even the whites of a couple of eggs distressed her so that she was forced to give up all work.

"Gases in the stomach at the same time affected her heart until it seemed that death would result at any moment.

"Last April I saw Puritana advertised in a paper and was attracted by the name of Dr. Crosby, which is well known in our family. At the suggestion of my wife we tried Puritana.

"As for the result it has been truly astounding. Before one bottle was used a change for the better was noticeable or I should not have bought another. Now, after several bottles, she eats three good meals a day and food does not distress her in the least.

"Before trying Puritana, we had at different times tried four doctors in Bridgeport to no effect.

"I have convinced several friends by my firm belief in Puritana and gladly give my testimony to the public in the hope that others may receive the same benefits that Puritana has brought to my wife."

(Signed) M. M. PECK.
Box 489, Stratford.

While Mr. Peck was one, probably the first person in Bridgeport to try Puritana, his example has since been followed by numberless citizens.

DEFEATED
For Three Years He Suffered—Could Hardly Breathe at Night—One Nostril Closed for Ten Years.
Mr. A. M. Ramsey, of De Leon, Texas, was a sufferer from Catarrh in its worst form. Truly, his description of his sufferings seem little short of marvelous. Instead of seeking his couch, glad for the night's coming, he went to it with terror, realizing that another long, weary, wakeful night and a struggle to breathe was before him.

I have not slept on either side for two years; in fact, I dreaded to see night come. Now I sleep soundly in any position all night.
I am 50 years old, but expect soon to be able to take hold of the plow handles. I feel glad that I was lucky enough to get P. P. P., and I heartily recommend it to my friends and the public generally.

A FIGHT FOR MISSOURI

The Next Vigorous Step to Be Undertaken by Chairman Hanna.

Will Flood the State With Popular Orators.

Republicans Claim They Are Safe but Wish to Get Overwhelming Majorities.

Chicago, Oct. 20. — Chairman Hanna and Henry C. Payne of the national committee returned yesterday from Wisconsin, where they spent Sunday. Mr. Hanna is more than ever confident of the outcome. He listens to rumors of trouble in Indiana, Michigan and Minnesota, which are being brought in here by campaigners who want money for their states, and then he nods his head and says: "Well, I am glad of it. I want people to feel apprehensive. The more frightened Republicans and Sound Money Democrats become in these states the greater will be the majority for McKinley. I have not the slightest doubt of the result, but the bigger the majority the more decisive will be the settlement of all these questions forced on us by the Chicago platform."

Mr. Hanna showed what he thought of the stories of a close fight in Indiana, Michigan and Minnesota by calmly making arrangements to carry another state, which he has thus far never counted in his sure Republican list. This state is Missouri. Reports which have come from that state of the receding of the free silver wave among the Republicans, and of the increasing number of Gold Democrats, have led Chairman Hanna to believe that Missouri will be won for McKinley. When Mr. Hanna reached this conclusion there was a sort of "Missouri day" at Republican headquarters. The wires sang with hundreds of messages into that state. Twelve speakers were called off from engagements elsewhere and sent post haste into Missouri, to remain on the stump until the Saturday before election Other speakers will follow, and in a short time Missouri will roar with campaigning, just as Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and Minnesota are roaring today. It seems that the difficulty in Missouri between the Filley and Kerens factions has been patched up, and truce will be called until election day, while an effort is being made to save Missouri's 17 electoral votes for McKinley.

National Committeeman Payne, in speaking of the political situation in Minnesota, said: "I confidently expect 40,000 majority for McKinley in Minnesota. Putting the worst possible face on the situation, the lowest figures I get from our friends are 15,000. I have representative opinions from every point that Mr. Bryan visited in his recent tour, and they fail to show that he did himself any permanent good."

There was great activity at all three of the national committee headquarters yesterday. Generals Palmer and Buckner arrived in the city from their campaign tour through the south. Both the gentlemen say that Mr. Bryan is beaten They heard, with no displeasure whatever, an interesting story as to how the Gold Democratic tide is setting in in Chicago. They were told that hundreds of Democrats were coming into the headquarters every day. Generals Palmer and Buckner were told that this sort of thing had been going on for many days, and that they need not be surprised if their electoral ticket did not poll more than 15,000 votes in Chicago. The two old warriors left this morning on a quick tour through Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota.

At the Democratic national headquarters the same claims, which have been made all along, that Bryan would beat McKinley in every western state, were continued. Chairman Jones is very positive of carrying Indiana, Michigan and Minnesota. The Democratic state committee of Indiana has not made a complete poll of the state, because it did not have the money to attempt it, and now it is too late to have a poll made. Therefore, the only thing left for Mr. Jones to do is to trust that the Republicans' poll of the state, which shows even a larger majority than in 1894, is some 20,000 out of the way. Mr. Bryan still suspects the Democratic executive committee of Indiana of disloyalty, and there is no question that many of the secrets of the Democratic campaign in the Hoosier state are leaking into Hanna's headquarters.

John P. Frenzel, treasurer of the Palmer and Buckner national committee, returned from a visit to Indiana yesterday. He found a gradual change going on there, and it is becoming more and more apparent that the state is going for the gold standard.

Pilgrims at Canton.

Canton, O., Oct. 20.—The booming of cannon yesterday, announced the opening of the meeting at the Tabernacle of the Union generals. Short speeches were made by Generals Howard, Alger, Marden, Stewart and Sickles, and Corporal Tanner. As each speaker concluded his remarks he was presented with a basket of choice flowers by members of the Women's Relief corps of Canton. After the meeting Major McKinley drove down to the depot from his residence to see the generals off. A delegation of business men from Sewickley, Pa., arrived at 11:30 o'clock, and called on Major McKinley at his resience. Another party of political pilgrims, also accompanied by a large number of ladies, journeyed to Major McKinley's home in the afternoon. They came from Mogadore, O., and brought the candidate assurances of loyalty and earnestness in support of the ticket from the Republicans of that section.

The Postal Card Election.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—All of the 12 great states of the northern central portion of the country sharing in the postal card election test of public opinion instituted by the Chicago Record, to discover so far as possible the trend of the voters' choice before Nov. 3, were listed in the partial returns from the ballot last evening, with a total vote passing 175,000. Kentucky, Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota are the states added to the list by the count of yesterday. Kentucky is the second state to join Mr. Bryan's list, and shows a majority of all votes counted in his favor. The vote is: Bryan, 2768; McKinley, 1887. The other new states listed themselves on the side of McKinley in these partial returns, while Missouri remains the leader in the stand for Bryan. Kentucky and South Dakota show gains for Bryan out of the changing of votes from Harrison to Bryan, and from Cleveland to McKinley, while North Dakota and Minnesota give a McKinley gain from the same element of the poll. The account of votes, as certified to by Commissioners McConnell, Krause, Wines and Whitlock, not including the scattering, shows the following results: McKinley, 128,050; Bryan, 42,489; Palmer, 2858; Levering, 1552; grand total vote, 175,067.

Constitution Must Be Maintained.

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 20.—Ex-United States Senator Henderson of Missouri, in a speech here last night, scored the Chicago platform and nominees. He said, in part: "The Populist platform, which is now a part of the Democratic party, for Bryan stands on both, proposes to seize the telegraph and railroad lines. If they know what they are doing, they certainly intend to reorganize the government. If they should be so bold as to make the attempt, not less than 4,000,000 or 5,000,000 soldiers will resist. We will do as the men did in 1861. We simply asked then that the constitution be not disturbed, and we will defend it as we did then."

Two New Names.

Boston, Oct. 20.—The executive committee of the Democratic state committee met yesterday, under authority of a vote of the state committee to fill all the vacancies on the Faneuil hall ticket, Daniel W. Kenny of Holyoke was selected to fill the place made vacant by the resignation of John F. Murphy of Lowell, as delegate-at-large, and Quincy A. Lathrop of Boston was chosen to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of William S. McNary, as candidate for elector from the Tenth district.

On the Ohio Circuit.

Chillicothe, O., Oct. 20. — Candidate Bryan reached here last night, after a busy day. His special train left Detroit at 4:45 a. m., and reached Toledo at 6:30. Fifteen minutes only was spent at Toledo. Stops were made at Perrysburg, Weston, Deshler, Leipsic, Ottawa, Columbus Grove, Dayton, and many other small towns. Brief remarks were made at all the places, with the exception of Weston, and at each the candidate was received with considerable enthusiasm.

Bad For Bryan.

Omaha, Oct. 20.—Secretary of State Piper, yesterday, used this language in deciding against the protest of the Nebraska Silver Democrats to the Gold Standard Democratic ticket going on the official ballot: "The ticket of the national Democracy, to which exception is taken in this instance, is the only regularly recognized Democratic party in the state of Nebraska, called by its regular convention, and is entitled to go on the official ballot as such."

Making Room For National Democrat.

Nashville, Oct. 20.—It is reported in political circles that L. Q. Boyd, colored Republican nominee for congress, Sixth district, has withdrawn, in accordance with an agreement made between Republicans and National Democrats, by which a National Democrat will be nominated and jointly supported. Boyd lives in Clarksville, and dispatches from that town indicate his withdrawal.

Throat Not Yet Well.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Thomas B. Reed spoke last night in the big Republican tent, at Fifty-fifth and Peoria streets The tent was filled to its utmost capacity, but the audience was doomed to great disappointment, for Mr. Reed was able to speak only a few minutes. His throat was troubling him seriously, and he could speak only with great difficulty.

Following Hanna's Idea.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Chairman Jones of the Democratic national committee last night issued an appeal to all persons who favor the election of Bryan, and who will support the Democratic platform, to display at their homes, or their places of business, the American flag on Oct. 31, the day set apart by suggestion of Chairman Hanna for the same purpose.

Jones Draws Out.

St. Louis, Oct. 20.—Judge Jones, the Populist candidate for governor of Missouri, yesterday gave out a letter announcing his withdrawal from the race He said he did so because he desired to aid in defeating the Republican state ticket. He thought by throwing this support to Stevens, the Democratic nominee, he could do this.

Ineligibility Claimed.

Boston, Oct. 20.—It is rumored in this city, that Peter T. Carroll of Worcester, a candidate for the legislature, is ineligible, as it is alleged he is not a legal resident of the ward in which he is a candidate. Carroll is a candidate in the Eighteenth Worcester district, and is running as an independent against James H. Mellen.

McKinley Leads.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 20.—The mock ballot among Harvard students, which is being conducted by the Harvard Crimson over the presidential candidates, wound up its first day, with the following result: McKinley and Hobart, 579; Palmer and Buckner, 129; Bryan and Sewall, 35; Levering, 1.

That Watson Letter.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Despite the fact that Vice Presidential Candidate Watson insists that his letter of acceptance was mailed to Senator Butler here, seven days ago, the latter says he has not yet received it, and he has sent a letter to Mr. Watson, saying that no such letter has been received by him.

Democrats Behind Time.

Concord, N. H., Oct. 20. — The legal limit for filing all nominations for political offices expired yesterday. Many candidates in various wards and towns failed to file papers, and the Democrats are much more delinquent than Republicans.

A GREAT BOOK FREE.
If you will send 21 cents in stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., you will receive, post-paid, a copy of Dr. Pierce's "People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." It is a handsome book of 1008 pages, with over 300 illustrations and colored plates, and a greater amount of exact information about the human body in health and disease than was ever before published in a single volume. It is a complete medical library in itself, and it has had a greater sale at $1.50 a copy than any other medical book in the English language. Six hundred and eighty thousand copies have been sold, and now an edition of half a million is being distributed absolutely free. The free edition is in strong paper covers. If French cloth, embossed and beautifully stamped covers are desired, 10 cents extra, 31 cents in all, should be sent to pay the extra cost of this handsome binding.
Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are for the permanent cure of constipation, and all its attendant ills. Sour stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia, biliousness, flatulence, heart-burn, headache, bad breath, bad complexion, pimples, blotches and eruptive skin diseases are directly traceable to this one seemingly insignificant cause. If you have any of these symptoms, you will find prompt and permanent relief in Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative and two a mild cathartic. The little vial, no bigger round than a lead pencil, contains about forty "Pellets" and cost twenty-five cents. There is nothing "just as good," and if the druggists try to sell you something else, be very sure it is because they make a bigger profit on the "something else."

PRINCE'S ACCEPTANCE

Of the National Democratic Nomination For Bay State Governorship.

Severe Arraignment of the Chicago Platform.

Honor and Welfare of the Republic Dearer Than Mere Party.

Boston, Oct. 21.—The letter which follows was transmitted yesterday by Hon. Frederick O. Prince, candidate for governor of Massachusetts, nominated by the National Democratic state committee. It is addressed to Nathan Matthews, Jr., chairman, and others, of the National Democratic state committee of Massachusetts:

F. O. PRINCE.

In accepting the gubernatorial nomination of the National Democracy of Massachusetts, let me say that I am, of course, aware that it has not been made by the convention which has been decided to be the regular, or legal, agent of the party.

If that convention had honestly expressed in its platform the true principles of Democracy, I should have loyally recognized the controlling force of its action, and declined the nomination, but it has so grossly misrepresented the fundamental doctrines of Democracy, that I am compelled to join the large body of dissenting Democrats who ignore its proceedings, because they regard the claims of patriotism as paramount to those of party.

The regular state convention has fully endorsed the revolutionary and anarchistic platform promulgated at Chicago. It is unnecessary for me to consider, in this communication, the details of this extraordinary political manifesto. It has been fully and exhaustively discussed by the press, and the many Democratic and Republican speakers who have addressed the people during the campaign, so that all who desire to be informed, understand it. It is sufficient to say that, in the judgment of those whose opinions are entitled to consideration, if the principles of the Democratic-Populist platform shall control the government, the prosperity of the country will be greatly interrupted, its industries disturbed, its finances deranged, and its reputation for honest dealings imperilled; furthermore, it is believed that the very foundations of social order would be threatened, and even the existance of the government endangered.

The true principles of Democracy have already been set forth in plain and unambiguous terms, so that all can understand them. They have been affirmed over and over again by the several conventions of the party, and endorsed by all its distinguished representatives, who have been candidates for office. These prinoiples have no taint of socialism or communism, no tendency to disturb those conditions which are essential to the well-being of the body politic, and the maintenance of good government. They have been, and are a conservative force.

When Democratic measures and Democratic policy have controlled the republic, its material interests have been greatly advanced, its limits largely extended, so that the country has attained continental proportions, and its consideration among the nations immensely advanced. The party has never until now attempted to acquire power with the aid of others who have no sympathy with its principles; never before attempted to carry an election by affiliation with its enemies. Better, infinitely better, defeat with its honor and record untarnished than victory acquired by the surrender of its convictions.

It is matter for congratulation that so many Democrats in the country, although reluctant to sever party ties and oppose the action of the regular national convention, have resisted the temptation of party spirit and recognized the obligations of duty.

It is matter for congratulation that in the interest of government so many of these purpose to support the platform of the Indianapolis convention, which so truly sets forth the political principles for which the Democracy of the country has always contended, and cast their votes for the distinguished statesmen who are the nominees of that convention.

It is further matter for congratulation that there is reason to believe the good cause will triumph in November, and the defeat of the enemy be so crushing and complete that the pestilential doctrines of the Democratic-Populistic faction will probably never again become the issues of a presidential contest.

When the representatives of Populism and anarchy are defeated, the Republicans must admit that the Democratic party they so constantly malign, has in its ranks those, and thousands of them, to whom the honor and welfare of the republic are far dearer than mere party success.

In the Master's Name.

Boston, Oct. 21.—The 50th anniversary of the American Missionary association opened yesterday with two large meetings in Tremont Temple. An elaborate program for the three days has been prepared. When President Merrill E. Gates entered the hall, at the head of a procession of guests of the association, including Lieutenant Governor Wolcott and Mayor Quincy, fully 3000 persons were in the hall. The customary devotional exercises opened the meeting and were conducted by Rev. Edward M. Noyes of Newton, Mass. Lieutenant Governor Wolcott, in a short, but warm speech, welcomed the association to the commonwealth, while Mayor Quincy performed a similar act in behalf of the city. Rev. Samuel E. Herrick of the Mt Vernon church also welcomed the association, in behalf of the churches of the city. President Merrill E. Gates then responded for the association. After a musical selection by the Jubilee double quartet, Treasurer H. W. Hubbard read his report. Rev. A. J. Lyman of Brooklyn then read the 50th annual report of the executive committee. This closed the exercises for the afternoon. At the evening meeting the devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Henry J. Patrick of Newtonville, followed by a sermon by Rev. Lyman Abbott of Brooklyn. Communion followed, conducted by Rev. William H. Davis of Newton, and President E. M. Craveth of Fisk university, Nashville. Benediction, by Dr. Patrick closed the meeting.

Maine Odd Fellows.

Portland, Me., Oct. 21.—The grand encampment of Odd Fellows last evening elected the following officers: Patriarch, H. K. Colesworthy, Portland; high priest, F. L. Pond, Augusta; senior warden, H. B. Thoms, Bangor; scribe, B. C. Stone, Portland; treasurer, A. E. Chase, Portland; junior warden, A. O. Kimball, Norway; representative, J. T. Mason, Biddeford. The report of the retiring patriarch, Joseph T. Mason, showed that there were 52 encampments in the state, and 5293 members. The report of the treasurer showed that the receipts were $1,219.30, and the expenditures were $796.07 The Invested fund is $4000.

Fined For Punishing Pupil.

Brockton, Mass., Oct. 21.—William H. Sanderson, superintendent of schools at Bridgewater, was ordered to pay a fine of $10, by Judge Reid, for alleged assault on James R. Wall, an 11-year-old pupil at the Model school at Bridgewater. Sanderson appealed, and was held in $100 for the superior court. Mr. Sanderson claims that the alleged assault was merely a deserved punishment, administered to the boy, who was unruly.

In His Last Resting Place.

Northampton, Mass., Oct. 21.—The body of Henry E. Abbey, accompanied by a party of 35 friends from New York and Boston, arrived here yesterday afternoon. The body was immediately taken to the Bridge street cemetery. The services at the grave were brief, and were conducted by two Catholic priests from New York. The remains were buried beside those of his first wife.

Accident and Exposure.

Amesbury, Mass., Oct. 21.—Judge G. W. Cate has filed a return at Salem of an inquest held on the mysterious death of Arthur Robertshaw, March 30, once a wealthy citizen. Many thought he had been murdered. Judge Cate found death due from an accident, followed by exposure.

Mrs. Beale Gets a Divorce.

Augusta, Me., Oct. 21.—Harriet Blaine Beale, with her attorney, Leslie C. Cornish, appeared before Judge Whitehouse of the supreme court yesterday, and Mrs. Beale asked for a divorce from her husband, Truxton Beale. Mr. Cornish made a brief talk, and the divorce was decreed.

After a Long Vacation.

Kingston, R. I., Oct. 21.—Notices were posted in the mills of the Rodman Manufacturing company, in South Kingston yesterday, announcing that the mill's will resume operations on full time on Nov. 9. Five houndred people have been out of employment since July.

Sister Mary Phillip, mother superior of the Sisters of St. Joseph, died at Rutland, Vt., convent, aged 62 years. She had been 40 years in the order, and for 20 years mother superior in Rutland convent.

Twelve Were Drowned.

Marshfield, Ore., Oct. 21.—Steamer Arago, from Coos Bay for San Francisco, was carried by the current and driven on the rocks off the jetty at Coos Head yesterday. She will be a total loss. In attempting to land a boat load of passengers and crew the boat was capsized. Twelve were drowned, four passengers and eight of the crew. The acident occurred during a heavy fog. What is left of the steamer to be seen is two spars projecting upon the ocean beach. The craft has long been in the coasting trade, and is one of the best known boats in this port.

Many Records Missing.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Superintendent Richard Rush, in charge of the publication of the naval war records, in his annual report to the secretary of the navy, says that the reports of the Union commanders are fairly complete, but great difficulty has been met in obtaining those of the Confederate commanders, owing, in part, to the destruction, by fire, of a large part of the archives of the Confederate navy department.

Editor Cook Endorsed.

The following resolutions were passed at a meeting of the Suburban Press association held at Boston, last Saturday:

Whereas, W. H. Cook, editor of the Milford Journal, has been unanimously renominated as a candidate for senator for the 5th Worcester district:

Resolved, That the Suburban Press association desires to express its satisfaction at this honor conferred upon the first president of the association, and one who has always done much hard work for its success.

Resolved, That we congratulate Brother Cook on this token of continued confidence and esteem by his constituency, and we congratulate the district on having a candidate of such superior qualifications.

Resolved, That Brother Cook's ability as a man and an editor, and his earnest efforts last winter for a just libel law (which would have been successful, but for a parliamentary trick,) lead us emphatically to desire his election and to express the belief that every newspaper in the state joins in this wish, not only that the state may have an intelligent and conscientious legislator, but in order that he may again lead the fight for a law which shall limit the amount possible to be recovered in a libel suit to the amount of damage which the aggrieved party has actually sustained.

Card Party.

The members of Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus, with their ladies, to the number of 150, held a card party at Doble's hall, Tuesday evening. The affair was very successful. The ladies' prize was won by Mrs. W. E. Brown. A collation was served by Boyle of Randolph. Misses Ellenore and Annie Roche gave a pleasing duet; Phelan, Gray and Cahill were heard in their character sketch; solos were given by Messrs. John Phelan, John McKenna, James White and Mr. Mahoney of Weymouth. Mr. Thomas Dunn gave a piano solo, Miss Margaret Garrity was the accompanist. Masters Henry and Benjamin Fitzgerald gave appreciated violin and piano solos.

GOVERNOR HERE.

He Sets Forth the Silver Issue Very Clearly.

At a Grand Republican Rally at Hancock Hall.

Candidate Barrows and Representative Clark Also Speak.

The Republicans of Quincy painted the city a bright rosy hue Tuesday evening on the occasion of their grand rally and with the array of talent advertised to address the citizens of Quincy it is not to be wondered at that it was a grand success.

The meeting at Hancock hall was a glorious one and the close attention with which the large audience listened to the remarks of the speakers and frequently applauded them was evidence that the voters of Quincy were thoughtfully considering the importance of the approaching election. It was a meeting entirely free from those hisses or jeers which characterized many political rallies held in this hall in the past and it must have been very gratifying to the speakers.

As soon as darkness had settled over the city the illuminated car of the Quincy & Boston street railroad, in which was a drum corps, was sent over the city as a reminder of the grand rally, and promptly at 7 o'clock the McKinley & Hobart battalion headed by the City band left its headquarters on Granite street and marched though Chestnut, Canal, Spear, Coddington, Washington, Hancock and Adams streets to President's bridge.

Councilman Holt burned red fire at his residence on Chestnut street, and Councilman Cleaves illuminated with lantern and did likewise. On Spear street and Adams street the illluminations were general.

Governor Wolcott was received on Adams street with inspiring patriotic music, the burning of red fire and the explosion of fireworks, and the march was resumed to Hancock hall, where a large audience had gathered. As Governor Wolcott entered the hall a mighty cheer arose, and as the speakers and others passed upon the platform cheer after cheer were given.

Among those on the platform besides the speakers, were: Col. B. S. Lovell, candidate for councillor; Representatives James Thompson and T. H. Newcomb, who are candidates for reelection; Hon. James H. Flint, candidate for senator; Hon. Louis A. Cook, candidate for clerk of courts; Councilmen Edgar F. Hayden, H. S. Barker, Edgar G. Cleaves, Frank L. Badger and E. H. Sprague; ex-councilmen John P. Bigelow, Herbert M. Federhen and Harry W. Reed; ex-Senator John F. Merrill; John W. Nash, George W. Prescott, editor of the PATRIOT; ex-Representative John R. Graham; ex-Chief Engineer Walter H. Ripley, Charles A. Howland, W. J. Battison, John S. Gay, Russell A. Sears, Henry P. Furnald, Edwin W. Newcomb and Rollin H. Newcomb.

When the applause had subsided Charles L. Hammond, Chairman of the Republican Committee, called order and said he was very gratified to see so many in the hall, and as the questions to be discussed would take considerable time he would simply introduce Hon. John Shaw as the presiding officer.

Mr. Shaw said it was a pleasant duty he had to perform that of presenting our noble standard-bearer in the present State campaign, our excellent candidate for Congressional honors in our own district, and our efficient and valued worker in that most useful institution, the Home Market club. It is a pleasant occasion for them to talk to you about subjects upon which the great majority of the people of tho eastern states agree. He spoke briefly of the Chicago convention and the coinage plank and introduced

Governor Wolcott,

Who was received with prolonged applause. He did not deem it necessary to speak in any intense spirit of partisanship.

Not until 1892 did the Democratic party obtain full control of the government since the days of Buchanan, and all were agreed six months ago that it should be restored to the Republicans.

I am not going to rehearse to you the history of the Republican party. You know that it maintained the honor and the plighted word of the country. You know that it continued to reduce the national debt. You know that the labor of the United States was employed. General prosperity and confidence ruled.

Without intending to draw strongly partisan contrasts, we know that shortly after the Democrats took control of the National Government it passed a tariff law that threatened destruction to all the industries of this country. We know that since that time, instead of paying dollars toward the national debt the Democratic party have found it necessary to make up the deficiency of their revevue; they have found it necessary to increase the national debt by over two hundred millions of dollars.

Governor Wolcott discussed three platforms of the Democratic platform, the one threatening the integrity of the Supreme court, that relative to State sovereignty, and the coinage.

And then came the demand for the free coinage of silver by this country alone at the ratio of 16 to 1 without waiting for any other nation. The cry of more money is plausible enough, but as that plank has been criticised by writers and speakers it is seen that it carries a menace to the welfare of the nation. It is my firm belief that if such a plank should be carried out

The Distress

Would be something which no one in this room would be capable of calling up to his mind.

Let us look briefly at the history of coinage in the United States. The first coinage act was passed in 1795. That was when Jefferson and Hamilton were prominent in the Government of the United States. That established coinage at the ratio of 15 to 1. How was that ratio arrived at? It was arrived at by the most careful study of the commercial ratio of the metals at that time. It was agreed that the coinage ratio must coincide with the commercial ratio to make the two metals circulate side by side. What was the result? It was found that at that ratio silver soon began to decline. A dollar became worth about 98 cents. Then came into operation a law of finance known as Gresham's law. The law is that the over valued metal will drive out the other.

This law is a very simple thing. It is due to a perfectly natural and universal habit of the human mind. If I know this dollar is a little better than that one, I simply put the valuable dollar in my pocket and pass the cheap one to my neighbor. Then it goes into the bank, and if it is worth more abroad than the other dollar, it soon goes out of the country. The result is that the more valuable dollars disappear from circulation. This was just what happened in the particular instance and Thomas Jefferson had to put a stop to the coinage of gold. When the war broke out specie payment was discontinued. Then the habit came into custom of quoting the premium on gold instead of quoting the discount on greenbacks. That premium in gold represented merely the discount on the greenback. If it had been the habit of this time to say that the greenback had fallen to a discount of 40 to 50 cents, I think

This Lesson

Would have penetrated the mind of the nation so that they would have realized forever afterward that this money was not as good as gold, and circulates only at a discount. (Applause.)

Then we come down to what is called the "crime of 1873." I believe that among many things that have been said there is hardly one that so poorly bears examination as this charge of the crime of '73. Gov. Boutwell, the eldest of the ex-Governors of Massachusetts had a hand pretty deep in that crime of '73, and he has recently given a history of that crime. The bill was printed in whole fourteen times during the three years it was discussed and the vote was carried nearly unanimously by both parties.

In 1879 there came the Bland-Allison act. This was followed by the Sherman act which was recently repealed. Neither of these bills provided for the free coinage of silver, but fixed a limited amount to be coined annually at the given ratio.

Now, I want to call your attention to two or three phases of this silver controversy. First, there has been no discrimination against silver. The country has stretched discretion to its utmost in favor of the metal. Three times as much silver has been coined every year as was coined in the entire period of the first 81 years of our nation's history.

The Result Has Been

That all the time since silver has been steadily tending downward until the dollar today is worth 49 cents.

That being the case, you may ask why silver dollars pass current. You say why not coin more of them if they will pass for their face value? First, there never was any free coinage of silver. Second, those silver dollars are practically interchangeable for gold. The Sherman act declares it to be the policy of the United States to maintain the parity of the dollars coined. This nation has pledged its credit to support the value of our silver dollars. To maintain that we know what straits the Treasury has been put to. It has been obliged to sell bonds while trying to do what this act declared to be the established policy of the United States. Up to this time they have succeeded in doing it on a limited coinage of dollars.

What does free coinage mean? It does not mean that the United States shall buy silver. It means that the United States shall take the silver of every man who comes and return it with the stamp and credit of the Government upon it in the ratio of 16 to 1. I have not much bullion to bring. You have not much. But there are people who have it. They are the silver mine owners. And there are foreign holders of silver bullion.

What Kind of Dollars

Would these be? They would be handed back to the man who brought them. In order for you and me to get them, we should have to give him, the mine owner, some product, render him some labor. What would be the effect of these dollars? It is claimed by the silver devotees that they will be just as good as they are now. If they do not depreciate they will be just as hard to get as they are today. But if they do depreciate, we shall not get any benefit out of it because we shall have to work just as hard for the dollar as we do today.

The United States can declare that this depreciated dollar shall pass for the same as the present dollar. But it cannot declare that you and I shall sell our products at the same price then as today. That will be the result upon prices? The merchant, farmer, etc., can usually mark up his

Two Notable Workers.

New England has furnished two notable workers in the cause of the National Democratic party in the persons of Dr. William Everett, of Quincy, Massachusetts, and Hon. C. Vey Holman, of Maine. Since his memorable speech at Indianapolis, Dr. Everett has been constantly at the service of the National Committee, and his able and telling addresses have, not only fully sustained his reputation as an orator and thinker, but have been of incalculable value in winning not only a sentimental, but a practical voting support for the Palmer and Buckner ticket. Doctor Everett's tour through the states of the central west and south can only be described as a series of ovations to himself, personally, and of telling effect to the cause of the candidates whose advocacy he has espoused so heartily.

Mr. Holman, as Chief of the Literary Bureau, at National Headquarters, has a record of continuous service from the opening of the campaign, that is equaled by no other member of the Executive or Campaign Committee. With an efficient staff of stenographers and special writers, he maintains a bureau which is practically in continuous operation, and is usually in active superintendence at his own desk from breakfast time until after mid-night.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Rev. Carlton P. Mills of Wollaston will speak at the men's meeting next Sunday.

Among a number of models received this week is a large bust of Diana, which is a beauty. The large class room is fast assuming the appearance of an art studio.

Even out of town engineers and firemen are making inquiries about the course in steam engineering. The second lecture will be given tonight beginning at 7.15.

Mr. Beattie opened with his classes Tuesday evening. The monumental and free hand drawing classes will not be overcrowded as during the past two years.

Every day brings additions to the bookkeeping and penmanship classes. It affords a splendid opportunity for young men to fit themselves for a business career at a very small cost.

Prof. L. E. Chase of Newton met with the Association orchestra Tuesday evening for the first time. Fifteen to eighteen names have already been entered and this organization promises to be one of the most popular in the Association.

The State convention opens at North Adams Thursday. The programme includes some of the best speakers in the country. A paper on "What can the town Association offer artisans" will be presented by General Secretary Colton.

A Visitation.

Monday evening was a red letter night in the history of Carrie E Ruggles Rebekah lodge, when twelve were initiated into the mysteries of the order. District Deputy Grand Master, E. Q. S. Litchfield, was present and highly complimented the Noble Grand and her officers on the excellent manner in which the work was rendered. They had as guests for the occasion, Amana Rebekah lodge of South Braintree, and also delegations from Boston, Dorchester, Neponset and other places. Speeches were made by the visitors, after which a fine collation was served. A singular coincidence was that the visitors and lodge members present numbered the same.

GOVERNOR HERE.

prices. But my friends, it is not so easy to mark up the price of labor. Prices, experience tells us, respond readily and quickly, but labor follows tardily and slowly behind. A splendid example of free money is afforded in the rubber boots that brought $1000 during certain stages of the Rebellion. (Laughter and applause.)

Some have gone so far in argument as to even advocate the scaling down of debts in carrying out this silver policy. Has the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, have these United States of America, come to that pass. No, my friends. Think of what Massachusetts has done. Think of what the nation has done in keeping unimpared its pledged faith to its creditors. Shall we of this generation, under less stress, under less temptation than our fathers, shall we prove faithless to our trust? No. The credit and honor of these United States shall be preserved inviolate. (Applause.)

The Governor was about to take his seat when he noticed that Samuel J. Barrows, the candidate for Congress, had entered during his address. He endorsed his candidacy and urged the voters of the Tenth district to do their duty and elect a man who was sound on all the issues of the day.

Chairman Shaw, who was a candidate for the Congressional nomination, took pleasure in introducing his successful rival as the man who should be elected.

Candidate Barrows

Had spoken at the Chickatawbut club early in the evening, and his address was brief. After an introductory, he asked the question, What is the Republican Party going to do when it gets to Washington? It will provide money to run the Government with. To get this a proper tariff must be adjusted. We need a workingman's tariff, not a monopolist's tariff. Not a tariff for the silver mine owners of the West, but a tariff for the industries of America. This silver knife is the knife that is going to cut the loaf of the workingmen in two. I believe that if this country is to uphold it's country's flag it must stand behind its credit. This silver knife must be repelled by your vote at the polls, and in the same act you will sustain our nation's credit.

Mr. Barrows said he had heard a story that the Legislature interfered and forbid the use of Quincy granite for other purposes while the Kings chapel was building, for fear the supply would be exhausted. He could not vouch for the story but he knew there was some left.

Before it is all gone there are two structures I hope you will help to build. One of them is a monument to go over Mr. Bryan's political grave. You will not put any harsh inscription there. You will simply say, "He was not wanted." Then you may build a triumphal arch to span Pennsylvania avenue. Upon it shall be simply "William McKinley, President." (Applause.)

Col. Clark

The last speaker of the evening was evidently in a happy frame of mind. He was very glad to hear the Governor explain the silver question so clearly. He never occupied a position he did not honor. He was to be the instrument in the hands of the people of Massachusetts to bury George Fred Williams.

He jokingly referred to President Shaw in relation to his going to Congress. He was not going this year said Mr. Clark. He is a Presidential possibility, for he had seen the next President's hat on his head, and it was a perfect fit. After complimenting Representatives Thompson and Newcome and Judge Flint, the speaker said "This was the year for the Republicans to stand together and make their vote so emphatic that anyone who wants to do wrong cannot because the American people will not allow it."

In his judgment the experience of the last few years of the Nation's industries might be expressed in a single epitaph. "I was well and I wished to be better, I took medicine and here I am."

Our debt has not been decreased during the past year but increased $262,000,000. And wages have not been increased but many workmen have been turned into the street.

Wages were increased 12 94-100 per cent. and employment 62 per cent. during the protection regime. The production of wheat, coal and railroad mileage were also increased. The speaker then told how these had gone down under free tariff.

The speaker, continuing, said he had a list of fifteen leading articles imported which compete directly with the American workingmen.

The imports of granite last year were $416,190 and including marble were $1,328-139 and the average wages of the stone cutters was $528 per year. We imported enough stone last year to keep 2,515 men employed, The very first year after the tariff was passed there was a loss in wages of $200,234. We shall decide in two weeks whether we shall continue this or not.

It is said that the Rice-Bigelow wedding tonight will be one of the most brilliant ever solemnized in Quincy. For several days past the church has been in the hands of decorators and will doubtless be a bower of green. Rumor says the whole church has been reserved for the invited guests.

The Home Market Club banner which has been to the last three Presidential conventions was hung on the wall at Hancock during the rally. It reads: "Home Market Club, Boston. American wages for American workmen. American market for the American people. Protection for American homes."

The Young Ladies' Charitable Association will give a whist party on All Hallow's Eve in Foresters' hall, West Quincy. It is hoped that all who are interested in the good work of this society among the sick poor of this city will contribute to make this affair a success. The work of the society is not limited to any one section of the city, and it is quite fitting that all should unite in encouraging the society to renewed efforts in the future.

There will be a meeting of the Unity club of Wollaston in the Unitarian vestry on Friday evening. Papers on the historical part of the programme will be "The Study of France" by Mr. F. H. Bishop, Mr. Charles E. Finch and the Rev. James E. Bagley. The miscellaneous work, "Current Events" will be conducted by Dr. Charles S. Adams. A cordial invitation is extended to all persons interested to attend.

Tonight, at Calvary Baptist church, Franklin street, Rev. M. W. Plummer of Boston will conduct the class, and as his simplicity in presenting the deep truths of God's word is sure to be admired, and is helpful to any who may have the privilege of listening. Remember the hour 7.30, all are cordially invited and questions may be asked by any. At the close an offering will be taken to defray expenses.

TODAY'S COURT.

William Keefe was fined $5 for assault on L. O. Briggs at Randolph.

Antoine Sidney was fined $20 for assault on Manuel P. Valine at Cohasset. Appealed.

—There are about 17,000,000 cows in this country, or one to every four inhabitants; one cow, however, furnishes the milk, butter, and cheese for more than four persons, as large quantities of dairy products are exported.

—The LEDGER grows more popular every day, and some days it is almost impossible to meet the demand for extra copies.

The trip will be made in a special train of Wagner vestibuled sleeping cars, reaching Canton at 1 P. M., Tuesday, and remaining there till 11 P. M. The fare for the round trip, including sleeper and meals, is $28.

Beside the people from Boston, there will be a number from New Bedford, Worcester, Brockton, Lynn, Manchester, Concord, Providence, Meriden and other New England cities.

New Magazines.

The complete novel in the November issue of Lippincott's is "An Interrupted Current," by Howard M. Yost, a new writer with a happy knack of story-telling. The scene is in eastern Pennsylvania, and the action turns on tracing the perpetrators of a bank robbery and their plunder. "Modern Ancestors and Armorial Bearings" are lightly handled by Adriaan Schade van Westrum. The "Two Sides" of a long-standing controversy—between editors and those who seek to be contributors—are considered by Frederic M. Bird.

The Moore Trial.

Nashua, N. H., Oct. 21.—Very little new testimony was introduced at the second day's trial of Dr. J. C. Moore. As in the two former trials, a large number of stockholders appeared on the witness stand, and stated that they either held stock themselves or were interested in banks, trusts and estates, which held it. The counsel for the defense entered many objections during the testimony.

Who Owns the Money?

Boston, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Sarah A. Turner, a widow, living in Charlestown, was arrested last night on a warrant charging her with the larceny of $1650 from John P. Wyman, also of Charlestown. Mr. Wyman, who is the administrator of the estate of Charles E. Noyes, claims that the money belongs to the estate, while Mrs. Turner stoutly contends that the money belongs to her.

In Jury's Hands.

Middletown, Conn., Oct. 21.—The arguments by counsel in the case of Edward Rogers, charged with the murder of Timothy Parmalee, in Cobalt, early last spring, was begun before Judge Elmer yesterday morning, and were concluded shortly before 6 p. m. The case was given to the jury this morning. It is said the case has already cost the state upwards of $15,000.

A Peculiar Accident.

Walpole, Mass., Oct. 21.—Thomas Gaffney, employed at the Chandler Adjustable Desk company, attempted to put a board in a circular saw yesterday, when the board flew back, and hit him with great force in the abdomen. Gaffney was taken to his home, suffering intense pain, and the doctors have but little hope of his recovery.

A YOUNG OLD MAN.

Senator Morrill Returned to the Senate by Vermont Constituents.

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 21. — Justin S. Morrill of Strafford was yesterday re-elected United States senator from Vermont. In the senate, no other name was presented, and Senator Morrill received the entire 30 votes. In the house, Morrill received 213 votes, and Herbert F. Brigham of Bakersfield, Democratic candidate, received 17. In the joint assembly today, Senator Morrill's election was formally ratified. The honor paid to Senator Morrill by his native state is an incident of more than usual interest When, on March 4 next, he is formally inducted into the office which he has filled for 30 years, he will commence a term which bids fair to break all records of membership in the national senate. Mr. Morrill is 86 years of age, and is the oldest member of the senate. With the close of the present term he completes a continuous service of 42 years at the national Capitol, 12 years of which was as a representative.

SENATOR MORRILL

Senator Morrill was born in this state and makes his home at Strafford, where he conducts a large mercantile business. In an interview, Senator Morrill said that he naturally felt proud of the fact that he is the oldest man ever elected to the senate. He is feeling in perfect health.

Anniversary Celebration at Princeton.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 21.—The celebration of Princeton's 150th anniversary was opened yesterday by a commemorative religious service in Alexander hall At 10:30 interest became centered at Marquand chapel, where the academic procession was forming. Preceded by a body of the undergraduates, they proceeded to Alexander hall. A choir of alumni opened the exercises by singing an anthem. Professor Fisher pronounced the invocation. After the singing of the 100th psalm, Professor Dewitt read the third chapter of First Corinthians President Patton then delivered the sermon, choosing the text, "For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." Following the sermon, Dean Murray offered the prayer. After the singing of a hymn Rev. W. B. Boaine of Philadelphia closed the morning's services with the benediction. In the afternoon, addresses were delivered by distinguished professors in welcoming to Princeton the visiting delegates from other institutions of learning. Chairman Green of the board of trustees made a few remarks by way of introduction and acknowledgment of congratulatory addresses received. He then introduced Rev. Dr. Howard Duffield of New York, who delivered the address of welcome. A response in behalf of American universities and learned societies was made by President Eliot of Harvard. Professor John Thompson of the University of Cambridge followed President Eliot with a response in behalf of European universities and learned societies. This was the last address of the afternoon.

Encouraging Reports.

Washington, Oct. 21.—The board of trustees of the American university held its annual meeting last night. The reports of Chancellor Hurst and Vice Chancellor Beiler were read. They contained a review of the work accomplished during the year, and of the finances and bequests. Treasurer Emery reported that the receipts during the last five years had been in cash $280,000; of this amount there is $26,000 cash on hand besides assets consisting of property other than money. Bishop Hurst reported that the fund being raised by clergymen to erect the Asbury Memorial hall at the university had received pledges of $100,000, $22,000 of which had been paid in.

Banker Rambusch's End.

Juneau, Wis., Oct. 21.—A dispatch was received here last night from the coroner of Fredericksburg, Va., stating that W. T. Rambusch, the absconding banker of this city, had committed suicide there. Rambusch was engaged in banking and the abstract business. He disappeared on Oct. 10, and forgeries amounting to between $300,000 and $400,000 are charged to him. The total amount of his alleged shortage is not known.

ATTITUDE OF WATSON

Causing No Little Speculation In Political Circles at Chicago.

He Has Demanded Recognition and Vindication.

May Launch a Broadside With His Pen Should Democrats Hold Back.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—George F. Washburn, of the Populist national executive committee, arriverd here unexpectedly last evening, from Thomson and Atlanta, Ga., where he and Committeeman Reed had been in conference with Mr. Watson, Populist vice presidential nominee. When informed of the failure of the Populist-Democratic fusion conference, Mr. Washburn expressed no surprise. As he was to have remained in Atlanta, to be present at that conference, his sudden change of base was the cause of no little speculation in political circles. It is stated, on good authority, that Mr. Washburn returned so suddenly for the purpose of conferring with Chairman Jones of the Democratic national committee, and to place before him, in the form of an ultimatum, two or three propositions from Mr. Watson, looking to the latter's recognition on the fusion ticket in the different states. It is expected that should Mr. Jones refuse to favorably consider these propositions, securing for Mr. Watson what he believes to be his rights in the matter, sensational developments will follow. It is stated that Mr. Watson is preparing, in the event of Mr. Jones' refusal, to take a position which will prove the political sensation of the campaign. Mr. Washburn, when seen last evening, refused either to confirm or deny this story. He said, however, when asked if he had seen Mr. Watson's letter of acceptance:

"Yes, I saw a copy. It is interesting political reading. Mr. Watson's throat is all right. He goes today to Alabama, then to Tennessee, and then to North Carolina, and the character of his addresses will depend upon the results of my efforts. He will wait to hear from me."

"Were the results of your visit to Mr. Watson satisfactory?" he was asked.

"Yes, indeed. We delivered to him the written report which summarized the work of the committee, and consulted with Mr. Watson regarding the closing days of the campaign and the future of the party.

"Mr. Watson's position is misunderstood. He will not be ignored, and his persistency in claiming the rights of his party has placed him in a false light He is a statesman rather than a politician. His ideas are high and noble, his convictions are strong, and having always been opposed to fusion on principle, he has little sympathy with the methods of 'practical politics,' which involves fusion, even though temporary success may be achieved.

"In the present campaign he appreciates the necessity of making such arrangements as will unite the silver forces. He wants Bryan elected and McKinley defeated, but to accomplish this he thinks there must be an honorable union of forces rather than a surrender, and that his party must be recognized in this fight on the fusion arrangements in the different states will not be ratified by the people at the polls. The nomination he received at St. Louis was forced upon him to unite our forces, and being at the head of a larger force than that which elected Lincoln, he demands recognition and vindication, or he will fight. His southern pride is aroused, and he would rather be vindicated in his own town, in his own district, in his own state, and in the nation, than be vice president."

"If he cannot be vice president, would he accept a cabinet position?"

"No, he would not, if it were tendered him. He is anxious that his party should come out of this contest in a manner which will reflect honor upon it, and he will enter actively into the campaign for the election of Bryan, if such arrangement can be made as will satisfy his people. I believe that should Watson issue a thrilling proclamation to his party to line up for Bryan, it would be worth more than the efforts of 1000 speakers. The danger today is the stay-at-home vote of the Middle-of-the-Road Populists. His pen could bring out the last man, and now, that all others have given up, I have undertaken the task of bringing this about, and believe I will be successful."

Bryan's Temper Tested.

Youngstown, O., Oct. 21.—Yesterday was the last day of William J. Bryan's Ohio campaign. The Idler was pulled out of Zanesville at 1:30, and waited on a siding near Bellaire until 6 o'clock. Then it was taken to the railroad station. Mr Bryan did not appear until 8 o'clock. He made a short speech, and 15 minutes later resumed his journey. Yellow McKinley badges were the most conspicuous objects in the crowd at Bridgeport and Martin's Ferry. Sixteen little girls in white and their solitary sister in golden array, met Mr. Bryan at Brilliant. Gold badges were noticeable in the throng of 6000 at Steubenville. Some young men who wore the yellow interrupted the speech several times, and Mr. Bryan answered their comments with some display of feeling. A thousand people greeted Mr. Bryan at Toronto, and showed enthusiasm over the little speech he delivered. At Wellesville, Mr. Bryan's train made a stop in Major McKinley's old congressional district. The most pronounced counter demonstration of the Democratic candidate's campaign was witnessed here. A large number of the spectators wore yellow badges, and some of the Republicans bore American flags and brooms, adorned with golden streamers. The first sentence uttered by Mr. Bryan started the opposition. At East Liverpool another McKinley demonstration was attempted. The yellow was everywhere. Women wore it in bows on their hats and at their throats while men and boys had golden collars and neckties. Advocates of the gold standard frequently called from Mr. Bryan remarks similar to those he had made at Wellesville. Nearly everybody on the station platform at Smith's Ferry seemed to be decorated with the Republican colors, but the train did not stop. It continued across the Ohio line to Rochester, Pa., where Mr. Bryan's speech was cordially applauded. Although there were only about 600 gathered at New Brighton, Pa., the heartiest reception of the day up to that time was given the nominee, and he responded with a short speech. It was silver day at Youngstown, and the city was crowded with visitors. Silver clubs from many places in Ohio and western Pennsylvania brought with them large contingents of excursionists. Mr. Bryan made three addresses here.

Williams Men Hint at Fraud.

Boston, Oct. 21. — The Bryan-Sewall-Williams club has decided not to carry the decision of the ballot law commission in the matter of the legality of the Music hall and the Faneuil hall conventions into court, but to content themselves with addressing a protest to the ballot commission through the press. The protest is signed by George F. Williams' law partner, G. W. Anderson, who was counsel for the Music hall convention at the hearing before the ballot law commission. It is a lengthy document, Mr. Anderson says he does not protest because the Music hall convention was not found valid, but against the finding for the Faneuil hall convention he does protest. He says further: "As a lawyer, I protest against this decision as being in total disregard of both the law and the facts. As a citizen, I protest against this decision as countenancing fraud, subversive of the rights of the majority, and as obstructing the freedom of elections throughout the commonwealth, which freedom is dependent upon honesty in caucus and convention. Had the commission set forth in a written opinion its rulings and findings, this protest might probably have been inappropriate; in the absence of such opinion, it may stand as a feeble exposition of the law, as I think it has been found to be a case of much interest. That the rulings of the commission are very different from what the discussion might have led counsel and auditors to expect, may lead to various inferences, just and unjust, but I believe that on the facts the decision could not be reached without substantially all of the rulings rendered. It remains to be seen whether the people will long remain satisfied with such law."

Bishop Seymour Talks Politics.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Rt. Rev. George L. Seymour of Springfield, Ills., bishop of the Episcopal church, has written a letter to the Gold Standard Democratic committee, in which he denounces the Chicago platform. The bishop said he takes no interest in politics under ordinary considerations, and has voted but once since the war. But the political situation at present he regards as perilous. He holds that free silver would be injurious to all classes, and declares unequivocally for the single gold standard The remainder of his letter is devoted to what he conceives to be the effect of the Democratic platform to array, "class against class, employe against employer, and the west and south against the east." He asserts that the tendency is revolutionary. He condemns particulary that plank in the Democratic platform referring to the United States supreme court.

Prohibitionists' Appeal.

Boston, Oct. 21.—The Prohibition state committee has issued an appeal to the voters of the commonwealth, in which it is stated that: "The success of either party means the continuance of 232,000 saloons, and the annual waste of $1,300,000,000, and 60,000 lives. The Prohibition party invites your aid in a campaign aimed at the destruction of the liquor power, as the great promoter of hard times. Your vote for Bryan and Williams will not avert their certain defeat in this state. Your vote for McKinley and Wolcott will only add one to an enormous majority already assured. Your vote for Levering and Coffin will count in bringing the Prohibition issue into that prominence which it ought to receive, from its magnitude and righteousness."

Takes Nothing Back.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Archbishop Ireland authorizes the following statement concerning dispatches under a Rome date, stating that the pope was vexed with the archbishop for the position he had taken on the political situation: "There is no truth whatever in the statement. What the purposes are of those who make this and similar statements I do not know. As to my letter, published a week ago, on the political situation, it remains, so far as I am concerned, in full force. Developments of political matters, so far as observed by me, confirm me in all the statements I then made, and lead me to renew them today, with yet stronger emphasis."

Talked to Hoosiers.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 21.—General Harrison arrived at Evansville last evening, having made 10 speeches during the day. Everywhere there were great crowds, and everywhere great interest was manifested. At Worthington he spoke for 30 minutes, confining himself to the discussion of the silver question. At Edwardsport he spoke briefly. At Bushhead he addressed several hundred miners, who had gathered. At Vincennes the silver question was again the topic. Speeches were also made at Moorsville, Martinsville, Spencer, Worthington, Princeton and other points.

Heavy Registration.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—The total registration for the second day in this city was 90,008, which, with the 293,567 for the first day, gives Chicago a total vote of 383,575. The registration yesterday was the heaviest in the wards in the southern part of the city, most of which are Republican strongholds. At the same time the Democrats were working hard, and registered a very heavy vote. The 10th ward, which is strongly Democratic, rolled up 4500 new voters yesterday. The 30th, a Republican ward, came in with 5557. These were the heaviest wards in the city yesterday.

Left to Republicans.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 21.—The name of James E. Timon, the regular candidate of the Democratic caucus in ward 5, for representative, will not appear upon the official voting machine at the election in this city, as the officers of the caucus neglected to certify his name to the secretary of state. The result will be the election of a Republican in this ward, which for 20 years, with one exception, has been represented by a Democrat.

MELANCHOLY WOMEN.

Always Afraid Something Dreadful is Going to Happen.

How a Little Baby Girl Rolled the Clouds Away.

Of course a woman will naturally see the dark side of everything when tortured by some form of female disease, which her doctor cannot or does not relieve. No wonder she is melancholy when head and back ache, pains run through the whole body and loins, nerves are weak, stomach out of order, digestion poor, sense of fullness and bearing-down, poor sleep and appetite, always weak and tired, irregular menstruation, whites, etc.

She probably is not so fortunate as to know that all female ailments are indicated by these never failing symptoms, and are controlled by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; all female weaknesses quickly disappear by its use. It has been the thinking woman's safeguard for twenty years, and all druggists sell large quantities of it because it can be relied upon.

Still another woman speaks:

"I wish you would publish my name with your testimonials. I want every one to know that your Vegetable Compound has made me well and strong. I sing its praises all the time. When I was first married I was very weak and had female troubles badly; Oh, I was so weary, sick and melancholy, but the Vegetable Compound built me up, and now I have a dear baby girl, and I am so happy. No home is complete without a dear little baby and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to roll the clouds away."—MRS. GEO. CLAUS, 35 Danforth St., Buffalo, N. Y.

No doubt the Acorn is equal to any range sold in Quincy. We call your notice to a sworn statement that we have from a baker who inside of ten hours baked in a 20-inch Acorn range oven 150 loaves of Bread. He took a barrel of flour and mixed it all at once, making 300 pounds of dough, which when baked made 150 loaves of bread. Can any other range do as well?

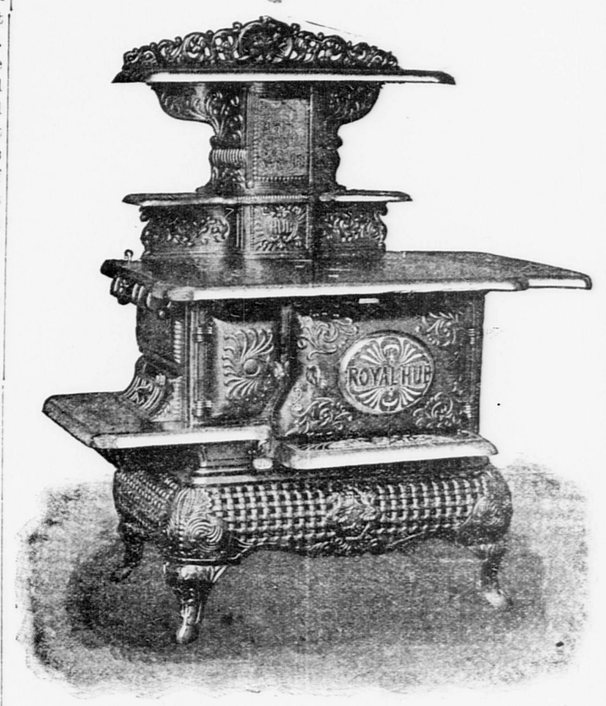
THE ROYAL HUB RANGE

Is a Range made to sell and to stay sold. It works where others fail.

It is everything a range should be—large, handsome and a perfect baker. Its appearance is at once in its favor. It is richly ornamented, but plain surfaces predominate, and it does not have that overloaded effect characteristic of highly ornamented stoves. Its practical features make it an ideal apparatus for service.



Here are some of these features:

LARGE CABINET BASE, high enough to sweep under.

REMOVABLE GRATE AND BED, which can be replaced without disturbing the brick, or fire pot.

GAUZE OVEN DOOR, Steaks, Ham, or Fish can be broiled in the oven with a loaf of sponge cake baking at the same time, and neither will taste of the other.

BAKING QUALITIES. The Royal Hub will bake in the open air, with the thermometer at zero, as well as other ranges will in a warm kitchen.

The Highest Praise a cooking apparatus can receive is the endorsement of the Boston Cooking School, the most noted institution of its kind in America. For the past eight years the School has used Hub Ranges exclusively, and here is what they say of the Royal Hub:

THE BOSTON COOKING SCHOOL,
174 Tremont Street, Boston, Mass.

VERMONT SENSATION.

Serious Charge Against Superintendent of Insane Asylum.

Female Patients Severely Punished, It Is Said.

Case of Dr. Geddings May Lead to a Legislative Investigation.

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 22.—Dr. William H. Giddings, superintendent of the Vermont state asylum for the insane, at Waterbury, who is charged with inhuman cruelty to patients in that institution, and who is under five indictments by the grand jury of Wasnington county, has been admitted to bail by Judge Taft of the county court, in the sum of $1500, on surety furnished by Judge Hobson of Island Pond. Ex-Mayor Wing of this city, a trustee of the institution, declares that he has the utmost faith that Dr. Giddings will be able to disprove the charges against him.

Dr. Giddings is specifically charged in the indictments with stripping female patients naked, confining them in a room without furniture over night, striking female patients when naked with straps, horse whips and canes. Among the patients, it is alleged, who were so punished, are Emma Hoyt, Lucy Williams, Hattie Lacky, Grace Rice and Emma Sweetland.

Dr. Giddings' indictment has caused one of the greatest sensations ever known here, and its effect will probably be carried into politics, and will crop out during the present legislative session. The institution is a new one, and its building and management have been strongly criticized. Dr. Giddings was formerly a practicing physician at Bakersfield, and became superintendent of the Waterbury institution two years ago, before the buildings were completed, and when only a few patients were there. The asylum was finished last June, and state patients, numbering 500, were transferred there from the Brattleboro retreat.

Prominent state officials are authority for the statement that Governor Grout will send a special message to the legislature relative to the sensation connected with the arrest of Dr. Giddings, superintendent of the insane asylum at Waterbury. It is predicted that a state commission will be appointed to investigate the charges against Giddings and the management of the institution.

The Missionary Convention.

Boston, Oct. 22.—One afternoon and two evening sessions of the American Missionary association yesterday, were attended by crowds, which followed the exercises with attention. The afternoon session was held in Tremont Temple. President Gates presided. An interesting discourse on "Church Work" was delivered by Rev. James Brown of Alabama. Rev. J. R. Savage of Alabama was the next speaker, and talked interestingly on the subject of "School Work." Rev. M. E. Strieby, D. D., delivered an historical address in a scholarly manner. Bishop Charles V. Galloway, D. D., of Jackson, Miss., addressed the meeting on the advance of missionary work in that section of the country. Professor J. C. Campbell of Alabama spoke on "School Work Among American Highlanders," and Rev. W. G. Olinger of Williamsburg, Ky., talked on the "Church Work Among Highlanders." At the evening services 10-minute addresses were made by Yong Kay. Rev. A. C. Carner of Texas, Rev. John Blanchard and Rev. W. W. Doran. The address of the evening was made by Associate Justice Brewer, L. L. D., of Washington.

Garin Statue Unveiled.

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 22.—The unveiling of the bronze statue of Father Andre Garin, late pastor of St. Jean church, took place at 7:30 o'clock last night in the presence of a large number of spectators. The ceremony of unveiling was performed by Archbishop Duhamel, while a chorus of 50 voices sang "America," with orchestral accompaniment. The more formal exercises were held within the church, after a banquet, which followed the unveiling, had been served. Following the banquet, J. H. Guillet introduced as president of the evening Philip J. Farley, who presented the statue to the oblate fathers. The statue stands about 15 feet in height. The figure is of bronze, and the pedestal of polished granite.

In the Captain's Favor.

Boston, Oct. 22.—The continuation of the Enterprise schoolship hearing yesterday, was in the nature of a defense of Captain Eaton's administration, as many cadets were among the witnesses who testified that complaints aboard ship were frequent, and were also based on very little tangible ground. Their testimony showed that whenever complaints were made to the captain a remedy was forthcoming. Veteran cadets willingly testified that they had sufficient to eat, that the food was of good quality, and that some of the cadets who had much criticism to make about treatment on board were among those who were not satisfied with either discipline, or the rations provided.

Tired of Living.

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 22.—Victor Bathrick, 18 years of age, attempted suicide about 10:30 last night, by shooting himself with a revolver through the lungs. The young man froze his feet last winter so badly that both were amputated, and since that time he has been addicted to the use of morphine. He stated last night that life is not worth living, and that he hoped the bullet would prove fatal.

Wales' Bail Increased.

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 22. — Charles Wales of South Barre, who is charged with attempting to blow up Goddard seminary with dynamite last spring, and who was thought to have run away while on bail, was rearrested yesterday by Sheriff Collins, and bail increased to $3000. Surety was furnished by the young man's father, and he is again at liberty. His trial will probably occur this month.

Life Sentence Pronounced.

Middletown, Conn., Oct. 22.—Edward Rogers, a Canadian woodchopper, charged with the murder of Timothy L. Parmalee, at Cobalt, on the night of Feb. 26, was found, yesterday, guilty of murder in the second degree, and was sentenced by Judge Elmer to the state prison at Wethersfield for life. Attorney Hall, the junior counsel for the defense, entered an appeal, and was given 10 days to file exceptions. Pending the appeal, Rogers was remanded to Hadden jail. The trial has consumed 10 days, and it is said the expense to the state will be about $15,000. Rogers is 43 years old, and his victim was about 70. Parmalee lived alone, and was reputed to have considerable money in his possession, and robbery was the alleged motive. Nothing but some small coins and a watch were found in Rogers' possession. A tailor's goose and a stove poker were used to commit the deed.

Evidence Not All In.

Boston, Oct. 22.—The United States grand jury is still considering the Herbert Fuller murder case. Lester Monks, who was a passenger on board the barkentine at the time of the murders, occupied several hours yesterday in giving his testimony. Steward Spencer also told his story, and at the close several of the crew were called. It is possible that another day will be taken up in hearing this evidence.

Princeton's Celebration.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 22.—Last night the college boys gave themselves over to play, in the form of a torchlight parade, in which the humorous feature predominated. President Cleveland, accompanied by Mrs. Cleveland and Private Secretary Thurber, stood on a reviewing stand, which had been erected in front of Nassau hall, for over an hour, while the various college classes passed in review. All of the divisions, consisting of graduates, carried banners and transparencies with humorous inscriptions, many of which made personal reference to Mr. Cleveland. Each class paused long enough in front of the reviewing stand to give vent to a college yell. Mrs. Cleveland stood beside her husband. Several big floats were drawn past the stand. One carried a tiger, 15 feet long. An interesting feature of the procession was the number of gray-haired men, graduates of the earlier classes, who entered into the occasion with all the enthusiasm of youth. At 10:30 the night's festivities were brought to a close by a grand display of fireworks.

MORE IN FINES.

The City Gets a Large Income From the District Court.

The amount received this year by the City Treasurer from the District court for fines imposed is nearly fifty per cent. more than for the corresponding period last year. In 1895, up to Oct. 1, the City Treasurer received $887, and this year up to the same date he had received $1,259.90, an increase of $372.90. This large increase is due mainly to fines imposed for the illegal sale and keeping of liquor, which goes to show that Chief Hayden and his officers have been unusually active in this line, and that he is after the violators with a sharp stick.

The expense attached to this department has been small for the reason that the raids made were by regular officers who do not receive any court fees.

Chief Hayden has also been fortunate in having the fines paid in the lower court, as all that remains there after the expenses have been paid is turned over to the city, whereas if an appeal is taken and the fines paid a Dedham, the country gets the benefit.

Higgins–Wilson.

A very attractive wedding took place on Tuesday afternoon, October 20, in St. Chrysostom's church, Wollaston. The bride was Miss Myra Inman Wilson and the groom, Mr. Alfred Sawyer Higgins, both of Boston.

The church was effectively decorated with banks of palms in the chancel, and large bouquets of white chrysanthemums on the altar.

The bride was accompanied by the Hon. Benj. F. Mills, of Williamstown, who gave her away. She wore a gown of white satin, trimmed with chiffon and old point lace, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses.

The maid of honor was Miss Katharine Shute of Boston, and the bridemaids, Miss Mary Shute and Miss Amy Higgins, sister of the groom. The gown of the maid of honor was of pink silk, with Marie Antoinette hat to match, and the gowns of the bridemaids of nile green silk, with Marie Antoinette hats. They carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums.

The vested choir of St. Stephen's church, Boston, sang the wedding march from Lohengrin as processional.

The Rev. Carlton Putnam Mills, rector of St. Chrysostom's church and the Rev. George Endicott Osgood, rector of Grace church, North Attleboro, officiated.

Te best man was Mr. Emile Williams of Boston. The ushers: Mr. Edward Russell Wise of Boston, Mr. John Lothrop Wakefield of Dedham, Mr. Julius Ross Wakefield of Dedham, Dr. Howard A. Lothrop of Boston, Mr. John Higgins of Boston, Mr. Franklin H. Mills of Brooklyn, N. Y.

BIGELOW---RICE.

Another Grand Wedding at the Old First Church.

Followed by Brilliant Reception at Bride's Parents.

Elaborate Decorations, Lovely Gowns and Rich Presents.

Never has the First Unitarian church been the scene of such a brilliant wedding as on Wednesday evening when Mary Sanborn Rice, only daughter of Hon. and Mrs. William B. Rice of this city, and Homer Lane Bigelow, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Alanson Bigelow of Chestnut Hills, were united in marriage.

The church was beautifully decorated with laurel and asparagus vine, the pillars supporting the galleries being entwined with laurel, and the chandeliers with asparagus vine and bunches of pink chrysanthemums. Large bunches of pink chrysanthemums were tied with white satin ribbon to the pews of the centre aisle and garlands of the same encircled the pulpit while on either side were banked palms and potted plants extending to the entrances to the chapel. Over the chapel door were arches of hardy hydrangeas and green vines.

Long before the hour appointed for the ceremony the church was full and the galleries had also to be brought into use. Mr. Brenton Whitney of the Church of the Advent, Boston, presided at the organ.

Every one had a new gown for the occasion, even the recent brides did not appear in their wedding apparel, but wore handsome evening dresses. Without exception it was the handsomest and most brilliant assemblage ever gathered for a like occasion in the city.

At eight o'clock a little flower girl appeared at each entrance from the chapel and followed by eight bridemaids marched slowly down the broad aisle, two by two, to meet the bride. As the notes from the organ pealed forth the wedding march from Lohengrin the bride appeared leaning on the arm of her father, and preceded by the bridemaids, flower girls, and maid of honor advanced to the altar, the ushers going up the side aisles. The groom and the best man, Mr. Walter B. Odiorne of Cambridge, were at the chancel, and as the bridal party approached Rev. George Ball of Upton and Rev. Ellery Channing Butler of Quincy descended from the pulpit. It was one of the largest and prettiest bridal parties ever gathered in the chancel of the old church. During the ceremony the organist played softly from Lohengrin. The bride was given away by her father and after the solemn vows had been pledged the bridal party marched down the aisle to the exultant strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march.

The bride was handsomely gowned in white duchesse satin, cut en train and trimmed with honiton lace, and she carried a large bouquet of lilies of the valley. Her veil was of tulle with coronet of orange blossoms fastened, by a crescent pin of diamonds, a gift from the groom.

The flower girls were Miss Mildred Rice and Miss Gladys Perry, and they were gowned in white organdie and carried baskets of chrysanthemums.

Little Miss Dorothea Bigelow of Chestnut Hills, sister of the groom was the charming maid of honor, and looked lovely in white organdie. She carried a shower bouquet of chrysanthemums.

The bridemaids were: Miss May Louise Edwards of Boston, Miss Bertha A. Ware of Brookline, Miss Harriet F. Eaton of Newton, Miss Ida Vose of Jamaica Plains, Miss Zayma King of Quincy, Miss Sara H. Whicher of Quincy, Miss Florence Vose of Brookline and Miss Frieda Stearns of Boston. They were dressed in white taffeta silk skirts with bodices of white muslin de soie. Four had girdles of pink ribbon with long streamers and carried shower bouquets of pink chrysanthemums, and four had girdles of green and carried white chrysanthemums. Handsome brooches, gifts of the bride, were worn by the bridemaids.

The ushers were: Mr. John T. Whicher of Quincy, Mr. Brooks Walker of Cambridge, Mr. Henry Sawyer of Chestnut Hills, Mr. Robert L. Raymond of Cambridge, Mr. Harry L. Rice of Quincy, Mr. Fred B. Rice of Quincy, Mr. George Lane, Jr., of Newton, and Mr. Henry W. Forbes of Roxbury. Boutonnieres of chrysanthemums were worn by the ushers.

Mrs. Rice, the bride's mother, looked as sweetly gracious as usual, and wore a most becoming gown of heavy lavender brocade.

Mrs. Bigelow, the groom's mother, was charming in a blue changeable silk, and her friends gave her a cordial welcome, she having just returned from a trip abroad.

The square about the church, and Adams street from the church to the house, presented a gala appearance, being thronged with carriages and people.

The Reception.

A reception followed the ceremony, at the home of bride on Adams street, and here a long line of carriages unloaded its precious freight of a thousand or more people.

The house was a blaze of light, and flowers were everywhere. Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow received in the drawing room under a floral bell. White satin ribbon wound with green vines came from the corners of the room and fastened at the chandelier in the centre of the room.

Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow were assisted in receiving by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Rice, and his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow.

An immense addition had been added to the east side of the house in which the wedding supper was served by Weber of Boston. This room was banked with green boughs and brilliantly lighted.

A large room on the lower floor was used for the presents and here was displayed everything one could possibly desire. From the Bigelow family was an elegant solid silver service with knives, forks, spoons, ladles, etc., to match. The pattern being designed expressly for them. There was an old-fashioned clock and two very handsome mantel clocks, a Steinway piano, beautiful cut glass, silver and china of every style, handsome embroidery, sofa pillows, pictures, brooches, lamps, etc. When the happy couple go to housekeeping everywhere about them will be reminders of their friends. Among the gifts was noticed a handsome hand-painted punch bowl which was painted by Mrs. Lane, the grandmother of the groom.

Daggett's orchestra furnished the music at the house and some of the young people indulged in a dance or two.

Much interest was centered in the bride's cake, which was cut by the bride and large slices given to the bridemaids and intimate friends. All were eager to find the ring, the thimble and the cent and the search caused much merriment.

While waiting for the bride to don her travelling suit, rice was much in demand and when she appeared looking sweet and happy in a handsome blue cloth suit, carrying a large bunch of jacquemnot roses, she was greeted with a shower of rice and flowers, but managed to escape to the carriage in waiting.

It was a most informal and jolly wedding, every one being in a happy mood. The cordial and whole-souled feeling of both families permeating the whole gathering, making it a most joyous occasion and one long to be remembered.

QUINCYS LOSE.

In the Opening Game in the Candle Pin League.

The opening game in Quincy in candle pins in the City League Bowling tournament was rolled at Costello's alleys, Wednesday night, between the Quincys and Jamesons, the contest being watched by a large number of bowling enthusiasts who hoped to see the local team win, but they were disappointed.

Two alleys were used. The home team started in well and at the end of the first string lead by 21 points. Mason and Riley being high men for the Quincys, and Rinn for the visitors.

In the second string the Jamesons won by 17 points leaving the score: Quincy, 760; Jameson, 756.

Quincy still had a lead of four points and the contest became interesting and excitement ran high.

One more string remained to be rolled and it was hoped that Quincy would brace up, and they did some, but not enough to down the visitors, for in this string the Jamesons won by 13 points, leaving them the winner of the match by 9 points. The totals were: Jameson, 1159; Quincy, 1150.

McLean was high man in the totals for Quincys and Marchant for the Jamesons: The score!

JAMESON.

Bowlers.	1	2	3	Total.
Rogers,	69	76	89	234
Sullivan,	60	76	62	198
Marchant,	72	94	82	248

Rinn,	83	71	89	243

QUINCY.

McLean,	76	79	88	243
Riley,	80	80	79	239
Mason,	80	65	70	215
Sanborn,	77	77	78	232
Starrett,	72	74	75	221
Team totals,	385	375	390	1150

Fourteen clubs are entered in the league and the results are summarized below, the winners in the first column and the losers in the second:

Jamesons,	1159	Quincys,	1150
South Bostons,	1282	Columbias,	1269
McCarthy & Lennons,	1218	Jeffersons,	1198
Prospects,	1209	Murray & Irwins,	1196
Centrals,	1205	Lennoxs,	1181
Meyers,	1208	Carruths,	1185
St. James,	1274	Hubs,	1177

It will be observed that the Jamesons, who won from the Quincys, were the only winning team which scored less than 1,200, further that the Quincys had the lowest score and the Jamesons next to the lowest. If Quincy has met at home the weakest team and come out second best its prospects do not appear very flourishing, but we will hope for better things next Wednesday when they will meet the Columbias.

Again the maples front of Dr. Gordon's plant their vivid color in the landscape. Less are orange in shade this year, than in former years, they are still an unbroken mass of yellow that make a bit of beauty there. Across the way is a large tree in Dr. Hunting's with smaller leaves, and still more like lemon color in shade that is almost dazzling in sunlight. It is not all kinds of maples that take on especial brilliancy in autumn, this row by Dr. Gordon's being a species that gives us this mass of brilliancy each year.

Calvary Baptist Church.

Rev. M. W. Plummer, spoke at Calvary Baptist church last evening on, rightly dividing the word of truth. Needless to say how beautifully this subject was handled, especially to the Christians were new avenues opened up that were very helpful in knowing how to study the bible for themselves. Those who do not understand things as taught at these meetings, are requested to bring their questions and have the speaker explain to them what he believes to be right. In the face of much opposition large numbers have been present at these meetings and all who come are welcome, also carrying away lasting blessings. Some few weeks ago Mr. Fletcher, who is a teamster, had his thumb jammed, but thought nothing of it at the time. Instead of healing, the wound grew worse and a physician was consulted. He ordered his removal to the hospital. Lockjaw soon set in from which he died this morning. He was about 43 years of age and has always resided here. He leaves a widow.

More Trouble.

The patrons of the Point line of the Quincy & Boston street railway, who have many times been inconvenienced for the want of sufficient turnouts, and have been rejoicing that the City Council had passed an order granting the railway permission to put in a turnout near North street, are again doomed to disappointment, for unless the City Council in some way change the kind of rail to be used in this turnout it will be sometime before the turnout can be put in.

The original order called for a flat rail but at the last moment the Council amended the order and substituted a grooved rail. This grooved rail is nine inches deep and weighs 90 pounds to the yard. This makes it impracticable to bend the rail for a curve such as is needed in a turnout.

Superintendent Weeks when asked this morning as to when the new turnout was to be put in, said "I ordered some girder rails carried down Tuesday for the turnout, intending to commence work immediately, but before I had time to do any work I learned that at the last minute the City Council had substituted the grooved rail similar to that used by the West End. As far as the expense of this rail is concerned we do not care anything about it, only the time that it will take to obtain the rail ordered. This rail it is impossible to bend to a curve and it has to be cast in the shape desired, and if things are hurried as fast as possible it will be impossible to have the rail shipped inside of three months and it will probably be longer. Then everything has got to be special work and it will be difficult to make the connections. That the travelling public demand that the turnout should be put in immediately everybody knows, but unless the City Council passes an order of some kind which will allow us to put in a flat girder or T rail, we do not care which, the travelling public will have to wait. If the City Council will allow us to put in either of the above rails, the turnout will be put in inside of a week."

World's Food Fair.

The chief lecture at the World's Food Fair on Tuesday was delivered by William H. Tolman, Ph. D., General Agent, New York City, for improving the condition of the poor. He deprecated the fact that the poor are obliged to buy from the Push-Cart Venders, who are in turn obliged to frequent the sides of the streets, causing a great deal of inconvenience to the city authorities and their customers. He thought that the city-authorities should provide a market for the poor, where every kind of staple food could be obtained at the lowest possible prices. He showed how poor cooking or an insufficient supply of food was a direct feature of the evil side of the saloon. Other lectures were delivered by E. R. L. Gould, Ph. D., Johns Hopkins University, and President of the City and Suburban Homes Company, New York, and Mrs. Alice M. Lincoln of Boston, upon "Homes for the Working-people." It is astonishing how much food is given away every day. Crackers, shaved beef, baked beans, griddle-cakes, oat meal, and shredded wheat are distributed to thousands. Biscuits are given away in such large quantities by one firm alone that it requires nearly a barrel of flour each day, and one confectioner presents one hundred pounds of candy daily to the crowd. But the people are learning a great deal about pure food and the necessity of proper cooking. The famous New York 7th Regiment Band furnishes the music for this week.

November Magazines.

Godey's Magazine for November has a strong election-time flavor, which will commend the number to those even who are so much interested in the campaign as to neglect magazine reading this fall. Rufus R. Wilson's illustrated article on "Conducting a National Campaign" presents in a highly interesting way facts that it is the duty of all citizens to be familiar with, and answers the important question so often asked: "What becomes of the large sums collected every four years by the national committees?"

The superior truth and delicacy of the old daguerreotype are made manifest in November McClure's, where fine reproductions of daguerreotype portraits of Calhoun, Webster, Edward Everett, Dr. Holmes, Jenny Lind, and others, from rare collections still surviving, illustrate an entertaining paper, by Mrs. D. T. Davis, on the development of daguerreotyping in America. Soon after the discovery of the process American daguerreotypers became the finest in the world; and there is a strong movement now toward a revival of the art. The paper is therefore, timely as well as entertaining.

VOTE OF QUINCY.

Over 83 Per Cent. of Old Colony Men for McKinley.

The Journal's canvass has reached the Old Colony road and the result on the Quincy trains will be of local interest. It is summarized below.

The total vote of men and women on 18 trains both inward and outward was as follows: McKinley, 1,939; Bryan, 337; Palmer, 90.

On the Quincy trains, those making stops at Atlantic, Norfolk Downs, Wollaston, Quincy and Quincy Adams, the vote was as follows:

	McKinley.	Bryan.	Palmer.
Men's Vote,	837	125	38
Women's Vote, 271		43	7
Total Vote, 1108		168	45

The men's vote, very singularly, is just 1,000 and the percentage is seen at a glance: 83 plus for McKinley, 12 plus for Bryan, and nearly 4 for Palmer.

In addition to the above the vote was taken on three West Quincy trains,—the 4.48 and 6.18 outward and the train which arrives in Boston at 5 42. These are accommodation, making stops at all stations, and the result was: Men's vote—McKinley, 177; Bryan, 43; Palmer, 9. Women's vote—McKinley, 57; Bryan, 17; Palmer, 1.

Quincy has 4002 voters and about 80 per cent. will vote. On the above percentage of men's vote, the result in Quincy at the Presidential election would be:

McKinley, 2678.
Bryan, 400.
Palmer 121

No one expects such a large majority in this city for McKinley, but it may reach 1000. This will be a great change of sentiment, for Quincy was Democratic at the last Presidential election, giving Cleveland 1513, Harrison 1482, Weaver 47, Bidwell, 36.

The vote by trains was as follows:

Men's Vote.

	McKinley.	Bryan.	Palmer.

POPULISTS OF GEORGIA

Will Not Be Satisfied With Sewall Upon Their Ticket.

Elector Felton Comes Out In Favor of McKinley.

All Other Populist Electors Will Probably Be Withdrawn.

Atlanta, Oct. 22.—In giving his reasons for going over to McKinley, Dr. Felton, a Populist elector, who resigned yesterday, among other things, says: "First, I felt indignant at the treatment of Thomas E. Watson by Candidate Bryan, who has ignored the Georgia Populist leader up to date. I desire to be free to vote as I pleased, and I shall not vote for William J. Bryan. A man who could vote for Weaver in 1892, against the Democratic nominee, is not the person to refuse Thomas E. Watson as his running mate on the presidential ticket. I hold Mr. Bryan responsible for the insult passed upon southern Populists, when his chairman, Jones, remanded us to the 'negroes,' where, he said, we 'belonged. It was a gratuitous insult to 1,000,000 of southern men, who offered to vote for Candidate Bryan, upon condition that Mr. Sewall was withdrawn, and Mr. Watson was the regular nominee. The insult was so gross and uncalled for that Candidate Bryan would have been justified in displacing his man, Jones, as the smallest reparation that he could offer.

"On Oct. 14, Thomas E. Watson wired Abe Steinberger at Topeka that the Populists had been sold out, and their party made a footmat for Democratic politicians to wipe their feet on, under the hypocritical pretense of patriotism.

"I was convinced that the party was sold out at St. Louis by a coalition between Chairman Jones and the 'Silver trust' on one side, and the Allen-Weaver-Peffer-Kolb-Butler combine on the other. I do not intend to be kidnapped into voting for Arthur Sewall by any trick or combination at this late hour. If I must vote what he represents I will take the chances on a candidate who does not deceive me."

The Populist and Democratic committees made an agreement yesterday. The People's Party, in its issue for the current week, says Populist electors in Georgia will probably be withdrawn entirely. It further says:

The Populists of Georgia made an earnest effort to secure a united front for Bryan and Watson. The Democrats refused to listen to their demands. They treat the Populists with contempt; do not answer them, but give their reply to the press. The Populist electors in Georgia will probably be withdrawn. Populists will all work for their congressmen. The Democrats, after passing their resolutions, had about four hours in which to communicate with the Populist executive committee, which was in session. Their resolution proves they did not intend to communicate with the Populists, only to make peace with the public.

In Harrison's State.

Cambridge City, Ind., Oct. 22. — Mr. Bryan attacked the home of the enemy in Indiana yesterday. Wayne county is the banner Republican county of the state, and Richmond is the stronghold of Wayne county. There were yellow badges at both of the meetings that Mr Bryan addressed, and shouters for McKinley were numerous. Mr. Bryan spoke to several thousand people at Rushville for 15 minutes. Muncie was a hotbed of politics when Mr. Bryan arrived there. Every man, woman and child wore a badge, and every man, woman and child shouted for his or her candidate. There were many counter demonstrations. William D. Bynum was to speak to the Gold Democrats, and in the evening the Republicans were to listen to W. J. Campbell, ex-president of the Glass Blowers association. On either side of the street those who wore the yellow McKinley badges were lined, and they shouted for their favorite as the carriage bearing Mr. Bryan passed by. It was distinctively a McKinley crowd in the city, and just as distinctively a Bryan crowd that listened to the nominee at the park. There he faced an assemblage of several thousand, and nearly every person he could see had the name of the candidate printed on a slip of white paper and fastened over the hat band. There were short stops at Alexandria, Summitville, Marion, Bluffton and Fairmount, and at each place Mr. Bryan received flattering receptions. He addressed three monster meetings last night in Fort Wayne.

Figures From Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—There was a total of 20,356 naturalization papers issued in Chicago since Sept. 15, and the Republicans are believed to have secured most of these. The total vote was figured at 347,000, as against 330,976 in New York.

Yesterday the Democratic managers were quite emphatic in their predictions that Bryan would win. Secretary Walsh is taking a second poll of Iowa, and the one-quarter of the state from which returns have been received shows a gain over the first poll. "This poll," he said, "is almost identical in the percentage of changes with that shown by The Record vote. Here are the pluralities we expect in the west:

Illinois	75,193
Missouri	93,032
Iowa	23,838
Indiana	65,145
Nebraska	42,467
Michigan	31,441
Wisconsin	10,092
Kansas	36,645
Kentucky	24,952
Minnesota	26,836
South Dakota	7,543
North Dakota	2,988

This would leave practically nothing at all to McKinley, but when one goes into the Republican headquarters he is told with the most unqualified confidence that McKinley will carry every one of the 12 states in the "middle west." Not a single state in that territory will the leaders concede to Bryan.

Big Day at Canton.

Canton, O., Oct. 22. — Ideal weather prevailed for Illinois day with Major McKinley. The Illinois delegation, coming as it did from all parts of the state, and over all the railroads, was somewhat scattered. The first to arrive was a party from Pike county. Later a special train of seven coaches came in from Paris and vicinity. An hour later came another train of the same size from Springfield and vicinity. In the meantime two large trains arrived on the Pennsylvania line, one bringing three carloads of matched black horses, to be used in the parade, and a number of Chicago visitors. The other was filled with Chicagoans. Every regular train brought McKinley visitors, and the city was crowded with McKinley visitors. There was no speechmaking for any of these callers, but there was a general address when all had arrived, and the street demonstration was concluded.

Watson on the Stump Again.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 22.—Thomas E. Watson, the Populistic vice presidential candidate, spoke at Capitol park yesterday to an audience of 3000. Mr. Watson said that he had not sought to lay obstacles in the way of Bryan, and that the People's party can unite on Bryan for support, but not on Sewall. "I have no personal objection to Mr. Sewall," the speaker continued, "but oppose him because the party which for six years has denounced the national banking system ought not to be asked to support a national banker. The party which has denounced bondholders and railroads ought not to be asked to support a bondholder and railroad king. A New England plutocrat cannot be expected to be in sympathy with the south and west, and we ask Democrats not to ask us to violate our principles."

Republican Club's Sixth.

Boston, Oct. 22.—The Republican club of Massachusetts held its sixth annual dinner in Music hall last night. The hall was dressed in a blaze of red, white and blue. "Old Glory" was displayed everywhere, from dome to floor. The floor and platform held long lines of tables, and there were over 200 persons seated at dinner. The galleries were crowded with spectators. The speakers were: Roger Wolcott, acting governor of Massachusetts, Hon. Franklin Bartlett of New York, George A. Ramsdell of New Hampshire, Charles E. Littlefield of Maine and Addison B. Colvin of New York. President Francis H. Appleton called the gathering together, and, in his opening remarks the mention of the name of McKinley and Hobart brought out great applause and three rousing cheers. All the speakers expressed confidence in the election of McKinley.

A Distinguished Bolter.

Chicago, Oct. 22. — Hon. William R. Morrison, chairman of interstate commerce, for years a member of congress, and a life-long Democrat, has bolted Governor Altgeld and the Chicago platform and nominees. He has made a flat-footed declaration against free silver, W. J. Bryan and the administration of Governor Altgeld. Up to the present time, Morrison was supposed to lean in his sympathies toward free silver. His declaration in favor of the gold standard and against Governor Altgeld is regarded as a most important incident in the present state campaign. Mr. Morrison's political standing has been high in the Democratic party in the state. He has many times been mentioned for president, and his name was prominently before the Chicago convention.

Students Lining Up.

New Haven, Oct. 22. — Eighty-five members of Yale university, the largest number ever registered here in one year, have registered as voters "to be made," but as yet none of them have been able to get their name on the list, awaiting the decision of the board of registration. It is asserted that the Yale men who have registered will carry the matter to the supreme court of the state in cases where it can be readily shown that they have acquired a year's residence, and are making their living while in college. It is estimated that over 300 Yale students, who do not pay their expenses in college, will go home to vote. Less than 100 of these reside in Connecticut towns or cities, the others being mostly from New England and the middle states. Three students will go as far west as Minnesota to vote.

In the Bryan Ranks.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Senator Butler, yesterday, received a letter from S. F. Norton of Illinois, the favorite candidate of the Middle-of-the-Road Populists for the presidential nomination at the St. Louis convention, announcing his support of Mr. Bryan. Mr. Norton advises Populists to forgive for the time any unjust treatment, and postpone the settlement of minor differences until after the election. He says: "Whether Mr. Bryan is a Populist or not, one thing is absolutely certain, that every enemy reformers have encountered during the last 20 years we find today among Mr Bryan's bitterest and most relentless opponents. If they are his enemies, he must be our friend. His success is their defeat, their defeat is our victory."

Democrats Wouldn't Agree.

Nashville, Oct. 22.—The state Democratic executive committee brought the correspondence between the Populistic and Democratic committees concerning fusion propositions to a close, by refusing the Populists' demands, which was for four Populistic presidential electors, and they to vote as they pleased for vice presidential candidates, and also one Populist congressional candidate, Democrats to be retired to make places for these Populists.

Two Parades May Make Trouble

Chicago, Oct. 22.—The dispute over the proposed Democratic parade on the night of Oct. 31, will be taken into the courts The Democratic managers will ask the courts to enjoin the chief of police from interfering with their march. Chief Padenoch says the Republicans have a permit to parade that night, obtained by first application, and the Democrats have none. He is fearful of trouble if the two parades are had.

The Harvard Ballot.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 22.—The mock ballot on the election, which began at Harvard on Monday, closed last night, giving McKinley a plurality of 1157, out of a total vote of 1919 cast. The result of the entire vote is as follows: McKinley and Hobart, 1484; Palmer and Buckner, 327; Bryan and Sewall, 106.

Flag Day In Colorado.

Denver, Oct. 22.—In accordance with the suggestions of W. J. Bryan, and Chairman Jones of the Democratic national committee, Governor McIntyre, yesterday issued a proclamation calling upon all good citizens, irrespective of party affiliations, to display the national flag on Oct. 31.

The Kansas Fusion Muddle.

Topeka, Oct. 22.—By a decision rendered here by the judges of the supreme court, Thomas E. Watson is not permitted to withdraw his name from the regular Populist state ticket.

Puritana Patients

Why They Take Puritana.

WHY THEY GET WELL.

The proof does it.
That is why people begin to take Puritana.
People find that their neighbors have tried it.
Their friends have tried it.
Men and women in every walk of life have tried it.
A man suffers.
Perhaps he has suffered for years.
He has tried many things.
They have all failed.
He reads a Puritana testimonial.
He reads another.
He sees new ones wherever he looks.
Some of the writers are in his own town.
Some in his own business.
Some he can see.
Some he can write to.
Some have been cured of his own ailment.
Some of other ailments.
All are grateful.
All are glad to tell suffering people how Puritana gave them relief.
They are approachable folks, and their voluntary testimonials count.
Some live in town.
Some in the country.
Some hold office.
Some vote.

PRIZE FORMULA OF Prof. Dixi Crosby, M.D., LL.D. DARTMOUTH COLLEGE

But all are honest and sincere.
That is why any one can prove for himself the genuineness of Puritana cures.
Puritana patients get well.
This is a fact.
There are reasons for it.
Puritana is the discovery of Prof. Dixi Crosby.
He was the greatest New Hampshire physician of his day.
He was at the head of the Dartmouth Medical College for a generation.
He used common sense, and found that disease or health came to the body through the stomach.
He scientifically compounded a stomach medicine from the harmless products of nature.
This is Puritana.
It makes the stomach right.
That is why it makes the health right.
With a sound stomach no one can help being well.
That is why Puritana patients get well.
Chemists say that Puritana is a good medicine.
They also say it is well made.
The materials are the purest and best that money can buy.

Druggists say it is a good medicine.
Their customers buy it and are more than satisfied with its effects.
What the people say about Puritana you have read before, and you will read again.
The thousands of Puritana cures are becoming better known every day.
The patients are real people.
The cures are real cures.
They can be proven in court.
They can be proven by any medical society.
They have been proven before the tribunal of Public Opinion.

ROYAL BRIDAL PARTY.

Princess Helene Formally Received Into the Catholic Church.

Rome, Oct. 22.—The Italian royal yacht Savoia, with the Prince of Naples, Crown Prince of Italy, Princess Helene of Montenegro, his fiancee, and the members of the reigning family of Montenegro on board, arrived at Bari yesterday. The royal couple are en route for Rome, where the marriage of the Prince of Naples, to Princess Helene, will occur, Oct. 24. The party were welcomed at Bari with great enthusiasm.

The ceremony of the formal reception into the Catholic church of Princess Helene, as a prerequisite of her coming marriage, was performed in the Church of St. Nicholas at Bari yesterday. The princess was somewhat fatigued as the result of her voyage to Bari, but her magnificent physique enabled her to go through the ceremony without the slightest sign of flagging.

The weather was stormy, rain falling incessantly, but the streets were filled with people, and enormous crowds gathered in the vicinity of the church, and cheered the Princess and Prince of Naples when they entered the edifice, and again when they left it. After the ceremony the royal party proceeded to the Savoia, on board of which they re-embarked and sailed en route for this city.

Office Will Go to a Priest.

Washington, Oct. 22. — At the conclusion of the meeting of the directors of the Catholic university yesterday, Cardinal Gibbons said that the session had been marked by good will, and that the three names selected to be sent to the pope had been chosen unanimously, without the slightest opposition. Cardinal Gibbons refused to talk concerning the condition of the university fiscal affairs, which are known to be in an unsatisfactory state. The refusal of the board of directors to accept the resignation of Bishop Keane as a director was considered a compliment to him, and equivalent to a vote of confidence in his management of the university. The names chosen by the directors, to be submitted to the pope, are Father Conaty, president of the summer school at Plattsburg, N. Y.; Father Riordan of St. Elizabeth's church, Chicago, and Father Mooney, vicar general of New York. One of these will be designated by the pope as rector of the university.

Cornerstone Ceremonies.

Washington, Oct. 22.—The ceremony of laying the cornerstone of the Hall of History, the first of the proposed group of buildings which will make the American university, took place yesterday afternoon, at the grounds of the university. The program was elaborate and the exercises were interesting. The local Masonic bodies were in attendance. After the singing of "America" by those assembled, responsive readings and a prayer followed. Bishop John F. Hurst delivered an address. Addresses were also delivered by Bishop A. W. Wilson of the Methodist Episcopal church, ex-Governor Pattison of Pennsylvania, Bishop C. A. Fowler, Rev. C. H. Payne, Rev. J. M. Buckley, editor of The Christian Advocate, and Bishop C. C. McCabe of Texas. Bishop Bowman of St. Louis conducted the laying of the cornerstone, according to the ritual of the Methodist Episcopal church. The concluding exercises were conducted by the Grand Lodge of Masons, according to their impressive ritual.

Spain's Gloomy Outlook.

Madrid, Oct. 22.—The queen regent presided at a council of ministers yesterday. Senor Canovas, the premier gave a complete sketch, which was gloomy enough, of home and colonial affairs. The loss of men in the colonial wars has proved disastrous to husbandry, as proved by the marked decrease in exports. Spain will be compelled to largely import breadstuffs. Only patriotism prevents the latent discontent from breaking out. A sort of instinctive presentiment impels the nation to show cohesion, and a haughty determination, with a view to averting international complications, an the possible intervention of the United States.

"If the headsman's block of mediæval times were in use to-day many a woman would go and lay her head upon it, willingly giving up her life for the sake of having relief from the torturing pains of weakness and disease peculiar to her sex. If women could only be made to understand that there is a positive, safe and speedy cure for all these ills the world would be infinitely brighter than it is to-day. For thirty years Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., has made a specialty of the diseases of women. He is a regularly graduated, experienced and successful physician and his "Favorite Prescription" has cured more women than all the doctors. The story of the "Favorite Prescription" is told in thousands of testimonials similar to the one of J. F. Beverly, Esq., of Goliad, Goliad Co., Texas, who writes:

"My wife suffered from cold feet and fainting spells, heaviness and soreness in the lower part of the stomach, also heart trouble, loss of appetite, tired feelings, rest broken—could not sleep. I tried five doctors in one county and two in another. None of them gave her relief. She suffered five years. She was helpless—could not walk from the bed to the fire-place. The last doctor pronounced the complaint inflammation of the uterus; and after five visits claimed that it was a peculiar case, and said that if I desired, I could consult some other physician. So I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce, and after receiving an answer from Dr. Pierce I did as he directed. My wife used two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Pellets, and used the local home-treatment he advised. Before my wife had used the first bottle of the medicine she felt the good effect and said one bottle would be enough. I insisted on her using two bottles, and she did so. Now she is sound and well, and I can praise your medicine to the extreme."

BILIOUSNESS is a sign of a serious condition of the digestive organs. It is caused by constipation, from which springs nine-tenths of all human illnesses. Constipation can be permanently and positively cured by only one thing, and that is Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They assist Nature. They are easy and pleasant in their action. They cause no unpleasantness, no griping. You do not become a slave to their use. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. If the druggist tries to sell you something else, leave his store and don't go there again—he is not a safe man to trade with.

Shawmut Spring Water.

How many people realize the importance of drinking only pure water in large quantities in order to keep in absolutely good health? When we consider that two-thirds of the human body is in the form of water, and that in order to supply the losses from excretion and evaporation it is necessary to drink from one-half to one gallon of water daily; it is of the utmost importance that it should be of the very best quality, perfectly free from the slightest trace of organic matter.

The Shawmut Spring Water stands second to none as a pure drinking water. Hundreds of families are using it every day. It is an important factor in maintaining health, building up and restoring the organs of digestion to healthy action. Cures Rheumatic, Kidney and Bladder troubles, when drugs have proved useless.

Send your order for a 5-gallon sample package. If you don't like it, it costs you nothing. Drink it and you will be satisfied of its purity.

MOORE FOUND GUILTY.

Jury Decided That He Over-Issued Stock of Union Company.

He Had a Remarkable Career In New Hampshire.

A Doctor, Journalist and Influential Man In Financial Circles.

Nashua, N. H., Oct. 2.—The jury in the trial of Dr. Joseph C. Moore of Manchester, charged with an over-issue of stock of the Union Publishing company, yesterday announced that the verdict was guilty. The jury was then discharged. Counsel Walker, for the prisoner, addressed the court in favor of suspension of sentence until a decision can be had on exceptions carried to the full bench, on appeal that the verdict is against the law and evidence. County Solicitor Tuttle moved that sentence be imposed. The court took the motion into consideration, and will report at an early date. Mr. Tuttle asked that bail be restored to the amount at which it was fixed previous to October. Judge Parsons stated that the prisoner was in custody. Attorney Walker opposed the increase of bail as being beyond the means of respondent, and the matter was taken into consideration.

J. C. Moore was born in Loudon, and is 51 years of age. He was educated as a physician. For 13 years, or until November, 1879, when he became interested in the Manchester Union, he continued to follow his profession with success. His practice extended over a wide section, and involved long hours and much arduous travel. During this time he was active in general business enterprises. Mr. Moore began his journalistic career without the benefit of any special training, but he possessed that rare quality, the newspaper faculty. He was a ready editorial writer on political and general topics. He always took a warm and active interest in politics, as a Democrat. At the state election of 1880 he was elected a member of the state senate from the Winnipiscogee district. He introduced and was chiefly instrumental in securing the passage of the measure which created the present state board of health. In 1888 he was sent as a delegate from New Hampshire to the national Democratic convention, and served on the committee on resolutions. In January, 1885, he was unanimously chosen president of the New Hampshire club, an organization still in existence. Dartmouth college, in 1884, conferred upon him the degree of A. M. When president of the People's Fire Insurance company, the National Bank of the Commonwealth, the Derryfield Savings bank, the Burton Stock Car company of Wichita, Kan., the leading spirit in a Laconia street railway company and a hosiery mill at Lake Village, holding funds in trust for individuals, the principal owner of the stock of a newspaper, and interested in many other concerns, he was indeed an influential man in financial circles in New Hampshire.

The charge on which Dr. Moore has been convicted is that of over-issue of the stock of the Union Publishing company of Manchester. The over-issue on which the indictment is based is that of certificate No. 105, for 50 shares, which was issued to himself, and is now in the possession of the Laconia National bank, where it was placed as collateral on which to borrow money during the period when Moore was hard pressed by his creditors, after the panic of 1893.

Dr. Moore, it will be recalled, was first tried on the charge of over-issue of stock of the Union Publishing company to Roger G. Sullivan of Manchester. That trial was brought to a very sensational termination when it became known that the jurymen had been reading a paper containing comments on the trial, and upon Dr. Moore's probable guilt. The court examined the jurymen separately, and decided that, if the trial proceeded, it would bring up very grave questions for the supreme court to decide, and accordingly the case was postponed until some future time.

At that time, too, the doctor created a sensation by not appearing at the trial. He sent word he was sick in bed, and physically unable to attend the trial. The court sent several doctors to see Moore, and they reported that he was able to come to the trial, and Sheriff Healy brought him down, despite his counsel's attempts to prevent it.

At the next trial great pains were taken to have the newspapers kept away from the jurymen, and Dr. Moore was found guilty. An appeal was taken to the supreme court, where it has since been, without a decision.

Moore's next trial was on the indictment charging him with falsifying the records on the stock book and making false entries. He was also found guilty on this charge, and the matter was taken to the supreme court on an appeal.

Old Officers Re-elected.

Boston, Oct. 23.—The 50th anniversary of the American Missionary association closed last night with a meeting at Tremont Temple, and before the final benediction was pronounced over $9000 had been pledged to carry on the work of the association. Appeals for pledges were made in the afternoon, and the response last evening was bountiful. At the afternoon session for women, Miss D. E. Emerson read her report. Miss Susan H. Ward and Miss Anna L. Dawes also made interesting addresses. A business meeting was held in Park Street church, and the entire board of officers were re-elected. At the evening meeting addresses were made by Miss M. C. Collins and Mrs. Alice F. Palmer, while a paper prepared by Rev. Richard S. Storrs of Brooklyn was read. Pledges were then called for, and the balance of the meeting was consumed in adding to the funds of the association. The official statistics of the registered representation of the Congregational churches in the American Missionary association was announced, as follows: Alabama State association, 2; North Carolina association, 1; Pilgrim conference, 1; delegates from churches, 250; life members, 244; visitors, 531; total, 1029.

"Honor to Whom 'Tis Due."

Boston, Oct. 23.—A suggestion to celebrate flag day on Oct. 31, in connection with politics, has brought forth statements that it is not original with Mr. Hanna, and justly belongs to the Daughters of the Revolution, who have earnestly worked to bring it about, and who have accomplished much in that respect, by having school children addressed every year on subjects devoted to the interest and welfare of the country. On this day exercises take place at historical places throughout the country. "There can be but one flag day," say the D. A. R. and their friends, "and if Mr. Hanna desires any demonstration, in which our American flag is to figure, let him get another name for it, and not deprive the name adopted by the Daughters of the Revolution in so good a cause in years of the past."

Buried Himself In Coal.

Dover, N. H., Oct. 23.—Fred Davis, 23 years old, a six months' prisoner, succeeded in escaping from the Stafford county jail yesterday afternoon, and remained at liberty nearly six hours. When at length discovered, he was buried to his eyes in coal, in a neighboring coal shed. Davis commenced on the brick wall of his cell, and after hard labor took out some bricks. By cutting about the same space in the iron sheating, he obtained an aperture. After spiking the lock to his cell yesterday, he crawled out through the hole, into the attic of the building, from which he reached the attic of a house just outside the prison. He jumped to the ground, and ran to the coal shed, where he buried himself.

An Insurgents' Agent?

Chatham, Ont., Oct. 23. — Victor Digammi, a native Cuban, holding high office among the insurgents, has been in the city several days on a secret mission. He speaks English fluently, and has plenty of money. It is understood that his mission is to recruit negroes, of whom there is a large colony in Chatham, for the Cuban cause. The agreement reads that they are to work on the plantations, but there is a secret understanding that they are to fight in the insurgent cause. He is not meeting with much success.

No Advance In Rates.

London, Oct. 23.—A conference of all the big Atlantic lines, British, American, German, French and Dutch, was held yesterday, at the offices of the American Line Steamship company. It began early in the day, and lasted until late at night. Its main business was to consider the practical results of the working agreement entered into a year ago. It is understood that it was decided to continue the agreement, without any advance in rates.

The Drought In India.

Simla, India, Oct. 23.—All of the railways have reduced their rates for grain from the seaports to towns in upper and central India. This should stimulate foreign imports. There is nothing new to report in the drought districts. No rain has fallen lately. The advent of the northeast monsoon is anxiously watched for, as it may give a good rain in Madras, with heavy showers in Hyderabad and the eastern ports of the central provinces.

Fall Carpets.

Just a seasonable word or two, to-day.

When you're buying, think about quality as well as price.

Remember that the words "Axminster," "Wilton," "Brussels," etc., can be made to cover a multitude of sins.

Remember, too, that our stock is far larger than that of any other Boston house, and that as nobody can possibly buy to better advantage than we can, it is reasonable to suppose that our ability to name very low selling figures is also unsurpassed.

We are combining high quality with moderation in price, this Fall, more effectively than ever before.

We ask for your patronage on this basis—the basis of "goods for the money."

There will be a meeting of the Fragment Society in the Unitarian chapel, Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 28th at two o'clock. Will the ladies of the supper committee for the First church sociable be present at this meeting.

A meeting called for the purpose of forming a foot ball team in Atlantic was held at H. O. Parker's on Wednesday evening. There are a number of good players and with proper drilling a fine team could undoubtedly be formed.

Mr. Seth Burrell, one of Atlantic's well known residents died at his home Thursday morning, aged about 61 years. He leaves a widow a son and daughter. Mr. Burrell has been engaged for many years in the edge tool grinding business on Federal street, Boston.

Mr. S. Dexter Ramsdell met with quite a serious accident last Saturday. He was at work repairing a building on Walnut street when the staging upon which he was at work gave way and he fell about ten feet to the ground, injuring his hip quite badly, and besides being otherwise bruised it is thought that he received internal injuries.

Mr. W. F. Wentworth gave a literary entertainment in the First Presbyterian church, Tuesday evening, which was greatly enjoyed by a fair-sized audience; and many of those present said that if he should come again when there was no political rally to interfere there would be a large gathering to hear him. Mrs. J. F. Williams, a violin teacher of Boston, gave two exquisite solos. Her playing was marked by purity of tone and musical insight.

Thursday several of the Wollaston Red Men had gathered in council, when two young braves brought in a strange Red Man. He would probably have been short lived, but for the fact, that he proved he was in the Wollaston hunting grounds on a friendly errand. When he was permitted to tell his story, he stated that the braves of Nahanton Tribe of South Braintree had captured a wagon train of the palefaces filled with good things, and had sent him to request Hodenosannee Tribe to assist in disposing of them. The invitation was gladly accepted and on Friday sleep twenty members trailed to the wigwam of the Nahanton's and were entertained until low sun. Three palefaces were captured.

JOHNSON—CANNON.

Home Wedding Followed by a Reception at Future Home.

Another marriage was solemnized Thursday evening, adding one more to the already long list of October weddings. At half past seven Rev. Walter Russell Breed of Christ church united Mr. Joseph William Johnson of Spear street in marriage with Miss Isabel Spear Cannon, daughter of Mrs. Hannah Cannon of Orchard place. The bride looked sweet in an ivory white silk. She carried a large bouquet of bride roses. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. William Cannon.

Miss Fannie Cannon, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and she wore a most becoming gown of pink organdie over pink silk. Mr. Robert T. Johnson, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held at their new home on Merrymount road from eight until ten, about fifty relatives and friends being present, Mr. Henry Sprague and Mr. Wallace Davis introduced the guests.

Weber of Boston served the wedding supper. The house was decorated by Patterson, the Wollaston florist, and looked very pretty. The staircase was wound with laurel and pink chrysanthemums. The fireplace, chandeliers and doorways were entwined with asparagus vines and palms, and potted plants added much to the charming effect.

Many presents were received. Some displayed in an upper room, others such as pictures were hung on the walls, a marble clock, vases, etc. on the mantles, chairs about the rooms and cut glass and china in the dining room making the new home look very attractive.

Mrs. Cannon, the bride's mother wore a heavy black silk, Miss Jennie Cannon a very pretty yellow organdie over yellow silk, and Misses Stella and Susie Cannon white muslin.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Johnson, wore black silk, and his sisters, Miss Fannie Johnson, black and white, Mrs. Wallace Davis, black and light blue, and Mrs. Henry Sprague a very handsome blue silk trimmed with white lace.

The brides' traveling suit was of green broadcloth, with vest of cream broadcloth, trimmed with fur, with hat to match.

A few friends stayed to see the happy couple safely started on their journey and there was considerable merriment. Knowing Mr. Johnson's fondness for a joke, his friends with the kindest of intentions planned many little surprises. The hand bags were doubtless heavier than at the first packing and some hotel in Boston will probably have boiled rice on their menu for the next week. After a stormy passage through rice and flowers and friendly embraces, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson reached their carriage, and amid more farewells disappeared up the road with a dainty white slipper tied with white streamers to the carriage, dangling brightly in the moonlight.

"Then before all they stand—the holy vow
And ring of gold, no fond illusions now,
Bind her as his * * * * *
His house she enters—there to be a light,
Shining within, when all without is night
A guardian angel o'er his life presiding."

Diack—Wilson.

Never has South Quincy been the scene of such a brilliant wedding as on Thursday evening when Jennie Wilson of this city and Alfred Diack, of the firm of Birnie & Diack, were united in marriage at Doble's hall, by Rev. Mr. Hardy of this city.

Long before the hour appointed for the ceremony the hall, which was beautifully decorated, was filled and at 7.30 the party arrived. The bride was handsomely gowned in white muslin and trimmings to match. She carried a bouquet and her veil was of tulle.

They marched to the altar where they were united by the Rev. Mr. Hardy. The bridemaids were Miss Mary Anderson of this city and Miss Hickey of Readville, Mass. Best men were John Birnie and Alexander Ingram. Much interest was centered in a handsome bride's cake gotten up by the Caledonian bakers, and was cut by the bride assisted by Rev. Mr. Hardy. Reception and supper followed, Rev. Mr. Hardy asking a benediction. Music was furnished by Westland's orchestra.

The inner man being amply satisfied dancing was entered into with spirit, interspersed with songs, by D. Drummond, Hall, Gaterson, Mr. Beattie, also by A. Birnie.

Among those present were: Councilman Murray, Thomas Smith and daughter, John Mason and wife, David Drummond and wife, Andrew McIntosh and wife, S. H. Barnicoat and wife, William L. Birnie, of the firm of Birnie & Diack, P. W. Dakers and daughter. There were about 70 present who enjoyed themselves until 2 30 A. M., when they departed, wishing the couple long life and many happy days.

SILVER WEDDING.

The Wollaston Baptist Church Celebrates.

A Sketch of the Organization of the Society.

The Constituted Members, Terms of the Pastors, Etc.

The First Baptist church, of Wollaston, celebrated its silver wedding on Thursday evening. There was a very large attendance of members as was shown when the roll was called by Mr. T. B. Emery, the clerk of the society.

From six to seven o'clock an informal reception was held in the church. After that supper was served in the vestry. Succeeding the supper was the song service and addresses by the pastor, the Rev. Preston Gurney; the Rev. W. H. Stewart, of North Easton, who was instrumental in founding the church; the Rev. E. A. Capen, of Watertown, a former resident of Wollaston; the Rev. Edward Norton; and the Rev. Dr. Justin D. Fulton, of Somerville.

The musical programme was as follows:

Piano solo,—"Serenade," Nevin
Miss Florence G. Olney.
Violin solo,—"The Preis-Lied," Wagner Wianiaski
Miss Gertrude M Potwin.
Solo,—"Spring Song," (with violin obligato,) Woil
Miss Alice Wentworth.
Solo,—"Cast thy bread on the waters," Roeckel
Mrs. E A. King.
Violin solo,—Gavotte,
Miss Potwin.
Solo,—"Forever with the Lord," Gounod
Mr. Chas. F. Wilde.

The history of the First Baptist church of Wollaston is essentially the history of that thriving community. They were founded by the same men and owe their success mainly to them.

The first church organized at Wollaston was a union society for religious purposes. The first sermon ever preached at Wollaston was delivered in a hall at the Wollaston hotel on Sunday, Sept. 11, 1870, by the Rev. Mr. Davis of Hyde Park. His text was taken from Kings 1: 7.

As a distinctive religious sect the Baptist was the first society organized there. The Rev. W. H. Stewart of Braintree, a chaplain of the United States Navy, then on shore duty, was instrumental in forming this society. He was a Baptist and interested in Wollaston. He noticed that the larger part of the communicants at the union society's meetings were of that denomination. Mr. Stewart visited each one and discussed the question of forming a Baptist church. The subject having been brought before the board of the Baptist church extension society of Boston and vicinity and having been favorably considered a meeting was held at the residence of Mr. George F. Pinkham on July 13, 1871. Eleven brethren and twelve sisters were present. The meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. Lorimer of Boston and the church was duly constituted under the name of the "First Baptist church of Wollaston Heights." The usual declaration of faith and church covenant were adopted. A building committee of three was appointed to prepare plans and arrange for at once erecting a house of worship; and a committte of six was also appointed to solicit subscriptions.

The church was publicly recognized by an Ecclesiatical council, Sept. 19, 1871, and a week later it was received into the Boston south association. On July 6, 1872, the corner stone of the church was laid with appropriate ceremonies. It was dedicated on Jan. 16, 1873, and on Sunday evening, April 27, occurred the first baptism.

The pastors of the church have all been men of distinction. The first was the Rev. Stephen G. Abbott of Townsend, Vt., Jan. 1, 1872, to March 30, 1874; the Rev. Charles H. Rowe of Weymouth, April 1, 1874, to July 5, 1878; the Rev. Dr. William Hague of Orange, N. J., July 31, 1878, to Feb. 3, 1882, and continued pastor emeritus during his life; the Rev. Frederick E. Dewhurst, June 22, 1882, to Dec. 1, 1887; the Rev. Preston Gurney, June 1, 1888, to the present time.

The constituent members were: W. H. Stewart, A. M. Stewart, Howard Gannett, Carrie A. Gannett, Mary E. Gannett, Jones Howe, Catherine Howe, Lucy R. Howe (now Elliot), Moses A. Swift, Elmira S. B. Swift, Isaac H. Meserve, Charles T. Evans, Esther A. Evans, Frank O. C. Evans, Ellen J. Pinkham, Edmund S. Sparrow, Maria D. Sparrow, John Drew, Mary M. Drew, Matilda L. Drew, Sarah Griffin, Calvin Adams, James A. DeLue, Sarah J. De Lue.

Teachers' Association.

The first gathering of the year of the Quincy Teachers' Association was on Thursday evening at the High school hall. There was a goodly representation of the members, who were entertained by a short programme and then passed a social hour. Mr. T. B. Pollard of the Washington school presided, and the programme included readings by Mrs. Drake, solos by Mr. Ferguson, and selections by a quartette composed of Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Lull, Mrs. Nickerson and Mrs. Page.

The Shock Was Fatal.

Mr. James Collins a long time resident of Quincy, died Thursday, shortly after noon, at the Quincy City Hospital. Mr. Collins had been a sufferer for some time from an internal trouble, but did not give up work until August. He has been confined to the house since that time, and gradually the insidious disease so undermined a once robust constitution that his physician and family could hope for a prolongation of life only through the surgeon's skill. For that purpose Mr. Collins was taken to the hospital, and the operation was performed by Dr. Richardson of Boston. The operation in itself was successful, but the shock to the enfeebled patient was such that he lived only about three hours.

Mr. Collins was born in Ireland, but like many other natives of the Emerald Isle, came to America when quite a young man. He acquired the trade of bootmaking, and has been employed for a number of years by John R. Graham. He was interested in politics and was for a number of years identified with the Democratic party, and in 1895 was chairman of the Ward Two committee.

He was also an active member of the Land League and for the past two years president of the Quincy branch. Mr. Collins gave his best energies to every cause in which he was interested, but more particularly to the measures and means of helping the land of his birth. The parishioners of St. John's church will long remember James Collins, since he was for a long period assistant sexton, being associated with the lamented George Cahill.

A wife and one son, Timothy J., a well-known young man of this city, survive him. The funeral will take place Saturday morning from St. John's church, and the interment will be at St. Mary's cemetery.

A Beautiful Present.

The Rev. W. S. and Mrs. Key, formerly of Wollaston Heights, were the recipients of a very valuable and useful present from their former parishioners in East Weymouth on Wednesday evening. A short time ago Mr. and Mrs. Key celebrated their silver wedding at Winthrop, where they now reside. As a mark of their continued regard and esteem for their former pastor and his estimable wife, the congregation invited them to supper, carefully guarding the real object of the invitation. After supper Mr. Douglas Easton, in a neat speech, greatly surprised Mr. and Mrs. Key by requesting their acceptance of a silver wedding gift, the earlier presentation of which had been unavoidably delayed. It consisted of a set of solid silver table cutlery each piece being engraved with the letter K. Both Mr. and Mrs. Key acknowledged the beautiful and unexpected present.

Last week's Harper's Bazar says: There are several changes at Bryn-Mawr College this season, and its outlook is most encouraging. The department of Modern Languages has been strengthened by the appointment of Dr. Max Blau as associate in German literature, Dr. Oliver M. Rebekah Visitation.

At the regular meeting of Amaria Rebekah lodge, No 96, held in Odd Fellows hall, South Braintree, Thursday evening, there was a large attendance of the members, also a delegation from Carrie E. Ruggles, No. 136, of Wollaston, and the District Grand Master Sister Wilbur and suite of Randolph, were also present.

After the transaction of the business, the entertainment committee furnished a very pleasing programme, opening with a piano solo, by Brother C. G. Whitcomb; duet, piano and harmonica, Brother Brooks and Whitcomb; song, Brother Whitcomb

Remarks were offered by the visitors and some of the members. Then the committee through the chairman, H. W. Mansfield, announced that supper was ready in the lower halls, and all wended there way to see what could be done for the inner man, and there was found a sumptous repast, consisting of a hot oyster stew, celery, pies, cake and fruit. Great credit is due the committee, consisting of Brother Boyer, Kain, Richards, Thayer and Mansfield, who caused members of Amana lodge and visitors to have one of the most enjoyable and social evenings they have passed for a long, long time.

We would advise those of our readers who have nice ornamental or fruit trees that are troubled by canker worms, that it is time now to use some tree ink, or other protection against the troublesome millers that crawl up the trunk of the tree. Many apple trees that should bear one or two barrels of nice apples do not yield a bushel for want of little care. Ten to fifteen cents' worth of Morrill's tree ink will protect a tree a whole season; and after a few years it will bear well without using any protection. PASSENGERS HURT.

An Electric Car and Lumber Team in Collision.

A Quincy bound electric car on the Neponset line ran into a lumber wagon just south of the Norfolk Downs station about 6 30 Thursday night. The car was coming down the grade and the lumber wagon attempted to cross the track in front of it. The car struck the wagon with considerable force, throwing the passengers in the car about.

Among the passengers was Mrs. Edward E Hayden who sat near the door. The force of the collision threw her violently against the door bruising her considerably. A Mrs. Barney and her mother of Norfolk Downs were also thrown from their seat and bruised some and all of the passengers were more or less shaken up.

Mrs. Hayden was removed to her home on School street. Mr. Hayden when seen today said his wife was severely injured and that the attending physician had called four times this morning and that it was feared that she had been injured internally.

The force of the blow was enough to spring the axle of the lumber wagon. The car was in charge of motorman Poulin, who has been laid off pending an investigation which the street railway are making.

Fears That Excitement at Chicago May Precipitate Trouble.

Each Side Making Charges Against the Other.

Hanna Still Claims That His Side Is Confident of Winning.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—The political contest grows in interest and intensity, and the excitement is such that it can scarcely be measured by the ordinary standard of past campaigns. The middle west is ablaze with the fire of political warfare, and the ordinary interests of life seem to be forgotten in the turmoil.

Cook county seems to be the great objective point of the contending forces. It is the vantage ground, to gain possession of which the leaders on both sides are straining every nerve. Cook county, in the opinion of many, may elect the President of the United States in this year of grace.

So great is the excitement in this section at present that many people entertain a fear that possibly some persons, in the excess of their enthusiasm, and carried away by the excitement of the contest, may in some way precipitate trouble. For this reason business men and others in the city of Chicago profess to feel some apprehension as to the result of the demonstrations and counter demonstrations planned for the coming week.

An incident which illustrates this particular phase of the situation has just developed. Both parties had arranged for torchlight parades in the city of Chicago on the evening of Oct. 31. Then the Republican business men, fearing, as they claimed, that a riot might ensue, made representations to that effect to the Republican campaign managers. The latter said they would be willing to abandon their parade, provided the Democrats were also prevented from parading, and they succeeded in getting the chief of police to refuse permission for any parade on the evening of Oct. 31.

The Democrats, on learning this, declared that they would have their torchlight parade, even if the Republicans did not. Their lawyers looked up the law on the subject. It seems that at the time of the anarchists' uprising, an ordinance was passed prohibiting public demonstrations unless the consent of the police had first been gained. The counsel of the Democrats discovered a decision of the supreme court which overthrew the ordinance and left it null and void. They now intend to make a public announcement of their intention to parade without a police permit, on Saturday night, Oct. 31, and will go into court with an application for an injunction restraining Chief of Police Badenoch from interfering with their parade.

Thus the situation in Chicago seems to be drifting in the direction of trouble. The Democrats seem to have a perfect right to parade if they can overrule the ordinance, but some of the Republicans seem to think that the Democratic parade should not be allowed as long as the Republicans have abandoned their parade, and some of them have no hesitation in saying that it shall be prevented in some way.

Each side is charging the other with a desire to create disturbance. The Republican managers, during the last few days, have been constantly charging Jones with trying to incite trouble by sending out a lot of "inflammatory trash" to the voters. They also charge that Jones and some labor leaders are engaged in a scheme for the purpose of bringing about the long-deferred arraying of the "masses" against the "classes." They explain how desirable Chairman Jones would now find it to have some open conflict between some corporation and its employes, so that a general strike, or something of that sort, could be precipitated. They say if Chairman Jones could only get some workingmen to rioting, and have a few of them shot down by the police, it would be a great boon to his cause.

On the other hand, the Democrats claim that the Republicans have been the chief offenders in trying to prejudice the voters. The Democrats are now saying that the chief weapons of the Republicans in the contest are "corruption," "coercion" and "calumniation," and the "three C's" may pass into a campaign cry like the "three R's." They say, however, that the use of such weapons against him has strengthened Bryan, rather than injured him. They tell you that a good way to help a man is to make a martyr of him, and that the calumniation of Bryan, which they charge to the Republicans, has immensely strengthened him with the masses of the people.

Bryan is expected here, after completing his tour of Indiana, and then may be expected a campaign such as has not been probably seen for a generation. Bryan and Altgeld will lead it, and some one of the two will speak in Chicago every night. Cook county will ring from one end to the other with campaign eloquence.

Chairman Hanna is thoroughly mad over Chairman Jones' "coercion" proclamation. In fact, it is said that Hanna has not shown such signs of perturbation in years. He is ordinarily so calm and serence that it requires some extraordinary occurrence to ruffle his temper, but Jones' proclamation did it. The Democrats hold that it was very successful with the voters, and that this explains its effect on Hanna. He immediately issued a statement, over his own signature, with a view of counteracting its effects.

Hanna seems to be more confident than ever. Says he: "You may tell our friends in the east that when they speak of doubtful states in the middle west, they are speaking of something that does not exist; there are no doubtful states in the middle west, in my opinion. I was never more confident of anything than I am of the election of McKinley and Hobart."

Kentucky Chivalry.

Covington, Ky., Oct. 23.—Secretary of the Treasury Carlisle made the first of his series of Kentucky speeches here last night, at Odd Fellows' hall, which was crowded to its utmost capacity. Mr. Carlisle was received with hearty applause when he appeared on the stage. This was followed by vociferous cheers for Bryan, from a line of about 100 men,

THE BLUES.

A Graphic Description of the Dreadful Feeling.

What Is Meant by This Form of Acute Misery—Where Doctors Make Mistakes.

When a cheerful, brave, light-hearted woman is suddenly plunged into that perfection of misery, the BLUES, it is a sad picture.

It is usually this way:—

She has been feeling "out of sorts" for some time; head has ached, and back also; has slept poorly; been quite nervous, and nearly fainted once or twice; head dizzy, and heart has beat very fast; then that bearing-down feeling. Her doctor says, "cheer up, you have dyspepsia; you'll be all right soon."

But she doesn't get "all right." She grows worse day by day, till all at once she realizes that a distressing female complaint is established.

Her doctor has made a mistake.

She has lost faith in him; hope vanishes; then comes the brooding, morbid, melancholy, everlasting BLUES. Her doctor, if he knew, should have told her and cured her, but he did not, and she was allowed to suffer. By chance she came across one of Mrs. Pinkham's books, and in it she found her very symptoms described and an explanation of what they meant. Then she wrote to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for advice, feeling that she was telling her troubles to a woman. Speedy relief followed, and vigorous health returned.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound instantly asserts its curative powers in all those peculiar ailments of women. It has been the standby of intelligent American women for twenty years, and the story recited above is the true experience of hundreds of women, whose letters of gratitude are to be found on file in Mrs. Pinkham's library.

The Investigators.

Gov. Wolcott has appointed the following committee of five to make the investigation of the affairs of the Massachusetts Benefit Association: Judge Henry W. Bragg of Boston, Hon. Frank D. Escaped from a Home.

Wednesday afternoon Officer Ferguson found a woman wandering about City Square in an apparently aimless manner, and as she appeared quite demented she was taken to the poor farm. Thursday it was learned that the woman was Mrs. Margaret Flanning and that she lived with her son at Atlantic. Mrs. Flanning is not in her right mind and has been in one of the homes about Boston, but it is impossible to keep her there for she will escape every little while and return to Quincy. The woman will probably be returned to her son.

Sideboards

THERE is something more than convenience in the sideboards manufactured today, and those who know venture to say that the wonderfully low prices of the present time cannot exist for a very great while.

Sideboards in beautiful flake quartered oak, richly carved, large beveled and shaped French mirror plate, swell top and delightful arrangement of drawers, with one beautifully velvet lined for your silver.

Year after year the prices have dropped, and $25.00 today at this store buys more sideboard elegance than thrice this amount could buy not many years ago.

They add a constant air of welcome to every dining room, and real sideboard comfort once tried, makes one wonder why they ever lived without it. 40 patterns, $10 50 to $60.00.

WAS SURELY MURDER.

Hamlin Andrus Met His Death at Hands of Bomb Fiend.

New York, Oct. 23.—There seems no longer any room for doubt as to the circumstances attending the death of Hamlin J. Andrus, who was blown to pieces on Wednesday in the office of the Arlington Chemical company at Yonkers, of which he was secretary. All the circumstances point to murder. Last night Coroner Miles stated that 30 feet of wire had been taken from under the building in which the explosion of the bomb had occurred, and that in addition four dry cell batteries had been also found in or near the building, just where he would not say. The wire was stretched under the floor of the office building, and ran to a point directly beneath, where stood the box which is believed to have contained the bomb. To what point outside of the building the wires were conducted has not yet been divulged. It may even be that the police have not located this point, as, so far as has been learned, the wires were found cut on a line with the outer walls of the building. This in itself involves a mystery that seems at present inexplicable.

Notwithstanding the discovery of the wires, the battery and the other paraphernalia that so strongly indicates the hand of the assassin, there are some people who are engaged investigating the affair, who believe still that Andrus met his death as a result of his own experimenting.

The police at present are inclined to stand merely between the two theories, for they have placed some reliance in the story told by Keiler, an employe, that he had seen Mr. Andrus going into the office with a small parcel, which might possibly have contained the bomb. The parcel story, however, is denied by Mr. Andrus' son, who accompanied him to his office on Wednesday.

Coroner Miles, who has disagreed considerable with the police, states that, in his opinion, the bomb was suspended by a string from the bottom of the shelf desk at which Mr. Andrus was accustomed to stand, so that the wires were run from an unoccupied building situated some distance from the office, up through the floor to the bottom of the desk, so that they would rest closely against the string, and that when the current was turned on the string was burned and the bomb released.

It is still believed by many that the bomb was intended for John Andrus, president of the company, and brother of the man who was killed, for, while the latter was extremely popular, the former is said not to have also established himself warmly in the hearts of the people. In view of the developments of yesterday, the inquest, which was to have been held today, has been postponed for a week.

Princess Helene In Rome.

Rome, Oct. 23. — Princess Helene of Montenegro made her state entry into Rome yesterday. She was received by King Humbert and Queen Margherita and the ministers and courtiers. The procession was headed by 20 state carriages, containing the royal party, which were followed by a regiment of cuirassiers. As the procession started from the station the cannon at the Castle of St. Angelo began to boom, and the crowd, which filled every available space, sent up cheer after cheer. The progress of Princess Helene through the streets from the station to the Quirinal was a veritable ovation. Fully 300,000 cheering people lined the route. Princess Helene became greatly excited at the grandeur of her reception, and several times shed tears. The princess and the royal party reached the Quirinal at noon.

BOSTON vs. QUINCY.

You can buy Coal of us at just the same prices that you can in Boston. Then why not spend your money in this city instead of taking it away for others to profit. Every dollar spent in Boston increases the riches of that city, while Quincy becomes poorer by just that amount.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

Chairman William B. Orcutt of the Democratic city committee says he is not a candidate for Mayor. Many members of the committee had hoped that Mr. Orcutt would allow his name to be used, but now that he has positively declined to be considered as a possibility no work will be done in his behalf. The other gentlemen mentioned as desiring the office, or as being acceptable, have of course many friends in the party, but it is extremely doubtful if any of them could carry the convention. From the present survey of the field, according to the idea of many, the candidate has not been named yet.

A Democratic rally will be held at Hancock hall, next Saturday evening. Hon. Bordman Hall, congressional candidate; James Cantwell of Brookline, James D. Grant of Hyde Park, and other gentlemen will be the speakers. The arrangements for the rally have not yet been completed, but the full bill will be announced early next week.

Braintree Literary Club.

Twenty-four members of the club met with Miss A. N. Shaw last Monday evening. The programme of the evening was as follows:

FIRST HOUR.

Quotations—Pope's Essay on Man.

The Northern Tribes and their Movements, Mr. Allen.

The Contrast of Germanic and Salic Law, Mr. Horace Drinkwater.

The Rise of Christianity in the Eastern and Western Empire, Mrs. A. S. Morrison.

The second hour was devoted to business. The next meeting will be Monday evening, November second, with Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Allen.

Quotations will be from Carlyle's "Heroes and Hero Worship."

—One of Brockton's clergymen on his return from the shore discovered that a bunch of sermons in manuscript had been eaten by the mice during his absence. After telling this to one of the ladies of his flock, she remarked: "I do hope you left some water around." The reverend gentleman "caught on" and promised that in the future he would endeavor not to have his sermons too "dry."

—On October 1, 1896, the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad reduced the rate for transportation of bicycles. From that date, the minimum charge for transportation of a bicycle will be 10 cents, this being the rate in all cases when the ticket price does not exceed 74 cents. Within the States of New York and Rhode Island bicycles are carried free of charge, by special law.

—The expenses of the twelve young men which the Mexican government had proposed to train in Bridgewater Normal School, as assistants in similar schools at home, having to be paid in half-price Mexican dollars, the number was cut down one-half. A professor in a normal school in Mexico accompanies them with his family, and has written to his home papers in high praise of the Bridgewater school.

—Eighty-one employes of a Worcester concern recently celebrated their twenty-fifth year as workmen for the same company. This is highly creditable to the company as well as to workmen.

NEW TRAINS.

Quincy to Have Three More Good Ones Each Way.

The 12 M. and 11 P. M. from Boston Both Restored.

Convenient Trains Added for Boston at 1.46 and 10.34 P. M.

The agitation in the DAILY LEDGER for better train service on the Old Colony system has been successful in a marked degree without the help of the City Council and Board of Trade.

On and after Monday we are to have six additional trains. Four certainly were demanded and all will be appreciated.

New trains will leave Boston for Quincy, Montello, Brockton and Campello at 7.28 A. M. and 12 00 noon. Returning new trains will leave for Boston as follows: Campello at 1.15 and 5.44 P. M, Brockton at 1 22 and 5 48 P. M., Montello at 1.26 and 3 52 P. M. and Quincy at 1.46 and 6.16 P. M.

New trains will leave Boston for South Braintee and way stations at 11.00 P. M., and South Braintree for Boston and way stations at 10 24 P. M.

The trains leaving Boston at 5.15 and 6.15 P. M. will stop at Quincy in place of those leaving Boston at 5.12 and 6.12 P. M., which will not stop at this station.

The trains now leaving Boston for stations on the Hanover branch at 2.45 and 4.45 P. M. will leave at 3 45 and 5.15 P. M. Returning, trains will leave Hanover for Boston at 7.45 and 9.15 A. M., in place of 8.15 and 10.15 A. M.

The noon express to Quincy from Boston had been on so many years that people have unconsciously reported at the depot during the summer, only to be disappointed. Nothing but the restoration of that train could please our business men who have calls to Boston nearly every morning. It will always be a popular train.

Theatre people will appreciate the 11 P. M. out, although it is an accommodation train, and those who had resolved not to go to the theatre again this winter if they had to wait until the 11.30, will probably go frequently to the profit of the railroad.

Ladies who have had to hurry from their noon day meal to catch the 1.12 for Boston, will find that the 1.46 will accommodate them better.

The new 10.34 to Boston is only the restoration of an old train which was needed to accommodate people who attend entertainments in Quincy and desire to return promptly to Wollaston, Atlantic or Boston and way stations.

Quincy and Wollaston will have the same expresses to Boston in the morning and out toward night, instead of different ones, and can be a little more neighborly.

This change in the timetable is a great improvement, but it should not be long before Quincy has fifteen minute service to Boston between 6.30 and 8.30 A. M. and half hourly the remainder of the day and half hourly out until 3 30 P. M. and then every fifteen minutes to 6 30 and frequent trains in the evening.

Route for Torchlight.

If the weather is with the boys Monday evening there will be a grand torchlight procession in Quincy.

Invitations have been sent to the several McKinley battalions in the Tenth district, also to the Lovell Rifles of Weymouth and from the replies received thus far there will be a large number of torches in line. The route of the parade as now laid out will be as follows:

Form on Granite street, thence to Hancock street, to School street, to Water street, to Brewers Corner, to Granite street to headquarters where the line will be dismissed and refreshments served. People on the line of march are requested to illuminate.

—Competent judges state that the geysers of the Yellowstone park are diminishing in activity, and that during the past sixteen years, their activity has fallen off fully one half. Already some of the most prominent geysers have become inactive, and it is predicted that most, if not all, of those in the park will become extinct during the next fifty years. These geysers are the most noted in the world, those of Iceland and New Zealand being insignificant in comparison. They are worthy a visit from any one who has the time and money.

—The Somerville Journal says that Bryan assesses the towns where he stops to speak from $50 to $300 each. Never before in the history of political campaigning has a presidential candidate swung around the circle and made money out of it, as if he were on a lecture tour.

—A London clergyman asserts that the overdressing of most church-goers has been a curse to Christianity, by influencing those who cannot buy good clothes to absent themselves from the church.

WERE I BUT HIS WIFE.

Were I but his own wife, to guard and to guide him,
'Tis little of sorrow should fall on my dear.
I'd chant him my low love verses, stealing beside him,
So faint and so tender his heart would but hear.
I'd pull the wild blossoms from valley and highland,
And there at his feet would I lay them all down.
I'd sing him the song of our poor stricken island
Till his heart was on fire with love like my own.

There's a rose by his dwelling. I'd tend the lone treasure,
That he might have flowers when the summer would come.
There's a harp in his hall. I would wake its sweet measure,
For he must have music to brighten his home.
Were I but his own wife to guide and to guard him,
'Tis little of sorrow should fall on my dear,
For every kind glance my whole life would award him.
In sickness I'd soothe and in sadness I'd cheer.

My heart is a fount welling upward forever.
When I think of my true love by night or by day,
That heart keeps its faith like a fast flowing river
Which gushes forever and sings on its way.
I have thoughts full of peace for his soul to repose in,
Were I but his own wife to win and to woo,
Oh, sweet, if the night of misfortune were closing,
To rise like the morning star, darling, for you.

—Mary Downing in Minneapolis Journal.

"BUSINESS."

Mr. Percival Houghton was standing near the door in the Paultons' drawing room.

Houghton was not a very popular member of his set on account of a perilous faculty he had of avoiding all social functions. He was to be found at the Paultons' today—well, if the matter were probed to the bottom, principally because he was an old friend of the family and Jack Paulton had reminded him he must not send a refusal at the peril of a serious breach in their friendship.

Some one plucked his sleeve. It was his hostess.

"You remind me very much," said Mrs. Paulton, "of a statue I once saw of Achilles, I think it was. Why this heroic abstractedness?"

Houghton had not yet spoken of his embarrassment when she put an end to it prettily, sparing him the additional confusion of an explanation.

"Come, let us descend to things more substantial than dead heroes, if not less poetical. I have a pleasant surprise in store for you."

"Indeed!"

"Yes. Let me fetch you to an old friend just returned from over the sea—Miss Alice Coates."

She conducted him to the damsel in question and left them together.

"I'm heartily glad to see you again, Miss Coates," said Houghton, a trifle awkwardly.

"You may call me Alice, as you did before I went abroad," said the girl with whom Mrs. Paulton had left him, and then mischievously, "though I am quite grown up now, you see."

"Dear me, yes; quite grown up. Do you remember our chats, when we used to poke fun at the courtly old dames at your mother's 'at homes?' I have never found congenial company since you went abroad, and I have gone out of society entirely—become a kind of commercial anchorite."

"How fortunate you are. But then you never really cared for society, did you?"

"No, indeed, nor did you. Are your ideas unchanged, Alice?"

"Well, in a way. I still think, as you used to say, the world would be better off if it did not trifle with precious time. Yet—and I know you will pardon me—I am surprised to find you single. Is it possible there has been no one charming enough to break through the pessimistic ice of your nature?"

"No one, indeed. But though I will not be so vain as to say it is entirely, yet I will be bold enough to say to my old confidant it has been largely due to the fact that I have not had the time to devote to lovemaking. And, you know, it takes a great deal of gadding about before a man may even evidence his affections slightly."

"That's very true."

"Now, don't you think yourself that the conventional wooing is a very lamentable sacrifice of time?"

"If the woman in me decides, no; but if I persevere along strictly common sense lines, perhaps yes."

"How charming you are! Jove! You have not changed a jot, Alice, since your hair has been turned up and you have donned the harness of social slavery. But, to continue our subject, I honestly think this business of love and marriage might be expedited, for instance, in the commercial way. A man comes into my office with a proposition that is almost as important to me as a marriage, for it affects my life's affairs very radically. He wants an answer that same day—immediately, if possible. True, I take, say, half an hour or an hour to turn the matter over in my mind and view it in every light. As a rule, in that length of time I have come to a satisfactory conclusion. Now, if I could find a woman to whom I might say: 'Here, let us expedite matters. Let us get this preliminary business of lovemaking over immediately and come to the point without further ado'— Of course it should be some one with whom one is rather well acquainted, as, for instance, you and I"—

"Mr. Houghton!"

"There, there; you see heresy will crop out even in an old adherent. Let me continue. I take out my watch this way and say: 'It is just 10 o'clock now, Alice. I love you very dearly. Will you marry me tomorrow?'"

"How charmingly ridiculous."

"That's right. So it is, perhaps, ridiculous, and I shall have to turn in again on my poor, old lonely soul—no one understands."

"But, my dear friend, am I to believe your peculiar theories carry you seriously so far as that?"

"I am profoundly in earnest. My affairs of business are so absorbing that I candidly can give no time to lovemaking."

"Then you deserve never to get a wife, if you cannot sacrifice your business for her. Why, lovemaking is the best part of a woman's life."

"Ah, well! I had expected to find in you, if not a firm believer in my theories, at least a strong sympathizer. That settles it. You are the last straw. I shall never marry."

Alice, of course, might have turned the conversation into other channels, but somehow she did not feel that she wanted to do so.

"Well, supposing, Mr. Houghton," she began, after a pause, "I should say in the rustic fashion: 'I love you also very dearly. I am willing?'"

Though she tried to say this with admirable simplicity her face flushed in spite of her.

Houghton noticed the blush, and straightway became himself excited, yet without betraying it.

"Good," said he. "I should say: 'And now, if you will excuse me, I shall speak with your father. He is here, I understand?'"

Then, taking out his watch, "It is now 15 minutes to 10. Where's your father?"

"I think he is"— and never, until her dying day, will she understand how these words escaped her with such perfect inconsequence—"I think he is in the library with Mr. Paulton."

Houghton arose, and, putting the watch back into his pocket, made as to go away.

Miss Coates caught his sleeve. She was trembling, and the smiles had died out of her face. Said she: "Oh, Percy! —I mean Mr. Houghton—don't be so foolish. He will think you are insane."

He drew the sleeve away gently. "Be careful, Alice," said he. "We are attracting attention. Don't make a scene."

The next moment he was gone, and in a daze of excitement and confusion Alice hurried to the conservatory and dashed in among the palms.

When Houghton walked into the library, he found Alice's father and Jack Paulton smoking and chatting listlessly.

"Major Coates, I have just proposed to your daughter, and she has accepted me. Are you willing we should be married tomorrow?"

The cigar fell from the lips of the major, and he looked in blank amazement, first upon his interrogator and then upon Paulton, with a slight questioning aspect in the last glance. Paulton burst out laughing, and the major turned again to Houghton helplessly and said:

"Percy, my boy, have you lost your senses?"

"True," the other answered, drawing a chair up to the table, "this requires some explanation. Doesn't it?"

Then he told them of the conversation between himself and Alice as well as explaining incidentally many of his views of life which bore directly and some even which had no bearing at all upon the subject at present of vital interest.

"But Alice?" said the major. "I cannot believe she is a party to such wild plans."

"Oh, yes, I know she will be agreeable," answered Houghton. "She has said so."

"Yet I am sure she will have changed her mind by this time. She has had time to think it over collectedly. I'll go and ask her."

"No," put in Paulton, rising. "Let me do that for you."

"I'll give you just three minutes, Jack," said Houghton.—London Sun.

Costly Bottle of Champagne.

Some years ago Mr. Gladstone had met a possible claimant for a civil list pension whom he believed to be in sufficiently poor circumstances and had almost decided to grant it when he received an invitation to dinner with the person in question. This raised some doubt in his mind. On the one hand, should a civil list pensioner be able to afford to entertain? On the other hand, it might only be a dinner of herbs, and it seemed hard to deprive a public benefactor of a pension because he was ready to share his crust and water. Knowing that in any case there would be a feast of reason and a flow of soul, Mr. Gladstone accepted the invitation, and on the way propounded to his companion the following test: "No champagne, pension; champagne, no pension." There was champagne, and the host lost his pension. It was the dearest bottle of wine on record, for it cost the purchaser £100 a year."—London News.

Prentiss and His Wit.

Sargent S. Prentiss was a great lawyer and an eloquent orator as well as a humorist, but his humor, though at times excessive, never obscured his oratory or weakened his argument.

He was once engaged in a political discussion on "the stump" with a gentleman who was wordy, dull and spoke "against time" so that Prentiss might speak at a disadvantage. It was nearly dark when Prentiss rose, and the same moment a jackass in a neighboring pound began braying and kept it up until Prentiss' friends were annoyed and his opponents delighted. When the jackass stopped, Prentiss, casting a comical look at his unfair antagonist, said:

"I did not come here today to reply to two equally eloquent speeches." Then he sat down, and his friends carried him from the stand in their arms. —Youth's Companion.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 25. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—My favorite Bible proverb and why. Prov. ii, 1-9. (A memory meeting suggested.)

A proverb is a wise saying, containing but few words, that expresses some practical truth. The Bible contains many proverbs, the most of which are found in the book of the Proverbs of Solomon. This book is a collection of the short sayings of Solomon, the wisest of ancient kings, and perhaps has intermingled with those of Solomon the common and familiar proverbs of his day—the brief sayings of other men who were both wise and pious.

This is an important book because it is a practical one. It reveals in striking epigrams the weaknesses and follies of human life. It deals wisely with important practical questions of human life and of man's duty to God and his duty to his fellow man. It emphasizes noble traits of human character—charity, modesty, virtue, industry, honesty—and holds up to condemnation the opposite of these. It gives us great and important truths in a nutshell in such a way that when once impressed upon the mind these truths are fixed upon it. They remain to be used whenever the occasion may arise.

The passage selected for our topical reference is one of the many in which wisdom and religion are connected and the relation existing between them expressed. There are three prominent ideas concerning religion and wisdom set forth in these verses:

1. Religion is the first step in true wisdom. "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." If we receive God's word's and obey His commandments, then we will have started upon the path to true wisdom. Religion and wisdom are not antagonistic, as many suppose. The truly wise are not irreligious. The wise man is the fully developed man. Many one sided men, who have educated only the mind and have not considered the soul, are atheistic and irreligious, but the man who has paid due attention to his entire nature is religiously wise, and this is the truest wisdom.

2. Wisdom must be sought. It is wise to seek wisdom and understanding because a true search brings us to God; for it is God who gives wisdom, after all. Wisdom is not to be ignored. It should be humbly but earnestly sought after. It brings us nearer to God and helps us to understand more about God.

3. God gives wisdom. "The Lord giveth wisdom." God gives wisdom, but He gives it as He does all His blessings—to those who desire it and seek after it. "Seek and ye shall find."

Bible Readings.—Prov. i, 1-10; iii, 1-24; iv, 5-9; v, 1; vi, 16-19; viii, 1-11; ix, 1-10; x, 1-32; xi, 1-12; xv, 1-12; xvi, 24-33; xvii, 17; xx, 1; xxii, 1-12; xxvii, 1; xxviii, 1; xxxi, 30, 31.

The first state union was formed in Connecticut, November, 1885.

Early morning prayer meetings were commenced at Saratoga, 1886.

Just eight centuries ago the first crusade started for the Holy Land.

Rev. Samuel Winchester Adriance was the first general secretary of the united society.

It was Rev. Charles A. Dickinson who first dubbed Dr. F. E. Clark "Father Endeavor."

Of the 4,712 societies in foreign lands, the United Kingdom heads the list with 2,645.

The model constitution was adopted in October, 1887, by the trustees of the United society.

Christian Endeavor societies are recognized in between 40 and 50 Christian denominations.

Christian Endeavorers of Ceylon contribute cocoanuts and chickens in lieu of money to the cause.

Thirty Christian Endeavor societies are seeking to illuminate darkest Africa with spiritual light.

The Spirit of Unrest.

Unrest is not of itself an unfavorable symptom. Rather the unrest of a bubbling spring than the calm of a stagnant pool. Rather a reaching out after better things than self satisfied content with half an inheritance. An unrealized ideal is the strongest incentive to earnest effort, and social, political and ecclesiastical upheavals are oftentimes but the birth throes which usher in a new life.—Presbyterian Journal.

Prayer For November.

Pray for the nation of which you are a citizen, whichever that nation may be, that it may be a God fearing, law abiding, Christian land. Pray for every wise effort of the young people to advance true Christian citizenship.

Silent Prayer.

No soul can preserve the bloom and delicacy of its existence without lonely musings and silent prayer, and the greatness of this necessity is in proportion to the greatness of the soul.—Canon Farrar.

Abundant Intercourse.

There is no cure for the love of evil in a Christian like abundant intercourse with the Lord Jesus.—Episcopal Recorder.

Endeavors.

Some Japanese delegates to the annual Christian Endeavor convention at Kioto traveled a distance of 500 miles.

A California family walked four miles over the mountains to attend a missionary meeting held by visiting Christian Endeavorers. This was the first gospel service that these people had attended for years. After the meeting some of the Endeavorers returned home with them and helped them organize a Sunday school and a Christian Endeavor society.

CLEVELAND'S WARNING

National Laws Inexorable and Far Removed From Suffrages.

College Men Should Declaim Against Sectionalism.

National Dishonor and Bad Faith a Treacherous and Fatal Wound.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 23.—The sesqui-centennial anniversary of the granting of the first charter of the College of New Jersey, was celebrated yesterday in Alexander hall. It was anniversary day proper in the celebration program, and many distinguished men, who had been unable to attend the other exercises of the sesqui-centennial, were present. Alexander hall was crowded to its utmost capacity by those eager to do homage to Princeton university in the hour of her glory, and also to hear the address of President Cleveland.

Mr. Cleveland, after a pleasing introduction ,complimentary to the sons of Princeton, continued: "As I yield to the influences of this occasion, I cannot resist the train of thought which especially reminds me of the promise of national safety and the guaranty of the permanency of our free institutions which may and ought to radiate from the colleges scattered throughout our land.

"Obviously a government resting upon the will and universal suffrage of the people has no anchorage except in the people's intelligence.

"In a nation like ours, charged with the care of numerous and widely varied interests, a spirit of conservatism and toleration is absolutely essential. A collegiate training, the study of principles unvexed by distracting and misleading influences, and a correct apprehension of the theories upon which our republic is established, ought to constitute the college graduate a constant monitor, warning against popular rashness and excess.

"The character of our institutions and our national self interest require that a feeling of sincere brotherhood and a disposition to unite in mutual endeavor should pervade our people. Our scheme of government in its beginning was based upon this sentiment, and its interruption has never failed and can never fail to grievously menace our national health.

"A constant stream of thoughtful, educated men should come from our universities and colleges, preaching national honor and integrity, and teaching that a belief in th necessity of national obedience to the laws of God is not born of superstition.

"I do not forget the practical necessity of political parties nor do I deny their desirability. I recognize wholesome differences of opinion touching legitimate governmental policies, and would by no means control or limit the utmost freedom in their discussion.

"When the excitement of party warfare presses dangerously near our national safeguards, I would have the intelligent conservatism of our universities and colleges warn the contestants in impressive tones against the perils of a breach impossible to repair.

"When popular discontent and passion are stimulated by the arts of designing partisans to a pitch perilously near to class hatred or sectional anger, I would have our universities and colleges sound the alarm in the name of American brotherhood and fraternal independence.

"When the attempt is made to delude the people into the belief that their suffrages can change the operation of natural laws, I would have our universites and colleges proclaim that those laws are inexorable and far removed from political control.

"When selfish interest seeks undue private benefit through governmental aid and public places are claimed as rewards of party service, I would have our universities and colleges persuade the people to a relinquishment of the demand for party spoils and exhort them to a disinterested and patriotic love of their government for its own sake, and because in its true adjustment and unperverted operation it secures to every citizen his just share of the safety and prosperity it holds in store for all.

"When a design is apparent to lure the people from their honest thoughts and to blind their eyes to the sad plight of national dishonor and bad faith, I would have Princeton university, panoplied in her patriotic traditions and glorious memories, and joined by all the other universities and colleges of our land, cry out against the infliction of this treacherous and fatal wound.

"I would have the influence of these institutions on the side of religion and morality. I would have those they send out among the people not ashamed to acknowledge God, and to proclaim his interposition in the affairs of men, enjoining such obedience to his laws as makes manifest the path of national perpetuity and prosperity.

"I hasten to concede the good already accomplished by our educated men in purifying and steadying political sentiment; but I hope I may be allowed to intimate my belief that their work in these directions would be easier and more useful if it were less spasmodic and occasional.

"I am certain, therefore, that a more constant and active participation in political affairs on the part of our men of education would be of the greatest possible value to our country.

"I would have those sent out by our universities and colleges not only the counsellors of their fellow countrymen, but the tribunes of the people—fully appreciating every condition that presses upon thir daily life, sympathetic in every untoward situation, quick and earnest in every effort to advance their happiness and welfare, and prompt and sturdy in the defense of all their rights.

I have but imperfectly expressed the thoughts to which I have not been able to deny utterance on an occasion so full of glad significance, and so pervaded by the atmosphere of patriotic aspiration. Born of these surroundings, the hope can not be vain that the time is at hand when all our countrymen will more deeply appreciate the blessings of American citzenship, when their disinterested love of their government will be quickened, when fanaticism and passion shall be banished from the field of politics, and when all our people, discarding every difference of condition or opportunity, will be seen under the banner of American brotherhood, marching steadfly and unfalteringly on towards the bright heights of our national destiny."

IN THICK OF FIGHT.

Bryan Assumes Leadership of His Hosts In Illinois.

Republicans Are Said to Be Getting Scared.

Admire the Fight He Is Making and Marvel at His Great Vitality.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Bryan is in Illinois. Yesterday he entered upon the most critical phase of the most remarkable campaign which has probably ever been witnessed in this country. The fate of the election is trembling in the balance, and Illinois may be the factor which will tip the scales one side or the other. Bryan comes to lead his hosts in person, and with Altgeld by his side he will make an onslaught on the Republican ranks as they have never before experienced.

Good judges say now that, despite the terrible odds against him, Bryan may sweep Illinois, and that would in all probability mean his election.

Up to last night he had traveled some 14,400 miles since his nomination. He had made about 480 speeches, had visited about 410 cities and towns, visited 30 states, and talked to several millions of voters. This would kill a dozen ordinary men, but so far from being affected by it he seems to grow stronger.

Bryan is today a nightmare to the Republicans. They cannot tell what this man may not do. He confounds their plans and dashes their hopes to the ground. They fear him as one to whom nothing seems impossible in political campaigning.

What such a man may do in Illinois and Cook county during the next five days no one can predict. Already there has been a big rise in the tidal wave of popular excitement. People were already almost wild with excitement, and it is difficult to imagine how they can get any worse without going crazy altogether.

Even Republicans cannot help admiring the fight Bryan is making, and some of them seem to stand aghast at what they term his tremendous vitality. Even his opponents concede that he cannot help making many votes by his whirlwind campaign; but they say he loses many of them afterward through lack of organization among the party, and lack of a trained corps of speakers to follow him up and reap the fruits of his work.

Bryan himself does not take this view of his work. He believes he makes votes, and that they stay on the silver side. He believes that his whirlwind rush through the enemy's entrenchments leaves breaches which cannot be repaired by all the efforts of Mark Hanna. When asked yesterday if he thought his plan was to be successful, he replied by another set of questions:

"Were these demonstrations meaningless?" he said. "They would tax the dictionary for a comparison to describe them, and an unprejudiced observer could not call them without meaning. Had it not been predicted that the silver move would recede? Yes; that prediction had been made. Did it not look like flood tide the closer election day came?"

Mr. Bryan says he will keep up this campaign of his till the very last moment. The last day of all he will give to Nebraska, and he says he expects to carry every county in the state. He says his campaign in Indiana has been a great success, and that the fact that ex-President Harrison has adopted the same method is a confession by the Republican managers that his work has been effective. During his two days in the state, Bryan talked to an actual majority of the voters of Indiana.

What is considered a very significant indication of Bryan's success in Indiana is the fact that the Republican managers made Harrison go over portions of his route a second time, because Bryan had been there in the meantime, and they feared the effect of his words.

And now Bryan comes to Cook county, the hot-bed of all the political elements raging in the present campaign. Nothing like the struggle of the next few days has probably been seen in a generation. Bryan's coming is feared; there seems to be no doubt about that. The Republicans are making every effort to counteract the effect of his work.

The "battle of the flags," on Oct. 31, promises to be quite interesting. Democrats claim that his scheme will only help to bring ridicule on Hanna. They say that Hanna wanted to claim a monopoly of even the American flag.

But Bryan's followers are laughing at the manner in which he turned the tables on Hanna and his flag proclamation. He simply asked his followers to display flags on the same day, and now the problem will be to determine to which side the flags belong. The Republican managers say they propose to furnish all the followers with a streamer, to fly along with the flag.

After pondering deeply over the matter, the Democratic leaders have come to the conclusion, late last night, to hold the proposed parade on the West side instead of in the down town business district, as originally intended. At a late hour the Democrats asked for, and obtained a permit for their West side parade, and it was granted by the chief of police. The last chance of trouble has now disappeared.

Bryan Spoke of Carlisle.

Peoria, Ills., Oct. 24.—The greatest reception of the day was accorded Mr. Bryan when he arrived in Peoria last evening. The streets were crowded, and he was given a continual ovation from the time he left the depot until he had started to speak. Three meetings were held here, one in the Tabernacle, another in Rouse's hall, to an audience made up exclusively of the trades' union men, and a third in the open air, on the court-house square. Thousands were unable to gain admittance to the hall, and thousands more were unable to get within sound of the speaker's voice at the open air meeting. It was 11 o'clock before Mr. Bryan finished his work, and he returned at once to his car. Speaking of the Covington incident, Mr. Bryan said: "I condemn the disturbance at Mr. Carlisle's meeting as much as any disturbance offered at any silver meeting. Let each individual remember that no disgrace can be heaped by him upon any other person. A man cannot be disgraced by another. The man disgraces himself when disgrace comes, and those who attempt to offer indignity to another, injure themselves far more than they do the object of their attack. I know that in this campaign there has been resentment by many, who, in the past, advocated our doctrine, but who now advocate another doctrine. I know that these changes have been made without sufficient reason or excuse being given to the public, but, my friends, leave these men to history, because history is just. If they have done wrong, they shall be punished. If they are right, we should not punish them." The Bryan train was taken out of Peoria at 11:30. Mr. Bryan made addresses at Springfield and several other places yesterday.

Visitors From Afar.

Canton, O., Oct. 24.—Major McKinley was visited by five delegations yesterday, and to everyone he spoke. They were from four states — Pennsylvania sent two; Indiana, one; Ohio, one, and Kansas the other. The first lot of callers was the Indiana company that arrived here before daylight. They waited at the hotels until 9:30 o'clock, when a formal call was made at the McKinley residence. The second party came from Kansas. This consisted of several hundred railway men. They had traveled 24 consecutive hours to reach this city, and arrived at the McKinley home unexpectedly. They were very cordially received, however. The third party of the day was about 100 from Pittsburg. They were residents of Pennsylvania. Following this party, Ohio sent a large party from Van Wert and contiguous territory. The next delegation was the largest of the day. It came from Armstrong county, Pennsylvania, and was made up largely of employes of iron, glass and tin mills. It was a very enthusiastic party. This delegation presented to Major McKinley a handsome mirror, the product of a glass factory of Armstrong county.

Still Chasing Sewall.

Nashville, Oct. 24.—Last night, to a packed house, Tom Watson defended Populism and the Populist party, making a strong speech, which met with a hearty reception from the 1500 people present. He was particularly bitter in places, and was as severe as words could be when speaking of Vice Presidential Candidate Sewall. He charged him with being a plutocrat, bond clipper, railroad king, and that he was running hand in hand with the gold bugs, and that his presence on the ticket was a menace to the election of Mr. Bryan. The speech was a stirring appeal for the support of his party, and has renewed the spirits of Populists here.

Watson's Grip Gone.

Atlanta, Oct. 24.—The sub-committee of the Populist state central committee, to which was entrusted the settlement of the fusion question, last night formally withdrew the Populist electoral ticket in Georgia. This is understood to be the result of a failure of negotiations between Chairman Jones and Committeeman Washburn in Chicago. The Populists will devote themselves to electing their congressional candidates, on which it is said they will, in several instances, have the assistance of the Republican vote. A large section of the Populist vote is sure to be cast for McKinley.

Big Crowd Heard Levering.

Louisville, Oct. 24.—Candidate Levering returned from his southern trip yesterday, and was accorded a hearty welcome to Louisville. His followers made quite a showing in the parade, which preceded a meeting at Music hall. The attendance at the latter place was a surprise to the Prohibition leader's friends. The hall is of moderate seating capacity, but it was well filled, and those present listened attentively to Mr. Levering's discussion of the political situation from a Prohibition standpoint, which was much the same as his previous addresses.

A Talk With Tom Watson.

Nashville, Oct. 24.—Tom Watson of Georgia, Populist Chairman Washburn and H. W. Reed, national Populist committeeman, of Georgia, met in this city yesterday, and had two long conferences. Washburn and Reed said fusion was the object of the conference, but what was accomplished, what agreements were made or agreed to, none of these prominent politicians would say.

Depending Upon Politics.

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 24.—The rubber factory of Spaulding & Peffer at Chicopee Falls has shut down indefinitely. The employes were yesterday informed that if McKinley is elected they may report at the factory for work the morning following; if Bryan is elected they will be notified when wanted.

Came Near Being Cremated.

Williamsport, Pa., Oct. 24.—The small frame house of Martin Morse, at Canton, was discovered on fire yesterday. The doors were fastened, and upon breaking them down, the neighbors found Mrs. Leroy, aged 90, alone, and chained to the walls. The chains were broken, and the frantic woman carried from the building as the roof fell in. Mrs. Leroy made her home with her daughter and son-in-law. The man was working in the field near by, and later the wife returned from a neighbor's house, after the building had been consumed. Mr. and Mrs. Morse say that the old lady is childish, and to keep her out of mischief, they chained her when they went away from home. The fire began on the top floor, and Mrs. Leroy was chained down stairs.

Got Off Easily.

Berlin, Oct. 24.—Lieutenant Von Bruisewitz has been sentenced by a court-martial to four years' imprisonment in a fortress, and to dismissal from the army. Lieutenant Von Bruesewitz ran a workingman through the back at Karlsruhe, for no other reason than that the man, in entering a cafe, had accidentally pushed the chair of the lieutenant, who demanded an instant apology, which was refused, on the ground that the workingman was unaware that he had given offense.

Catholic University Gets $150,000.

New Orleans, Oct. 24.—The will of Colonel Patrick O'Brien, an old citizen of New Orleans, who died last Saturday, was probated yesterday. He endows three chairs in the Catholic university allowing $50,000 for each chair.

Five Men Lost.

Helsingfors, Russia, Oct. 24.—The English steamer Moss Brow has foundered off Kallbodan lightship. The captain and four men are missing. The remainder of those on board were saved.

New Governor Appointed.

Berlin, Oct. 24.—Privy Councillor Hellewig has been appointed governor of East Africa, in place of Baron Von Wissmann.

WAS NOT LOOKED FOR.

Hon Charles F. Crisp Dies Suddenly In a Georgia Sanitarium.

Friends Had Expected His Ultimate Recovery.

By His Death Georgia Loses One of Her Foremost Statesmen.

Atlanta, Oct. 24.—Ex-Speaker Charles F. Crisp died here yesterday afternoon, of heart disease. He had been at a private sanitarium here for 60 days. A paroxysm of pain in the heart preceded death, the paroxysm probably resulting from a rupture of the heart, as the result of fatty degeneration.

Judge Crisp came to Atlanta six weeks ago for treatment. He was then suffering from a typical case of malarial fever, which had developed at his home in Americus. He spent June, July and a part of August in the mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee. His return to middle Georgia during the very hottest period of the summer developed the fever.

The end came at 1:45. Mr. Crisp has been an inmate of the sanitarium of Dr. J. B. S. Holmes, in this city, for several weeks. His condition had been reported as very low, but no fatal conclusion to his sickness had been expected so soon.

Mr. Crisp had been in intense pain all day. Every few minutes he would suffer greatly, but no danger was feared at such an early moment. His wife, together with a sanitarium nurse, were watching at his bedside. At about 1:45 o'clock Mr. Crisp was seized with an attack, and quite suddenly he passed into a death calm. The watchers saw it, and sent down stairs for Dr. Holmes, Judge Crisp's two daughters, Mrs. Fred Davenport and Miss Bertha Crisp, and his two sons, Charles F. Crisp, Jr., and Dr. Fred Crisp. When they entered the room Judge Crisp was still conscious. He gave them a look of recognition, breathed a few times and died. He could not speak. So quickly had the dread messenger come that the stricken family stood appalled in the death chamber.

Dr. J. B. S. Holmes, director of the Halcyon sanitarium, made the following statement of his sickness, and the manner of the end:

"Judge Crisp had been in ill-health for the past six or eight months. He had been suffering for two or three years with intense pains, coming at intervals in the chest. He had two attacks of pneumonia, one about four years ago, and the other about two years ago. On account of ill-health, he had to give up his joint debates, last summer with Hoke Smith. After the speeches in June, he went to Asheville, N. C., and spent some time there. From there he went to Tate Springs, and remained until about the middle of August, then going to his home in Americus. There he was taken with malaria fever. He came to Atlanta for treatment. He came here to the sanitarium on Sept. 16. I examined him carefully and found evidence of his previous attacks of pleuro-pneumonia. His fever yielded to the treatment, and 10 days ago he was considered convalescent. He was out driving several times last week, even as late as last Sabbath and was feeling unusually well on that day. Sunday night he was attacked with congestion of the lungs. He suffered intensely all day Monday, and Tuesday he was still in bed. He was better Wednesday. Yesterday he had a favorable day. The lung trouble yielded very satisfactorily to the treatment. Last night he was visited with very severe pains in the chest, that occurred at very short intervals. He continued to have these paroxysms until this afternoon, when he suddenly expired, probably from rupture of the heart, and the result of fatty degenera-tion."

EX-SPEAKER CRISP.

Dispatches received today from Washington state that Speaker Crisp's death was not altogether a surprise in political circles, as it had been known for some months that he had not long to live, and never again could be an active figure in public affairs. The speaker had several spells of sickness in Washington. He suffered from asthma, and later from heart trouble. His ill-health, however did not become a matter of public notoriety until the past spring, when he was compelled to abandon a series of joint debates, arranged with ex-Secretary Hoke Smith, by reason of the advice of his physicians that it would imperil his life for him to continue the debate which had attracted great state, as well as national interest, by reason of the fact that it involved the position of the Democratic party of the state on the silver question, as well as the senatorship from Georgia, for which the ex-speaker was an active candidate. The silver men won their fight, and Mr Crisp, had he lived, would have been the next senator from Georgia.

He was a forceful speaker, but a man of great tact, and possessed of other qualities that eminently fitted him for leadership in a parliamentary assemblage. His first prominence in national affairs came from the skill with which he led his party in several warm election contests. The prestige he then acquired led to his election to the speakership, after one of the most memorable canvasses in the history of the house. His chief opponent was Senator Roger Q Mills of Texas, whom he defeated after a struggle that was prolonged so that the house of representatives, contrary to custom, assembled on the open day with the question of its next speaker still in doubt.

As speaker, Mr. Crisp was fair, but firm. His rulings have been upheld, and though sometimes they were the subject of considerable criticism from his political opponents, he always commanded their respect and confidence.

He was a pronounced advocate of the free coinage of silver, and on one occasion his casting vote as speaker saved the defeat of a free coinage bill. On the other hand, it was largely due to his firmness in ruling that passed the Sherman silver al law through the house, his ruling defeating a formidable filibustering movement, led by Mr. Bland of Missouri, and others.

Charles F. Crisp was born in England in 1845, and came to this country when a child. His parents were actors, and so was young Crisp for a while. He served in the Confederate army, and afterward studied law and practiced for six years. He was made solicitor general, and afterward a judge of the supreme court, but gave up his judicial office to accept an election in the Georgia legislature. In 1883 he was elected to congress, and was a hard working member of that body for several years. While speaker of the house he declined the appointment as senator, to succeed Colquitt, because he thought he could be more use to his party where he was. He married Clara Bell Furton. Mr. and Mrs. Crisp had seven children, of whom four are living.

AFTER ELECTION

Business Men Are Expected to Start a Boom of Large Proportions.

New York, Oct. 24.—Bardstreet's says: General trade continues along conservative lines, buyers and sellers preferring to defer business until after election. Traders are more hopeful as to the outlook for business later in the year and next spring. The reaction in wheat prices, after an advance of 22 cents, is the natural result of a desire to realize profits, an advance in rates for money and enormously heavy receipts of wheat at primary markets caused by higher prices.

Comparatively small stocks of wheat in importing countries, a decrease in the world's total production of wheat for two years in succession, unexpected shortages in Russia, India, Argentina and Australia, and only an average crop in the United States, are interpreted to mean that the price of wheat will advance further.

Total exports of wheat (flour included as wheat) from both coasts of the United States and from Montreal this week, are heavier than in corresponding weeks in three preceding years. Exports of Indian corn continue heavy, amounting to 2,897,000 bushels for the week, 50 per cent more than last week, more than twice as much as in the week one year ago, 30 times as much as in the corresponding week of 1894, and three times as much as was sent abroad in the like week of 1893 and in 1892. Corn prices sympathize with wheat quotations, and the only other two prominent products, prices for which are lower, are apples and cotton seed oil.

The firm and practically unchanged prices for pork, lard, coffee, sugar, cotton, refined petroleum and copper indicate the strength of the general market, while advances are reported for wheat, flour and oats, for butter, cheese and eggs, and for canned vegetables and dried fruits, among food products; for wool, leather, print cloths, and for pig, tin and crude petroleum. Interest in iron and steel products lag, but prices are firm, buyers evidently preferring to pay more after Nov. 3 than now.

Mercantile collections continue as difficult to make as heretofore, except in a few larger cotton growing states, and in the spring wheat region, where rapid marketing of cotton and of wheat has rendered funds more plentiful. The outlook for the export trade is such that available vessel room has been engaged for months in advance, and freight rates continue upward.

Total bank clearings in the United States increased, amounting to $1,047,000,000 this week, about 5 per cent more than last week, but 10 per cent less than in the third week of October, 1895. The increase this week, as compared with the week in 1894, is 15 per cent, and as contrasted with 1893 it is 13 per cent.

There are 292 business failures reported throughout the United States this week, which is 13 more than last week, 33 more than in the corresponding week last year, and 71 more than in the like week of 1894, but 37 fewer than in the third week of October, 1893.

Ante-Nuptial Ceremonies.

Rome, Oct. 24.—The King and Queen of Italy, and the crown prince, surrounded by the court officials, held a solemn reception at the palace yesterday, to which all the ministers, the presidents of the chambers, and a large number of senators and deputies were invited. The presidents of the chambers presented their majesties with an address of congratulation upon the approaching marriage of the Prince of Naples to the Princess Helene of Montenegro. King Humbert, in replying, dwelled upon the two dynasties, alike, he said, in valors at arms, love of the fatherland and in generous efforts to elevate the people. His majesty added that the Prince of Naples, in his choice of a wife belonging to a race of brave defenders of their nation and independence, believed that in his heart the names of the two houses were synonymous of liberty and independence.

The Economic Side.

"O wad some Pow'r the giftie gie us
To see oursels as others see us!
It wad frae monie a blunder free us
And foolish notion:"—

So sang the bonnie Scottish bard and so say we all. And our desire is in part gratified as a city by the following editorial clipped from one of the Boston papers:

Quincy under prohibition has prospered as Quincy under rum rule never did. Her population and valuation have increased to a marked degree, pauperism has been very largely diminished, temptation in one of its most alluring forms has been removed from the young man's daily path, and the community has been orderly and law abiding.

The editorial is the more significant because it places the emphasis on the economic side of the temperance question. The no-license issue is again before the city, and in a few weeks we decide the municipal policy in respect to the saloon for the coming year. Whatever the weight of its moral principles involved the Quincy voters should at least be a unit in respect to our economic prosperity.

Death of School Teacher.

A year ago Miss Rosamond A. Boynton was a member of the training school and had rooms with Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Fisher of Summer street. She was unable to continue her studies and returned to her home in West Boylston. The sad news reached town this week of her death on Thursday Oct. 15, after long suffering. Through it all she was hopeful and cheerful, showing great fortitude and courage. In health she brought sunshine and happiness wherever she went. The funeral occurred on Sunday afternoon. Rev. A. C. Hussey officiated and paid a worthy tribute to the deceased. There were selections by a quartette. The floral gifts were numerous.

Shopmates March.

The funeral of the late James Collins was held this morning from St. John's church, the services being very largely attended. Requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. F. A. Cunningham. The interment was at St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy, the bearers being Mr. Michael Burns, Mr. Timothy Deasy, Mr. Peter McConarty, Mr. Michael O'Hara, Mr. John Lyons and Mr. Michael Daley.

The men from Graham shop marche in a body.

There was a profusion of floral tributes including a standing cross marked "Husband-Father;" a wreath of roses on a mound, marked "Uncle;" a handsome cross encircled with a broken wreath, marked "Shopmate, from the fellow workmen of the deceased, with some of whom he had worked almost 30 years uninterruptedly; a crescent of beautiful roses from the staff of the Quincy Advertiser; a large and handsome wreath of beautiful roses from Misses Mary and Margaret Foley; wreath from newspaper reporters of Quincy.

A BETTER START.

Quincy Bottle Pin League Team A Winner.

Five of the Seven Visiting Teams Were Victorious.

A Good Showing Expected From the Quincy Boys.

The bottle pin league inaugurated its games last evening and the Quincy club made a much better start than in the candle pin league. Not only a victory but a better score than many of the other clubs in the league. It was a great night for visiting teams, as five of the seven won, as the summary above shows. The Quincys have put up many better scores than the one last night and when they catch on to the new frame they will make other clubs hustle.

Quincys, 2097; Jamesons, 2071.

The Quincy big pin team visited Somerville last evening and played the Jamesons, and it took only a small score to do them. Quincy lost the first string, and was behind at the conclusion of the second, but they won on the third, as the candle pin boys lost on the third.

Peverly was not in his usual good trim, or else he has not caught on to the new arrangement of pins, his first string being very low. On the totals he was way behind Lennon and Wheeler, the latter being high man.

There was considerable luck in the victory as the Jamesons put up a small score. The summary:

65 DELEGATES.

Democrats Also Will Have Larger Municipal Convention.

The Democratic City Committee met Friday evening at which time it was decided that the basis of representation to the municipal convention shall be one at large from the city, and one at large from each ward, and one for every 20 votes and majority fraction thereof cast for Governor in 1894, the Congressional year.

It was the desire of the committee to have as large a convention as possible, and figured out on this basis the number of delegates will be 65, as follows:

	Vote. 1894.	Delegates. 1896.	Delegates. 1895.
Ward One,	167	9	8
Ward Two,	177	10	8
Ward Three,	218	12	10
Ward Four,	355	19	15
Ward Five,	84	5	4
Ward Six,	160	9	7
At large,		1	1
	1161	65	53

The basis of representation in 1895 was also upon the vote for Governor of 1894 and was one at large from the city, one at large from each ward, and one from every 25 or majority fraction thereof.

Collisions.

Yesterday the double express of Mr. Brown of East Braintree, while standing backed up at Drinkwater's shop, was struck by a Braintree and Weymouth electric. One horse was horribly mutilated; the other less so. Dr. Abele advised the destruction of the one. The driver was considerably injured, how much is not now known.

The same day one of the three horse Standard oil tank wagons was struck in Weymouth, one pole was smashed and one horse somewhat scratched up. No serious damage.

THE SPORTING WORLD.

It is a question whether the scorcher is not condemned more for his shape than for his killing and maiming. Editors and preachers continually point to the bowed back as the chief evil of cycling. The "bicycle spine" is made a subject of ridicule in prose, poetry and song.

Yet it may be doubted whether a great many riders, who sit reasonably straight compared with the typical scorcher, do not fall into a graver error as regards position than that of the doubled up rider who humps himself through the country regardless of life and limb, rules and regulations. This error consists of resting the weight of the upper part of the body on the handle bars with the arms straight, in which position the back is not necessarily crooked, as the rider leans forward from the hips, but the shoulders are thrown upward and backward far from their natural position, the neck is craned awkwardly forward, and the body muscles are kept in a state of tension. In this attitude it is impossible to breath naturally, and when it becomes a fixed habit with those who ride a great deal the resulting deformity interferes with proper breathing at all times, whether the victim is on or off the wheel.

A great deal of pernicious advice about resting a portion of the weight on the arms when riding has been studiously circulated by a certain class of newspaper writers who don't know any better, and this, perhaps, is partially responsible for the wide prevalence of the error. At any rate, there are scores of wheelmen who are injuring themselves in this way.—American Cyclist.

Old Time Baseball.

The first game of baseball played by any college nine after townball had developed into the modern baseball was played at Princeton in the fall of 1858. The first college nine was formed in 1859 and was composed of sophomores and freshmen. The games were confined entirely to the classes, boarding clubs and halls until the fall of 1860, when a visit was made to Orange. The first out of town game resulted in a tie. After that the college nine played with the Atlantic and Excelsior clubs of Brooklyn, the Athletics of Philadelphia and the Eurekas of Newark. As none of the other colleges had a team at this time, intercollegiate games were impossible. The first game with Yale was played at Princeton May 4, 1867, and ended in a victory for Princeton by a score of 58 to 52. The return game at New Haven, June 27, resulted in a victory for Princeton by a score of 19 to 18.—New York Sun.

Lorillard's English Farm.

The big farm Pierre Lorillard has bought near Newmarket, England, is called Hare Park. He is constructing a track there on which to exercise and speed his horses. Lord William Beresford, who is called the business manager, shares the expense and will work his few horses there. Lorillard has only nine horses there at present, but will send most of his stud when the season closes in the care of Trainer Huggins, an American. Harry McCalmont, the chief landlord at Newmarket, maintains a steeple chase track there, and there are three regular tracks there besides McCalmont's.—Exchange.

Bass Fishing In New York Bay.

"The striped bass fishing," says an angler, "is steadily improving in New York bay, and many fish are caught every day in the Kill von Kull and Staten Island sound. They are catching bass weighing from half a pound to two pounds each at Elizabethport, Chelsea and Boynton Beach, and from Bedloe's island and along the Bayonne shore fish weighing from 1 to 15 pounds are taken by trolling with a small spoon baited with white worms. Some fair fishing is found in the East river at Hell Gate and at Coney Island, off the beach.

Against Sacrifice Hits.

It is said that Manager Selee of the Boston Baseball club is in favor of legislating against sacrifice hitting by making it a time at bat. The story lacks verification, however. Sacrifice hitting is one of the most important features of a game where one run is needed to win or tie the score, and it should be encouraged by the baseball magnates. Not every player can sacrifice successfully, but those who can and will should not be punished in any way for trying it.

Kangaroo Chasing In America.

The exciting Australian sport of chasing the kangaroo is to be introduced at San Rafael, Cal., by the proprietor of a society hotel. A young kangaroo has been secured, which will be turned loose and chased over the country until captured. A pack of 25 hounds is being trained for the hunt, which is to take place some time this month. The same rules governing fox hunts in England will obtain.

Why Smith Did Not Win.

Paddy Smith, the lightweight brother of Denver Ed, in speaking of his last fight in Cincinnati in March, when Billy Murphy beat him in a ten round tourney, said that he smashed his hand badly early in the contest, and that was the reason he did not win. He did not want to quit, and so he stood up against Murphy to prove that he could take the medicine.

Sporting Notes.

The Country club of West Chester, N. Y., will hold its first public golf tournament on Oct. 22, 23 and 24.

John Gorman is said to be going down the pugilistic toboggan slide. He is not so clever as he was four years ago.

George Lavinge and Sam Fitzpatrick are now at Oceanic, N. J., a place that has become a famous training resort for boxers.

Miss Jennings and Brightlight are the fastest green pacers of the year. Brightlight should reduce her record before the season closes. Miss Jennings is reported laid up for the winter.

SHED AND QUARRY.

Considerable Work in Quincy Though Times are Dull.

Joss Bros. & Co. have a large number of orders on hand and are quite busy, as all their orders are marked "rush." They are shipping considerable this mouth.

F. Craig & Co. are shipping considerable finished work this month and are booking a number of orders, among which are three ball jobs, a column die sarcophagus and a spire job all of dark Quincy granite.

Fuller, Foley & Co. report that business seems to be looking up a little and they have now more orders on hand than at any one time this year. Among their new orders is an all polished sarcophagus of dark Quincy granite the base of which is 8x4-6.

A number of the employes of S. Henry Barnicoat and a number of the granite manufacturers called upon Mr. Barnicoat Tuesday evening to congratulate him upon the return from his trip abroad. Before the party left they presented him with a handsome dinner set.

McIntosh & Son are cutting a large tomb job and a good sized square job, both of Quincy granite for western parties.

Birnie & Diack report new orders coming in fairly well, but the new orders are mostly for small sized work. They are giving employment to eighteen cutters.

Biganess, LeClair & Co. do not see any change in business for the better and do not expect any until after the Presidential election, when if the right man is elected they expect business to improve.

The Granite Railway Co. is rushing work on its contract for the Providence Institution of Savings.

The Merry Mount Granite Co. is cutting a fourteen foot monument of dark Quincy granite, the base of which is 6x6. They are also furnishing the rough stock for Sheppard & Son's sea wall at Quincy Point.

McDonnell & Sons have contracts for three statue jobs for western parties.

Swingle & Falconer report that business is good with them and is constantly on the increase.

The granite shipments for the month of September were: Quincy Adams, 3,936,430 pounds; West Quincy, 6,936,430 pounds, and Quincy Quarry railroad, 29,272,450 pounds.

W. T. Spargo & Co. are employing 24 men and report business as fairly good.

Field & Wild report having considerable work on hand but it is all for ordinary work.

The Blue Hill Granite Co. report having quite a number of orders on hand for stock for local dealers.

James F. Desmond reports business a little quiet just at present but he is looking for better business with the new national administration.

A. M. Dean & Co. say that they manage to get orders enough to keep their gang at work, although business is a little quiet.

The Lion of the Fair.

The lion of the World's Food Fair is the baby-lion but he doesn't realize it. He is seven weeks old and weighs perhaps as many pounds. People take him in their arms and stroke what little whiskers he has in sight, rub his head, and even run their fingers, with much apparent unconcern, into his mouth. He doesn't mind it. In fact, he seems afraid of human beings; and, put on the floor, will crawl into any convenient corner. But, bless you, he has the making of a big, savage beast in his lith body, cat-like head, dull, treacherous eyes, and powerful jaws. Dr. Livingstone in his travels speaks of being sprung upon and knocked down by a huge, African lion, who, lying on his prone body, commenced to crunch one of the doctor's arms. But the brave Christian traveller wrote that he was paralyzed with fear that he felt no pain. These people at the Food Fair, even children, fondle this embryo lion without any fear, though of course the only thing he would chew is a piece of raw beef. At this juncture, keep your fingers at a respectful distance. He then is as savage, and even more dangerous than his parents, for they have some sense. He is too young to have any. But it is a greater thing to say that you have held a lion in your arms than to say he has held you in his. And this privilege is universal at the fair.

Sleep

Induced by the use of coca, opiate or narcotic compounds is bad, decidedly bad. They undermine health and shatter the constitution and the patient is steadily growing into a worse condition—often resulting in the terrible slavery and misery of the cocaine and opium habit. Sleep induced by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla does not perhaps come as quickly, but it comes more surely and more permanently through nature's great restoring and rejuvenating channel—purified, vitalized and enriched blood. This feeds the nerves with life-giving energy and builds up the system and constitution from the very foundation of all health and life—the blood—pure, rich, red blood.

YOUTHS' DEPARTMENT.

The Donkey of Carisbrooke Well—The Fashion In Dolls—Indians In the United States.

A little knot of people slowly gathered outside the wooden door of the tiny stone hut, patiently awaiting their turn to enter. Despite rain and the discomfort of standing in a puddle under dripping umbrellas, we were as eager as Dotty to see "the wheels go round." Presently we heard a bolt draw back, the solid old door creaked open on its hinges, and we walked into a one roomed cabin. Almost at the back, in the middle, was the old well. In appearance it resembled most other wells, being merely a dark hole surrounded by a stone guard, around which had been placed a two stepped wooden platform. Over the well was the usual arrangement of ropes and a bucket. When the keeper, or showman rather, had carefully locked the door again, he mounted the steps and began in a slow, monotonous voice:

"This well is 700 years old. It is almost 200 feet deep—175 feet down and 25 feet of water. It has never been known to go dry. It would take a man too long to wind the bucket up, so we have it done this way. Come, 'Jacob!'" We turned in the direction in which the showman had called and saw that a huge wooden wheel, about 25 feet in diameter, had been put alongside the well and arranged in such a manner that its axle formed the beam around which the bucket rope was coiled. The wheel and a tiny space to the left were partitioned off by a low railing, and in this inclosure stood a small but wise looking donkey. He had a very large head, enormous ears and a fat, round, little body. While keeping one eye on the showman he playfully thrust his head over the rail, and with his teeth seized an apple from the hand of an unwary countryman who was gazing at the hanging rope. However, on hearing the words "Come, Jacob!" his donkeyship immediately dropped the apple, assumed a businesslike air, and entering the wheel began to trot. The wheel revolved fairly rapidly and looked much like that in a squirrel's cage on a large scale. When Jacob thought it about time for the bucket to come up, he stopped and glanced round to see how much rope had been wound up and then continued his trotting. After doing this two or three times he finally gave an extra spurt, and upon seeing the bucket appear jumped out of the wheel before the man had time to call to him.

Jacob stood quietly by, panting a little and gazing with interest at us to see if we properly appreciated his feat. We each were offered a glass of the clear, sparkling water, and then a lighted candle placed in a stand was lowered to enable us, by looking over the curb, to judge the depth of the well. The exhibition being now over, we were ushered out by a door opposite the one through which we had entered, and the next batch of sightseers was admitted at the same time.

Carisbrooke castle stands on the highest point of the isle of Wight, and thus it naturally came to be looked upon by the inhabitants of neighboring villages as the only refuge when a foreign enemy used that beautiful island as a stepping stone to England, says St. Nicholas, in which occurs this little account of the donkey of Carisbrooke castle.

The Fashion In Dolls.

Little girls who still play with their dolls may be interested to know what sets the fashion in dolls' eyes. A writer in the New York Times tells that when Victoria became queen of England, more than 50 years ago, she was fair and young, with very blue eyes, whereupon blue eyes became all the fashion, and all the loyal dollmakers of her kingdom began sending blue eyed dolls from their factories. In Italy and Spain, where all the great beauties have olive skin and dark, handsome eyes, a blond doll is quite uncommon. Japanese dolls have twinkling, beady eyes, set in their heads aslant, while the gayly dressed dolly from Singapore looks from her copper colored face with a pair of narrow, coquettish, black eyes, quite different in expression from either the Spanish or Chinese beauties.

A Kind Monkey.

There was not long ago a terrible explosion of dynamite at Johannesburg, in South Africa, which shattered many houses and killed several persons. In the only room that had escaped damage in a cottage there were found two babies—one, alas, dead, the other alive in the arms of a baboon that was nursing it with great care. The poor baby was adopted by a neighbor, and the kindly monkey came into the possession of an Englishman, who shortly afterward returned to England. He took the baboon with him, and on board the steamer that brought them both home the monkey was particularly noted for its fondness for children and became one of the most popular passengers in the ship.

Indians In the United States.

It will surprise young people who think that Indians are practically banished from the face of the earth, or at least from this country, to know that there are still in the United States about 250,000 of them. The New York Times tell that in the Indian Territory, which is rightly named, at least 75,000 of these, or more than a quarter of them all, live and the most of the rest roam in their reservations, and out of them when they feel like it, in the other territories.

Gathering the Apples.

"No; apples don't go!" said the sunbeams
As Nina stood shaking the tree.
"When we've painted your cheeks with vermilion,
A marvel of beauty you'll be."
Then down peeped the apples and tittered:
"Wait. We're doing our toilet, you see."

How they toiled, those golden browed artists,
Each color mixed well with the dew,
Till the apples peeped down in their beauty,
A rosy cheeked, rollicking crew,
While the wind sang, high in the tree top,
"Sweet Nina, they're ready for you."

The Railroad Commissioners will give a hearing at 10 o'clock, Monday, October 26, at No. 20 Beacon street, Boston, to the citizens of East Braintree, who are asking for better railroad accommodation for that village.

The concert and entertainment given by Miss Ida A. Stetson, at the South Congregational chapel last Wednesday evening was a decided success. There were twelve numbers on the programme, and the occasion was much enjoyed by a good-sized audience.

The meeting Wednesday night was well attended, although a few of the members were obliged to go elsewhere. Several new names were added to the list and a number of selections were rehearsed. There seems to be a tendency on the part of some to come in late and it is urged that members be on hand promptly so that the work of the evening may be taken up at 7.45 sharp. There is much to be done before a concert can be given and it is hoped that every one will make a special effort to be prompt next week. The meeting is to be Monday night.

Thursday night the following named gentlemen from Monatiquot Lodge, K. of P., visited the lodge in Campello. H. B. Vinton, H. A. Vinton, M. A. Minchin, George Holbrook, W. C. Edson, Charles Minchin, C. H. Clapp, L. O. Crocker, A. J. Shaw, Allen Penniman, Charles Miller and Frank Roberts. Thayer's barge carried the party; returning about two o'clock Friday morning. The party was handsomely entertained by the Brockton people, and they witnessed some excellent lodge work.

The first social gathering of Mr. Barbour's Sunday School class and friends took place at Mr. Barbour's residence, at the corner of Washington and Maple streets, Tuesday night. There were about forty young people present who enjoyed every moment.

Messrs. Stevens & Willis have enlarged their works, are putting in a new office, increasing the packing and shipping facilities and putting in new machinery.

—The sewerage commissioners of Brockton are well pleased with the result of their experiment at crop raising at the disposal fields. There has been a ready market for all the produce they had, and the dealers assert that the sweet corn from the fields was the best that they could get anywhere. The experiment will be tried on a larger scale next season.

NATIONAL DEMOCRATS

Come Out Strong Not Only For

PALMER AND BUCKNER,

But Also For

PRINCE AND McCONNELL

And a Full State Ticket.

For Governor, Frederick O. Prince of Boston — For Lieutenant Governor, James E. McConnell of Fitchburg—For Secretary of State, Waldo Lincoln of Worcester — For Treasurer and Receiver General, Horace P. Tobey of Wareham — For Auditor, Charles C. Spellman of Springfield—For Attorney General, Henry F. Hurlburt of Lynn.

When Secretary John C. Lane presented at the office of the secretary of state on Friday, Oct. 9, the splendid set of nomination papers for the National Democratic party, or as they had to be called, to conform to the requirements of the statutes, the "Democratic National" nominees, the papers contained, in addition to the formidable list of electors pledged to vote for Palmer and Buckner, the names of the very eminent citizens selected as candidates for state officers to represent the true and real democracy in this trying hour, when one of the essential principles of democracy, on a gold basis, is opposed by new and false doctrine maintained by a misled faction. If this faction should by any accident succeed, its success would not only destroy the Democratic party but seriously impair the national credit.

Sound Money

The list of candidates for electors has already been published. The list of National Democratic candidates for state officers, with brief sketches of their several careers, follows. This list is headed by Frederick O. Prince of Boston, the candidate for governor. He is one of Boston's favorite and most favored sons. He has been several years mayor, and was, in 1885, the Democratic candidate for governor of the commonwealth.

Frederick Octavius Prince

was born in Boston on the 18th day of January, 1818. His father was a State street merchant, and his grandfather United States marshal during the administrations of Jefferson, Madison and Munroe. Jeffersonian Democracy runs naturally in the Prince family.

He entered the Boston Latin school in 1827, graduating from it with all the honors when 14, at once entered Harvard, from which he graduated in 1836, being then 18. He studied law with Franklin Dexter and William H. Gardner, and in 1840 was admitted to the Suffolk bar. In 1848 he married Miss Helen Henry of Philadelphia, daughter of Bernard Henry, who had been United States consul at Gibralter ever since the war of 1812.

Mr. Prince, when 30 years old, established his residence in Winchester, which sent him to represent her in the legislature of 1851, and the two succeeding years, and also in the constitutional convention in 1853. In 1854 he was elected to the state senate. Up to that time he had been a Whig, but when that party finally broke up, in or before the campaign of 1860, Mr. Prince followed his inclinations and associations. He went into the Democratic party, and was a delegate to the memorable Charleston convention, and, when the split came, he went with the majority to Baltimore, where Stephen A. Douglass was nominated for president. Before that convention adjourned, he was unanimously elected secretary of the national Democratic committee, which place he filled until 1888. The secretary of the national committee is practically the executive officer of the party, and upon Mr. Prince devolved the duty of organizing every Democratic convention from the date of his affiliation with the party. He organized the convention at Chicago in 1864, the one at New York in 1868, that at Baltimore in 1872, the one at St. Louis in 1876, in Cincinnati in 1880, in Chicago in 1884, and in St. Louis in 1888.

It was in December, 1876, that Mr. Prince was put up as mayor of Boston. He had not held any city office, but such was his personal popularity, and such the confidence felt in him as a man of business that he was elected by a majority of 5000 votes over the Republican candidate, Nat. Bradlee. There was even in those days a cry from the taxpayers for economy in municipal affairs. Mayor Prince, during the first year of his administration, secured a reduction of over $500,000 in the tax levy, while the real estate valuation was also reduced nearly $50,000,000. But this was a year when many great projects were begun; improved sewerage for example, the Back Bay park and the new high school building, improvements which surpassed anything of the kind hitherto attempted in America. In the following year Mr. Prince failed of a re-election, but at the next election he was chosen again, and re-elected for the two succeeding terms. It was during this term that the 250th anniversary of the settlement of Boston was celebrated with great display, Sept. 17, 1880, and he was selected by the city government to deliver the address.

Mr. Prince has not been in office since that time, though in 1883, while in Europe, he was nominated for lieutenant governor by the Democratic convention. Mr. Prince declined this nomination. In 1885 he was the Democratic candidate for governor. He has been a trustee of the public library for eight years, vice president for five years, and is now president of the board of trustees.

That Mayor Prince enjoys the respect and confidence of all classes of our citizens is shown by the attention given to his utterances whenever he appears upon the platform. His address as permanent chairman of the convention at Horticultural hall, Aug. 25, was a masterly effort.

the candidate for lieutenant governor, is about 30 years old.

He is a native of North Adams, and in the schools of that town his primary education was received. He prepared for college at Drury academy, entered Holy Cross college, Worcester, and after a term of three years was graduated in the class of 1886. Having determined on the legal profession for his life work, he pursued a course of study in Boston university school of law, spending two years in that institution. After graduating he went to New York, and in the office of one of the leading law firms of that city further perfected himself in the requirements of his profession. He came to Fitchburg in 1888, immediately engaged in practice, and has identified himself with matters of public interest. In politics he has always been a Democrat and has done valuable service in behalf of his party. He has served on the school committee for a term of five years, and is now the chairman. His personal popularity was made apparent when, unsought by himself, he was elected to the captaincy of company D, Sixth regiment, M. V. M.

Captain McConnell has an established and still growing practice, both civil and criminal, and by his fellow members in the profession, as well as by the public generally, he is recognized as one of the leading attorneys of the state.

Waldo Lincoln

of Worcester, candidate for secretary of state, is a native of the heart of the commonwealth, where he was born in 1849, and where he has lived ever since, with the exception of two years spent traveling in Europe. He comes of the old Lincoln stock, which has always been prominently identified with the growth of Worcester, being a grandson of General Levi Lincoln. He received his early education in the schools of Worcester, and graduated from Harvard college in the same class with Governor Wolcott in 1870. After leaving college he engaged in business in Worcester as a member of the firm of W. E. Cutter & Co., manufacturers of chemicals. He was also prominently identified with other big concerns, and served on the board of directors of several of the banks and railroads centering in that city. He retired from active business in 1893, and spent the next two years in Europe.

He has always been a Democrat, and has several years held a high place in the party councils in this state, but he has never held any political office. He was a candidate for national elector on the Democratic ticket in this state in 1884 and was a delegate to the convention of the National Democracy at Indianapolis.

Horace P. Tobey

of Wareham, who has been placed in nomination for the office of treasurer of the commonwealth, is very well known to the Democracy of this state. He has long been identified with the manufacturing interests of New England as treasurer of the Tremont Nail company and director in other manufacturing and financial institutions.

He graduated from Harvard college in 1858, and has preserved through life the habits of close observation and the literary tastes there acquired. He became prominent through his advocacy of tariff and other reforms, and especially though his denunciation, strongly fortified with statistics, of all laws which cripple manufacturing in the coast states by excluding foreign coal and crude and semi-crude material for manufacture.

He is a life-long Jeffersonian Democrat, proud of the past history of his party, and zealous in the maintainance of its principles in their purity. He has never held nor sought political office.

Charles C. Spellman,

of Springfield, candidate for auditor, was born in Hampden, or as it was then called, South Wilbraham, on December 3, 1843. He attended the public schools of his native town and the Monson academy. After his course in Monson he fitted for college at Williston seminary in East Hampton; graduating from Yale college, he studied law with the late E. D. Beach of the Harvard law school, and finished with ex-Mayor Charles E. Winchester. He was admitted to the bar in 1870 and at once taken into partnership by Mr. Winchester, who was then mayor of Springfield. This partnership was continued but a little while, as the following year Mr. Spellman was appointed clerk of the police court, at the time when that office was established in Springfield. He filled the place with credit until February, 1884, when he resigned and formed a law partnership with Mayor E. B. Maynard. He was nominated for the Legislature by his party in the strongest Republican district in the state a few years ago and was elected by a handsome majority. It was the first time he ever ran for office.

Henry F. Hurlburt,

candidate for attorney general, is considered one of the ablest, brightest, and most successful young lawyers practicing at the Essex county bar. He was born in Boston 42 years ago. When seven years of age his parents removed to Hudson, where he received his early education in the public schools. In November, 1877, Mr. Hurlburt moved to Lynn, where he has since lived. In 1883, he was nominated and elected district attorney for Essex county on the Democratic ticket and was re-elected the following year. He has been a member of the Lynn board of health, and has been identified with many popular movements, and is one of Lynn's most substantial citizens. Mr. Hurlburt was the Democratic candidate last year for attorney general.

This ticket taken as a whole ought to receive the votes of the true Democracy of Massachusetts and there is no doubt that it will prove a powerful factor in sustaining the credit of the grand old commonwealth in this crisis.

Eternity.

Because the rose must fade,
Shall I not love the rose?
Because the summer shade
Passes when winter blows,
Shall I not rest me there
In the cool air?

Because the sunset sky
Makes music in my soul,
Only to fail and die,
Shall I not take the whole
Of beauty that it gives
While yet it lives?

Because the sweet of youth
Doth vanish all too soon,
Shall I forget, forsooth,
To learn its lingering tune,
My joy to memorize
In those young eyes?

If like the summer flower
That blooms, a fragrant death,
Keen music hath no power
To live beyond its breath,
Then of this flood of song
Let me drink long.

Ah, yes, because the rose
Fades, and the summer skies
Darken, and winter blows
All bare, and music dies,
Therefore now is to me
Eternity.

The Call.

"Come," said a voice to a poet as he sought an elusive rhyme,
One night when the world was sleeping, in the heart of the sweet May time.
"Oh, how can I come?" he answered. "Let me alone, I pray,
For the verse which I now am weaving the hearts of men will sway."

"Come," said the voice to a statesman as he stood in the senate hall,
And men moved on at his bidding like troops at a bugle call.
"How can I come?" he answered. "My sun at its zenith stands.
Before it sets forever my name shall be known in the lands."

"Come," said the voice to a mother, with her children at her knee,
Dreaming how safe and happy their life by her side should be.
"Oh, I cannot come," she answered. "I pray you, let me stay,
For how can I leave my darlings to wander far away?"

No other word was spoken, but the poet left his pen;
The statesman's name was heard no more upon the lips of men,
And the children found no mother, though they called with sobbing breath,
For the voice which spoke all must obey—it was the voice of Death!

Death comes in the guise of consumption more frequently than in any other form. Fully one-sixth of all the deaths in the world are attributable directly to this one disease.

The symptoms of coming consumption are many and varied. The man who neglects them is trifling with his life. He is playing an unequal game with death. He is fencing with a superior adversary.

The downhill road from health runs directly to consumption. Consumption is the disease of weakness. A debilitated condition, from whatever cause, leaves a broad road for the beginning of this disease. Its name tells its story. It means not only consumption of the lungs, but consumption of the whole body.

Loss of appetite, loss of sleep, loss of nerve force, loss of flesh—these are forerunners and indications of consumption. The tearing down of the bodily tissues should be met by a building-up process. An unusual bodily state exists, and it must be met with unusual measures. The unhealthy body needs medicine, just as surely as the healthy body does not.

The body that is starting towards consumption needs Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It will cure ninety-eight per cent. of all cases of consumption. It is an infallible blood maker and flesh builder. It stimulates digestion, invigorates the nerves, makes the brain clear and the body strong. It is not a new and untried experiment. It has been curing people for thirty years, and thousands have testified to the wonderful help it has given them.

WARNING TO THE PEOPLE.

How Fall Weather Affects the Vital Organs.

Without Constant Care Health is Impossible.

You catch cold.

Why?

Because your system lacks nourishment.

It is not strong enough to resist the changing weather.

The digestion is poor.

The bowels are clogged.

The blood flows sluggishly through the veins.

The action of the vital organs is feeble.

The system is unhealthy,

And you catch cold.

That is why a cold is called a filth disease.

Perfect health means perfect cleanliness, especially inside.

Colds can be prevented by keeping the stomach right.

The digestion right.

The blood right.

The health right.

Puritana will do this and more. It has a healing and purifying effect on the whole mucous track. The stomach and bowels are corrected and given new vigor by Puritana.

The liver and kidneys are stirred up to do their work.

These organs are made to work right.

When they work right they purify the blood.

The dyspeptic is subject to colds.

The man with a strong stomach is not hurt unless a house falls on him.

What do colds do?

The answers are many.

They introduce consumption.

Also pneumonia.

And death in many forms.

At this time of year they are especially liable to affect the stomach and bowels.

That's strange.

They start from poor digestion.

They make the digestion worse.

Cramps come.

And strange stomach disorders.

All are dangerous.

All can be avoided.

Common sense shows how.

Puritana is nature's remedy for the stomach.

So Puritana renews, through the stomach, the whole system.

Another word about Puritana.

It is a vegetable mixture.

The prize formula of Professor Dixi Crosby of Dartmouth medical college. It contains no poisons, no opiates, no narcotics.

No opium, for instance.

A child can be trusted to use it. It can be safely put in general use.

Is it still effective?

Ask the people.

Its history is marked by success after success.

A DEALER IN BEEF.

W. H. Bezanson Has Learned by Experience.

The manager of the Chicago Beef company, W. H. Bezanson, who is located at 88 Blackstone street, Boston, is one of the best known men in the market district. He says:

"My wife has for many years been a very sick woman, suffering from numerous troubles of the stomach. She lost her appetite entirely, had no energy, was so weak and used up as to be totally unfit for exertion of any kind. She was at all times so easily excited that this led to a species of trembling, which promised serious results. I tried doctors without end, but to no effect, and we were both utterly discouraged. Some time last spring I bought my first bottle of Puritana, and my wife used it. A change was noticeable almost from the first using of Puritana, and it alone has put her on her feet again. Puritana has done what everything else failed to do, and I regard my wife's cure as very remarkable."

(Signed) W. H. BEZANSON.

Mr. Bezanson is not more enthusiastic than George F. Dunning of Faneuil market, whose life was saved by Puritana. Every patient tells a story of success and cure. Puritana is the prize formula of Dr. Dixi Crosby of Dartmouth college. It makes the stomach right. That's why it makes the health right.

TRACED FROM GREECE.

Murderer From That Country Run Down at Providence.

Avengers Had Followed Him to America's Shore.

May Go Back to Native Land to Answer For His Crime.

Providence, Oct. 24.—George Veris, a Greek hot chestnut peddler, was placed under arrest by Detective Parker on the street in this city yesterday afternoon, after being pointed out by another Greek and accused of killing one Diamantres Demisamtopwlos, near Sparta, Greece, in March, 1895. The story which was related at the police station through the medium of William Hoopies, an interpreter, relating to this crime is of unusual interest. It was said that the elder Veris, father to the man under arrest, and the man who was killed, got into a dispute over the right of crossing a tract of land which was adjacent to farms in Sparta, where they lived. Each man owned his farm, which were at some distance from the highway. One day the dispute brought on a fistic battle, which afterward caused both men to draw their knives, with the intention of killing each other. The elder Veris called on his son, George, for assistance, and the latter is alleged to have drawn his knife and stabbed Demisamtopwlos in the abdomen. Before the fight was ended, Demisamtopwlos was stabbed six times, and died a few minutes later.

George Veris took his savings and left home, but his father was tried for murder, and sentenced to seven years' in prison, and a fine of 3000 drachmas. The son went to Athens, and later shipped from port to port in southern Europe, finally reaching Boston, where he staid two months. His cousin in that city warned him that it was not a safe place to stay, as a brother and a cousin of the murdered man also resided there. Veris went to Springfield, where he was afterward traced by the murdered man's relatives. Veris worked on a sewer all summer. Three weeks ago he came to this city, and was quickly identified by those on his track. When the cousin of the murdered man pointed Veris out to Detective Parker, Veris rushed at him with his open chestnut knife, with an apparent intention of wounding him, but Mr. Parker wrenched the knife away. Veris, at the police station, admitted his guilt, and said he wounded Demisamtopwlos to save his own life. He expressed a willingness to return to Greece, but later, to the interpreter, asked for assistance to escape. Veris will be held, to await the instructions of the Greek consul.

Against Biennials.

Boston, Oct. 24.—A meeting was held in Faneuil hall last night, to protest against the adoption of the biennial election amendment, which the people are to vote upon Nov. 3. Ex-Governor Boutwell said that the opponents of annual elections say that business interests are interfered with by annual elections. Business interests were of secondary importance, however, when the rights of the people to make their voice heard frequently in elections were in jeopardy. Rev. Edward Everett Hale said that in Massachusetts the people make the constitution, and the people govern the state. In the other states where the governors are elected for four years, the governor is the ruler, and not the people. George E. McNeil said that the petition for biennial elections did not come from the people, it came from the dudes of society, who were looking out for their own interests. Gamaliel Bradford said that no other state had been distinctly benefitted, either in legislation or administration, by the change. But there is evidence, he said, that many states have suffered from the change. Resolutions condemning the proposed amendment were adopted.

Sent to State Prison.

Boston, Oct. 24.—Judge Gaskell, in the superior criminal court yesterday, sentenced J. L. Moore, ex-treasurer of the Globe Investment company, to state prison for a term of from three to 3½ years. Moore was treasurer of the company when it failed, and soon after was arrested and charged with embezzling a sum of $2400 from Judge E. H. Bennett. An indictment being found against him, he was tried in the criminal court and found guilty. An appeal was immediately taken to the supreme court, and a few months ago an adverse decision was rendered, overruling the exceptions made by his counsel at the trial. Yesterday, Moore appeared in court for sentence. Judge Gaskell was proof against strong pleas for clemency, and Moore goes to state prison. The affairs of the Globe Investment company are in a well nigh hopeless state of confusion, and it will be years before Receiver Wyman will be able to untangle the knotted skein of financial ruin brought on by Moore's mismanagement.

Death of Colonel Peabody.

Boston, Oct. 24. — Colonel Oliver W. Peabody, of the banking house of Kidder, Peabody & Co., died yesterday. For several months he had been troubled with a complication of diseases, which at last resulted in heart failure. He was born in Springfield on May 9, 1834. Colonel Peabody's reputation as a soldier and commanding officer during his service was of the highest character for executive ability and bravery. Colonel Peabody greatly delighted in unostentatious charities, and especially at Christmas time his benefactions have been abundant. It was not alone the actual poor who were thus remembered, but a careful watch was kept for those who were out of employment, or who, having large families and small incomes, found it hard to "make both ends meet." Such were always sought out and their needs supplied. It is safe to say that the sum of his annual charities amounted to thousands of dollars.

In the Governor's Hands.

Boston, Oct. 24.—Acting Governor Wolcott gave a long hearing yesterday morning, at the state house, on the requisition papers received from the governor of Missouri, for the extradition of Edwin E. Wilson, a produce dealer, who is wanted in the latter state to answer to an indictment for grand larceny. A petition signed by 57 prominent produce dealers of Boston set forth the opinion that, should the governor honor the papers in the present case, every one of them might be liable to extradition, where they had absolutely done nothing wrong, but simply because of the manner of transacting business with the west. The governor took the matter under advisement.

Own Gun Killed Him.

Greenville, N. H., Oct. 24.—Frederick C. Burton of Temple was shot and instantly killed by his own shotgun yesterday. His body was found beside his wagon. It is thought that, while driving along the road, he saw a partridge on a tree, and in picking up his gun, it was prematurely discharged. The contents of the weapon entered his right side.

Mostly Liquor Cases.

Portsmouth, N. H., Oct. 24.—The grand jury for this county yesterday reported 99 indictments, a majority of which were for illegal sales of liquor. An indictment was returned against John M. Dow, of Seabrook, charging him with murder in the second degree of Josiah Brown, in Seabrook, last July.

Petitioned In Vain.

Boston, Oct. 24.—The convention of the Delta Upsilon fraternity opened with a business session at the Quincy House yesterday. An appeal was presented from Wesleyan university for a chapter in the society, and delegates from Wesleyan were heard at some length. The petition, however, was not granted.

Rode on a Rail.

Hartford, Oct. 24.—Herbert G. Bissell, prominent socially, has brought suit for $1000 against Arthur G. Lord, employed in the water commissioners' office. Lord, with several others, it is alleged, rode Bissell on a rail recently, to prevent him calling on a West Hartford young lady.

Cost Him $100.

Boston, Oct. 24. — As the result of a movement of the Watch and Ward society of this city, to suppress the "button craze," William Landers, a street vender, was fined $100, on a charge brought by Agent Davis of the society, of selling obscene matter.

New England Briefs.

John M. Arnold, a prominent merchant of Danville, N. H., has assigned.

W. H. Schroder, aged 33, a brakeman, was killed at Charlemont, Mass., by falling between cars.

Ephraim Adams committed suicide at New Haven, by taking poison. Domestic troubles caused the deed.

Wesley Woodard, night watchman and police officer at Shelburne Falls, Mass., was knocked down and robbed of $47 by three men.

The copper mines in Vershire, Vt., which have been abandoned for about seven years, are soon to be reopened and refitted.

William E. Smith, who was indicted at Providence, for the alleged embezzlement of $1200, pleaded guilty. Bail was fixed at $2000.

William H. Murray, for two seasons manager of the Providence ball team, has been asked to take the management of the Philadelphia team.

E. S. Kimberly & Co., wholesale coal dealers of New Haven, turned over all assets to the Benedict, Pardee company, wholesalers, and went out of business.

While trying to remove some boxes from a moving elevator in the Hamilton mills, Lowell, Mass., George Stevens, aged 45, was caught between the elevator and the floor and instantly killed.

The cornerstone of the new Universalist church, at Portsmouth, N. H., which is being built on the site of the old structure, destroyed last summer, was laid, under the auspices of the St. John's lodge of Freemasons.

As It Looks Abroad.

London, Oct. 24.—Beerbohm's Corn Trade List, in a review of the week, says: Although the wheat market is apt to go to extremes, and a decided reaction has occurred, the general conditions surrounding the market are unchanged, and the trade need not lose confidence that the world's visible supply is less than in any year since 1891. The price ought to keep up to a level of at least 35s. Any return to low prices will probably be prevented by a rise in the freight rate.

Sultan Got Rattled.

Constantinople, Oct. 24.—The sultan is very much irritated at M. Nelidoff, the Russian ambassador, for insisting upon reform, and said to the ambassador that acceding to the powers' demand would endanger his throne. M. Nelidoff replied to this that the powers would protect him on condition that he open the Dardanelles to foreign men-of-war. The sultan thereupon became very much excited, and retired to the harem.

How Weyler Does It.

Habana, Oct. 24. — The police have searched the editorial rooms of The Discussion and the houses of the editors on account of an editorial in Thursday's paper, asking the intervention of the American republics to put an end to the rebellion. The office was seized, the arrest of the editor was ordered, and the publication of the paper was suspended, publication of the paper was suspended.

Scrimmages Over Pigs.

Waterford, Ire., Oct. 24.—A quarrel has arisen here from the merchants buying pigs direct from the farmers, instead of through the Ballybricken pig buyers. A number of the latter waylaid four of the merchants and beat them nearly to death. There is great excitement, and there are fears of further disturbances.

A Kansas City Murder.

Kansas City, Oct. 24.—Morris Landa, manager of the International Export and Grain company, and prominent in the local grain market, was shot and killed in his office last evening by Fred H. Waitt, a bookkeeper, whom he had discharged, and whom he attempted to put out of the room. Waitt had been drinking.

Trouble Is Brewing.

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 24.—Six hundred operatives in a Manara cigar factory struck yesteday, because their demands for an increase in wages were not acceded to. The cigarmakers are all Cubans and Spaniards. Much bad blood prevails, and serious trouble is apprehended. The men will not allow other workmen to take their places.

Big Foreign Order Filled.

Bethlehem, Pa., Oct. 24.—The Bethlehem Iron company, last night, shipped 17 plates of side armor for the Russian battleship Rostislov, to the commandant of port at Sebastopool. The shipment weighed 200 tons, and was the largest shipment of American armor plate ever made to a foreign power.

BIENNIAL ELECTIONS

Beneficial to Country Towns.

The proposition to change from annual to biennial elections of state officials in Massachusetts appeals with particular force to the people of the smaller towns. Their interest in common with the people of the larger towns and cities in securing the best form of government is supplemented by their direct interest in obtaining for themselves the power in legislation, which a decreasing proportion of the population threatens, but for which their need increases.

The "off-year" election is proved by the experience of years to be a needless election, measured by its practical results. In it no questions are submitted seriously, demanding a reply that could not be made with equal effect in connection with the general elections; the candidates appear as representing the parties to which they belong; they are often candidates for re-election, perhaps with their first year of service uncompleted; and almost nothing is offered to compel by its possible results the attendance of the people at the polls. Its strongest appeal is to the patriotism of the voter, which, if sufficiently stirred, will impel him to the polls, not to attain any particular results, but to display his untiring willingness to do his political duty.

The government goes on; it is well administered; its officials are re-elected with charming regularity; the commonwealth is "saved" annually by a fraction of its people, and the particular need of individual inconvenience and expense to take part in the proceeding is not apparent.

The experience of Massachusetts has shown that the too frequent recurrence of elections tends to indifference; the experience of other states has proved that the less frequent elections are attended by greater interest and a larger vote. It is a case where theory has to give place to fact.

The proportion of patriots to the whole number of citizens is surely not smaller in the towns than in the cities. But the difficulties of attendance at the polls are much greater. Many of the voters must travel a long distance to the caucuses, meetings, and the polls, over difficult roads, with no public means of conveyance. Both in time and effort the outlay is larger.

One consequence of it all is that the state loses the participation in its election of thousands of men, who, in spite of this remissness, are among its best citizens. The towns lose their share of power in political conclusions. Their basis of representation in political conventions is narrowed. A less frequent election, in which the voters settled matters, to stay settled, for a reasonable period, would restore to these towns the advantage they now have lost, and would, in turn, give the state the better spectacle of the large body of the people coming to the polls.

In another way the towns are injured by the present system. It is in a comparatively weak representation in the legislature—a weakness not of numbers nor of quality, but of experience. The legislator's first year is little more than preparatory. The country towns keep their men in the preparatory class forever. It is the exception that they are returned the second year, and the exception proves that the rule ought to be changed. A member of the legislature of 1896, from one of the largest cities, speaking from the observation of several years, ardently declared his belief that the men from the small towns were the best legislative material. He had seen them year after year come to the state house, equipped in character and ability but deficient in experience, to be replaced the next year by other men, likewise equipped and likewise hampered. The state suffers by this; but the towns suffer more. Their interests, needing the ablest advocates, the most ready defenders; men whose honest purposes shall be armed with weapons of skill and experience—these interests are sacrificed annually and constantly, not by the lack of virtue nor of ability in their chosen men, but solely and simply by the succession of learners. These condition, biennial elections will come to relieve.

Some towns, it is argued, will lose their representation. This is true only as it is true that a town is represented only when the member resides within its borders, in which case there were 226 towns in the state that were denied representation in the legislature of this year. But it is not true. District representation succeeded town representation, reducing the house of representatives from over 600 members to 240, with no sacrifice of representative government and with great improvement in the character of legislature and legislation. A town is better represented in the legislature by a member whose residence is in a neighboring town, who has ability and experience, than by one from within its boundaries who has the ability and no experience. The change to biennial elections will add the element of experience to the country town representation and by that means these towns, which have common interests to be guarded and common needs to be met, will get not a lessened representation, measured by numbers, but an increased representation, measured by force and what it will accomplish.

In an admirable address given by Governor Boutwell before the Massachusetts Club a few months ago, he very forcibly alluded to the great value it was to any State of retaining experienced legislators, and to the wisdom of other States, in adopting longer terms, and especially to the fact that the country districts lose the force and power which they might otherwise obtain, by so frequent changes in their legislative representatives.

The members from the country towns have been the steadfast friends of the biennial cause in the 20 years of legislative discussion. It is the testimony of these men, on the ground, and realizing the disadvantage they and those they represent, are now under, to the wisdom of a longer term. They correctly viewed the interests of their districts. They were not politicians seeking continued length of life. The change could not personally affect their future. They sought their districts' welfare, and there was but one possible conclusion.

It is very clear that the small towns have the most at stake in the final settlement of this question, have the most to gain by the adoption of the amendments, the most to suffer by its defeat.

Vote "Yes" for the two amendments.

World's Food Fair.

Miss Mary Proctor, the talented daughter of the late Richard Proctor, the distinguished astronomer, has delivered two lectures at the Food Fair; one upon "The Royal Homes in the Land of Tzar," and the other upon "Homes in Norway." Both were beautifully illustrated. "Homes in Norway" was delivered Saturday to a large and select audience. Miss Proctor has just returned from a visit to Norway, whither she went to observe the eclipse. She portrayed in simple language the simple life of the people of Norway, touching particularly upon the fisher folk, and the farming class. Her description of the Lapps and their method of living was particularly interesting. Glaciers, reindeer and cold cloud effects at Stalheim, were offset by interesting references to flower girls, a Norwegian wedding, and a crowded street scene at Fronjhen.

Castle Square Theatre.

For the coming week at the Castle Square Theatre the attraction will be Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pirates of Penzance," this being the first production given this opera by the organization. It is many years since "The Pirates" has been sung in Boston and the great popularity it has always enjoyed here gives especial interest to its revival. The music of this work has been generally considered as ranking with the best efforts of the composer, and its performance will serve to display the vocal strength of the Castle Square company to the best advantage. The action of the opera is full of interesting scenes and situations, and the comedy demand is given good prominence. Directors Jaxon and Hirwchfeld have both given especial care in preparing for this production. "The Pirates" is announced for only a single week and will be followed by "The Mikado."

Now is the Time.

We would advise those of our readers who have nice ornamental or fruit trees that are troubled by canker worms, that it is time now to use some tree ink, or other protection against the troublesome millers that crawl up the trunk of the tree. Many apple trees that should bear one or two barrels of nice apples do not yield a bushel for want of little care. Ten to fifteen cents' worth of Morrill's tree ink will protect a tree a whole season; and after a few years it will bear well without using any protection. Ink in three, five and ten pound cans for sale at this office.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

Etiquette Relating to "At Home" Days.
A Nice Green Tomato Pickle.
Apple Jelly—Ham Cakes.

To have an "at home" day has been found a great convenience by those ladies who live at a long distance from their friends, or whose time is so much occupied that they cannot allow themselves more than an occasional afternoon leisure to see their friends and acquaintances. It is pleasant also for a visitor who really wants to see the person called upon to know that if she pays her visit upon a certain day she is sure of finding her at home. Although to these persons the fashion of having an "at home" day is a great boon, there are others who find it a great restraint having to remain at home on certain days on the chance of visitors calling, for to have an "at home" day and not be "at home" is considered to be and is a decided breach of politeness.

Of course there are occasions when the absence of the hostess is, from one cause or another, unavoidable, and when this is the case her place may be taken by her daughter, sister or any other near relation. There are many persons, again, who, though they like to be sure of seeing their friends when they call, yet feel it a tie to be obliged to stay in on a particular day in each week. These find it a better plan to have their "at home" days alternate, instead of every week, so have the first and third Mondays in the month or the second and fourth Tuesdays, which leaves them free to go out on the intermediate ones if they choose to do so. When a lady has settled upon the day or days that she means to be "at home," she does not send out invitations, as she would to an afternoon "at home," but intimates the fact to her friends and acquaintances by printing upon her visiting cards the days on which she is to be "at home"—as, for example, if she has decided upon having every Wednesday, the word "Wednesday" should be put. If only two Wednesdays in each month, it would be "First and Third Wednesday," or "Second and Fourth Wednesday," as the case may be, or, if only the Wednesdays in certain months, it should be "Wednesdays in October and November" or whatever the months decided upon might be.

The "at home" days should not be printed on the gentleman's cards, but only upon those of the lady. When calling upon an "at home" day, the visitor asks at the door if Mrs. A. is at home, and is shown into the drawing room by the servant, where she is received by her hostess, who rises from her seat, comes forward and shakes hands with her. A call made upon an "at home" day is returned in exactly the same manner as other visits, and a lady calling without her husband would leave his card, or cards, in the hall at the conclusion of her visit, in the same manner and number as on another day. Afternoon tea is served in the drawing room on an "at home" day. The tea table is brought in by the servant, and placed wherever it is the custom of the house to have it, and the tea is poured out either by the hostess, her daughter or other lady of the household and handed to the guests. As each visitor takes her departure, the hostess rises to shake hands with her and rings the bell for the servant to open the door.

A Nice Green Tomato Pickle.

A recipe for a green tomato pickle that is delicious with cold meat is given by an exchange: Slice a peck of green tomatoes without paring and cover them with salt and water. Let stand for 24 hours; then drain off the brine and put the fruit in a kettle, together with a quart of sliced onions. Cover with vinegar and stir in 2 pounds of sugar, one-quarter pound mustard seed, the same of celery seed and a tablespoonful each of mace, cloves, allspice and black pepper. Boil all together until the tomatoes are tender and look clear. Put up in small self sealing jars, as it does not keep long after being opened.

White and Gold.

Although white and gold is and must remain a peculiarly effective decorative scheme, it has been so much used that its last claim to novelty or originality has long since departed. It is reported in the New York Times that some hostesses have been experimenting with white and silver, and find the combination excellent. One hostess used silver candlesticks, with white candles and shades of silver paper; a large bowl of repousse silver stood in the middle of the table, filled with lilies of the valley and ferns; the china was plain white, and many silver dishes were used.

Apple Jelly.

Pare, core and quarter a peck of pippin apples and cook thoroughly in enough water to prevent burning, but not to make the juice thin—about a quart. Let them strain through a flannel bag without squeezing, and then to each pint of juice allow three-quarters of a pound of sugar. Boil the juice 10 minutes, add the sugar and boil 20 minutes longer. The juice and thin yellow rind of 2 lemons are sometimes added, and a little sprig of rose geranium leaves boiled in the jelly a minute or two gives a delicate flavor.

Ham Cakes.

A capital way of disposing of the remains of a ham and making an excellent dish for breakfast is: Take 1½ pounds of ham, fat and lean together. Put it into a mortar and pound it, or soak a large slice of bread in half a pint of milk and beat it and the ham together. Add an egg beaten up. Put the whole into a mold and bake a rich brown.

Grape Preserves.

Having squeezed the pulp from each grape, boil the pulps until they are tender; then press them through a colander to remove the seeds. Add the skins again to the pulp, with a cupful of sugar for each pound of fruit, and boil till the skins are tender and the whole of a thick consistency.

IN ANXIOUS SUSPENSE

The General Public Will Have to Wait For Definite Election Returns.

Count Will Be Necessarily Slow on Nov. 3.

Secret Ballot and Fusion Tickets Furnish Elements of Difficulty.

Washington, Oct. 26.—The presidential election of Tuesday, Nov. 3 next, will be held under conditions which have never before prevailed, and which will render the official count a matter of difficulty and unusual delay.

Since the last presidential contest almost every state which had not then adopted the Australian ballot system has, by state enactment, prescribed some form of secret ballot, either based on the Australian plan or closely resembling it. The only exceptions are Georgia, Louisiana, North Carolina and South Carolina.

In the first three states named the old open ballot system prevails, and the election machinery is in the hands of the state authorities. In South Carolina there is what is called a "reform ballot," the avowed purpose of which is to restrict the votes of illiterate negroes. In nearly all the other states blanket ballots will be cast, and in many of them the count will be complicated by the fact that state, legislative and county nominations are printed on the same ballot with the names of presidential electors.

Connecticut has an envelope system, and New Jersey prints each party ticket upon a separate ballot. Should the election be in any way close, it is, therefore, quite possible that it may be 24 or even 48 hours after the polls close before the result is known with absolute certainty. In states like Nebraska, for instance, where, according to conservative opinion, there may not be a margin of 5000 votes either way, it will be impossible to arrive at a correct judgment until all the back counties are heard form.

The polls in the cities close at 4 p. m., but in the country districts keep open till 6 p. m., and with a governor, a legislature and county officers to elect, all on one ballot, it will take at least six hours to complete the count.

Some idea of the general trend of the votes in Ohio can be obtained from the result of the counties in which Cincinnati and Cleveland are respectively situated, and these results will probably be known comparatively early. The rest of the state, it is anticipated, will go pretty much as it has done in previous presidential years. The doubtful points are Hamilton and Cuyahoga counties.

Chicago will control Illinois. There will be no doubt of the outcome when the vote of Cook county is recorded. But in other doubtful states like Indiana, Michigan and Kansas, where state and legislative tickets also complicate the ballots, there will probably be no keynote from which the result can be definitely determined on Tuesday night, unless the election should prove a landslide. In that case midnight may give a clear idea of who are the victors and who the vanquished. Otherwise, there may be many hours of anxious suspense.

The last two presidential elections have been singularly free from uncertainty. It was known by 10 p. m., on election day in 1888, that Mr. Harrison had defeated Mr. Cleveland, and it was known with equal certainty at 11 p. m., on election day in 1892, that Mr. Cleveland had defeated Mr. Harrison. But in the election of 1884, when Mr. Cleveland defeated Mr. Blaine, the official result hung in doubt over the vote of New York for days.

The fusion tickets will add further elements of difficulty in the presidential count this year. Fusion has been arranged between the Populists and the Democrats on the electoral ticket in every Democratic state state but Tennessee, Mississippi, Georgia, Alabama, Florida and Texas. In several of the southern states, while there has been no formal fusion between the Republicans and the Populists on state legislatures and congressmen, local arrangements have been made that amount to fusion, and will have more or less to do with the result.

The following states will elect Governors on Nov. 3: Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, and South Carolina.

The following states will elect legislatures: California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa Kansas, Kentucky (seven vacancies), Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York (part), North Carolina, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Put In Restful Day.

Jacksonville, Ills., Oct. 26.—It was a day of quiet and rest that William J. Bryan spent in this city, where, for six years, he prepared himself for his after life. In the morning he attended services at the Presbyterian church, and listened to a sermon by Rev. A. B. Morris. It was probably the largest congregation that divine has addressed in that edifice. The sermon did not touch upon any of the political issues, and, barring the usual prayer for the welfare of those in high offices, no one would have known that a man of national reputation helped to make up the congregation. After the sermon, an informal reception was held from the pew which Mr. Bryan had occupied, and as soon as possible, the nominee was taken out a side door, and put into a carriage and driven rapidly away. Mr. Bryan spent the day at the home of Dr. Hiram J. Jones, where he lived during his residence in this city. There were few callers, but outside the house a large crowd gathered, and stared at the few visitors who were admitted to grasp the hand and exchange compliments of the day with the candidate. Today Mr. Bryan addressed the students of the college in which he had studied. At 11 o'clock, those who desired to hear him assembled in the chapel, and he spoke to them for 20 minutes. At 2 o'clock he addressed a meeting in the city park on the issues of the day. He will depart for Alton at 4:30, arriving there at 6:30, and will put in a good share of the next four hours there expounding free silver doctrines. At 10:30 o'clock he leaves for Lincoln, arriving there tomorrow morning.

Busy Week Ahead.

Canton, O., Oct. 26.—Speechmaking will continue at the McKinley home up to the very eve of election. The opening of the last wek of the campaign found Major McKinley, to all outward appearances, at least, equal to as hard work as he has experienced at any time during the campaign. He was up and around early yesterday morning, and in company with his brother, Abner, attended church services. Charles C. Dawes of the national committee arrived from Chicago, and spent the day at the McKinley home. The week's program opens with six delegations for today, 15 for the succeeding days of the week and a large number of others only partially arranged. Many of the visitors will be long-distance pilgrims, one party being from Boston, one from New Jersey and two from Indiana. The week will also include "college day" and "Youngstown (O.) day," on both of which occasions large crowds are expected.

QUINCY POINT ABLAZE.

Representative Newcomb and President Shaw Entertain.

The McKinley & Hobert battalion paraded at Quincy Point Saturday night upon invitation of Representative T. H. Newcomb. The line formed on Granite street and moved at 7.30, marching up Hancock street, School street to the junction of School and Franklin streets, then countermarching back over the same route to headquarters, when chairman Hammond Representative James Thompson and members of the City Committee were received. The battalion then marched via Washington street to Quincy Point bridge and countermarched to the residence of Representative Newcomb when a halt was made. Mr. Newcomb addressed the battalion briefly, after which refreshments were served.

Nearly every residence along Washington street was illuminated in honor of the visit. At John R. Graham's a number of tar barrels were burned, and at Representative Newcomb's there were hundreds of Japanese lanterns. Several other residences looked very pretty.

After giving three cheers for Mr. Newcomb the march was continued to the residence of President John Shaw which was also gaily decorated.

Mr. Shaw briefly thanked the boys for calling upon him and passed the cigars. More cheers were given and the march again resumed to headquarters, where the battalion was dismissed.

Sharp Cross Examination.

Another day was devoted to the Enterprise hearing on Saturday. Dr. Olcott, the surgeon of the ship was cross-questioned at length. The Herald says, Lawyer Blackmur's examination was detailed, reiterative and persistent. Certain reports concerning Dr. Olcott's professional care of cadets, printed in two newspapers, were brought to the attention of the board and dissected. Lawyer Blackmur worked strenuously to make the doctor admit that one brush was used on more than one throat. Dr. Olcott's insisted that there were three brushes, enough he asserted.

With regard to the death of Cadet Clare, the surgeon said that he believed the boy did not catch diphtheria during the two hours he sat outside sick bay watching Cadet Brown.

Lawyer Blackmur then sprung the first sensation of the session, saying that he intended to argue that there was "no other logical conclusion," since Clare was taken down with throat trouble, from which he never recovered, on the day after he had sat in the sick bay. Lawyer Blackmur said he thought he could show that Clare had watched in the sick bay.

Hearing adjourned until Monday.

Antitoxin Treatment.

Professor Paltauf has published statistics of 1,103 cases of diphtheria in which antitoxin was employed, with the result of 970 recoveries and 133 deaths, equivalent to a mortality of 12.5 per cent. He lays much stress upon the early application of the serum, for in the case of injections made on the second day of the disease the mortality amounted to 6.7 per cent., whereas in those made on the third day it amounted to 19 per cent., in those on the fourth to 23 per cent., in those on the fifth to 31 per cent., and in those on and after the sixth to 33.3 per cent. Professor Paltauf makes mention of the epidemic of diphtheria in Ischl, where in December, 1895, all those children died who had not received the anti-toxin treatment; whereas in January, 1896, in the cases of 16 children attacked with the disease and treated with anti-toxin the result was in every way successful.—The Lancet.

Enterprise Fumigated.

Since the arrival of the Enterprise she has been at her old berth at the navy yard, where she now lies. The ship has been thoroughly fumigated and renovated, many minor repairs having been made also, and she is now in first-rate condition. Everything about and between the decks has been freshly painted, oiled and varnished, making the ship to look clean comfortable and healthy.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Costello, of Omaha, Nebraska, formerly of Quincy, have been the guests of Mr. Costello's mother at South Quincy.

To ladies only, this evening, Mrs. Dr. Drew will lecture at Hancock hall. Last Monday she spoke at Brockton to a crowded house.

A supper and entertainment will be given at the Universalist vestry on Wednesday evening for the benefit of the Young People's Christian Union.

The many friends of Mr. Fred Goss, who has been seriously ill, will be pleased to learn that he has now nearly recovered and expects to get out of doors this week.

Mrs. William E. Alden (M. Elizabeth Hardwick) who has been traveling abroad for the past sixteen months, returned to her mother's home on Thursday afternoon.

The Quincy club bowling team was not satisfied with its score in the match with the league teams last week and the clubs will meet at Costello's alleys Tuesday evening.

The big advertisement of H. L. Kincaide & Co., crowds upon our reading space today, but their announcements are always interesting and all will be pleased to read of the grand opening.

Twenty passengers alighted today at Quincy from the new 12 M. express from Boston, and there will be more as the train is better advertised. It will, as in the past, be one of the popular trains of the day.

This evening Rev. James M. Gray, D. D., of Boston will conduct the lesson at the Training School of Bethany church, and will also lecture on "Beginnings." From 6 to 7 a chowder supper will be served.

The articles of amendment are printed in full in the warrant for the State election in this issue. The voters of Quincy believe in keeping the control of the government in their hands and will doubtless give a No majority.

Both services at Christ's church were well attended, Sunday. The choir rendered for an anthem, "O Blessed are Ye," the solos being taken by Mr. Walter Hersey and Master Charlie Taylor. In the evening Rev. John S. Lindsay, D. D., rector of St. Paul's church, Boston, preached a fine sermon taking for his text, Proverbs 23: 7, "For as he thinketh in his heart, so is he." During November there will be special musical services on Sunday evenings by the choir assisted by a chorus of mixed voices.

They All Come Back

"There are fads in medicine as well as in other things," said a busy druggist, "but the most remarkable thing about Hood's Sarsaparilla is that customers who try other remedies all come back to Hood's, and this is why the enormous sales of this great medicine continue the year round, steady To keep up and whole year as a clock.

"Why is it?" "O, simply because Hood's Sarsaparilla has more real curative merit than any medicine I ever sold."

This is of daily occurrence in almost every drug store. Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured more sickness, and made more happiness through restoration to health than any other medicine.

A NASHUA MYSTERY.

Murdered Man's Body Discovered by Boys in an Icehouse.

Nashua, N. H., Oct. 26.—The body of Anthoine Lorenger, about 35 years old, was found yesterday in one of Balcom's icehouses near Sandy pond, with every evidence of foul play. His pockets were empty, and he was stretched out in a pool of blood, with his skull fractured. There is much excitement here over the affair. The body was found by three French lads. They had been up by Sandy pond, and on their way back took a notion to look into the icehouse, which is empty at this season.

The boys tell the same story, which is as follows: They looked into the door, and over in the corner, about eight feet away, saw a man—asleep, as they supposed. They thought he was sleeping off the effects of drink, and that it would be good fun to wake him up and run while he was getting up to drive them away.

They went into the icehouse and went over to the spot where the supposed sleeper was lying on a bunch of old straw. The sight that met their gaze filled them with horror. They saw that the man was lying on his back, with his head in a pool of blood. One thumb had been torn from his hand and laid on his face. His head was toward the door.

The boys then looked about, and, through some impulse, decided to look at the top of the building, where they could see a hole through which the ice is put during the winter. When they had climbed up the runway, they found a hat on the ledge between the icehouse sections. It was dented both back and front, as though by some blows.

The body was taken to Lund's undertaking rooms, and County Physician Kittredge and City Physician Greeley called, to make an autopsy. What that revealed will not be known until the doctors will appear before a coroner's jury. Enough was gathered from the doctors however, to show that a murder had been committed. The doctors found a bad fracture of the skull just below the left ear and a contusion of the brain.

Lorenger was a laboring man, and well known about the city. He was a widower, his wife and child having died about two years ago. Saturday night he was around town, and visited several saloons. When last seen alive it was 10 o'clock, and he was in company with an Irishman, who at this time is unknown. Both were slightly under the influence of liquor, and an officer told them to go home. They went up Hollis street, toward the Sandy pond district.

As the body lay in the icehouse, it had every appearance of having been moved after death, and the clothing looked as though the pockets had been rifled. No money was found in them by the officials. The only theory advanced is that Lorenger and his unknown friend went up to the icehouse to finish their spree, and that in a quarrel, brought about either through mutual ugliness or over a drink, Lorenger was killed.

Bernard McNeeny's Close Call.

New York, Oct. 26.—Bernard McNeeney, a laborer, was entombed in a trench, 20 feet deep, in Newark, N. J., early Saturday afternoon. He was taken out, alive, shortly after 6 o'clock last night, having been buried for more than 28 hours. During all that time a gang of men were incessantly at work in the attempt to extricate him, and 50 men, under the supervision of experts, were engaged yesterday in the rescue. Sufficient liquid nourishment to keep him alive was sent down to him in his tomb through a gaspipe. It was found that he was standing erect among a mass of timbers, which had kept the earth from smothering him. The danger of a further cave-in was imminent at all times, and the rescuers had to work so slowly and carefully that McNeeney, fearing that they would leave him alone altogether, began wailing piteously. He sustained no injury beyond that of shock and lack of nourishment.

HE GAVE A DINNER.

And His Friends Did the Rest—A Memorable Birthday.

Saturday, Superintendent Weeks of the Quincy & Boston street railway, passed another milestone in his life, and he celebrated the occasion by giving a dinner to a number of the business men in City Square at Fort Point. Shortly before 1 o'clock a special car containing the party left for Anderson's and upon their arrival there a tempting dinner was found in waiting. It needed no second invitation to the gentlemen whose appetites had been sharpened by the cool wind to fall to, and partake.

While the festivities of the occasion were at their height someone said speech, upon which J. Percival Sears arose and in an eloquent speech, such as only Percy knows how to deliver, Mr. Weeks was presented with a silver tea service. Ben was of course surprised, but as he never looses his head, he briefly responded, thanking the gentlemen for their generous gift. This was not all the surprises in store for Mr. Weeks, for following immediately upon the first presentation there came others, and these articles while perhaps not ornamental will be found useful.

The occasion as a whole was very enjoyable and one that will be remembered by those present.

The Veris Case.

Providence, Oct. 26.—George Veris, who is held here for alleged complicity in a murder in Greece, is still under arrest. The Greek consul of Boston came here and inquired into the particulars of the arrest. He said that he did not know what King George would do in the case. Friends of the detained man say that the Grecian government will not go to the expense of extraditing Veris. The case is now out of the hands of the local authorities, and is a matter between governments.

Run Short of Fuel.

New Bedford, Mass., Oct. 26.—Steamer Pawtuxet, from Onset bay for Fall River, put in here yesterday, without fuel and with her decks badly washed. The fuel gave out Saturday night, when off West Island ledge, and the steamer was obliged to anchor in the bay. The weather grew rough, and several big waves came tumbling aboard, doing some damage. The Pawtuxet was picked up early yesterday morning and towed into this port.

Brewery Burned.

Brattleboro, Vt., Oct. 26.—The Fast Eagle brewery, on the New Hampshire side of the river, opposite this city, was destroyed by fire last evening. The fire is supposed to have been of incendiary origin. The brewery was erected several years ago, and did a profitable business, but it was closed a few months since.

Completed at Last.

Haverhill, Mass., Oct. 26.—The new St. James Roman Catholic church, which has been in the course of erection for over a decade, was dedicated here yesterday with imposing ceremonies. The ceremony of consecrating the altar and blessing the building was performed by Archbishop Williams.

DOMESTIC MARTYRS.

Lots of women suffer constantly and seldom utter complaint.

Good men rarely know the pain endured by the women of their own household, or the efforts they make to appear cheerful and happy when they ought to be in bed, their suffering is really so great.

Our habits of life and dress tell sadly upon women's delicate organizations.

They ought to be told just where the danger lies, for their whole future may depend upon that knowledge, and how to overcome it.

There is no need of our describing the experiences of such women here, they are too well known by those who have suffered, but we will impress upon every one that these are the never-failing symptoms of serious womb trouble, and unless relieved at once, a life will be forfeited.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound never fails to relieve the distressing troubles above referred to; it has held the faith of the women of America for twenty years.

It gives tone to the womb, strengthens the muscles, banishes backache and relieves all pains incident to women's diseases.

PALMER'S SIDE OF IT.

Says Savage Is Equally Guilty of the Murder of Betsy Hobbs.

Also Took a Hand In Attempt at Cremation.

Thought the Widow Had Money Concealed About the Premises.

Sanford, Me., Oct. 27.—Following close upon the confession of Charles Savage, held as a witness to the murder of Mrs. Betsey R. Hobbs, at Parsonfield, on the morning of Oct. 5, Frank J. Palmer, whom the coroner's jury found to be a murderer, has made a confession, in which he seeks to correct some of the statements made by Savage. To a representative of the press, Palmer said, with tears rolling down his cheeks:

"Savage and I have been chums for quite a while, and on that Sunday afternoon, Oct. 4, we were together. Savage, you see, worked for Mrs. Hobbs last spring, and he told me that he was certain that she had considerable money in an old trunk, that we could get if we could only put her out of the way. We made our arrangements that afternoon, and met by appointment the next morning, which was Monday. Savage had his gun with him, and together we went to the home of the old lady Hobbs. She had not started her kitchen fire, and asked Savage to bring in some kindlings, which he did. Then she asked us if we could fix the well sweep, and we started toward the woodshed, as though we were going to get something to do the work with.

"Mrs. Hobbs turned to go into the house, and when she was a few yards away, Savage raised his gun and took aim at her. He had his finger on the trigger, when his courage failed, and he handed the gun to me. I don't know what made me do it, but I raised the gun to my shoulder and fired, and she dropped to the ground. He was standing close beside me when I fired. Then we picked her up and carried her into the house, and searched everywhere for the money that Savage said was there. All that we found was $4, and Savage took that. Then we went to work to set fire to the house. I did my share of that work, but Savage assisted. He set a fire in a closet and in another part of the house, and also to the old lady's shawl.

"We thought that if the house was burned, no one would ever think that we did it. I don't think that either of us ever realized just what we were doing, and now that Savage has turned state's evidence, there is nothing for me to do but confess my share in the deed, but I am not going to take more than my share of it."

Palmer says that he is an only son, and will not be 17 years of age until Feb. 4, 1897.

Savage is very taciturn, and refuses to say anything further. He is nearly 20 years old.

Palmer was writing a letter to his mother when the newspaper representative visited his cell. He had previously made a confession to the jailer.

VIRIS GOES FREE.

Cannot Be Extradited For Having Killed a Man in Greece.

Boston, Oct. 27.—A remarkable fact was brought to light yesterday in the case of George Viris, a Greek, who is charged with murder in his native country, it being nothing less than that there is no extradition treaty between that country and the United States. This being the case, the man was allowed to go free, although he confessed to having killed the man, stating, however, that he did it in self-defense. Viris was arrested in Providence last Friday afternoon, charged with the murder of Diamondis Diamondopolis at Sparta, in March, 1895.

Mr. Timayenis, the Greek consul in Boston, says that the fact that a treaty of extradition between the two countries does not exist is a remarkable one. He says that it is probably known to but few persons, and that he should not be surprised if this case should bring about negotiations which would lead to the establishment of such a treaty. He has been much interested in the case, and it was by his efforts that the prisoner was brought to this city. Viris' arrest is almost wholly due to the efforts of Constantine Diamondopolis, the brother of the murdered man, and a cousin of the same name as the latter, both of Boston, who have been on Viris' track ever since the killing of Diamondopolis.

The Lorenger Mystery.

Nashua, N. H., Oct. 27.—An inquest was held before Coroner Hunt yesterday to determine the cause of the death of Anthoine Lorenger, who was found dead at Balcom's icehouse Sunday afternoon. Three French boys testified to finding the body on the floor of the icehouse. Their testimony agreed in all particulars. Drs. Kittredge and Greeley were of the opinion that death was caused by a fall from a loft, in the building, 40 feet from the floor. S. T. Tyler and N. E. Rogers told of hearing cries of murder late Saturday night, but were unable to tell whence they issued. George W. Keyes, the last man who was with Lorenger, as far as known, before his death, testified that he had had several drinks with the deceased Saturday evening, and that there was no trouble between them of any kind. He had promised to meet Lorenger Sunday morning at the icehouse. He went there, but did not find him. The night before, Lorenger had given him 25 cents, to buy whisky with for use on Sunday. The hearing is unfinished.

Want Better Offer.

Boston, Oct. 27.—The creditors of the Keith Shoe company of Oldtown, Me., held a meeting here yesterday. The assets are $23,410.72, and the net liabilities, $26,291.55. An offer to settle at 50 cents on the dollar was put before the creditors present. The meeting adjourned without accepting the proposition made by the company. An attempt will be made to get at least 60 cents in settlement.

Love For Russell Survives.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 27.—With a simple service and an eloquent eulogy, the city of Cambridge last night paid its formal tribute to the memory of its late honored and lamented citizen, Hon William E. Russell, a former governor of this commonwealth. The memorial service was under the direction of the city council, and Mayor Bancroft presided. Sanders theater, where the service was held, was filled with prominent citizens, their families, and with friends of the late governor. The opening prayer was made by Bishop Lawrence, after which a double male quartet sang appropriate selections. Professor Charles E. Norton of Harvard college pronounced the eulogy.

—W. H. Ellerbe, the next governor of South Carolina, is one of thirteen children, nine girls and four boys, all of whom are living. The old homestead remains undivided.

Fall Carpets.

Just a seasonable word or two, to-day.

When you're buying, think about quality as well as price.

Remember that the words "Axminster," "Wilton," "Brussels," etc., can be made to cover a multitude of sins.

Remember, too, that our stock is far larger than that of any other Boston house, and that as nobody can possibly buy to better advantage than we can, it is reasonable to suppose that our ability to name very low selling figures is also unsurpassed.

We are combining high quality with moderation in price, this Fall, more effectively than ever before.

We ask for your patronage on this basis — the basis of "goods for the money."

OVER 500

Torches in the Republican Parade.

Some Brilliant Illuminations Along the Route.

The Paraders Full of Enthusiasm and March Well.

The grand torchlight parade under the auspices of the McKinley & Hobart club last evening was a success in every way. The night was a perfect one and the parade a success, no accident or incident of any kind occurring to mar the affair.

The illuminations were not as numerous as might have been wished but this was no fault of the residents along the line for it was not until Monday afternoon that the exact route of the parade was known and then it was too late to make any elaborate illumination but there were few residents along the line that did not have their houses brilliantly lighted and quantities of red fire were burned all along the line.

There were several places that looked very pretty. Among those noticed were E. L. Goodridge, J. S. Swingle, Frank C. Packard, Emery L. Crane, Lester M. Pratt, Ward 3 Republican headquarters, James McDonnell, John P. Bigelow, William Curtis, James Thompson, John P. Bigelow, J. M. Cutting, W. T. Spargo, R. D. Gordon, N. B. Furnald, Charles Batson, J. E. Glover and George Glover and others.

Emery L. Crane had the front of his residence covered with lanterns with pretty effect.

Lester M. Pratt had his yard hung with colored lanterns and a large flag, and a transparency showed the pictures of McKinley and Hobart.

William Curtis had all the windows of his residence filled with candles.

John P. Bigelow had candles in his windows and burned a tar barrel.

James McDonnell had a large American flag suspended over the entrance at his residence.

William T. Spargo showed a large flag and lanterns.

J. M. Cutting and Franklin Curtis had their residences brilliantly illuminated.

James Thompson, the Representative to the General Court, probably had the most extensive illumination, every window of his residence from ground to the roof having eight candles, besides other light.

Suspended between the residences of Frank C. Packard and Walter M. Packard was a row of lanterns.

Edward L. Goodridge showed Japanese lanterns over entrance to his home.

Mr. Elbridge Cross had McKinley and Hobart's pictures in his window and the house was brilliantly lighted.

J. S. Swingle showed flags in his windows which were brilliantly lighted, as were also the houses of John W. Hall and John O. Hall.

R. D. Gordon had the front of his house covered with small flags.

The houses occupied by J. E. Glover and George Glover and Mr. Hansen and Mr. Green had the front piazza covered with lanterns.

N. B. Furnald had the windows of his residence brilliantly illuminated with candles and his yard hung with lanterns.

Charles Batson had large pictures of McKinley and Hobart in his window.

The Republican headquarters were brilliantly illuminated and quantities of red fire was burned as the procession passed.

The paraders were full of enthusiasm and cheered everything in the way of an illumination, and the Weymouth rifles kept up a rapid fire all along the line.

One very noticeable thing was the entire absence of drunkenness for there was not a man in line under the influence of liquor, and not an arrest of any kind was made by the police.

The parade formed on Adams street with the right resting on Dimmock street, and shortly after 8 o'clock the column moved over the following route:

Adams street to Hancock street, to School street, to Franklin street, to Independence avenue, countermarch to Franklin street, to Water street, to Brewer's corner, to Granite street, to Hancock street, to Washington street, to Canal street.

The line halted on Canal street, and a collation was served. The line of march was then continued down Hancock street to City Square, where it was dismissed.

The formation of the column was as follows:

Letter From Fitchburg.

DEAR LEDGER: Sunday morning among the Fitchburg heights was flavored with a freshness from the Wachuset hills, while the smooth dome of the graceful mountain was bathed in deep amethyst color. Each tree upon the surrounding hills, was outlined against the clear skies. The mist from the valley arose in soft waves and rolled away revealing the city at our feet, and throwing grim old Rollstone quarry into relief. Mount Elam stretches its lazy length along the horizon's line with lesser hills.

We attended service in the First Congregational (Unitarian) church and listened to an earnest talk on "prison discipline." The good work of the world is turning even more to this philanthropy and as the speaker says, the criminals held in our jails are, after a shorter or longer time returned to us, it seems to be a duty to ourselves, as well as to them, to return them to the community better if possible, than they went in. To make any impression for good, it is certainly necessary to expose criminals to clean wholesome conditions that appeal to their physical and moral natures, unsanitary, unclean surroundings can not do this. They deserve from us clean air to breathe and places and an environment to appeal to what is best in them. While listening to his talk, our thoughts reverted to the poor place in our City Hall at home, in Quincy, which should be made so much better. Quincy taxes do press heavily upon a comparatively few people, but if the city can not effect a reform here, philanthropy or charity should do so. Our city council doubtless is conscientious in opposing the matter of a great expenditure in changing City Hall, but we ought to do it some how.

Rev. Mr. Greenman made a satisfactory report of his visit to the county jail in South Fitchburg, and he made a good point in saying that for small offences, longer sentences of restraint under healthful conditions would be more curative in effect.

Notice that Mrs. Emily Fifield would speak in the vestry Friday next on the urgency of starting a Woman's Alliance, was given. Quincy ladies in our First church have successfully carried out this work for a number of years.

Near us is an English mansion house covering a large ground territory with stone trimmings of the native granite, circular archways at entrance; one of the ornaments to the city. It has four generous chimneys and is as elegant within as without. Another very large gambrel-roofed house with every accessory that money and taste can suggest is near. They are occupied by two families of the Crockers, of whom seven families reside in the city. Their fortunes were amassed in the manufacture of paper.

At the big torchlight procession Friday evening last, the Swedish club of Gardner made the finest display, in discipline and in sturdy manliness and received the palm from all who saw them.

Fitchburg among the hills is a fine city and one that is under government both internal and external that keeps pace with the times. A.

HOW often we hear our customers complain that the rubber bottles now days are not near as good as we used to buy, and that is quite true, for the last few years every manufacturer has by competition tried to make them cheaper than any one else, and while the price is cheap, the bottles are far from satisfactory. FIVE RULES.

Dr. Gray Tells How to Master the English Bible.

The lesson and lecture at the session of the Training School for Christian Service Monday evening were conducted by the Rev. James M. Gray D. D., of Boston. After the lesson which was on the subject "Beginnings," Mr. Gray spoke on "How to Master the English Bible." While there are many ways he said to study the Bible, there is but one way to master it, to know the Bible as a whole, and each book as a whole, and in relation to all the other books. He said he had known people who had read the Bible through in course many times, and still were not authorities on Biblical knowledge. He recommended its study book by book, and gave the following five rules for Bible study, in each case taking up the study of a whole book at a time:

1st,—Read.

2d,—Read continuously, observing neither chapters nor verses.

3d,—Read repeatedly, read the book again, and again and again and again, till you know in your own soul that you have gotten its contents.

4th,—Read independently, without commentary or Bible text book of any kind, until you have a clear outline of your own. Then you can consult a commentary, but if you go to it too soon you will be bound to it all your lives.

5th,—Read prayerfully, and remember that the Holy Spirit by his influence wrote the whole book from Genesis to Revelation and no one is so well able to interpret the book as the Holy Spirit himself.

Nye—Spencer.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized at high noon Monday at the home of the bride at North Weymouth. The contracting parties were Miss Mary E. Spencer, daughter of Mr. Jeremiah Spencer, and Mr. Herbert Fay Nye, son of Mr. Marshall P. Nye of Coddington street, Quincy.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Edward Morris of the Third Universalist church of Weymouth. Miss Lucy Raymond of East Weymouth attended the bride and Mr. George Waterhouse of Quincy was best man. Miss Fannie Young was the organist and played Mendelssohn's wedding march for the bridal procession.

After the ceremony a reception was held from half past twelve to half past one, the maid of honor and the best man assisting Mr. and Mrs. Nye in receiving. Mrs. Sidney Raymond of East Weymouth and Mrs. Frank Young of North Abington were the ushers. A wedding breakfast was served immediately after the ceremony.

The bride wore a very handsome gown of white Swiss muslin and carried a bouquet of bride roses. The maid of honor made a pretty contrast to the bride, wearing Nile green and white. The decorations about the house were green and white, also the colors of the bridal party.

After a trip of two weeks to New York, Philadelphia and through the southern states Mr. and Mrs. Nye will reside at 17 Coddington street, receiving their friends on Wednesdays during December.

Flag Day and Bonfires.

Chairman Lyman of the Republican state committee suggests a series of bonfires on the hills of all the New England towns Saturday evening, October 31, at 8 30 o'clock. This is a departure from the torchlight parade and red fire methods of former political campaigns, but the idea is growing in favor, and already many towns have fallen in with the suggestion, and are enthusiastically preparing for the beacon lights which shall flash from town to town the confidence of the people in the election of McKinley and Hobart, and the success of the sound money cause. Will Quincy join in the movement and send its greeting to the surrounding towns from President's Hill, Wollaston Heights, Squantum, Penn's Hill, North Common, etc.

Universalist Church.

At the Universalist church there was a combination of rally day and harvest day services on Sunday. The quartettes and chorus rendered fine music, and Rev. Mr. Nickerson preached an appropriate sermon. There was a large congregation. Many who had not attended the church for months were present. Everybody was delighted to meet everybody else; and much enthusiasm was manifest.

At noon the Sunday School service consisted of recitation and readings by the pupils, songs and solos and anthems. The choir was present and assisted greatly. Remarks were made by Messrs. Russell and Nye, and Rev. Mr. Nickerson.

At 5 o'clock a special song service was held, a good number attending. Rev. Mr. Nickerson preached a sermon from the text, "What is man, that thou art mindful of him."

At 6.30 the Y. P. C. A. held its regular meeting in the ladies' parlor. Altogether the Sunday was a happy day for Quincy Universalists. The meetings held during the week previous were well attended and an excellent spirit prevailed.

On Wednesday evening of this week the Y. P. C. A. has an entertainment and supper in the vestry to which the public is invited. These young people are wide awake.

The Ladies' Association feels very much elated over the success of its recent harvest festival, and the members are grateful to Mr. Henry H. Faxon for his generous contribution of confectionery. The association is now planning for a Christmas fair to be held early in December.

With the new spirit of determination, hospitality, kindliness, devotion and enthusiasm that has taken hold upon the people of the parish the future of the church is assuredly bright. The minister asks everyone to attend the services—especially on Sunday morning at 10.30

The Unity Circle of King's Daughters has arranged for an illustrated lecture on the Old and New Madonnas, by Mrs. M. A. Moore, formerly of Quincy, for Thursday Oct. 29, at the chapel of Bethany church. The best examples of the work of the artists ranging from the 13th to the 19th century, will be shown, having been selected, not alone for their beauty, but for their value in showing the gradations of sacred art in its rise and decline. Mrs. M. A. Moore, has given great pleasure and much instruction to all who have been fortunate enough to hear her lecture. Mrs. Moore is one of several self-sacrificing ladies who have devoted much time and strength to mission work in the field of art with an enthusiasm which is as helpful as it is rare.

MARRIED.

GRANLUND—OLSEN—In Quincy, Oct. 24, by Rev. C. A. Bjornborn, Mr. Oscar F. Granlund to Miss Hulda A. Olson both of Quincy.

A Pleasant Outing.

Having received a special invitation from Miss Rebecca Fairbanks to visit her at the old Fairbanks house at Dedham, twenty-five of the local chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution went to Dedham on Monday afternoon.

The day was perfect and Miss Fairbanks was a most cordial hostess and showed all her old relics and treasures to appreciative eyes. There were large fancy shell combs, old bonnets, old china, hair trunks, old prints, quaint chests, bureaus, chairs, bedsteads, spinning wheels, foot stoves, cradle, ox saddle, odd jugs, in fact everything from one to two hundred years old.

The house is very old being built in 1636 by Jonathan Fairbanks who came to Boston in 1633 from Somerby, England. The house is the oldest one built in colonial times still standing in Norfolk County and Miss Fairbanks is the seventh generation to dwell beneath its roof. It is very picturesque with large chimney and long sloping roofs with low doorway and small windows with little panes of glass. Inside, the rooms are very low, the ladies in the party had to stoop to pass through the doorways and some could not stand erect in the rooms.

The rooms are connected by steps, a step up here and a step down there, so that one must be ever watchful where they tread. Nearly every chamber had a staircase of its own, none of the chambers connecting. Every room contained something of special interest, and as Miss Fairbanks told the guests to make themselves at home, the afternoon was most delightfully spent in wandering from room to room.

Miss Fairbanks gave the Adams chapter an old hair trunk and an old bedstead. She thinks the bed to be nearly as old as the house, some two hundred and fifty years old. It will be set up in one of the chambers of the old John Adams house.

An outing on a pleasant autumn day is always enjoyable, and the one on Monday afternoon will be pleasantly remembered by the Adams chapter for many a day, thanks to their hearty reception by Miss Fairbanks.

A Delightful Trip.

A distinguished party, guests of Mr. John F. Wallace of Chicago, reached New Orleans on last Thursday, and took suites of apartments at the St. Charles' Hotel. Mr. Wallace is the chief engineer of the Illinois Central R. R., and his guests were Mr. E. L. Corthell, the eminent engineer, who is well known in Wollaston, and his daughter both of New York; Mr. W. G. Corthell of Wollaston; Mr. W. J. Karmer of Chicago and Mr. Allison, private secretary to Mr. Wallace.

The party is travelling in two private cars, and for nearly two weeks has been with Mr. Wallace in his annual trip over the lines of the Illinois Central road. The trip is happily divided between pleasure and business, and every opportunity is taken to secure recreation whenever an occasion is presented for sight seeing. All of the party are bicyclists and whenever a long stop is made the wheels are put off and a ride is taken to break into the monotony of even so select a manner of journeying.

The party visited Port Eads and left New Orleans on Monday morning to continue their trip through the west.

Fighting Drunk.

Jeremiah Moriarty of South street looked upon the wine when it was red Monday night, and when he arrived home he made things extremely unpleasant for his wife and family, which resulted in their being driven out of the house about 1 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Moriarty found Officer Beahn, who went back home with her and attempted to enter the house, Moriarty, however, was on guard and as Officer Beahn was going up the stairs he reached over and cracked him on the head knocking him down stairs. Officer Beahn made no further attempt to arrest Moriarty but brought the family to the police station where they remained until daylight. This morning a warrant was issued against Moriarty and if he can be found he will be in court tomorrow morning.

SAVED HIS WIFE.

Remarkable Result of an Advertisement.

Death Was Near When Mr. Peck Read It.

He Was With the Bridgeport Brass Co.

M. M. Peck is a Bridgeport man, living for many years on East Main street, and who for eight years was in the employ of the Bridgeport Brass company. He writes:

"About five years ago we lost a child while my wife was approaching confinement and in her delicate state the shock brought on nervous prostration. My wife has never been the same since. The nerves of the stomach being affected caused what doctors called nervous dyspepsia. Her suffering was awful. Why even the whites of a couple of eggs distressed her so that she was forced to give up all work.

"Gases in the stomach at the same time affected her heart until it seemed that death would result at any moment.

"Last April I saw Puritana advertised in a paper and was attracted by the name of Dr. Crosby, which is well known in our family. At the suggestion of my wife we tried Puritana.

"As for the result it has been truly astounding. Before one bottle was used a change for the better was noticeable or I should not have bought another. Now, after several bottles, she eats three good meals a day and food does not distress her in the least.

"Before trying Puritana, we had at different times tried four doctors in Bridgeport to no effect.

"I have convinced several friends by my firm belief in Puritana and gladly give my testimony to the public in the hope that others may receive the same benefits that Puritana has brought to my wife."

(Signed) M. M. PECK.
Box 489, Stratford.

While Mr. Peck was one, probably the first person in Bridgeport to try Puritana, his example has since been followed by numberless citizens.

THE CLOSING UP WEEK

Finds the Political Battle Waging Furiously In the Middle West.

Gold Democrats "Cutting Ice" In Doubtful States.

General Attack of the Silver Forces on Cook County Has Begun.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Accustomed as is this section to hustling campaigns, remarkable for a fervor unknown even in the political battles of the great Empire state, she has never saw such a week's campaigning as was began yesterday. As the fire sweeps over her fertile prairies, after weeks of drought, melting with its great heat, rather than burning and obscuring the air with vast clouds of smoke, so rages the political battle.

Bryan resumed his march on this city early yesterday morning. On his trail are Republican and Gold Democratic orators, striving to undo that which he has accomplished. Close behind them follow Altgeld, who started on a special train.

The tide of orators which set in this way a week ago is now at its height and every train from the east and west and south brings spellbinders, some with semi-national and some with but local reputations, eager for the fray and hopeful of recognition when the distribution of the plums begins. Others there are who are labor leaders, the most prominent of whom are Debs and John McBride on the Bryan side, with Powderly and McArthur on the other.

At the rival headquarters the same hopeful spirit prevails, and both continue to send out statements of how they are going to win.

This much is clear to be seen, the Gold Standard Democrats are of vastly greater importance than most people credited them with being even within a few weeks, and it would surprise few of the sharp political observers if the defection of Democrats to Palmer and Buckner decided the contest in some of the doubtful states.

Mr. Hanna yesterday counted 33 of the 45 states for the Republicans. He will make a final and complete statement as to the probable result of the election on Saturday night, just prior to his departure for his home. Henry C. Payne, Mr. Hanna's assistant, in speaking of the Illinois situation, said: "We are confident of carrying the state by 125,000 to 140,000 plurality. The entire central west is also absolutely sure for McKinley."

Chairman Hanna has directed that the following telegram be sent to chairmen of the Republican state committees throughout the country: "You will please direct county chairmen in your state to make special effort for the celebration of flag day Saturday, Oct. 31, by calling on all Republicans to assemble in the cities, villages and hamlets nearest their homes, and show their patriotism, devotion to country and the flag, and their intention to support the party which stands for protection, sound money and good government, by having patriotic speeches and such other exercises as will be appropriate for the occasion, and tend to make the day a general holiday as far as possible. It is to be hoped that Republicans everywhere will unite to dedicate the day to this patriotic service."

The executive committee of the Trades Unionist club of Chicago, with the approval of the Democratic national committee, has addressed an appeal to the farmers and agricultural laborers of Illinois and the Mississippi valley. The document calls Mark Hanna an "industrial cannibal," who has endeavored to secure the purchasable vote "which always exists in great centers of population, by the lavish and corrupt use of money, and to array that vote against the interests of the agriculturalists."

Coercion of the incorruptible wage-earners in the cities is also freely charged. It is admitted that "these conditions create a menace to the cause we have at heart," and hence the appeal to the farmers to redouble their efforts to make the agricultural vote of the Mississippi valley as large as possible for the free silver cause; "to make good any possible loss of votes which may result from coercion and bribery."

The Trades Unionists say they refuse to "listen to all appeals which would set us against you, our fellow workmen."

Senator Tillman arrived in town yesterday from a stumping tour through Oregon and Washington. He said the states he had been speaking in to many thousands of enthusiastic voters would undoubtedly give their electoral votes for Bryan.

The general attack of the silver forces on Cook county began yesterday, with meetings all over the city. Governor Altgeld was the chief speaker, but there were many others from outside Chicago and Illinois. Every county of Illinois has furnished at least one speaker, outside Cook, to join in the attack on the gold standard.

All negotiations which were being conducted by Western Chairman Washburn of the Populist national committee, representing Candidate Watson, and Chairman Jones of the Democratic national committee, for the purpose of solidfying the Middle-of-the-Road Populist vote for Bryan, were officially declared at an end yesterday by Mr. Washburn. Democratic state committees, particularly the silver Democracy committees of Georgia and Tennessee, are blamed for the failure of the negotiations. Mr. Watson will spend the remainder of the campaign practically in silent disgust, but his letter of acceptance will not appear in public to hurt the candidacy of Mr. Bryan.

In an interview, Mr. Washburn said:

"In all justice to Senator Jones, I must say, that from the beginning he has been eager to remove all complications and effect an equitable fusion in every state, and thus unite all the silver forces for Bryan and victory.

"All negotiations are now at an end, and whether our people and candidates have been recognized to the extent they should or not, our committee desires that every Populist shall prove his patriotism in helping at the polls to elect Bryan, just as they did in nominating him at St. Louis."

"Will Mr. Watson go to Kansas or North Carolina?"

"No; I don't think he will. He has promised to make a few speeches in his district for Mr. West, our congressional candidate, and, I think, that will close his campaign."

"Having seen Mr. Watson's letter of acceptance, do you favor its publication?"

"I do not see what good would be accomplished at this late day, as Mr. Watson has stated the principal points of his letter in his public speeches, therefore, I do not favor its publication."

AGREED TO DISAGREE.

Williams Will Have Nothing to Do With "Enemies on State Committee."

Boston, Oct. 27.—For what is apparently the final time in this campaign, all negotiations for peace between the warring factions of the state Democracy were yesterday declared off, leaving the situation just where it was before Judge Corcoran sent in his resignation last week; for that resignation is now withdrawn. Judge Corcoran is still to continue as chairman of the state committee, and there will be no official ratification of G. F. Williams and the other Democratic candidates.

It was thought last week that some union of forces might be effected under a flag of truce, as it were, and the chairman's resignation was sent in to pave the way for negotiations. Then committees representing both sides were appointed for conference, and everything seemed to be progressing smoothly toward the proposed union of both factions in an official ratification meeting next Friday in Music hall, when the negotiations received a blow, in the shape of a telegram from G. F. Williams. The telegram said:

"I absolutely refuse further negotiation with enemies on state committee, and will not occupy the same platform at any ratification. They have exhausted their power to injure our glorious cause, and now seek to escape responsibility. Let them reckon with the people. They cannot have my hand to pull them from the ditch."

This at once discounted all the arrangements that were made for the ratification at Saturday's meeting. At that time conference committees were appointed from both factions to talk over the situation and make necessary plans for a meeting. They were to report at the executive committee meeting yesterday noon.

Representatives of the Bryan-Sewall-Williams club appeared at yesterday's meeting, and it took them but a short time to report to the committee that nothing further could be done toward making peace. After they had retired, the committee discussed the situation, and decided to postpone the meeting of the full state committee, which had been called for today, indefinitely. They also communicated with Judge Corcoran, apprising him of the situation. He at once withdrew his resignation, which had not been accepted. Notices were then sent out to members of the committee, announcing that the meeting for today had been postponed.

Cramped For Room.

Canton, O., Oct. 27.—The largest crowds in Canton have been confined most generally to Saturdays. Yesterday, however, was a surprise even to the much surprised Cantonians. Organized delegations came from Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois. The day throughout was distinguished by the most handsome paraphernalia yet witnessed. The Erie railway employes' delegation was numbered by thousands. After Major McKinley returned from attending the funeral of a friend, the paraders began their marches. They stood in waiting on North Market street, in double line from the McKinley home to the courthouse, a half-mile straightaway. They gathered and packed and swayed about the house, so that the speaking from the porch to be heard by so vast a crowd was impossible. The temporary reviewing platform, used on Saturdays, is not allowed to stand after the day is over. There was, however, no place to speak from but the porch. Tables had to be carried from the house, to improvise a rostrum, so that the people, jammed solid across the street and crowded upon the lawns of neighbors' homes, might hear. Nearly all of the introductory speeches referred to the coercion charge of Mr. Bryan, and several spokesmen challenged the proof for a single case of coercion. Major McKinley again referred to the charge of forcing employes, saying that there are people "who are disturbed whenever they discover that the employer of labor and labor itself are on good terms, and whenever that occurs they commence crying coercion. It is not coercion; it is co-operation, the one working with the other for the public good and for their advantages, severally."

Bryan's Tour.

Alton, Ills., Oct. 27.—There were four short stops made by Mr. Bryan between Jacksonville and Alton yesterday. At Roodhouse, where a five-minute stop was made, a good sized assemblage, among which there was a liberal sprinkling of yellow ribbons, greeted the candidate. He spoke from the platform for a few moments, his speech being of the same general tenor as his ordinary tail-end of the car addresses. Godfrey, Jerseyville and Kane turned out fair-sized crowds to cheer Mr. Bryan as he appeared at the back of the car. Two speeches were made at Alton last night, one from either side of the city hall building. Large and enthusiastic audiences testified to their appreciation of the nominee's statements by cheering and applauding at each stop he made in his address. He spoke on the money question, using many of the same arguments and illustrations as employed by him before. He left at 10:05 o'clock for Lincoln, where he addressed an audience in time to leave that place at 8:15 this morning. Bloomington heard the candidate at 10:20. He will speak at Pontiac, then at Dwight and Braidwood, Joliet and Lamont, and will arrive in Chicago a 3:30 p. m.

Take laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c

Thousands of men are afraid of the lightning, and yet not one man in ten thousand is ever killed by it. Few men are afraid of consumption, and yet it causes one-sixth of all the deaths in the world. It is more deadly than either wars or pestilences. Any sort of wasting disease may lead to consumption. Any slight disorder of the respiratory organs may easily develop it. Weakness of the body, emaciation, lack of vitality are plain invitations for the germs of consumption. Consumption is not entirely a disease of the lungs. It is a disease of the blood that shows itself most strongly in the lungs. It is not—as it used to be considered—incurable. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has changed all that. It will cure ninety-eight per cent. of all cases of consumption if taken in time. It is the most wonderful blood maker and flesh builder in the world. It cures where doctors have failed. It has brought back to life hundreds of men and women who were considered as good as dead.

Mrs. Nancy R. Tubb, of Amory, Monroe Co., Miss., writes: "About ten years ago I suffered an attack of nervous prostration resulting in other troubles which my family physician pronounced consumption. We doctored with him until we lost all hope. I finally happened to find one of Dr. Pierce's little Memorandum Books, saw his medicine recommended and thought I would try it; sent and got one bottle of each—'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription'—and one bottle of 'Pellets.' As soon as I began to use these medicines my health began to improve, and before I had used one-half dozen bottles I felt almost as strong as I ever was. I am now enjoying good health again. Two years ago I had a little boy who seemed to be subject to phthisic (asthma) and I thought I would try the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and to my surprise it cured him entirely; he has never had another attack."

DISBARMENT IS ASKED.

Perjury and Fraud Charged Against a Prominent Boston Lawyer.

Clients Are Said to Have Been His Victims.

Defendant Claims to Be Sick but Doctors Disagree in the Matter.

Boston, Oct. 28.—Charges of gross frauds and perjury were preferred against E. J. Jenkins in the equity session of the superior court yesterday, by the Bar association of the city of Boston. The courtroom was crowded with lawyers and representatives of the legal profession, for whom the case seemed to possess much interest.

Mr. Jenkins has held many honorable positions, including that of president of the common council and member of the state senate. He did not appear in court yesterday, his counsel, P. J. Casey, stating that he was confined to his home. He asked for a postponement of the hearing. A letter from Dr. O. G. Cilley was read in support of the motion, stating that he had examined Mr. Jenkins and giving it as his opinion that Mr. Jenkins would be unable to appear in court.

Counsel for the petitioner, H.W. Chaplin, objected to the letter, saying it was not sworn to, as legally required.

Dr. Cilley was out of town and could not be called to give his professional opinion under oath, and the court ordered the case to proceed, Dr. Durgin of the board of health being appointed to visit defendant and examine him as to his ability to attend. The court made a provision that if the doctor found that Mr. Jenkins was unable to appear, the hearing should be postponed.

Witnesses for the petitioner were called and testified in relation to the charge in the petition that the respondent, being employed by Mrs. Mary Linskey of Newton to collect a legacy of $600 under the will of Ann Hallahan, did, in June, 1894, receive the amount of the legacy from J. J. Toomey of East Boston, the executor of the will, but that he fraudulently withheld the same and paid it over to Mrs. Linskey, his client, in July, 1895, under fear of exposure to legal proceedings.

The next charge alleged the assignment by the respondent last January of passbooks of deposits in the Provident Institution for Savings, which he held as executor of the will of Mary L. Holland, with intent to defraud and convert them to his own use, and with intent to encumber the estate.

The respondent denies that he had any intent to defraud, denies that he converted any money, and denies that he intended to encumber the state.

These witnesses were examined in support of the above charge. Lewis W. Leary, a South Boston undertaker, and administrator of the estate of Mary L. Holland, to succeed Mr. Jenkins, who was removed; Ellen M. Holland, one of the legatees under the will of Mary L. Holland; Julia M. Dodge, a sister of Mary L. Holland, and P. O. McLaughlin, a lawyer.

Frank W. Parker, president of the School Street Loan company, testified that the company made loans to Mr. Jenkins in January last, one for $528 and the other for $100, on notes payable with interest at 3 per cent a month, and took savings bank book as collateral. He also testified to holding passbooks of Mary A. King, an insane ward of Mr. Jenkins. The respondent was charged with assigning these passbooks, thereby converting the books to his own use, and doing so with intent to defraud.

These charges also were denied by the defense.

Miss Mary S. King, a niece of respondent's ward, testified that, in November, 1895, she went to Mr. Jenkins in reference to a bill for board of which she had no account. Mr. Jenkins did not pay the bill.

Dr. Durgin returned to court during the examination, and reported that in his opinion Mr. Jenkins' condition did not bear out the statement that he had pleurisy. He found him perspiring freely, and he believed Mr. Jenkins could come to court by rubbing off the perspiration and clothing himself comfortably.

Judge Gaskill ordered the case to proceed. After the examination of the witnesses the closing arguments by opposing counsel were heard, and at 4 o'clock the case was adjourned until today.

Another charge preferred is that the respondent collected $150 on a judgment in favor of Edward C. Fraser, against the city of Boston, on account of damages at Stony Brook in November, 1892, and did not inform Fraser of it.

A Total Wreck.

Philadelphia, Oct. 28.—Information has been received by the ships' agents in this city that the barkentine Commercio, from Lisbon, Oct. 3, for Philadelphia, has been totally wrecked near Madeira. The Commercio was built in 1874, in Maine, and was of 478 tons burden.

Rebels Subdued.

Lisbon, Oct. 28.—A telegram received here from St. Paul De Loanda, Portuguese West Africa, says that the Portuguese expedition has just punished the rebellious Bendo natives, burning 24 of their villages and killing 100 of the rebels.

Rum and Jealousy.

Portland, Me., Oct. 28.—William Parks, 40 years old, whose home is in Yarmouth, attempted to kill his wife, on Middle street, last night. She had left him, and said she was going to Boston to get rid of him. Four shots were fired, but none reached their intended mark. Parks was arrested almost immediately, but, even while in irons in the officers' grasp, he attempted to strike the woman. The man had been drinking, and was insanely jealous of his wife.

Too Liberal to Friends.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 28.—Rev. E. H. Capen, D. D., president of Tufts college, has filed a voluntary petition for insolvency. The causes which led to the assignment do not in any way affect the institution with which he is connected. In order to help personal friends, he had endorsed too large an amount of paper, and property given to him as security was found to be over-estimated in value.

No Booty Found.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 28.—James Ahern and William Coleman were arrested here yesterday, for attacking and robbing a peddlar named Yudkin, in Shelton. They are both young men. None of the money or the watch, which Yudkin alleged they took, was found in their possession. They admitted beating Yudkin, but said they did it because he refused to give them a ride in his wagon. They walked from Shelton to this city.

Convicted at Last.

New Haven, Oct. 28.—Dr. J. E. Lee, who has been before the courts on three different occasions, was found guilty of malpractice by the superior court yesterday, and sentenced to five years in prison. The jury was out but 15 minutes. The only witness presented by the state was Miss M. Palmer, the alleged victim, and the story told by her was the most revolting in the history of Connecticut.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

Another pleasant day.

Six days to the election.

A continuance of the pleasant weather is predicted.

These are busy days for the tax collector. Interest on unpaid taxes will begin Nov. 1.

Dress rehearsal tomorrow afternoon of the operetta "The Two Queens," at First church chapel for the benefit of the Hospital.

The High school and Adams Academy foot ball teams are to be consolidated and the best men taken from each, so as to get a strong team.

The Merrymount Stereopticon Co. of Quincy has been engaged by the Boston Globe to bulletin election returns next Tuesday evening in Boston.

Beautiful flowers for wedding decorations or funerals can be obtained of A. M. Bugbee, Holmes street, Atlantic. See notice in another column.

A fine entertainment will be given this evening at the Universalist vestry for the benefit of the Christian Union. Supper at six; entertainment at 8 o'clock.

Work on the new business block at Brewer's corner is being pushed along rapidly and when completed will make a valuable addition to that section of the city.

Dr. F. J. Bonney, a former dentist of this city, was in town today. Like all Maine men he is enthusiastic over election, and the success of the Republican candidates.

We would call the attention of those in want of typewriting, copying, etc., to the advertisement of Miss Brewer in another column. She will do the work in a very prompt and satisfactory manner.

The Quincy Co-operative bank is prospering. At the semi annual meeting Saturday evening the expense account was cleared up, a dividend of 6½ per cent. declared and a sum carried to the surplus account.

The Salvation Army will have a big demonstration Saturday evening, Oct. 30, led by Brigadier J. Toft, who has lately arrived from Sweden to help carry on the Swedish work in the Eastern states. Meeting will begin at 8 o'clock in the hall on Canal street.

The Quincy Historical society has caused a stone wall to be constructed about the John Quincy Adams birthplace. An old fashioned well curb has been set up in the yard and also the model of the First church which for many years was in the yard of the Briesler estate.

D. D. G. M. J. Q. S. Litchfield and his suite comprising Past Grands H. E. Raymond, G. W. Pratt, E. A. French, J. F. Cushing, C. H. Matherson and G. M. Hoyt, paid an official visit to Mt. Wollaston lodge, No. 80, I. O. O. F., last evening, and witnessed the Initiatory degree worked.

The case of Bridget Dolan of Dorchester vs the City of Quincy is on trial at the superior court in Dedham. It is an action of tort to recover $4000 damage for personal injuries received by reason of a fall at the junction of Hancock and Walnut streets, Atlantic, Jan. 29, 1895, alleged to have been caused by a defect in the sidewalk.

Merrymount lodge, A. O. U. W., received an official visit at its meeting Tuesday evening by Deputy Haliburton and suite from Salem. The meeting was largely attended and interesting remarks were made by grand officers. After the business of the evening a stereopticon entertainment was given after which a collation was served.

A public card party will be held at the St. John's hall on Thursday evening. A collation will also be served to be followed by a dance. Tickets for sale at McGovern Bros.', L. J. Pastor's and by members. This is the first in the series of winter entertainments to be given by the society, and it is hoped that a large number will be present. The Ladies' Auxiliary society will be the guest of the St. John's on this occasion.

The operetta composed by Mrs. Holbrook, "The Two Queens," is to be given in the Unitarian chapel, on Friday evening, for the benefit of the Hospital. A dress rehearsal is also to be given Thursday afternoon for the children and those who cannot attend on Friday night. Mrs. Holbrook the composer is to act as accompanist and Miss Carrie Follett Spear as conductor which assures a fine musical entertainment.

NO-LICENSE BUTTONS.

School Committee Asked to Let Children Wear Them.

New Boundaries Fixed for West Quincy School District.

The Financial Report and Other Business of the Board.

The School Committee held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening, the only absent member being Rev. Mr. Breed.

The finance committee reported the following statement:

	Balances.	Appropriations.
Salaries,	$18,441.79	$62,235.00
Fuel,	1,06 6.59	5,5 0.00
Janitors.	1,195.71	5, 00.00
Transportation,	336.50	1,000 00
Books and supplies,	1 430.69	8,200 0
Evening schools,	2,034.80	2,800.00

The resignations of Miss Sullivan of the John Hancock and Miss Birse of the Adams school were announced.

Messrs. Porter, Gurney and Page were appointed to prepare the annual report of the School Committee for the City Report.

The superintendent was given permission to give the old slates in the schools to the children if they wished them.

It was voted to close the schools for the Thanksgiving vacation on Wednesday noon Nov. 25, until the following Monday.

It was voted that the present term close on Wednesday December 23, and the new term open Monday, January 4.

Rev. Edward Norton, chairman of the Citizens No license Committee, asked if the committee would allow the children of the schools to wear badges reading "For my sake, vote No License," if of no expense to the city.

This caused some discussion upon badges and buttons in general, and the sentiment seemed to be against the wearing of buttons by the children. No action was taken upon the request but it was understood that if the citizens committee distribute the badges to the pupils outside of the school building no objections would be made if they were worn properly. The committee did, however, object to the teachers distributing the badges.

The committee on boundary lines for the new Gridley Bryant school and the changes made necessary in the lines of the Willard, John Hancock and Lincoln schools, submitted the following as the boundaries which were adopted, thus relieving the other schools of 262 pupils.

GRIDLEY BRYANT—Shall include all that part of Quincy north and west of a line beginning at the Quincy and Milton boundary stone on Beale street, near Milton street and running thence in a southerly direction in the rear of all houses on Summit avenue, to the intersection of Furnace brook and Adams street on the easterly side of said street; thence following up the course of Furnace brook to the public playground; thence in a southwesterly direction through the said ground and in the rear of all houses on Hall place to Copeland street; thence across the tracks of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. at the intersection of Copeland and Willard streets, and thence in a southwesterly direction to the Milton line.

WILLARD—Shall be bounded by the Gridley Bryant line on the north and west to the intersection of Furnace brook and Adams street, on the easterly side of said street; thence the line shall run down Furnace brook to a point opposite the junction of Adams and Whitwell streets; thence through the centre of Whitwell street to Ryden street; thence through the centre of Ryden street in a direct line to Quarry street, at its junction with the extension of Smith street; thence through the centre of Smith street to Garfield street; thence through the centre of Garfield street to Granite street, thence through the centre of Granite street to Centre street; thence by the ward line to the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R., and thence south-easterly by said railroad to the Braintree line.

JOHN HANCOCK—Shall have the easterly bounds of the Willard district on the west and the northerly of the Lincoln, on the south. From the Adams school district the John Hancock shall be divided as follows: Beginning at the intersection of Quincy street and the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. the line shall run northerly to Water street; thence through the centre of Water street to Pleasant street; thence through the centre of Pleasant street to Fort street; thence through the centre of Fort street to Granite street; thence through the centre of Granite street to Gass place; thence through the centre of Gass place to Deldorf street; thence through the centre of Deldorf street to Whitwell street; thence through the centre of Whitwell street to Ryden street.

LINCOLN—Shall include all that part of Quincy between the main line and the West Quincy branch of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., and south of a line beginning at the intersection of the ward line and the West Quincy branch and running thence easterly along said ward line to the junction of Centre and Granite streets; thence in a direct line to the junction of Intervale street and Brooks road, and in the rear of all houses on Nightingale avenue; thence through the centre of Brooks road to Liberty street; thence easterly on Liberty street to Quincy street; thence through the centre of Quincy street to main line of railroad.

Another Victory for Quincy.

The Quincy Football club (Association rules) had a visit from the Newton United team on Saturday afternoon when they again placed another victory to their credit. Newton won the toss of the coin and Quincy kicked off against a stiff breeze. The play was weak on both sides until the first half was about half gone when Quincy wakened up, and after a fine run managed to lower the Newton colors. Both teams then played a fair game till almost on the call of half-time when the Newtons managed to put on an equalizing point. Half-time result, Quincy, 1 goal; Newton, 1 goal.

On resuming play the Quincys settled down to work and managed to run the score up till they reached the final result of 5 goals to 1.

There were no especial features of the game, neither team playing as they ought. There seemed to be a lack of combination on both sides although if anything Quincy played the better game. R. Robertson, T. Robertson, D. Arthur and J. Gauld sometimes did some good work but they seemed to have a lack of support.

The Quincy team are corresponding with Barre Rangers, of Vermont, and expect soon to pay another visit to the Green Mountains where they think that with a little better luck than they had last time they will be able to lower the Ranger's colors on their own grounds. We wish them every success.

Should be Encouraged.

Now that Quincy has such excellent classes in art as those connected with the Young Men's Christian association, we wonder that someone does not seize the opportunity to encourage the students by offering prizes for the classes in clay modeling, free hand drawing, monumental designing and Sloyd.

Last year the association received the highest reward in North America for the first two studies. Next spring they will compete again at the International convention to be held at Mobile, Alabama.

The students will also have the privilege of taking the International examinations and receiving the diploma offered by the International Committee. Already one of the large State Universities has agreed to recognize these diplomas and give the students credit for the work done in the evening school. Other colleges and universities are considering the question and there is little doubt but that in a short time this great evening school work of the Association will be linked with the great educational system of our country. In many cities large manufacturing firms, as well as individuals, are offering prizes to the students in these evening classes. The great granite industry of Quincy will be greatly helped as these art studies are encouraged among the granite cutters.

The Petition of 1893.

The granite cutters of Quincy foresaw the result of the reduction of the tariff when in 1893 the following petition with over 700 names was sent to Congress. Col. Clarke in his recent address in this city told of the large increase of imported granite and statistics showed that the value of this work would pay the wages of 2500 men. The petition read:

QUINCY, MASS., Dec. 1, 1893.

To the Honorable the Ways and Means Committee of the Fifty-third Congress:

We, the undersigned workmen, Granite Cutters and Polishers of Quincy, Mass., respectfully and earnestly petition your Honorable body to maintain the present 40 per cent. ad valorem duty on dressed granite. Should the duty of 20 per cent., as proposed by the new bill, be enacted, our daily work will be taken from us by the poorly paid workmen of Europe.

That Tired Feeling

Makes you seem "all broken up," without life, ambition, energy or appetite. It is often the forerunner of serious illness, or the accompaniment of nervous troubles. It is a positive proof of thin, weak, impure blood; for, if the blood is rich, red, vitalized and vigorous, it imparts life and energy to every nerve, organ and tissue of the body. The necessity of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for that tired feeling is therefore apparent to every one, and the good it will do you is equally beyond question. Remember

HOW often we hear our customers complain that the rubber bottles now days are not near as good as we used to buy, and that is quite true, for the last few years every manufacturer has by competition tried to make them cheaper than any one else, and while the price is cheap, the bottles are far from satisfactory. Musicale at Mr. King's

Another mark was scored on the long list of hospitalities in this spacious home Tuesday evening. A large party of ladies and gentlemen were invited to hear the repetition of the enjoyable parlor concert given last week at the Misses Pratt's.

A quartette, with added soloist, pianist and accompanist gave a programme of variety and excellence, embracing ballads, comic songs, elaborate solos, a beautiful cradle song for four voices, and a rollicking drinking song by all.

An old favorite citizen who is too seldom heard, played a beautiful piano solo. The gem of the evening was a martial basso solo, sung with great dramatic power, rare finish and fine quality. All awarded him the palm although there was too much good to make comparisons.

Tall clusters of white chrysanthemums were upon the piano. The venerable Mrs. Baxter graced the party a while with her presence. Fine toilets, old friends, a social hour with ices, cakes and coffee, prolonged the pleasant party until eleven o'clock, when the guests bade good night to the kind hosts.

East Braintree Train Service.

The Railroad Commissioners gave a hearing yesterday upon petition of the selectmen of Braintree asking for better train service at East Braintree.

John V. Scollard appeared for the petitioners and General Superintendent E. G. Allen for the railroad company.

The citizens of East Braintree complain that they are obliged to leave their homes about 6 o'clock in order to reach their work in Boston before 8 o'clock and they also want the train leaving Boston about 5.15 P. M., to stop at that place.

Several patrons of the road were questioned and several citizens of Duxbury and Cohasset objected to having expresses make any more stops.

Supt. Allen spoke of the crowded condition of the road and that the trains now asked for by the people of East Braintree were run express on account of the pressure brought to bear by people from beyond. He showed a disposition to do the right thing and the hearing was continued until November 11.

The petitioners feel that they presented a good case and it is probable that an additional morning and afternoon train will be given.

New Mails.

Several important changes in the Quincy mail service went into effect today at the Quincy post office, as follows:

The mail from Boston which arrived at 11.49 A. M., now arrives at 10.49 A. M., an hour earlier.

The mail from Boston and the west which arrived at 12.49 P. M., now arrives at 12.15 P. M., thirty minutes earlier.

A new mail from Newport and way stations will arrive at 9.30 A. M. by R. P. O., and a new mail for Newport and way stations will be dispatched at 4.30 P. M.

These new mails are important ones for any letter mailed at stations between Newport and Quincy will be thrown off at Quincy instead of going through the Boston office as heretofore, and any letter from Newport and intermediate stations from Quincy will go direct from Quincy and not go through the Boston office as heretofore.

Bible Class.

Tonight at Calvary Baptist church the Rev. M. W. Plummer of Boston, will continue his teaching on the bible. Subject continued from last week on "Rightly dividing the word of truth." Last Wednesday evening was enjoyed by all those interested in knowing the word as understood by one who has given his life to this work of teaching sinners the way of salvation and helping those who are saved into deeper depths and blessing that God has reserved for those who love Him. A cordial welcome to everyone to come at 7.30 P. M. A collection will be taken up at the close to defray expenses.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The annual meeting and election of officers this evening. Reports will be rendered by officers, and refreshments will be served.

The Association orchestra is booming. Fourteen reported at the rehearsal last evening.

The membership is growing rapidly at present. Scarcely a day passes but their are from one to five persons join.

The Sloyd school opens Friday. The outlook for a large class is splendid.

EGGS FOR BRYAN MEN.

Bombardment of Paraders From Windows of a Business College.

Candidate Begins His Campaign In Cook County.

Both Sides Giving Out Their Usual Claims of Great Strength.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—While the Democratic parade in honor of Mr. Bryan was passing the corner of Michigan avenue and Monroe street yesterday, several eggs were thrown at it by young students in the Metropolitan Business college. None of the eggs came near Mr. Bryan or his wife, and neither of them knew of the episode until after the parade was over.

All sorts of stories were current about the affair, one of them being that Mrs. Bryan was struck with an egg, another that her carriage was hit. Neither of these stories were true, however. The first egg thrown at the parade came from a boy standing on the sidewalk in front of the Powers building, in which the Metropolitan Business college is situated. The egg was, to all appearances, thrown at the parade generally, and at no particular individual, as it was not hurled with any violence. A policeman, who witnessed the act, made a rush for the youngster, who darted up the stairway into the building. A second officer joined the first, and as the two ran for the doorway, several more eggs were thrown from the windows of the business college. The Cook County Marching club, which was escorting Mr. Bryan, received the bombardment, and several Prince Albert coats and glossy black tiles were scattered with yellow. One or two eggs struck the sidewalk, and the crowd was decorated accordingly.

Later in the afternoon a delegation from the Cook county Democracy descended on the college with every symptom of hostility, and demanded that the students who had done the throwing be turned over to it. They held possession of the college for a time, and finally left without learning who the miscreants were. The police had no better success, and Mr. Powers, the owner of the building, who is also the president of the college, said that he did not know who had thrown the eggs, although he admitted that they came from students in his institution. He was much distressed by the occurrence, and declared if he knew who had done the work he would have no hesitancy in turning them over to the police. Later in the day, a reporter for a morning Republican paper, while looking up the facts in the case, was severely beaten by a party of men who had taken part in the parade.

"I would be very glad to hear that the police have arrested those who insulted Mr. Bryan," said Chairman Hanna. "Whatever may have been their motive, the act was a most disgraceful one, and deserves the condemnation of every right-minded person. I hope the authorities will investigate the case fully, and properly punish the guilty ones. The Republican management have no sympathy with the people who engage in business of this kind."

Mr. Bryan arrived in Chicago at 3:30 p. m., over the Alton road, and was met at the depot by a large crowd. The Cook County Democratic Marching club and several silver clubs, with a large number of bands and drum corps, were waiting for him on Canal street, and as soon as he appeared the march was taken up for battery D, on Michigan avenue. A short parade through the downtown streets preceded the arrival at the battery, entering the city from Brighton park, where Mrs. Bryan appeared on the platform and distributed flowers. There were crowds at every street crossing until the Union depot was reached.

The first of the half dozen of Mr. Bryan's speeches, following the initial address at battery D, was delivered at Arcade hall, in the extreme southern portion of the city. The building was packed, and people were hanging on the rafters and others climbing on boxes, piled at every window, outside, to get a look at the candidate. Mr. Bryan was wildly cheered. Coming a mile closer to the business center of the city, Mr. Bryan next spoke at Boulevard hall. The place was packed to the utmost.

At Polish School hall, Mr. Bryan was greeted by an immense audience, which filled the hall to overflowing and reached far into the streets. Mr. Bryan dwelt largely upon the effects of falling prices and making dollars dear by making them scarce.

At the mammoth tent, Twenty-ninth and Halsted streets, and at Germania hall, Mr. Bryan was also greeted by immense crowds, and fulfilled their expectations with spirited addresses, differing from any spoken by him in Chicago, but not substantially varying from what he has said somewhere else.

While the crowds were dispersing, after the Bryan demonstration at the depot, the sidewalk in front of 121 Canal street gave way, and nearly 100 people were precipitated into the basement, a distance of 12 feet. Many received slight injuries.

Chairman Campau of the Democratic national campaign committee, yesterday received telegraphic reports from each state chairman in the Union, giving estimates based on the latest information as to how the different states will record their votes next Tuesday. This is the last formal report that will be made by the chairman of the different state committees. Mr. Campau said:

"The Democratic national committee awaits the result of next week's election with serene confidence. William J. Bryan will be elected by the largest popular majority given any president in a quarter of a century. He will have more than 300 votes in the electoral college. Our reports from the middle western states show the effect of his wonderful campaigning tour through them. His majorities will be increased by many thousands, as a result of his great journey. Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Idaho and Minnesota are absolutely safe, and our chance of success in Ohio and Wisconsin are more than flattering. The ever rising tide of enthusiasm for the great cause and the great leader of the common people, will sweep those states, along with their sisters, already won.

"Senator Gorman, one of the most astute political leaders of the Union, guarantees Maryland. Our reports from Kentucky are that Republican monopoly and Democratic treason will be outvoted by more than 40,000. The desperate and despotic effort to coerce and buy the American people is doomed to dismal and humiliating failure. The solid south and the silver west will join hands in impregnable alliance at the polls. The great middle west is with them in an invincible union. Our intrepid leader is sure to get a magnificent victory. These states will give their votes for him, without a shadow of doubt:

"Alabama, 11; California, 9; Florida, 4; Idaho, 3; Indiana, 15; Kansas, 10; Iowa, 13; Michigan, 14; Mississippi, 9; Montana, 3; Nevada, 3; North Dakota, 3; South Carolina, 9; Tennessee, 12; Utah, 3; Washington, 4; Wyoming, 3; Arkansas, 8; Colorado, 4; Georgia, 13; Illinois, 24; Iowa, 13; Kentucky, 13; Maryland, 8; Minnesota, 9; Missouri, 17; Nebraska, 8; North Carolina, 11; Oregon, 4; South Dakota, 4; Texas, 15; Virginia, 13; West Virginia, 6. Total, 283. In addition, our chances of success in these states are far better than those of the Republicans: Delaware, 3; Ohio, 23; Wisconsin, 12. Total, 38.

"It has been a long, hard campaign, but the people's cause has never ceased in its steady march to victory. Success is now in plain sight. The brag and bluster of the Republican national committee, in claiming 350 electoral votes, is shown in including such states as Texas, Idaho, Utah and Montana, where the majority for Bryan can only be measured by considering almost the whole voting population for him."

Bowling Match.

The Quincy club bowling team rolled a match Tuesday evening with the Quincy league team at Costello's alleys, and again suffered defeat at the hands of the league team by 172 points.

Peverley was high man for the league team with a total of 469 and Taber was high man for the Quincy club with a total of 440. The score:

Sewer Assessments.

The cost of the Neponset river metropolitan sewer system has been apportioned as follows: For interest and sinking fund requirements: Boston, 23.28 per cent.; Dedham, 13.52 per cent.; Hyde Park, 18.13 per cent.; Milton, 45.07 per cent. For cost of maintenance and operation: Boston, 28.14 per cent.; Dedham, 19.85 per cent.; Hyde Park, 35.51 per cent.; Milton, 16.15 per cent. It will be seen that Milton will pay nearly half the cost, but that Hyde Park pays the most for maintenance.

Quincy Debating Club.

It is felt that the first meeting of the Quincy Debating Club will be very interesting as well as important one, for besides the annual election of officers one or two Quincy gentlemen will give an informal talk on the "Benefits of a Debating Club." The meeting will begin promptly at 7.45, Thursday October 29th.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

The Republican City Committee and the McKinley & Hobart battalion have received an invitation to visit John R. Graham on Friday evening.

A plurality of not less than 1500 is now predicted for Samuel J. Barrows for Congress.

Secretary Olin has sent the following notice to the city and town clerks throughout the State:

"The provisions of law relative to the nomination of candidates by parties which at the preceding annual state election cast for governor at least three per centum of the entire vote cast in the State for that office, necessitate a change in the block of candidates for the office of governor from the form used in previous years: George Fred Williams having been nominated under three distinct designations, it is necessary, in order to ascertain the number of votes cast for him under each designation, that his name shall appear upon the official ballot as follows:

George Fred Williams, of Dedham, Democratic.

George Fred Williams, of Dedham, Peoples' Party.

George Fred Williams, of Dedham, Democratic Bryan nomination paper.

Please cause instructions to be given election officers so that the returns which you make to this office will give the number of votes cast for Mr. Williams under each designation separately.

PICTURE OF MADONNA

Recovered by a Mexican Priest After a Search of Ten Years.

Was an Object of Veneration In a Convent.

Bought a Dozen Years Ago by a Man Who Will Now Part With It.

New York, Oct. 28.—Father Guterez, a Mexican priest, has ended his quest of 10 years, and the picture of the Virgin Mary and her child, for which he was searching, will be returned to the convent near the City of Mexico where it belongs.

The early history of the picture is surrounded with tradition, but it was in possession of the convent for 200 years prior to the time Maximilian enjoyed his short reign as Emperor of Mexico.

It is believed to have been painted more than 300 years ago. The work is by a Mexican artist. The model for the Madonna was an Indian woman, tall, dark and graceful, with Indian hair, Indian features and Indian stoicism.

The Christ child was painted from an Indian baby, and the looks of the model can be discerned in every feature, although the head is surrounded by a halo.

According to the story told by Father Guterez, the Madonna was the object of particular veneration in the convent. Thousands of persons came to pray before it, and gave prosperity to the institution.

When Maximilian entered on his career in the southern republic, the church accepted him, and the priests at the convent sent him the Madonna as a loan.

When Maximilian fell, 40 trunks, so Father Guterez says, were packed by his friends with his effects, and an attempt made to smuggle them out of the country. Among the articles was the picture of the Madonna.

The priests thought the picture had been lost in the confusion or destroyed, and hope of regaining it was abandoned. They learned no more of the picture until about 10 years ago, when they heard it had been sent out of Mexico in one of the trunks smuggled from the palace. Father Guterez made an unsuccessful search in Europe for it.

Father Guterez heard a story which induced him to come to New York. He called at Fullerton's art rooms and asked about the painting. "I bought it 12 years ago," said Mr. Fullerton. "I have never tried to sell it, and have never spoken much about it. I thought it was a relic."

The priest learned the history of the painting since it has been in his country. In 1884 a party of Mexicans came to New York to start a Mexican exposition. They brought with them a quantity of articles, which illustrated the progress and prosperity of the country. Among other things, they had many of the effects of Maximilian, including his silver service and a few paintings.

Mr. Fullerton attended the sale, and bought the picture for a small sum. Father Guterez says he will purchase it from him, and that its return to the convent will cause great rejoicing.

FROM MANY QUARTERS

Visitors Poured Into Canton to Pay Their Respects to McKinley.

Canton, O., Oct. 28.—An inspiring scene was witnessed on the public square of Canton from 4 to 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Thousands of people gathered in front of the courthouse, on the public square and sang patriotic melodies, interspersed with music by the bands and frequent cheers. "Yankee Doodle," "The Star Spangled Banner," followed one another. Nor were "Dixie" and "Maryland, My Maryland" forgotten. Both were sung as lustily and patriotically as was "John Brown's Body" and "Marching Through Georgia." The affair was entirely impromptu, and ended at 5 o'clock with "Home, Sweet Home" from both the bands and the vast audience, which had gathered first as spectators, and then as participators in that great patriotic concert.

Yesterday's demonstration was full of features. It was notable for a large crowd, for the wide range of territory represented by the visiting delegations and for the varied interests of the people who came. The demonstration began in earnest at noon, with the arrival of a party representing three states, and it continued till dark. All that time McKinley's residence was surrounded by an interested crowd, shouting and cheering for the nominee and applauding the delegations, which marched up the street.

In the first party were 16 coachloads, coming from eastern West Virginia, western Maryland and Martin's Ferry, O., the latter delegation being composed of women, coming with greetings for Major McKinley and with beautiful flowers for Mrs. McKinley. Employes of three large Cleveland manufacturing concerns were next upon the scene, and when they gave way, it was to make room for more Ohio people., men and women from Mingo Junction, the employes of a large iron and steel plant and their wives and friends.

After these came the New England delegation. This party occupied a special train of six sleepers and two dining cars, and was on the way from 2 o'clock Monday afternoon till 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The party came largely from Boston, but a number of other New England towns were represented. It was composed of former Democrats as well as Republicans, and one of the men presented to Major McKinley was introduced as one who had for over 50 years voted nothing but the Democratic ticket, but who, this year, will vote for McKinley and Hobart. The visitors were introduced by Frank W. Rollins, ex-president of the New Hampshire senate Many relics and mementoes of the visit were brought for Mrs. McKinley from Boston, from New Bedford and from historic Salem, including whales' teeth, twigs from a tree planted by Governor Endicott in 1628, and a gold witch spoon. The party remained in Canton till 6 o'clock.

No prettier sight has been witnessed in the whole campaign than in the reception of the Women's McKinley club of Norwalk, O. This club of some 300 members is splendidly organized and drilled, and when on parade carries campaign umbrellas, on which portraits of McKinley and Hobart are conspicuous. Mrs. McKinley, owing to sickness, could not receive the visitors. The major's mother and sister, Miss Helen McKinley, however, were at the house, and extended most cordial welcome to the callers. When Major McKinley concluded his address to the accompaniment of the Norwalk band, the women united in singing a campaign song to the tune of "Red, White and Blue," waving their handkerchiefs, and producing a most striking effect.

That Watson Letter.

Washington, Oct. 28.—Senator Butler, chairman of the Populist national committee, before leaving here for Indiana, authorized the publication of the following signed statement, concerning Watson's letter of acceptance: "Mr. Watson's letter was received Saturday night. It had been detained in the postoffice for want of sufficient postage, and I had not been notified by the postoffice authorities. Of course, I expected Mr. Watson to give his letter to the public in the usual way as soon as he had it ready. At a recent meeting of our executive committee, at Chicago, Mr. Washburn was sent by our committee to Thomson, Ga., to confer with Mr. Watson. On Monday, Oct. 19, I received a telegram from Mr. Washburn, sent while he was at Mr. Watson's home in Thomson, asking me not to publish Mr. Watson's letter until I heard from him; but that was before I had received the letter. In the meantime, Mr. Washburn went to Nashville last Saturday for another conference with Mr. Watson. I wired Mr. Washburn, who had just returned from Nashville, where he had a second conference with Mr. Watson, that the letter had been received. Mr. Washburn wired me, in reply, asking me not to publish the letter at present. In the meantime I have written to Mr. Watson, urging the advisability of making at least one important change in his letter. If he authorizes this change, I will give out the letter. Otherwise, he must take the responsibility of publishing it himself."

Life's Labor Ended.

Boston, Oct. 28.—Judge Edward Francis Johnson of Marlboro, died last night of brain paralysis. He was born in Hollis, N. H., Oct. 21, 1842. He was an authority on the settlement of estates, being one of the lawyers who had charge of the estate of J. C. Ayer, of patent medicine fame. It was at the reception following the wedding of his daughter, Oct. 21 last, his own 64th birthday, that he received the paralytic shock that proved fatal.

Cutting Down Expenses.

Paris, Oct. 28.—The cabinet has approved the scheme of Dr. Barthou, minister of the interior, for decentralization and for enlarging the powers of the municipal and departmental councils, by dispensing, in certain cases, with the approval of the prefect. The scheme reduces the prefectorial councils from 66 to 18, thus saving 450,000 francs. Four bills embodying this scheme were presented to the chamber today.

JENKINS IN DISGRACE.

Can No Longer Practice In the Law Courts of Massachusetts.

Deceit, Malpractice and Other Misconduct

Were the Charges Which the Court Has Found to Be True.

Boston, Oct. 29.—Edward J. Jenkins was, in the superior court yesterday, by Judge Gaskill, removed from the office of attorney-at-law for the courts of this commonwealth. The order to disbar was made on the petition of the Bar association of the city of Boston praying for the removal of the respondent upon the ground of his not being of good moral character; his being guilty of deceit, malpractice and other gross conduct. Judge Gaskill found that nine of the charges which the Bar association set forth against the respondent had been sustained by the evidence which it gave at the hearing. The respondent did not make and defense, and, in fact, did not appear at the hearing, his counsel claiming that he was too sick to be present. That there were slight grounds for this excuse was shown by Dr. Durgin, who, at the request of the court, made an investigation and reported that Jenkins was able to appear.

The court finds that the general charge of the Bar association, that the respondent is not of good moral character, and has been guilty of deceit, malpractice and other professional misconduct, is sustained; that the charge that he collected a legacy of $600 for Mary Linskey, under the will of Ann Hallahan, in June, 1894, and fraudulently converted it to his own use, and paid it over to her on July 20, 1895, under the fear of exposure of legal proceedings, is sustained; that the charge that he collected a judgment for $150 in a suit of Edward C. Fraser vs. the city of Boston, for damages done by Stony brook, in November, 1892, and fraudulently withheld it, and had not informed Fraser of his having collected the money, is sustained; that the charge that he collected, on Dec. 8, 1892, a judgment for $267, obtained in a suit brought by George W. P. Reed against the city of Boston, for damage done by the overflowing of Stony brook, and did not inform Reed of the fact of collection, and fraudulently withheld the money, is sustained; that the charge that he collected, in November, 1892, a judgment for $151 in a suit brought by Henry Aston vs. the city of Boston, for damages done by the overflowing of Stony brook, and that he did not inform Aston of having collected the money, and withheld it, is sustained.

It is further found by the court that he, having been appointed guardian for Mary A. King, an insane person, in January last, withdrew the money on savings bank books in the Boston Five Cents Savings bank and the Boston Penny Savings bank, and converted same to his own use; that he did, with a view to encumber and inconvenience the collection of a deposit in the Provident Institution for Savings, and to defraud his ward, Mary King, assign a savings bank book on this institution to the School Street Loan company as collateral for money which he borrowed for himself.

The court also sustains the charge that having been appointed executor under the will of Mary L. Holland, on Feb. 13 last, and having thereby come into possession of certain savings bank books, that he did, with a view to encumber the collection of a deposit book in the Provident Institution for Savings, assign it to the School Street Loan company as collateral for a loan to himself, and that, as the executor for the Mary L. Holland will, he did convert to his own use the avails of a deposit book in the Workingmen's Co-operative bank, amounting to $50.

Two charges against him of a similar character were not sustained.

Jenkins was admitted to the bar in November, 1881, and since then has been interested in local politics. He was a member of the Boston common council, of which he was president for a year, and was a state senator for one or more terms.

The formal decree for disbarring him has not been framed, that being the duty of H. W. Chaplin, counsel for the Bar association, who will submit it to Judge Gaskill for his approval.

Palmer Told the Truth.

Alfred, Me., Oct. 29.—County Sheriff Hurd and County Attorney Emmons returned from Effingham, N. H., last night, and reported that they had found the money which Savage and Palmer confessed to have hid in Savage's father's barn. Savage now admits that Palmer's version of the murder and subsequent acts is true. There was a sad scene in the jail last night, when Mr. and Mrs. Palmer came to visit their son. The parents of the youthful murderer could not muster up courage to go into the jail for some time after they reached its doors. They brought with them a hamper of fruit, food and clothing for their boy. When Palmer met his parents every one who witnessed the scene of the meeting was affected. Mr. Palmer, after the interview with his son, said the first time he heard the news that his son had committed the murder was from the lips of Savage's father, last Saturday morning, and he was not aware that his son had made a confession until he saw it in one of the Boston papers.

Would-Be Slayer Killed Himself.

Willimantic, Conn., Oct. 29.—Maurice Valenski, a Russian Jew, aged 35 years, is dying at the Norwich hospital, from an attempt at murder by Louis Kempner, aged 20, and the latter, fearing discovery, afterward committed suicide, by shooting himself with the same revolver he used on Valenski. The affair took place at Essex, and was the outcome of a quarrel between the men on account of attentions Kempner had been paying to Valenski's wife. Kempner had been boarding at Valenski's house. Wednesday night he laid in wait for his intended victim, and as he was coming from the barn, shot him. A posse of citizens started in pursuit when the affair became known, and yesterday Kempner's body was discovered back of Valenski's barn.

How About Studies?

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 29.—Trainer Waters of the Harvard freshmen football team had the whole squad before him last evening and gave them a lecture on training in general and the necessity of keeping in strict training if they wanted to be successful. He then called four members by name, and after questioning them, told them that they were through for breaking training, and need not report again for further duty. This action, it is thought, will have a beneficial effect on every member engaged in athletic training.

The Stetson Will Case.

Boston, Oct. 29.—A hearing on a petition to have Lawyer Charles H. Pattee and some other person appointed co-special administrators of the estate of the late John Stetson, Jr., with Melvin O. Adams, the present special administrator, pending the determination of the will contest, was given by Judge Grant yesterday, but no action was taken. All parties interested desire the appointment of Mr. Pattee, and all are anxious to have William Gaston, counsel for Mrs. Emma Stokes, serve as the third special administrator.

Suspicion of a Plot.

Portsmouth, N. H., Oct. 29.—A reward of $1500 has been offered by the officers of the Kittery, Eliot and York Fire Insurance companies, for the discovery of the person responsible for several incendiary fires that have taken place in that section during the past six months. The officials believe in the existence of an organized plot to defraud the company.

Captured in Haverhill.

Lancaster, N. H., Oct. 29.—Sheriff Beattie returned home last night with Frank Wiggin and Jacob Williams, who were arrested at Haverhill, Mass., on suspicion of having broken into the furnishing goods store of George A. Clark of this town. Goods valued at $300 were taken, and Mr. Clark identified property which these men had as his.

Carroll an Easy Winner.

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 29.—A mile race for the championship of the United States and $500 a side, was run here yesterday between James H. Smith of Albany and Patrick Carroll of Waltham Smith led of, and was passed by Carroll at the half-mile, who won in a walk. Time, 4m. 25 2-5s.

The Vermont Asylum Scandal.

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 29.—In the investigation into the management of the state insane asylum at Waterbury, Mrs. Amanda Perry, an ex-attendant in the asylum, was the only witness yesterday, and she made some very sensational charges against Dr. Giddings.

Dr. Gray's Prize.

Bangor, Me., Oct. 29.—Dr. G. H. Gray of Lynn, Mass., brought a large moose to this city yesterday, whose antlers were of unusual beauty, having 38 points. The antlers owned by the Prince of Wales, and supposed to be the largest in the world, have 34 points.

New England Briefs.

Mary F., the wife of former governor, Royal C. Taft, died in Providence.

Frank Reynolds, who is wanted in Worcester, Mass., on the charge of bicycle stealing, was arrested at Providence.

Mrs. Hannah L. Hutchins, aged 68, committed suicide at Biddeford, Me., by strangulation. She was mentally deranged.

Many women are as unprepared for the birth of their babies as if they were found on the doorstep in the good, old-fashioned way. Nine-tenths of all the suffering incident to the coming of baby is absolutely unnecessary. It is unnatural that this great function should be fraught with so much danger and distress. This was Dr. Pierce's conviction thirty years ago, and he set about to find a way to set the trouble right. The result was the preparation and introduction of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the only medicine of its kind devised by a regularly graduated, experienced and skillful specialist in the treatment of the diseases of women,—the only medicine in the world that frees the period of gestation from its discomforts, and makes parturition safe and practically painless. It is an absolute specific for all forms of female weakness and disease. It may be obtained at drug stores, and any woman who would like to know all about it, or who would like to have advice about her health, should write to Dr. Pierce, chief consulting physician at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Any woman who is sallow and bilious and headachey, who does not sleep well, and who is troubled with any form of indigestion can do no better thing than to try the effect of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are the only positive and permanent cure for constipation. They stimulate the action of the liver and assist Nature in getting rid of impurities. You do not become a slave to their use. Take them until the regular, healthy action of the bowels has been restored, and then quit. They are the only remedy of their kind that is a real remedy. They do not cause griping or any other unpleasant feeling. Don't let your druggist impose upon you and substitute something which he says is "just as good."

Fall Carpets.

Just a seasonable word or two, to-day.

When you're buying, think about quality as well as price.

Remember that the words "Axminster," "Wilton," "Brussels," etc., can be made to cover a multitude of sins.

Remember, too, that our stock is far larger than that of any other Boston house, and that as nobody can possibly buy to better advantage than we can, it is reasonable to suppose that our ability to name very low selling figures is also unsurpassed.

We are combining high quality with moderation in price, this Fall, more effectively than ever before.

We ask for your patronage on this basis—the basis of "goods for the money."

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

The Granite street bridge of the N. Y. N. H. & H. R R, is being painted white.

The St. John's C. L. and A. A. will hold a public card party, to be followed by a dance, at their hall on School street, this evening.

The condition of J. B. Foster, of Foster Bros., who has been seriously ill for some days is reported as being about the same this morning.

A gentleman who usually votes the Democratic ticket told us this morning that he would not be surprised if Quincy gave McKinley 700 majority.

The annual convention of the King's Daughters of Quincy is to be held in the chapel of Christ's church on Saturday afternoon and evening this week. It is earnestly desired that all members will endeavor to be present.

The lecture on The Old and New Madonnas in the chapel of the Bethany church this evening will be illustrated by about sixty stereopticon views. The lecture will be given by Mrs. M. A. Moore under the auspices of the King's Daughters.

The street railway is to put down some 300 feet of the girder rail, such as has been ordered on the new location granted them from City Square to Neponset, as an experiment to see how it will work in winter as it is said to be impossible to use this rail in the country, especially in winter.

Atlantic parents and pupils will be sorry to learn of the resignation of Mr. John Q. Litchfield as principal of the Quincy school. He has been elected as sub-master of the Agassiz school, of which John T. Gibson is master, at Jamaica Plain, and will enter upon his new duties Nov. 9. He will continue to reside at Atlantic.

A civil service examination for clerks and carriers in the postal service will be held in this city on Dec. 5. Applications must be filed before the hour of closing business at the Quincy postoffice Saturday, Nov. 21. Applicants must be citizens of the United States and those for clerk 18 years or over, and for carrier over 21 and under 40.

How nice it would be if everybody would think and send their names with any item they may send us. Then we should know who to thank for a favor. No matter how trivial the notice we always want to know who sends it. We received from a "Devoted Patron" this week a few lines about Mrs. Fegan, but not knowing who the writer was we did not care to use it.

The Norfolk association of Congregational ministers held their bi-monthly meeting at Hotel Greenleaf yesterday. Messrs. Edward T. Ford, of Brockton, and Morris H. Turk, of Quincy Point, were examined and licensed to preach. Rev. Edwin N. Hardy opened the discussion of "The Church and Amusements," with a paper. Rev. Mr. Lord, of Holbrook, read a sermon. Dr. Beale, of Campello presented an exegesis. About 25 members and guests were present.

At Calvary Baptist church last night Rev. M. W. Plummer spoke to an interested audience and we are glad to say the lesson was the most helpful one yet listened to, the interest becomes greater and we hope many may avail themselves of this blessed opportunity of knowing how to earn the reward promised them in Daniel 12:3. No one can create spiritual sunshine, but they can put their souls where Christ is shining, and to every earnest child of God He shines through the word as taught by Mr. Plummer. Everybody come next Wednesday evening.

CITY POLITICS.

Fred L. Jones May Run for Republican Nomination,

But Charles L. Hammond Thought to have the Inside.

The Democrats Still Fishing for Available Candidate.

All indications point to a lively municipal campaign in Quincy this year and from now until the election in December local politicians will find plenty of excitement. The dates for the municipal caucuses have been fixed, those of the Democrats being Nov. 10, and those of the Republicans Nov. 11.

Among the Republicans it is thought that Charles L. Hammond stands the best show of receiving the nomination, for it is generally admitted that he is stronger this year than last, although this year some opposition is being manifested against him in certain wards, particularly so in Ward Three where many of the Republicans hope to secure the nomination of ex-Councilman Frederick L. Jones. Although it is doubtful if Mr. Jones has any great following outside of his own ward his followers are putting him forward and will carry their fight for him into the other wards, and with this in view a meeting in his interest will be held in Ward Three tonight.

Ward Five is doubtless in the same position as last year, which is in opposition to Mr. Hammond although it is certain that a strong under current for Mr. Hammond is being developed in this Republican stronghold and it is more than probable that Mr. Hammond will secure part of the delegation.

In Ward Six it is also said that last year's opposition to Mr. Hammond has lost much of its fire, and that today the feeling is luke warm for him and there is a possiblity of his receiving a part of that delegation.

Wards Two and Four are without doubt solid for Mr. Hammond and possibly Ward One. These three wards will give Mr. Hammond half of the entire convention and it will be readily seen that it will only be necessary for him to capture one delegate from the other wards to give him the nomination.

Outside of the granite section Mr. Jones is but little known, and while he may carry his own ward it is doubtful if he will develop any great opposition to Mr. Hammond.

This is a Republican year and the nomination of Mr. Hammond means a Republican Mayor in Quincy next year, for the Democrats are all at sea as to who will become their standard bearer.

Several names have been mentioned by Democrats for the office among whom are ex-Mayor Hodges, Hon. William N. Eaton, Mayor Adams, Councilman Thomas J. Lamb, and Fred F. Green.

Of these it is positively said that Mr. Hodges or Mr. Eaton will not take the nomination under any consideration.

It is generally understood that the rank and file of the Democracy do not want Mayor Adams, and if they nominate him it will only be because he is the only candidate they have who would have any show of defeating Mr. Hammond.

Councilman Lamb with the solid support of the large Ward Four delegation would stand well in the convention, and many Democrats who believe a Ward Four man should oppose Mr. Hammond may lend their support.

Mr. Green is regarded as a weak candidate but may carry the Ward One caucus which is usually slimly attended.

Unless some gentleman whose name has not already been mentioned should be brought forward, Mr. Adams may be offered the nomination, but whether he would accept under the present condition of affairs is an open question.

At all events the Democrats are fishing for an available candidate, and while it has not been publicly announced as yet, it is rumored that they may go outside of their party for a candidate and that they will tender the nomination to Herbert M. Federhen.

Braintree's Rally.

The Republicans of Braintree held last evening, the biggest rally ever seen in that town.

Mr. B. H. Woodsum presided and made a big hit by saying that whether conventions, rallies or dollars it takes two of the Democrats to equal one of ours.

Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge and Hon. J. L. Bates were the speakers. The Weymouth band furnished music.

The hall was elaborately decorated. Every person present received a flag and as the great audience rose to sing America the scene was grand beyond expression. Hundreds could not get into the hall and many occupied the time by burning red fire.

The speakers and Town Committee were entertained at the residence or Judge French at the close of the rally.

Mr. B. T. Dyer of the Granite shoe store did his full share toward the enthusiasm, for it was through his efforts that the handsomely decorated and illuminated electric car was out with its indispensible adjunct, the fog horn.

There was a time when the whole solar system was nothing more than a nebulous ball.

Wiley—Brown.

A very pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. Stephen B. Wiley, Jr., Pine street, Wollaston, on Wednesday evening. The contracting parties were Miss Mildred Brown of Boston, daughter of the late Daniel H. Brown, and Mr. Bethune Herbert Wiley, son of Mr. Stephen B. Wiley of Boston.

The ceremony, which took place at seven o'clock, was performed by the Rev. Edward A. Robinson, pastor of the Wollaston Congregational church. There were a large number of friends from Boston, Worcester and Portland. The bride was becomingly gowned in a white corded silk trimmed with pearl passementerie and lilies of the valley. She carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums. The maid of honor was Miss Genieve M. Marston of Lawrence. She wore a light blue figured Indian silk trimmed with ribbon. Miss Ruth Ardella Sprague was the flower girl.

The groom was attended by his best man, Mr. Ernest A. Koop, Jr., of Boston. The ushers were Mr. Carlton A. Newton of Marlboro, and Mr. Charles A. Abbott and Mr. William Hanna of Boston.

The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Miss Mollie Duggan of Worcester.

The house was handsomely decorated with potted plants by Patterson.

After the ceremony a reception was held from eight to ten o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Wiley were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Stephen B. Wiley, Jr. Ices and other refreshments were served by Caterer Hendric.

After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Wiley will reside at 80 Clinton street, Everett.

CANDLE PIN LEAGUE

The Quincy Make a Small Score and Lose Again.

The candle pin games in the City Bowling league resulted as follows last night, the winning team being in the first column:

Columbias	1160	Quincy	1109
Hubs	1300	Jeffersons	1233
Murray-Irwin	1392	Centrals	1238
Carruths	1215	Jamesons	1170
McCarthys	1287	Prospects	1182
Meyers	1274	Lennox	1174
St. James	1179	South Boston	1175

A summary of all games won and lost and the records for the other prizes in the candle pin league will appear in Friday's LEDGER.

The Quincy's Game.

The Quincy candle pin team played with the Columbias on the alleys of the latter, and made even a poorer showing than a week ago, their total being less. It was a grand opportunity for the Quincy team to win as the home club scored but 1160 points, but they fell 51 points behind. Mason led the Quincys on single strings and Riley on totals. The team lost every string as the score shows:

Bottle Pin Summary.

A single game was played in the bottle pin league on Tuesday evening which resulted in a victory for the South Bostons over the Shawmuts by a score of 2,594 to 2,096. This gives the South Bostons the lead for all five of the first prizes for games won and team and individual records. The previous best team total was 2,447 made by the Carruths, who also had the best string total, 847, while Marden of the Columbias led the best individual total with 531. Bergdall took the lead in individual strings the first night. The records to date:

Best team total (South Bostons, Oct. 27),	2594
Best Quincy total (Oct. 23),	2047
Best team string (South Bostons, Oct. 27),	927

The next games will be on Friday evening.

A Fine Place for a Saloon.

"That would be a slendid corner for a saloon and we will have one there before long see if we don't." So spoke the young man to his friend the other day as he pointed to a desirable business site in one of the growing sections of our city. All around him were the commodious homes of thrifty working men. We acknowledge that it would make an excellent place for a saloon so far as the saloon is concerned, it could but thrive if the wages, now converted into taxable property to the benefit of the city and into cheerful and happy homes for prosperous families and distributed at our markets and stores to quicken and enlarge all our local industries, were deflected and flowed in a constant stream toward the saloon to enrich the few while impoverishing and pauperizing the many.

That there are those who for personal and selfish reasons would like to welcome back to Quincy the saloon is very apparent. The saloon will come to Quincy, if it comes at all, through the apathy and indifference of the friends of temperance. Almost every successful movement suffers at a certain stage a reaction. The very success that the no-license issue has experienced among us is a danger. Not that we would have the majority a whit smaller, but because it engenders carelessness and over confidence on the part of those who are on the winning side. It is well to remember that a large proportion of our voters have never seen the destructive and disgraceful results of the open saloon in Quincy. They have come among us since the saloon was driven out or have reached the voting age with no recollection of the disastrous consequences of the license system.

The temperance forces of the city must not underestimate the danger that both these classes of voters are likely to be strongly influenced by the fair promises of those who secretly are working vampire-like to drain the surplus of earnings into their own coffers, or who make cogent appeals to the itching desire for change. Let us agitate and educate till all shall see that what is good or the saloon is bad for the prosperity and happiness of the city of Quincy.

Faulty Ballots.

The specimen ballots, as posted in this city, seem to be faulty in one respect. There are so many candidates for Presidential electors that they occupy two of the four columns, yet a different instruction appears over each column. In the first column the voter is instructed "To vote for Electors of one party, mark a cross X in the square at the right of the party name X."

But when the next column is reached he is told

"To vote for a person, mark a cross X in the square at the right of the name of the political party, or political designation."

The first instruction should extend across the two columns, as it applies to both, while the second instruction quoted is all right for Governor and other offices. The complication may result in two votes for Presidential electors, one in each column, which would throw out the whole vote. Be careful and make but one cross in the first two columns and you will do all right. But 17 crosses are required to vote the entire ticket, although 157 names appear.

High School Debate.

Mr. Saunders presided Wednesday at the meeting of the Quincy High School debating society. Miss Bates, '98, secretary, read her report. On motion the report was accepted and adopted.

The debate on free silver was concluded. Mr. Lyons and Miss Thompson took part.

Mr. Wilkins, '97, presented an excellent report as critic.

The entertainment followed:

Recitation—"Blind Bartimeus," Miss A. B. Chamberlin, '98.

Essay, Miss Osborne, '98.

Declamation, Mr. C. Baker, '98.

Essay, Miss Williams, '98.

Piano Solo, Miss Osborne, '98.

The entertainment held the attention of the audience very closely. The musical selection was very meritorious.

The debate followed: "Resolved, That the Supreme Court of the United States ought to be abolished."

The affirmative was taken by Miss Johnson, '97; Miss Joss, '97.

Those to speak in the negative were: Miss A. M. Perry, '97; Miss M. A. Perry, '97.

For lack of time the conclusion of the debate was postponed.

Ames—Beals.

Mr. George Ames, one of Quincy's well known business men, was united in marriage Wednesday evening, at the residence of Hon. Elias S. Beals at North Weymouth to Miss Alice S. Beals.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends by Rev. Edward Morris of the Third Universalist church, Weymouth.

Mr. Clark E. Drew was best man and Miss Clara E. Beals, a sister of the bride, maid of honor, and Miss Florence W. Beals ring bearer.

A reception followed the ceremony, Mr. Drew and Miss Clara E. Beals assisting in receiving.

Mr. and Mrs. Ames will reside on Franklin street, Quincy.

Political Potpourri.

The Democrats of Quincy do not propose to let the Republicans have all the glory of Flag Day, Saturday, and they have arranged for a grand closing rally that evening at Hancock hall. James H. Slade will preside and addresses will be made by Hon. Bordman Hall, candidate for Congress from the 10th district; Hon. James F. Morris of Fall River, candidate for Congress from the 11th district; Thomas I. Hogan and M. F. Riedy of Boston.

The Republicans are arranging to celebrate Flag Dag Saturday night by huge bon fires on some of our high hills.

The Republicans of Milton will hold a grand rally at the Town Hall tonight. H. E. Ware will preside and addresses will be made by Gov. Wolcott, Hon. Samuel M. McCall, and Samuel J. Barrows.

Specimen official ballotts were posted Wednesday.

November Magazines.

Dr. William Everett of the city contributes to the November number of the New England magazine a striking article upon Rufus Choate, of whom, like his father before him, he is a great admirer. This article is accompanied by an impressive portraite of Choate which forms the frontispiece of the magagzine. A new serial by Dorothy Prescott is begun in this number of the magazine. It is entitled "An American Love Story," and the opening chapter, which is full of nice description, has the Main country as its scene. There are other stories, and there is the usual number of poems.

Quincy Debating Club.

Hon. Charles H. Porter and Rev. Edwin N. Hardy will open the first meeting of the Quincy debating club this evening with an informal talk on the "Benefits of a Debating Club. After they have spoken, there will be an election of officers and a choice of a subject for debate at the next meeting. The meeting is for this evening promptly at 7.45 o'clock.

—The Treasury statement for September shows that the government ran behind about $2,000,000 during the month, thus making a total shortage of $25,000,000 for the first three months of the present fiscal year, as against $9,000,000 for the corresponding period of last year. That is to say, the need of more revenue becomes a bigger fact with each passing month.

The periophthalmus, a native of the Malayan mangrove swamps, is the only fish which breathes with its tail. If the tail be painted over with oil or varnish the fish dies of suffocation.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The annual meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association was held in the Association rooms last evening. The attendance was small, partly owing to the fact that the steam engineering and modeling classes were in session.

The finance committee reported that $2,994.60 had been subscribed, of which $2,618.60 had been paid, leaving $376 unpaid. There is still required over and above all assets, $336.95 to pay all bills. A strenuous effort will be made to secure this amount at once.

The treasurer, Mr. Geo. A. Sidelinger, reported that $3542.03 had been received from subscriptions, membership, tuition, etc. The total expenses for the year were $4,445.28. The budget for the year was $4,250.50 but the amount expended over and above appropriation was due to the course in steam engineering and the summer Sloyd school, which were extra, and were almost self-sustaining.

It is gratifying to note that although the Association now conducts a large educational work, the total expense last year was only about $300 more than three years ago, when there was not a single educational class.

The Committee on Classes and Lyceum reported that 83 men were enrolled in six classes, and 42 boys were in the winter Sloyd and clay modelling classes. In addition ten men took a course of lectures on steam engineering and thirty-five boys were in ths summer Sloyd classes. The total in this department was 170. In addition there were about twenty young men in the debating society.

The report of the committee on religious work was not so encouraging as some years. The average attendance at the men's meetings was 23. Five young men united with the churches. With probably one exception these were all of foreign birth. The open air meetings were well attended. About eighteen hundred tracts were distributed to those in attendance and passers by. The average attendance for the Bible class was five; Training class, four. Boys' meetings were held Saturday morning during the winter and during the spring a boys' Bible class was conducted.

Seven gymnasium classes, three for young men, two for juniors and two for High school students were conducted.

An average of about 500 baths per month were taken.

The membership was reported as follows: Full privileges, 96; limited, 64; sustaining or contributing, 95; boys, 65. Total, 320. This does not include forty-four persons who have contributed but have not cared to become members, or those who are delinquent in their dues, but who will probably renew.

As a whole the reports were gratifying.

The following directors were elected: For three years—T. H. Wason, Dr. J. A. Gordon, Geo. H. Brown and William H. Mitchell; for two years—W. F. Cummings; for one year—Delcevare King. Ernest D. Gourd was elected recording secretary and Geo. A. Sidelinger, treasurer.

At a meeting of the directors immediately following the annual meeting, Mr. Amos D. Albee was elected president and Mr. Delcevare King vice-president.

One Man Killed.

Early this morning at the yards of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., at South Braintree, there was a serious accident. By a collision while shifting, James Moran of Rockland was killed, and H. Tallon of South Boston was so seriously injured that he was taken to the hospital.

The Tariff a Factor.

Canton, O., Oct. 29.—At Major McKinley's home his fellow citizens anticipated him last night when he approached the tariff question at the conclusion of one of his addresses. Three cheers for protection interrupted him before he reached his climax. He replied to Mr. Bryan's recent utterances in these words: "Some of our political opponents have been denying that this question of tariff is an issue in the present campaign. They will not even tell us how they propose to raise the money with which to run this government. They will not discuss that at all, and yet they have declared in their platform that not a single dollar of money shall be borrowed, even to maintain the credit and honor of the government in time of peace, but I am confident that they will discover that the tariff question is in the election returns of next Tuesday."

There was a tremor in Major McKinley's voice last evening, as when, after repeated attempts, he responded to the home greetings of thousands of his neighbors and fellow citizens. His dooryard and those of his neighbors were not large enough for the crowd. For blocks, in every direction, street cars, trucks, delivery wagons and carriages blocked the streets. An improvised platform at the pavement edge was used. Above this was an arch of electric lights, resplendent with national colors. Business had been almost universally suspended at 4:30 o'clock, to allow all mercantile people and employes of their houses to participate. A score of bands and drum corps in this city volunteered their services, and were distributed in the parade which marched to the McKinley home. This demonstration was the conclusion of an eventful day. A carload of West Virginians came from Wheeling, with them Lieutenant Governor Richards of Steubenville, O. Theirs was a social visit, without formal speech-making. They called at the McKinley home, and shook hands with the major and conversed with him in a social way.

Watson Again.

Atlanta, Oct. 29.—Thomas E. Watson has wired The Journal, from Thomson, in regard to his letter of acceptance, acknowledged by Senator Butler to have been received Saturday night, after eight days of delay: "I say my letter was mailed from here Oct. 14, with three 2-cent postage stamps on it, directed to Hon. Marion Butler, Washington. I do not care to say whether I think the postal authorities at Washington would have withheld it eight days. Perhaps Mr. Edgerton secretary of the national committee, could tell where the letter has been. I had nothing to do with Mr. Washburn's telegrams, nor will the letter be altered to suit Mr. Butler."

Republican Parade Attacked.

New Haven, Oct. 29.—There is much indignation felt here over the attack made by roughs upon a Republican parade in Fairhaven last night, during which a revolver was discharged, and a member of the Young Men's Republican club received the bullet in his right arm, making a dangerous wound; while at another section of the parade, stones and bricks were thrown, and I. Atwater was struck on the head, cutting quite a severe gash and knocking him senseless. The sections that were attacked broke ranks and started for the roughs, but they escaped.

Reed Visits His Old Home.

Stockton, Cal., Oct. 29.—Thomas B. Reed, accompanied by his daughter and party, arrived here yesterday from Los Angeles. He was met by a club composed of natives of Maine, who escorted him to his hotel. Crowds cheered the visitor as he drove from the station. At Modesto, a large number of Republicans, with a brass band, met the train, but Mr. Reed refused all requests for a speech. In his earlier years, Mr. Reed resided in Stockton, and taught school here. This is his first visit to his former home.

Political Assessors at Work.

Washington, Oct. 29.—There are a score or more cases of complaints of political assessments on employes in federal offices, now on file, awaiting the action of the civil service commission. In practically all of these cases correspondence has been going on between the commission and parties interested where the violations of the civil service law took place. Most of the charges affect officers in the west, though there is a relatively large number in the east.

Puritana Patients

Why They Take Puritana.

WHY THEY GET WELL.

The proof does it.
That is why people begin to take Puritana.
People find that their neighbors have tried it.
Their friends have tried it.
Men and women in every walk of life have tried it.
A man suffers.
Perhaps he has suffered for years.
He has tried many things.
They have all failed.
He reads a Puritana testimonial.
He reads another.
He sees new ones wherever he looks.
Some of the writers are in his own town.
Some in his own business.
Some he can see.
Some he can write to.
Some have been cured of his own ailment.
Some of other ailments.
All are grateful.
All are glad to tell suffering people how Puritana gave them relief.
They are approachable folks, and their voluntary testimonials count.
Some live in town.
Some in the country.
Some hold office.
Some vote.

PRIZE FORMULA OF Prof. Dixi Crosby, M.D., LL.D. DARTMOUTH COLLEGE

But all are honest and sincere.
That is why any one can prove for himself the genuineness of Puritana cures.
Puritana patients get well.
This is a fact.
There are reasons for it.
Puritana is the discovery of Prof. Dixi Crosby.
He was the greatest New Hampshire physician of his day.
He was at the head of the Dartmouth Medical College for a generation.
He used common sense, and found that disease or health came to the body through the stomach.
He scientifically compounded a stomach medicine from the harmless products of nature.
It makes the stomach right.
That is why it makes the health right.
With a sound stomach no one can help being well.
That is why Puritana patients get well.
Chemists say that Puritana is a good medicine.
They also say it is well made.
The materials are the purest and best that money can buy.

Druggists say it is a good medicine.
Their customers buy it and are more than satisfied with its effects.
What the people say about Puritana you have read before, and you will read again.
The thousands of Puritana cures are becoming better known every day.
The patients are real people.
The cures are real cures.
They can be proven in court.
They can be proven by any medical society.
They have been proven before the tribunal of Public Opinion.

IS NOW MRS. SMITH.

Sensational Sequel to Elopement of Banker Higginson's Wife.

Wedded Man For Whom She Left Her Home.

Newly Made Bride Has Plenty of Money and May Return to America.

New York, Oct. 29.—The Press this morning says: It was announced in this city last night that Mrs. Julia Borland Higginson and James Wheatland Smith had been married in Paris yesterday. From the cable, so far, little information has been had about the particulars of this last step in one of the most remarkable and sensational elopements that has been heard of in many years.

Mrs. Higginson sailed from this city last November with Mr. Smith. Francis Lee Higginson was one of the most prominent and wealthy bankers of Boston, and a member of the most exclusive clubs of that city. Mrs. Higginson had been, as a girl, the reigning belle of Boston, and, as a matron, one of the leaders of the Beacon street beacon lights of society.

She left four children when she eloped—one of them a daughter, 18 years old, who had just made her debut in society.

The man she eloped with was 15 years her junior.

After she got abroad, Mrs. Higginson tired of her young lover, and wrote to her husband, asking him to take her back. He sent $100,000 to her, but no invitation to return to him.

A sensational divorce trial succeeded this, and now the announcement of the wedding comes from Paris.

The announcement was made by a more than intimate friend of Mrs. Higginson, who lives in Brooklyn.

Whether they intend to remain abroad or will come back to this country, is not known. It is believed that they will come back here, and weather out the storm.

Mrs. Higginson has money of her own, but Smith has none.

England and Egypt.

London, Oct. 29.—Lord Charles Beresford, in a speech at the Constitutional club yesterday, declared that the time had arrived for England to boldly announce her intention to annex Egypt. The Morning Post, Conservative, applauds this policy, and says that the opposition to it in Europe would be purely platonic. The Graphic, on the other hand, declares: We have pledged ourselves to evacuate Egypt, and the course Lord Charles Beresford advocates would be an act of perfidy.

Aged Woman Murdered.

New York, Oct. 29.—Mrs. Charlotte Saunders, 62 years of age, living in a shanty near the bridge crossing Coney Island creek, was found last night in an unconscious condition in her home. Her head was badly cut in several places, her jaw fractured and her clothing almost torn in threads. She died soon afterward. The police have arrested Frank Thompson, colored, and his son, George Thompson. The police think that these two committed the murder.

In a Pitiable Plight.

St. John's, N. F., Oct. 29.—The newspapers here publish frightful accounts of the destitution in Labrador, upon the authority of Dr. Grenfell, superintendent of the mission to deep sea fishermen, who comes from England yearly, with two assistants, to do medical service on the coast. He declares that words are inadequate to do justice to the wretchedness of the people.

Michigan Bank In Trouble.

Big Rapids, Mich., Oct. 28.—The Mecosta County Savings bank of Big Rapids is embarrassed. President Comstock refuses to talk. A statement published Oct. 6, showed resources of $302,000, of which some $44,000 was cash on hand. There has been a light but steady run on the bank for the past few days. It is understood that the assets will equal the liabilities.

Miners' Strike Settled.

East Liverpool, O., Oct. 29.—A compromise was agreed on yesterday between the striking coal miners at Saloneville and others. The strike has been on since Feb. 1, when 100 walked out for a screen 1½ inches in size. Under the compromise, a slight change is made in the screen, and the men are given 45 cents.

In 1890 the railroads of the world were estimated at 370,281 miles.

Shawmut Spring Water.

How many people realize the importance of drinking only pure water in large quantities in order to keep in absolutely good health? When we consider that two-thirds of the human body is in the form of water, and that in order to supply the losses from exc etion and evaporation it is necessary to drink from one-half to one gallon of water daily; it is of the utmost importance that it should be of the very best quality, perfectly free from the slightest trace of organic matter.

The Shawmut Spring Water stands second to none as a pure drinking water. Hundreds of families are using it every day. It is an important factor in maintaining health, building up and restoring the organs of digestion to healthy action. Cures Rheumatic, Kidney and Bladder troubles, when drugs have proved useless.

Send your order for a 5-gallon sample package. If you don't like it, it costs you nothing. Drink it and you will be satisfied of its purity.

Soap Agent Easily Got a Widow and Her Money In His Net.

Made Her His Partner and Then Married Her.

Soon Disappeared With Her Money and Now She Asks For Justice.

Boston, Oct. 30.—Mrs. Lizzie A. Palmer, a widow from New Hampshire, caused the arrest yesterday of Clarence H. Palmer, a traveling soap agent, on a charge of obtaining money by false pretences. She told a most remarkable story to the police in relating her experiences with the man. For the past two weeks she has imagined herself married to the man, and a partner in his soap business. In proof of her belief, she exhibited to the police a paper, which, she says, Palmer had given her and which he told her was a marriage certificate. She also states that Palmer obtained $400 from her, in payment of her share in the soap business.

Mrs. Palmer lived with her sister in a New Hampshire town. Her husband has been dead several years, and she had a few hundred dollars in the savings bank. Palmer arrived in the town about four weeks ago, with his samples of soap and other toilet articles, and soon after met Mrs. Palmer. After ascertaining that she had some money, he explained to her that he was engaged in the bloomer business, and suggested that she join him. He told her that he would do the selling, provided she would measure the costumes.

After she had consented, he suddenly changed his mind, and proposed that they should go into the soap business instead. The two traveled through New Hampshire for two weeks, selling soap, and about a fortnight ago arrived in this city. Palmer then proposed marriage, but stated that, because of an inheritance, he could not comply with the regular form until after Jan. 1. He therefore produced what he claimed was a marriage certificate, and Mrs. Palmer signed it, believing herself duly married. After this Palmer persuaded her to draw all her money from the New Hampshire bank, and, taking the cash, together with a gold watch, and several articles of jewelry, he left Boston. Mrs. Palmer waited two weeks for his return, and then reported the case to the police, and Palmer was found yesterday and arrested. He claimed, however, that he was legally married to the woman, but admitted that he had sold the watch. Palmer will be arraigned in court on a charge of obtaining $400 from the bank, falsely representing that he was the husband of Mrs. Palmer.

A Flourishing Order.

Boston, Oct. 30.—The 90th annual conclave of the grand commandery of Knights Templar and appendant orders of Massachusetts and Rhode Island was held here yesterday. Grand Recorder Rowell's report showed a satisfactory condition of affairs throughout the jurisdiction. There are 45 subordinate commanderies. The membership in the jurisdiction Sept. 30, 1896, was 11,789, a net gain of 678 for the year. The average membership of the subordinate commanderies in this jurisdiction is the largest of any jurisdiction in the United States. The report of Grand Treasurer Upham showed an improved condition of the finances. Grand Commander Richards' address showed that the relations between the commanderies are cordial. The application for a new commandery at Gardner was granted. The petitioners for a new commandery at Marlboro were given leave to withdraw.

More Testimony Against Giddings.

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 30.—The investigation of the charges made against Superintendent Giddings of the state insane asylum was continued before the joint legislative committee yesterday. Among the witnesses examined were Mrs. Alma Griswold, Mrs. Amanda Perry, Mrs. Davis, Miss Gertrude Robinson, Mrs. Beulah Russell, Lucy C. Start and Miss Nellie Clark, all past or present attendants. All corroborated the testimony given, to the effect that the superintendent had maltreated patients.

Mate Bram Indicted.

Boston, Oct. 30.—The grand jury came into the United States circuit court yesterday with its indictments in various cases, the principal of which was the Herbert Fuller case. Thomas A. Bram, who is charged with the murder of Captain Nash, Mrs. Nash and the mate, Blomberg, was indicted, but, owing to the absence of Judge Colt, the date on which he will be allowed to plead has not been announced, but it will probably be some day next week.

The Lowell Horse Deal.

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 30.—The trial of members of the street committee, for conspiracy against the city in the famous horse deal, was ended yesterday afternoon. At 5 o'clock the jury returned to the courtroom with a verdict of guilty against Councilman John G. Hunton and Charles Clapp, the stable keeper. The other members of the committee were found not guilty. The court will consider the matter of sentence later.

"I was very ill with kidney trouble and dropsy. I found Hood's Sarsaparilla strengthened me and gave me a good appetite." Belle Ann Duncan, West Quincy, Mass.

Hood's Pills act harmoniously with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

She Took Big Chances.

Boston, Oct. 30.—Ellen Ray, 38 years old, while being detained for shoplifting in one of the large retail stores yesterday afternoon, attempted to escape or commit suicide by jumping from the third story of the building. She caught in some telegraph wires, and, after hanging a few minutes, was drawn back through the window, unhurt. She was afterward taken to the Tombs, locked up, and a watch set over her.

A Peculiar Case.

Augusta, Me., Oct. 30.—William H. Libby of this city brought suit against Dr. J. M. Blaisdell of Bangor for breach of contract, Blaisdell having made a written agreement to cure Mr. Libby of hemorrhoid tumors, and failing to accomplish it, the plaintiff claimed that his health had been impaired, and suffered much in consequence. The jury brought in a verdict for the plaintiff of $561.34.

Deeply In Debt.

Laconia, N. H., Oct. 30.—The creditors of the Laconia Car company met yesterday to consider the financial standing of the company. Boston banking institutions were represented by attorneys, and nearly all the leading individual creditors were present. President Putnam, in his statement of financial affairs, showed the total resources to be $407,451.31; total liabilities, $617,614.21; excess of liabilities over resources, $210,162.90. President Putnam said the car works could offer no compromise at this meeting, but suggested that a committee of creditors investigate and try to arrange settlement, in order to prevent insolvency proceedings. After a long discussion, a committee was chosen.

Bravery Appreciated.

Portland, Me., Oct. 30.—The Canadian government has issued a testimonial in acknowledgment of the bravery of four Boothbay harbormen in rescuing the crew of the British schooner Aurora, which was wrecked off Cuckole's light, last winter. The men are E. H. Pierce, John Gray, Clarence Marr and Ellsworth Gray.

STARTS UP ANEW.

The Turkish Problem Furnishes Plenty Material For British Newspapers.

London, Oct. 30.—The Rome correspondent of The Chronicle is assured that, on his return to St. Petersburg, the czar will propose a conference of the powers, to discuss the Turkish problem.

A Constantinople dispatch to the same paper says that Nazim Pasha, minister of police, is conspiring with Bartholomeos, the Armenian patriarch, Slocum Tenens, and the palace gang, to provoke fresh outbreaks, as an excuse for a general massacre of Armenians, whose terror is painful to see.

The Morning Post has a dispatch from Constantinople, which says that it is reported that the police have discovered a large store of explosives in the Taskin quarter, including 25 kilograms of dynamite, a quantity of other explosives and dynamite bombs. There have been 40 arrests in connection with the discovery, including the chief of an important revolutionary committee.

The Daily News states that it hears that the gravest anxiety exists at Constantinople, and that the deposition of the sultan is seriously discussed. The Sheik-of-Islam, says The Daily News, remains at the Yildiz palace, nominally as the sultan's guest, but really as a prisoner. The ambassadors have telegraphed for instructions, in view of the events, which are regarded imminent.

A dispatch to The Daily Telegraph from Constantinople says: Russia's attitude has completely changed, and the concert of the powers is now really and effectually causing the sultan uneasiness.

Suspected of Killing Wife.

Norristown, Pa., Oct. 30.—Charles O. Kaiser has been placed under arrest, charged with the murder of his wife. Mr. and Mrs. Kaiser were supposed to have been waylaid by highwaymen Wednesday evening. Mrs. Kaiser was shot dead, and Kaiser received a wound in his arm. Suspicion pointed to Kaiser. Detectives made a search yesterday, and found the supposed stolen watch and pocketbook hidden under a stone, near where the robbery was supposed to have been committed. A 32-caliber revolver, with two chambers empty, was found about 60 yards away. Kaiser and his wife are said to have quarreled only a short time before they took the fatal drive. About two weeks ago Kaiser had his wife's life insured for $3000.

Winter in Nebraska.

Omaha, Oct. 30.—Western Nebraska is covered with 10 inches of snow, the white mantle thinning out as it approaches the eastern part of the state. In some sections of the state, a high wind accompanied the snow, assuming the proportions of a blizzard. Trains are delayed, and on the several branches have been stuck in snowdrifts.

ANNA IVOR'S REQUEST.

Personal letters reach Mrs. Pinkham by thousands; some asking advice, and others, like the following, telling of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done and will ever continue to do in eradicating those fearful female complaints so little understood by physicians.

All womb and ovarian troubles, irregularities, whites, bearing-down pains, displacements, tendency to cancer and tumor are cured permanently.

"I feel as if I owed my life to your Vegetable Compound. After the birth of my babe I was very miserable. I had a drawing pain in the lower part of my bowels, no strength, and a terrible backache. Every day I failed. My husband said if I would try a bottle of your Vegetable Compound, he would get it for me. The change was wonderful. After I had taken the first half bottle I began to have great faith in it. When I had taken three bottles, I was well and growing stout. It is a pleasure for me to write this to you. I only ask women in any way afflicted with female troubles to try it."—Mrs. Anna Ivor, Pittsford Mills, Rutland Co., Vt.

3. In connection with the names of persons proposed as delegates to a convention any statement may be made, not exceeding eight words, showing whom said delegates are favorable to or pledged to support or to whom opposed.

5. The ballots to be used at the caucuses of the Republican voters will be prepared under the supervision of the Secretaries of the respective Ward Committees and the method of voting at said caucuses shall be the Australian system, so called. As to matters herein not specially provided for, and in the event of any dispute, the Ward Committees shall determine questions so arising as justice and equity may require.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

A. G. Durgin is giving away samples this week.

Will the lady who took the key please return it.

Twenty degrees warmer this noon than yesterday.

Preparatory lecture at Bethany church this evening.

It was very warm this morning. Regular June day.

R. C. Clark has moved from Norfolk Downs to Braintree.

John Kerrigan has severed his connection at T. Gurney's store.

William Hart of Crescent street has moved to Penn's hill.

Mrs. Barry of Edwin street has moved to Boston for the winter.

Mayo sells the Glenwood and other ranges at hard time prices.

Levi Nichols of Beach street has moved to Blue Hill avenue, Boston.

Today governs next month. How do you like November weather?

A pool tournament among local players opens at Cunningham's next week.

The Norfolk Downs lodge, A. O. U. W., hold a concert and dance next week.

Miss Stetson of Hanover has been the guest of Mrs. C. L. Badger this week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Pierce, of Plymouth, are the guests of Caleb Billings.

Mr. N. V. Titus is to have a large bonfire tomorrow night at Squantum heights.

William McGrath, of Grove street who fell from an apple tree last week and broke his arm, is reported as doing as well as could be expected.

A new fire alarm box is being put in at the junction of Copeland and Crescent streets; and will be tested on Saturday afternoon, at 4 o'clock. It is numbered 446.

The report was circulated throughout Atlantic that S. D. Ramsdell had died from the effects of his fall, but the report was wholly without foundation, as he is improving as well as the nature of the case will admit.

The change of grade around the Methodist church, Atlantic, will be a decided improvement when completed. Hunt street has been lowered so that now the sidewalk is on a level with the floor of the church vestry.

The dress rehearsal yesterday afternoon of the operetta "The Two Queens" at the Unitarian chapel was largely attended and a great success. Many tickets have been sold for tonight and it is hoped a handsome sum will be netted for the hospital.

The following delegates of the Young People's Christian Union of Quincy attended on Thursday evening the Tufts College Union reception: Miss Addie Holton, president, Miss Abbie Barnes, secretary, Miss Grace Batson and Mr. Joseph H. Alden.

The arrangements have been almost completed for the first dance of the Atlantic grocers' clerks to be held in Music hall shortly, and from the way the tickets are going a very large and jolly party it will be. The LEDGER will be represented there and a full detailed report will be given.

The concert given in aid of Memorial Congregational church society in Music hall, Atlantic, last Wednesday evening was very enjoyable. Mr. J. C. Bartlett of Boston was very well applauded in his wonderful tenor singing as were also Misses Tinker, Libby and Moxon in their parts. The attendance was however very small for such a fine concert.

Miss Flora M. Shackley of Hall place, who went Sept. 1 to take charge of drawing in public schools at Ansonia, Conn., is reported as being ill with typhoid fever at her boarding place there. Her father, Mr. Jonas Shackley, returned on Saturday from Ansonia and reports her under the care of a skilful nurse and physician and he hopes for her speedy recovery.

The number of tramps given lodgings at the police station from Sept. 30, 1895, to Oct. 1, 1896, was 2,329, and as might be excepted in such small quarters as are provided the police, the larger part of these poor fellows had to use the soft side of the hard pine floor for a bed. But one good thing about it, it does not encourage those unfortunate travelers to call the second time.

Much Interest Centered in Run for the Challenge Cup.

Barrel Roll and Wheelbarrow Race Afford Amusement.

The Adams Academy Athletic Association held its annual fall games upon the Academy grounds this morning. There were thirteen events in the programme, all of which were hotly contested and were watched with interest by the usual large gathering of friends of the students, who did not fail to applaud their favorites at every opportunity.

The judges were W. R. Tyler, J. O. Hall, Jr., B. F. Linfield, G. B. Gavin, A. B. Holden, H. W. Barker, C. A. Howland, Jr.

The winners of the several events were:

Second heat between the third and first classes, won by the third class, distance 15 inches.

Political Potpourri.

The Republican City Committee give notice today relative to nomination of candidates for the caucus ballots, which must be filed before 7 P. M. Nov. 6.

The Republican committee of Ward Six has voted to adopt the Australian ballot system for its caucuses. The adoption of this system by Ward Six leaves only Ward Five which has not adopted that method, and it now would be the proper thing for Ward Five to fall into line with the rest of the city.

Ward Four has two new candidates for the Council this year in the persons of Thomas F. Hogan and Thomas F. Cain. Both are young men, well known in the ward and undoubtedly will make a good showing in the caucus. Neither has made a personal bid for support, it being a case of friends taking the initiative. Councilman Lamb and Geary retire this year.

The Republican City Committee and the McKinley & Hobart battalion are to be the guests of John R. Graham tonight.

Saturday night the battalion with the City band will take part in the big parade at Dorchester.

It is said that the Republican candidates for the City Council from Ward Six will be Stephen O. Moxon, Henry Von Emden and William F. Cummings, and among the Democrats it is said that anyone who wants the nomination can have it.

The National Democracy has been a more active factor in the State campaign than many imagine. The organization has sent out considerable literature and caused many columns to be published in the newspapers, particularly in the country press where it is most effective. The only rally of the party in this city will be on Monday evening next, the eve of election which is to be extensively advertised. Hon. W. B. Rice will preside and the speakers are announced in our advertising columns.

East Weymouth Republicans are arranging for a grand time Saturday night. There will be a band concert, bright bonfire and flag raising.

A member of the Ward One Democratic committee is authority for the statement that the support for Mr. Green even in his own ward is lukewarm, and furthermore, not of the kind that would command much outside support. The Ward One committee has not declarsd itself for any man, and it is thought the choice lies between Mr. Hodges and Mr. Adams. If other acceptable candidates are presented from other wards the Ward One caucus might be induced to give their help to the one most likely to prevent the election of Mr. Hammond.

Opinions Wanted.

To the Editor of the Daily Ledger:

I would like to ask Mr. Orcutt and Mr. Geary, candidates for the General Court, if they believe in biennial elections, the further restriction of the powers and privileges of Corporations, free transfers and government by commissions. Mr. Thompson and Mr. Newcomb are on record as favoring biennial elections, and many would like to know how the other candidates stand. "A. K. H."

Wollaston, Oct. 28, 1896.

FOUND IN A BROOK.

The Fire Alarm Last Evening was for a Lost Child.

The alarm from Box 46 at 7.15 Thursday night was rung in to call together a party of searchers to look for a lost child, a son of Secondino Paolucci, about two years and one half old. The child had been missing since early in the afternoon and although the parents searched they were unable to find the missing boy, and the neighbors in that vicinity, most of whom are Italians could not be aroused to lend any aid, and as a last resort the police were applied to and they in turn notified Chief Williams who sounded the call.

This had the desired effect and a crowd of willing helpers were soon searching for the missing boy. Their search was soon rewarded, for Pierre Kelley one of the party found the little fellow in the bottom of Furnace brook within a few hundred feet from his home.

The little fellow had evidently wandered about in play and had accidentally fallen into the brook, and being unable to help himself was drowned.

Mr. Paolucci has been extremely unfortunate in regard to his children, for it was only about two years ago that another young child of his accidentally fell into this same brook, and near the same spot, and was drowned.

Mr. Paolucci who is a lady's tailor and has an office on Boylston street, Boston, is almost heartbroken over the loss of his son, and his wife is nearly prostrated with grief.

This particular spot is a dangerous one and before any other child is drowned a fence of some kind should be built along the bank. Young children are numerous in this locality and that more have not been drowned is a wonder.

MILTON.

McGuire & O'Heron have recently built quite an addition to their plant.

There is but little prospect that the proposed extension of the street railway from East Milton to Mattapan will be built right away as the amount for land damages will be quite heavy.

Quantites of smelts are daily being taken from Milton river and everybody is having their fill of fish.

East Milton people are wondering if those old and unsightly buildings on the corner of Adams street and Granite avenue will ever be removed.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The English class for Scandinavians will hold its first session Saturday evening at 6.30. Mr. C. F. Merrick will be the instructor.

Secretary Colton will give a short account of the recent State Convention at the men's meeting on Sunday.

The Bible class for the study of the books of the New Testament will begin Monday evening at 7.30. All men will be made welcome.

The outlook for the Sloyd classes is very good. The boys will get down to work next week.

A class in carpentry for men is under consideration. The benches and tools at Wollaston can be utilized and such a class instituted at small expense. No doubt if a sufficient number of men will register, it can be made a success.

A Lost Pocket Book.

Last week, while on her way to the Massachusetts Field's school, Mrs. W. H. Horton of Appleton street, lost her pocketbook containing $26. It was afterward learned that the pocket book was found by a boy whose name is for the present withheld. The boy, according to a written statement now in the hands of Officer Golding, gave the pocket book to his mother who appropriated the money to her own use. The money at last accounts had not been returned to Mrs. Horton and unless the amount is made good the affair will be taken into court and there will be some interesting facts developed.

G. A. R. Inspection.

Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., held their annual inspection at G. A. R. hall Thursday evening, Capt. D. J. Starbuck, inspector. After the business of the meeting a collation and smoke talk followed. His Honor, Mayor Adams, Hon. J. F. Merrill, City Auditor J. O. Hall, ex-Councilman Lester M. Pratt, honorary members and over fifty members of the Post were present.

JONES THE CHOICE.

He Has a Strong Backing in Ward Three.

To Support Hammond However if He is Nominated.

A Complete Ward Ticket for Delegates and Councilmen.

As announced in Thursday's LEDGER a preliminary caucus of the Republicans of Ward Three, who favor the nomination of Frederick L. Jones for Mayor in preference to Charles L. Hammond, was held Thursday evening at Doble's hall, and while no general notice of the meeting had been given other than by word of mouth to those who were known to favor Mr. Jones some seventy five were present.

John P. Bigelow was elected chairman and W. W. Mitchell secretary.

P. Halvosa, one of those present arose, having in his hands copies of Thursday's papers from which he read the published announcements of the meeting. These he claimed were misleading. That the mere fact of their being favorable to Mr. Jones did not mean that they would not support Mr. Hammond if he succeeded in carrying the convention, for if he did get the nomination they would support him.

Chairman Bigelow thought that the first choice of Ward Two might not be Hammond, and it was very doubtful if Ward One would elect Hammond delegates.

John L. Miller claimed that if Hammond was nominated by the Republicans and Councilman Lamb by the Democrats that Mr. Lamb who was also an old resident of Ward Four and a member of all societies in that ward, would bury Hammond as deep there as Hammsud was buried last year in Wards Five and Six.

The meeting then proceeded to make up its slate and the following delegates to the municipal convention were nominated by acclamation: Peter W. Dakers, John L. Miller, C. J. Stewart, W. W. Parry, W. W. Mitchell, Alex. Marnock, Alex. Falconer, W. S. Williams, J. N. Kelly, P. Halvosa, J. B. Sylvester, A. L. Mitchell, E. Jenkins, J. C. Scott, William Pratt, C. H. Grindell.

An effort was made to elect Mr. Thompson as one of the delegates but that gentleman positively declined to serve.

A double list of candidates was then nominated for Councilmen from ward as follows: Joseph P. Prout, John C. Murray, Warren H. Rideout, Peter W. Dakers, W. J. Williams, Alex. Marnock.

These were then balloted for and Messrs. Prout, Murray and Rideout were favored.

It was then voted to propose the name of John Q. A. Field as Councilman at large.

The following ward committee was then nominated: John P. Bigelow, John C. Murray, J. Roberts, Joseph P. Prout, W. W. Parry, Alex. Marnock, W. W. Mitchell.

Before the meeting adjourned it was voted that the delegates vote and work for the nominatson of Frederick L. Jones until such time as a majority of the delegates decide that there was no chance for his being nominated.

A Bright Life Gone.

Early this morning death entered the new and attractive home of Mr. Abbott L. Melcher of Bigelow street, and that gentleman mourns the loss of a devoted wife. For about two years they have been residents of the city, and from the first have made friends.

It was known for some weeks that her case was incurable, but yet the death seemed sudden, as a few months ago she was the embodiment of health. She was hopeful of recovery until the last, and a very patient sufferer, characteristic of her Christian life. She was prominent in church work and kindred societies.

The funeral services will be held on Sunday at 2 P. M. from her late residence.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Mrs. Chas A. Hall of Walker street has returned from New York.

J. E. Drew is making extensive alterations and repairs on his house, on Walker street.

C. F. Merrick is a candidate for nomination for school committee at the coming caucus.

Mr. Chas. L. Coe has been called to Portland this week on account of the death of his mother.

Representative John W. Prescott and wife of Hooksett, N. H., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Prescott.

Wanted—An electric light to be placed at corner of Walker and Clive streets. Apply to any house in the vicinity.

The steam roller now, is about all that is needed on the Newbury avenue grade to make the decided improvement complete.

Swithin Bros. have sold a lot on Hancock street to Miss Perry of Commonwealth avenue, Boston, who, it is said, will erect a $5,000 house.

Mrs. Dolan was awarded $100 by the Superior court for damages received at Atlantic. In view of the evidence the city was fortunate to escape so lightly.

One of our local weather predictors says that November and December are to be almost perfect months. He also predicted that October would be a disagreeable month, and it certainly has been. The day that governed October was cloudy and stormy in the morning; the afternoon neither pleasant or stormy, half and half, clearing off pleasant toward night.

Candle Pin Summary.

Three prizes are offered for most games won in the candle pin league and three clubs are tied for first position. As yet the Quincys have not won a game or put up a good score, but the contest is young yet. The summary of games won and lost is:

	Won.	Lost.		Won.	Lost.
Meyers,	2	0	Carruths,	1	1
McCarthys,	2	0	Jamesons	1	1
St. James,	2	0	Centrals,	1	1

Hubs,	1	1	Quincys,	0	2
So. Boston,	1	1	Lenoxs,	0	2

There have been some changes in the records for the other prizes, but Quincy has made no advancements. The St. James have surrendered the lead for best team total.

This evening there will be games in the bottle pin league, and the Columbia team will play on the Quincy alleys. The Columbias have the second best score in the league games, and there should be some fine bowling. Saturday's LEDGER will have the scores of all games, and also the summary and records to date.

Our Councillor.

A writer in the Stoughton Record puts it about right. He says:

"The people of the second Councillor district are fortunate in having to make a choice between two such excellent candidates as Col. Benjamin S. Lovell of Weymouth and John J. Cantwell of Brookline. Councillor Lovell has, during the past year, gained the popular confidence by his able stand on all public questions and has given evidence of a commendable appreciation of public duties. Mr. Cantwell has in all probability, made the best impression on the people of any man of his years of late. Still he is youthful and will have a chance to recover in future years from the majority of votes which Councillor Lovell will roll up against him, for the people of this district prefer the mature judgment of experience to the enthusiasm of youth."

A Bread Riot.

A bread-riot is a serious matter, for it means that the poor are desperately hungry if not actually starving. Such a condition of things is threatened in India, owing to a short crop of cereals; and the Imperial Government is awakening to the fact, and making every possible provision to meet it. But a riot for bread when people are neither poor nor hungry, is a very strange thing. Flour is plenty in Boston, however this year. People are pressing around the counters where bread, biscuits and griddle cakes are served without money or without price, in a number if not in a spirit, that is riotous. Where? At the World's Food Fair.

EACH FOR HIS PARTY.

Hanna, Jones and Butler Express Their Confidence of Victory.

Republicans Have 17,000 Orators In the Field.

Bryan Will Make Speeches In Wisconsin and Iowa This Week.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—Three distinguished men, Hanna, Jones and Butler made prophecies yesterday. Their prognostigations follow:

James K. Jones (Dem.) The fight is over, and was practically won some days ago. We are waiting with perfect serenity and confidence the results which will be declared when the polls close next Tuesday.

Marion Butler (Pop.)—I am absolutely certain of the election of Bryan. Michigan, Indiana and Minnesota are for him, without any doubt. We shall probably carry this state, but even if we do lose it, we shall win. I fell certain of the result.

Chairman Hanna yesterday expressed the most absolute confidence in McKinley's success. Mr. Hanna was not prepared to issue any official statement, but he says he expects that Major McKinley will receive at least 300 votes in the electoral college, and it is not uncertain that he will get 310. He expects that there will be a large vote from the Gold Democrats in various parts of the country, especially in the eastern and middle western states.

Reports from Republican committeemen in 12 states were received at national headquarters last night. The reports from Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Ohio, South Dakota and West Virginia give the electoral vote of each as certain for McKinley and Hobart. In addition to the states named, there were also encouraging reports from New York and Texas.

Senator Butler, chairman of the Populist national committee, was, with Vice Chairman Washburn, in consultation with Chairman Jones, of the Democratic committee, much of the time yesterday. They went over the details of the campaign, at considerable length, together. They authorize no statement, but they agreed in classing Minnesota, Michigan and Indiana as certain for Bryan. Much time was spent in discussing the aspect as affected by the Populist vote, and Senator Jones was assured by Messrs. Butler and Washburn that that vote would be practically unanimous for Bryan. "It is," said Senator Butler, "in much better shape than we could have hoped for at the beginning of the campaign. There are, to be sure, a few states in which fusion has not been arranged, but there has been no failure in any state where Mr. Bryan's chances could be imperilled by failure." Jones was also assured that there need be no apprehension that Watson would do anything to imperil Bryan's chances. His much discussed letter of acceptance will not be given to the public. Senator Butler will not give it out, and it is understood that Watson has also agreed to withhold it.

After a hard day's campaigning, William J. Bryan returned to Chicago last night, arriving at the Northwestern railroad station at 7:15 p. m. A crowd of several hundred people met him at the depot, and cheered lustily as he left his car. Mr. Bryan had dined before reaching Chicago, and was met at the train by the reception committee, which was to guide him about the city. He entered a carriage at the station, and was driven directly to the hall, at which he made his first address. The nominee made eight speeches on the North and Northwest sides. At each meeting he was enthusiastically greeted by large crowds.

The first of the evening speeches was delivered at St. Stanislaus hall, which was jammed. After his speech there, Mr. Bryan addressed good-sized audiences in succession at Social Turner hall, Lincon Turner hall, Lages hall, Garfield Turner hall, Mueller's hall, North Side Turner hall and Brand's hall.

The itinerary of Mr. Bryan up to the day before election has been completed. He left Chicago late last night for Greenbay, Wis., for his first speech today. The stopping places for the Wisconsin trip are as follows: Depere, Kaukauna, Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Doty's Island, Oshkosh, Fon Du Lac, Chester, Juneau, Watertown, Jefferson, Fort Atkinson, Janesville, Evansville and Madison. After the Madison meeting the party will make a night run to Dubuque, Ia., going thence, via Monmouth, Ills., to Burlington, Ia. The Saturday tour through Iowa will begin about 6:30 o'clock. Stops will be made at Ottumwa, Creston, Council Bluffs, Mt. Pleasant, Fairfield, Albia, Chariton, Osceola, Corning and Red Oak. The night meeting will be held at Council Bluffs.

Mr. Bryan will go to his home in Lincoln immediately after the Council Bluffs meeting, to rest Sunday. Monday he will make his final speeches up the Platte River valley in his own state.

William M. Hahn of Republican national headquarters, who is in charge of the speakers' bureau, says: "Here is the number of speakers who are speaking daily and nightly under the direction of the national committee: Illinois, 3000, Indiana, 2000; Wisconsin, 1000; Minnesota, 1400; Iowa, 1600; Michigan, 2000; Missouri, 1200; Ohio, 1600; Kansas, 1200; Nebraska, 1000; North Dakota, 400; South Dakota, 900. Total, 17,300. This number is more than half as large as the standing army of the United States. It will be observed that this vast number of speakers are all at work in the states between the Alleghany and Rocky mountains. The assignment of the speakers end on the night before election, and not an hour earlier. This campaign is to be fought to a finish. The prodigious efforts that are now being made have for their chief incentive the election of a good working majority in the house of representatives and the senate, with which to uphold McKinley and sound money."

CYCLONE'S WORK.

Louisiana, Mississippi and Oklahoma Visited by the Awful Destroyer.

New Orleans, Oct. 30.—About 4:30 yesterday afternoon, a cyclone struck this city on the river front, just above Peniston street, and swept over a distance of about 1½ miles, or 30 blocks, from Peniston street to Rober street, the track of the storm being about 1500 feet wide, from the river to Annunciation street. The first building damaged was the Independence oil mill, situated at the head of Peniston street. It was unroofed, and the building and contents damaged to the amount of $6000. Hundreds of buildings in the track of the storm were damaged, many being partially unroofed and chimneys prostrated, trees uprooted and fences blown down. The storm-swept section of the city was in darkness last night, owing to the prostration of electric light wires. At first a number of lives were reported lost, but so far these reports have not been verified. The property loss is estimated at $100,000.

At 12 o'clock, a terrific wind and rain storm reached Lake St. Joseph. Telegraph wires were torn down, and a most unsatisfactory report reaches here from the lower part of Tensas parish, where the tornado originated. An immense brick gin was practically destroyed. The course of the storm was from southwest to northeast, striking Bruen lake at Locust Land, tearing down and destroying the public bridge over Choctaw bayou. Twelve cabins on Locust Land were completely demolished, and one colored woman was instantly killed and several were blown into the lake. The next place reached by the unwelcome visitor was Johnson's Bend, on Lake St. Joseph, where the scene is one of desolation. A ginhouse and three barns, containing corn, were destroyed. Six cabins were blown to pieces. The tenants living in the houses had their clothing and household effects blown away. The public road on Lake St. Joseph front is covered with fragments of houses, furniture, clothing, cotton, corn and household effects. There were two deaths of colored men from lightning, and two colored women and a baby were drowned in Lake Bruen, where they were carried by the fury of the elements.

Vicksburg, Miss., Oct. 30.—Tensas parish was frightfully afflicted by a tornado yesterday. Six negroes were killed, and there was great destruction of buildings on various plantations. Seven houses were destroyed in the town of St. Joseph. The parish was generally visited, and full details are not obtainable at present.

A terrific cyclone passed through the eastern part of Lafayette county at 4 o'clock, demolishing farmhouses and uprooting trees of all sizes. W. V. Sullivan, Democratic candidate for congress, had been speaking at Tula, and was returning to Oxford, expecting to speak at Abbeville last night. He and T. J. Harkins were caught in the storm's path, the wind sweeping down upon them without warning. They were driving a double team buggy. The wind lifted the vehicle, horses and all, and carried them 200 yards. The buggy was completely demolished by falling timber, but neither men nor horses were seriously hurt. The storm passed through the outskirts of the town of Delay, and demolished several houses. The extent of the damage cannot be given, but no deaths have, as yet, been reported. Not a tree was left standing in the cyclone's path.

The colored Baptist church at Coffeyville, which was used as a schoolhouse, was blown down upon the teachers and 75 pupils. Six of the children were considerably bruised, one having a limb broken.

Guthrie, O. T., Oct. 30.—At Weweka, I T., a cyclone destroyed Governor Brown's store, a new church, and four other buildings. Several persons were hurt, but none seriously. At mine No. 21, near Krebs, five persons were killed.

Mysterious Shooting Affair.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Oct. 30.—A young man, said to be a student in the Eastman Business college, was walking with a young lady on Hade Park road last night, and was followed by three boys. He finally drew a revolver and fired at the youths. Martin Delaney, 17 years old, fell, and died instantly. His two companions hurried to his home and informed his parents of the fatality, and the police were notified, but the young man who did the shooting could not be found.

Spain's Victims.

Habana, Oct. 30.—Montalvo, an oculist, and a member of the local central autonomist committee; a painter, named Juan Onaghten; Antonio Escobar, the editor of La Discussion, and 185 members of a secret association were today sent to the island of Fernando Po, off the west coast of Africa, one of the penal settlements of Spain. La Discussion was recently suppressed by the government for printing a leading editorial, of which Escobar was the author, commenting upon the suggestion of the joint intervention of the United States and Mexico, with the view of settling the Cuban question.

Facing Famine.

St. John's, N. F., Oct. 30.—The Labrador coast, for about 500 miles, is inhabited by 3000 resident settlers, living in small fishing villages along the seashore. The conditions of existence, never very favorable, are rendered appalling this year, owing to the failure of the cod fishery. Dr. Grenfell, superintendent of the deep sea mission, reports that starvation faces hundreds. The fishery failure is general, and settlers are unable to provide food for the winter. The government is trying to help the distressed.

Suicide Story Refuted.

New York, Oct. 30.—At the residence of Dr. Charles P. McCann, who died in a Boston hotel, it is said that the supposition that Dr. McCann had committed suicide was nonsensical. Dr. McCann has been a sufferer from nervousness and insomnia. To relieve his suffering, it is stated, he was in the habit of taking morphine, and his family and friends are of the opinion that he probably took an overdose by mistake.

A Disastrous Collision.

Wapakoneta, O., Oct. 30.—A through fast freight train ran into three loaded oil car tanks, which were left on a main track, here last night. The freight train was set on fire, destroying it and about 12 loaded cars. The engineer, fireman and brakeman cannot be found, and are supposed to be in the ruins. The fire occurred near the Manhattan Oil company's pump station to which the flames spread. It is a total loss.
